Storm Clean-Up, Rebuilding May Take Two Months

by CAROL RHYNE

Some Elk Grove Village businessmen estimated Wednesday it will take one to two months of clean-up and rebuilding before everything will be back to normal after last weekend's wind storm that caused nearly $1.3 million in damage to buildings and equipment.

Removal of the debris from the storm is expected to take one to two weeks, but reconstruction of collapsed roofs and walls has been slowed by persistent rains this week.

Village officials counted 47 buildings in the industrial park badly damaged by the strong winds and rain. Especially hard hit was the business district north of Rte. 72 and east of Arlington Heights Road.

Throughout the industrial district, wrecked buildings stood next to other structures untouched by the storm.

Although no tornado was reported Friday night, Ed Murphy, of Murphy Tire Center, 352 Lively Blvd., said, "You can't tell me it wasn't a tornado or tornado-like winds that blew through here."

THE STORM BLEW off half of the roof and the back wall of the building housing Murphy's store, and carpenters put up a temporary wall on the building Saturday.

Dan Silberman, treasurer of National Heat and Power Co., 170 Lively Blvd., said he was waiting for some clear, dry days so his men could install a new roof. He said a third of the roof was blown away in the storm and the remainder would probably have to be replaced too.

Silberman said if everything goes well, he hopes the plant will be in full operation in a month. He said now the sheet metal shop, which makes heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems, is only in partial operation.

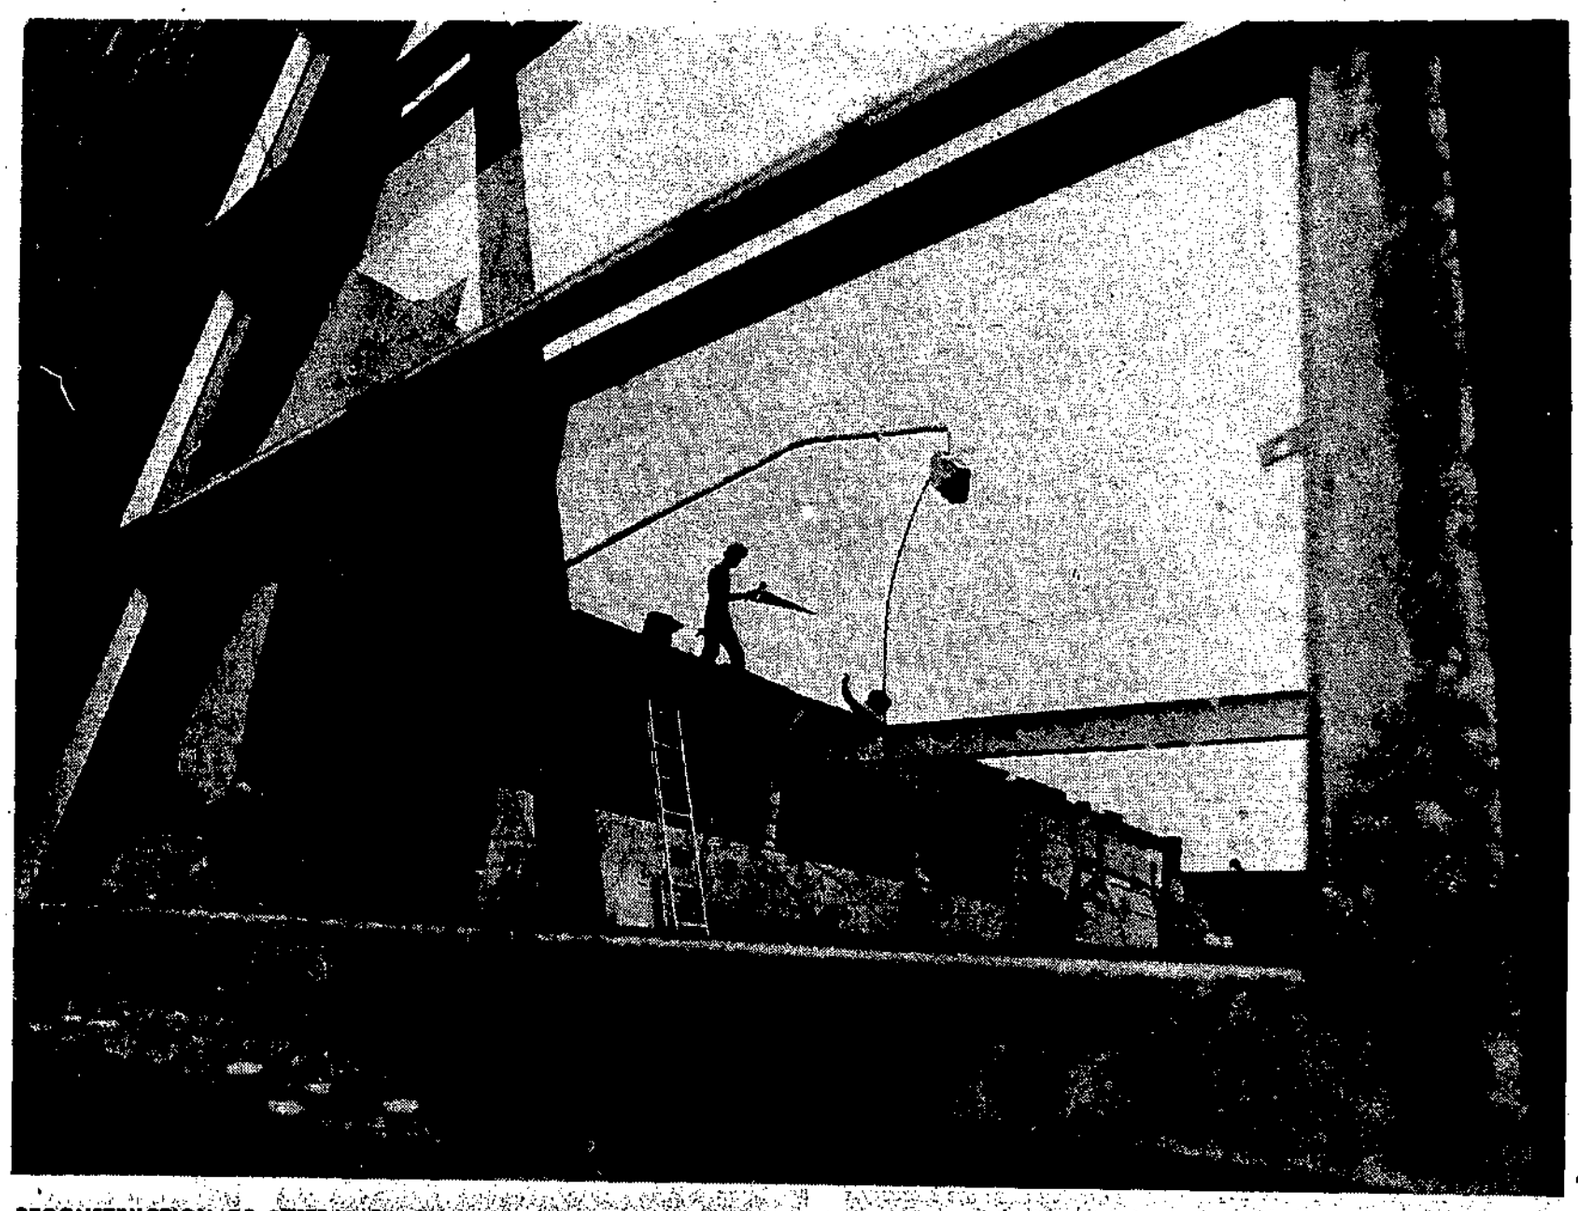
"My biggest worry now is rust," Tom Ryan, manager of Atlas Chain Co., 135 Kelly Blvd., said. He said prompt action of the Elk Grove Village Fire Department in covering his walls and roof with heavy plastic saved him thousands of dollars in water damage to inventory from rains this week.

Ryan said business was in full operation by Monday and orders were being shipped as they came in. However by Wednesday power had not been restored to the building. He said the firm was moving to another building on Gordon Street for a month or two until a collapsed roof and walls could be rebuilt.

PAULEX TOOL and Mold Co., 935 Lee St., where the storm blew down half the building's roof and a wall, may be back in full operation in 30 days.

Werner Bieberstein, Paulex manager, said he hopes to bring back some of the workers Monday in a makeshift operation. So far neither telephone service nor power has been restored, but construction workers started building a new roof and wall yesterday, which hopefully will be completed in a month, he said.

Bieberstein said the roof and wall fell on some of the firm's heavy equipment worth $250,000, but he felt much of the damage was repairable.



RECONSTRUCTION OF SEVERAL Elk Grove Village businesses is expected to take at least a month in the aftermath of last weekend's storm which caused nearly $1.3 million in property damage. Here, workers begin repairing the roof and walls of the Telecontrols, Inc. building at 95 Randal Blvd.

Damage Suit Against Dist. Faces Delay

A $1.5 million damage suit filed against High School Dist. 214 is moving slowly through the Cook County judicial processes, and the attorney for the families involved does not believe it will come to trial for another three years.

The suit was filed last year on behalf of three Arlington High School students seriously injured when a "modesty wall" in a school rest room collapsed on them as the result of a prank.

The boys, Brad Boice, 814 Ridge Ave.; William Kelly, 751 S. Burton Pl. and William Horn, 1345 N. Highland, were trying to force their way out of the restroom by placing their backs against the wall and pushing on the door when the wall collapsed. Two other boys had locked the door from the outside by slipping a two-by-four through the door handles.

All three victims suffered compressed fractures of the spine. Horn died several months later as a result of complications from his injuries.

THE LAWSUIT, on behalf of Boice, Kelly and the Horn family, was filed shortly after the accident by attorney John D. Hayes. It charges the school district, the company that constructed the wall and the two boys who locked the door with negligence.

Hayes said yesterday he has been preparing the case and is having tests conducted on the materials used in the wall. Boice, he said, has been hospitalized several times because of recurring infections, but neither he nor Kelly are paralyzed.

Hayes said because of the backlog of cases in Cook County courts he does not expect the case to come to trial until about four years after it was filed. The case was filed about one month after the January 1971 accident.

He said pretrial conferences will probably be held with the school district's insurance company but added, "At this point I can't say whether the case will be settled out of court because we simply don't know enough."

Controller Named At Alexian Brothers

Bruce Fisher, 1321 Pam Anne Drive, Glenview, has been named to the new post of controller at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

He was formerly assistant controller at St. Francis Hospital in Evanston. At Alexian Brothers, he will be responsible for the accounting, business office and data processing functions.

Fisher, a Chicago native, received a bachelor's degree in accounting from the University of Illinois in Champaign. He is married to the former Linda Orlean, also of Chicago.

Public Library May Be Remodeled

Remodeling and improvements are being discussed by the Elk Grove Public Library Board. Robert Fleming, president, announced at Tuesday night's meeting that he had contacted an architect about remodeling suggestions made in the June meeting.

Fleming said the changes included adding a bike path to the front of the library, building an interior wall, improving the dike behind the building to prevent flooding and remodeling the light fixtures in the library.

According to Fleming, construction of the bike path will begin soon.

The architect, Richard Donatoni, will prepare cost estimates for the other changes. According to Fleming, Donatoni said that improvements to the dike to prevent flooding were not feasible. Remodeling the lighting fixtures would require removal and replacement of the complete ceiling system.

SOME REMODELING is now going on in the library. The stacks are being repainted and moved to the rear of the building. Interior space is being rearranged to move the study and reading areas away from the noise-distracting areas such as the card catalog and check-out desk.

In other action, the board:

—Accepted a job classification and salary schedule to be effective Aug. 1. Total salaries for the library staff will be $135,454. This is an increase of approximately $11,900 over last year's salaries. The increase is broken down between $5,665 for dollar increases and $6,235 for increased man-hours and higher-qualified employes.

—Approved accounts payable totaling $5,519.29.

—Tabled a proposal by Administrative Librarian Mary Clark that the board pay the dues for professional members of the library staff to join the Illinois Library Association.

—Accepted the monthly report from Miss Clark which described a new classification system for the library that will give each book a unique call number.

Library Budget To Rise By $75,000

The Elk Grove Public Library will have a budget of $316,300 for the current fiscal year, May 1, 1972 to April 30, 1973. This is an increase of $75,000 over last year's budget of $241,300.

A total of $150,000 is budgeted for full and part-time employes' salaries. Howbrary board, a salary schedule of only $135,454 was presented and accepted by the board.

The $135,454 salary schedule is an increase of $11,900 over last year's salaries. The increase is split between a $5,665 pay raise and a $6,235 increase for more man-hours and higher-qualified employes.

Purchase of books, periodicals, recordings and art collection are budgeted at $52,000. This account has shown a steady increase over the past three years. Last fiscal year had $38,500 budgeted for purchase of materials. In the 1970-71 fiscal year, only $25,358 was spent to purchase library materials.

A recent survey showed that the library was deficient in materials available. The library was especially short in adult books and reference material.

Only 30 per cent of the recommended adult books for a library the size of Elk Grove Public Library were cataloged. The library lacked many of the most basic references, including the unabridged "Reader's Guide to Periodic Literature," said Mary Clark, new administrative librarian.

Miss Clark has said that increasing the adult book and reference sections will be one of her highest priorities.

Remodeling of the library is being considered by the library board. A total of $5,000 is budgeted for remodeling. Another $11,000 is budgeted for the purchase of office equipment, shelving and library furniture.

Department Head: 'Let Them Stand'

'Honest Mistakes' In Raid Report

CHICAGO (UPI) — A police crime lab technician testified yesterday that several "honest mistakes" were allowed to stand in a report his office made at the scene of the 1969 police raid in which two Black Panther leaders were killed.

Earl Holt, on the stand for the second full day in the trial of Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 co-defendants, said the head of his department allowed the mistakes to remain in the report even after they were pointed out to him.

Holt, under cross examination, said Sgt. Charles Koludrovic, a defendant in the case, had made the mistakes but had reported them the next day to David Purtell, the head of the department.

Holt said Koludrovic later told him that Purtell had said the mistakes need not be corrected.

HOLT, WHO assisted Koludrovic in making a crime report at the scene of the Dec. 4, 1969, raid, said that Koludrovic "made honest mistakes" in the field report which drew up at the scene.

The errors included saying that there were several bullet holes in the living room door of the apartment when in fact there was only one, Holt said. The report also said that a bedroom door, which was full of bullet holes, had been closed at the time the shots were fired through it when in fact it had been open.

The defendants are charged with conspiring to obstruct justice following the raid by allegedly altering evidence.

The errors subsequently proved important because police contended that the Panthers in the apartment had fired 15 to 20 shots through the living room door as police were entering the apartment. But a federal grand jury later found that the Panthers had fired only one shot at police.

THE ANGLE OF the bedroom door was important because, had it been closed, it would have meant that the Panthers had fired from inside the room through the door at police.

If the door had been open, and swung back completely against the wall, the bullet holes could have meant police fired through the wall and the open door at Panthers inside the room.

Holt said that he and Koludrovic discovered the errors as they were going over photographs taken at the apartment but when Koludrovic told Purtell about the mistakes and asked if he should write another report, "the director told him no, as long as he (Koludrovic) was aware of the mistakes to leave the report as it is."

Holt gave the testimony under cross examination by defense attorney William Martin. Holt, who was named as a co-conspirator in the Panther indictment, denied that he had ever conspired with Koludrovic to hide evidence or obstruct justice.

U. Of I. OKs Budget Plan

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — University of Illinois trustees Wednesday unanimously approved a proposed $49.20 million construction and maintenance budget for the school in the fiscal year starting next July 1.

The "capital budget request" must go to the Illinois Board of Higher Education for review and then to the state legislature and governor for final approval.

The legislature in its spring session approved capital spending of $92 million by the school in the current fiscal year, but trustees were told that only about $13 million of that amount was for new projects. The remainder represented funding for projects deferred under a building freeze ordered by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie in 1970.

In another action, the board formally approved the appointment of Cecil Coleman as the University of Illinois athletic director. Coleman, who has been athletic director at Wichita State University, succeeds Gene Vance, who resigned as of July 1.

Trustees also approved the appointment of Professor George A. Russell, 51, as acting dean of the graduate college and associate vice chancellor for research and development at the Champaign campus, effective Sept. 1.

The capital budget request includes $28.20 million for new building projects. Of that total, $16.07 million was earmarked for expansion of medical training facilities, the largest budget item.

Included in the medical training requests were $6.64 million for a clinical school at Peoria; $3.5 million for an addition to the medical clinic at Rockford and $5.92 million for facilities to house the new school of public health on the Champaign campus.

Other major new building projects included $4.17 million for an architecture addition at Chicago Circle and $7.17 million for an addition to Turner Hall at Champaign.

The university also required $9.15 million for equipment purchases and $7.5 million for remodeling and rehabilitation of buildings.

Department Head: 'Let Them Stand'

'Honest Mistakes' In Raid Report

CHICAGO (UPI) — A police crime lab technician testified yesterday that several "honest mistakes" were allowed to stand in a report his office made at the scene of the 1969 police raid in which two Black Panther leaders were killed.

Earl Holt, on the stand for the second full day in the trial of Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 co-defendants, said the head of his department allowed the mistakes to remain in the report even after they were pointed out to him.

Holt, under cross examination, said Sgt. Charles Koludrovic, a defendant in the case, had made the mistakes but had reported them the next day to David Purtell, the head of the department.

Holt said Koludrovic later told him that Purtell had said the mistakes need not be corrected.

HOLT, WHO assisted Koludrovic in making a crime report at the scene of the Dec. 4, 1969, raid, said that Koludrovic "made honest mistakes" in the field report which drew up at the scene.

The errors included saying that there were several bullet holes in the living room door of the apartment when in fact there was only one, Holt said. The report also said that a bedroom door, which was full of bullet holes, had been closed at the time the shots were fired through it when in fact it had been open.

The defendants are charged with conspiring to obstruct justice following the raid by allegedly altering evidence.

The errors subsequently proved important because police contended that the Panthers in the apartment had fired 15 to 20 shots through the living room door as police were entering the apartment. But a federal grand jury later found that the Panthers had fired only one shot at police.

THE ANGLE OF the bedroom door was important because, had it been closed, it would have meant that the Panthers had fired from inside the room through the door at police.

If the door had been open, and swung back completely against the wall, the bullet holes could have meant police fired through the wall and the open door at Panthers inside the room.

Holt said that he and Koludrovic discovered the errors as they were going over photographs taken at the apartment but when Koludrovic told Purtell about the mistakes and asked if he should write another report, "the director told him no, as long as he (Koludrovic) was aware of the mistakes to leave the report as it is."

Holt gave the testimony under cross examination by defense attorney William Martin. Holt, who was named as a co-conspirator in the Panther indictment, denied that he had ever conspired with Koludrovic to hide evidence or obstruct justice.

U. Of I. OKs Budget Plan

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — University of Illinois trustees Wednesday unanimously approved a proposed $49.20 million construction and maintenance budget for the school in the fiscal year starting next July 1.

The "capital budget request" must go to the Illinois Board of Higher Education for review and then to the state legislature and governor for final approval.

The legislature in its spring session approved capital spending of $92 million by the school in the current fiscal year, but trustees were told that only about $13 million of that amount was for new projects. The remainder represented funding for projects deferred under a building freeze ordered by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie in 1970.

In another action, the board formally approved the appointment of Cecil Coleman as the University of Illinois athletic director. Coleman, who has been athletic director at Wichita State University, succeeds Gene Vance, who resigned as of July 1.

Trustees also approved the appointment of Professor George A. Russell, 51, as acting dean of the graduate college and associate vice chancellor for research and development at the Champaign campus, effective Sept. 1.

The capital budget request includes $28.20 million for new building projects. Of that total, $16.07 million was earmarked for expansion of medical training facilities, the largest budget item.

Included in the medical training requests were $6.64 million for a clinical school at Peoria; $3.5 million for an addition to the medical clinic at Rockford and $5.92 million for facilities to house the new school of public health on the Champaign campus.

Other major new building projects included $4.17 million for an architecture addition at Chicago Circle and $7.17 million for an addition to Turner Hall at Champaign.

The university also required $9.15 million for equipment purchases and $7.5 million for remodeling and rehabilitation of buildings.

There Really Is A Camp Granada

by STEVE BROWN

'Hello Mudda hello Fadda here I am at Camp Granada' That is the tune that many Schaumburg area youngsters are singing this summer But unlike the Camp Granada which comic Allan Sherman sang about a few years ago this one is free of all of the disasters which Sherman had

This summer, dozens of boys and girls have been learning crafts nature skills and folklore daily in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve

The group held its 'Paul Bunyan Day" last week The activities for the day were the culmination of the skills the group had learned during the past two weeks

FOURTEEN CAMPERS and four leaders spent the day hunting for a variety of trees and plants building fires and learning to raise a tent which was used the following day for the camps 'over night

'We try to give the youngsters a few basic skills in outdoor living' said Marsha Pridgeon, camp director While this is the first year for Schaumburg's program Miss Pridgeon has been involved with day camps for about five years

The campers seem to have learned their lessons well as they moved about the camp site demonstrating their various talents Divided into teams, the youngsters battled for the log rolling championship, and raced to see which team could boil water the fastest As a particular team member was competing others shouted encouragement

In addition to the daily sessions a nature class is offered by a conservationist for the campers A field trip to some local spot of interest is also planned

OVER 50 YOUNGSTERS are registered for the camp's second session which begins this week

The larger group should keep the camp director and her assistants Kathy Mernerm Cathy Brown and Ken Welker, busy for the next two weeks They report that there are still openings for the camp's third session which begins Aug 11 The $12 fee for the two week program includes bus transportation daily, supplies and a Camp Granada T-shirt More information about the programs can be obtained by calling the park district at 894-4660

Application For Housing Funds OKd

Mount Prospect s application for federally subsidized low rent housing for the elderly was approved Tuesday by the village board

A resolution was passed approving a cooperative agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA) and asking the U S Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for a preliminary loan

The CCHA will act as the village s agent in procuring the loans CCHA also will manage the building once it is constructed

The preliminary loan, of $50,000 is to cover the costs of surveys and planning in connection with the development of such a project

The application will seek 250 units of low income housing What is really wanted is 125 units but Victor Walchuk of CCHA said HUD usually cuts applications in half

A RECENT VILLAGE survey had results that indicated 125 units could be filled with no trouble

Once CCHA officials receive the Mount Prospect resolutions, they will make the formal application to HUD Then HUD will research the request taking a minimum of 90 days to see if any units are needed and if so how many A program reservation for a certain number of units would then be made by HUD for Mount Prospect

After suitable land is found and purchased there would follow some 15 or 16 months of construction In all, this means occupancy of the building would be at least 2½ years in the future

Walchuk has told the board he sees no problem with convincing HUD that 'the community can fill them (the units) all by itself' He said the lengthy wait would be for the program reservation

Diabetics Class Offered

She's Young Victim Of Arthritis

Susan Won,t Yield To A Handicap

by JULIA BAUER

Susan Chaplinsky chalked up quite a few accomplishments in high school

She graduated fifth in a class of 366 from Palatine High School was voted by classmates and faculty for the DAR award won a $500 gift for citizenship and character from a Palatine bank and represented Palatine High on the television quiz show 'It s Academic

But the 17 year old s biggest challenge in recent years has been arthritis which started affecting her knees and hips when she was 11 Someday doctors may have to perform an operation to replace the arthritic bones

During the last half of her senior year Susan began working part-time for a Palatine realty company where she now is working full time until she leaves for college in September.

And today, despite her restrictions she looks toward the future

LIKE MANY 17-going-on-18-year-olds Susan is anxious to get out on her own in college She ll be a freshman at the University of Illinois at Champaign this fall Until then, she's wondering how she ll fit her clothes into a tiny dormitory room with a roommate and no dresser while fielding her mother s frequent suggestions to "be sure and take that — I thought you could use this' and contemplating her dorm 'They re cued now which suits me'" she chuckled

A dorm might be less hectic than her home — Susan is the oldest of five children Three younger sisters are 16 13 and 12 years old and one brother (who can hold his own Susan said) is 9

Susan s father Peter Chaplinsky is a sales manager for Nestle Co All seven Chaplinskys live at 431 N Stark Dr Palatine

Susan s long blond hair frames her full pink-cheeked face which usually has a smile on it But Susan isn t a Pollyanna — she seems to have a combination of good humor and with a little sarcasm on the side

And she is somewhat modest about the publicity she s received lately Does her intelligence make her classmates feel inferior? 'Oh, I m not that intelligent sometimes I ask really dumb questions especially in math she said She proves tests that she isn't 'brainy' and after four years of German in school she couldn t think of the German word her sister needed for a crossword puzzle answer

Law and business sound interesting to Susan but she won t have to decide on a major for the first couple of years in college while she takes general requirements She has considered journalism until I realized that I didn't want to be called out of bed at 3 a m to cover a story'

Last year she worked on the school newspaper staff 'Mostly I swept up the paper clips after everybody left,' she joked, but 'office manager was her official title

FOR A WHILE this spring, making summer plans was difficult because doctors were trying to decide whether to operate on her this summer

'Being up in the air was hard to take If they had operated I would be hospitalized on my back for six weeks, so I couldn t plan anything ahead They decided in May that I was still too young for the operation,' Susan said She ll be 18 Aug 30

But whenever the operation does come she will be ready for it While she s waiting for science to catch up with her, she'll be making her own special progress in college and in life

Urge Physical, Dental Exams Soon

Parents of children expecting to enter kindergarten or fifth grade in Schaumburg Township School Dist 54 schools this fall are urged by school officials to schedule their child's physical and dental exams now

School officials expect all entering students to return completed forms to the school by Sept 6

All students transferring to Dist 54 schools from out of state are also required to have physical and dental exams regardless of grade Proof of a recent out-of-state physical may waive the requirement of a current examination

Examinations and immunization shots are required according to state law The Dist 54 board of education recently approved a policy that recognizes the value and intent of the law to safeguard the health of its students

Dist 54 was advised by Richard Martwick, superintendent of the educational service region of Cook County that physical exams must be received by all children unless they are excused on constitutional grounds

James Briggs, director of special services for the local elementary schools, said forms were distributed to incoming kindergarten and fifth graders prior to the closing of school

THESE FORMS ARE also available at local schools and the school district administration office at 804 W Bode Rd , Schaumburg

Parents are reminded that Aug 30 is book fee day The first day of class for those in grades one through eight is Sept 6 Kindergarten children will attend their first session Sept 8

A dorm might be less hectic than her home — Susan is the oldest of five children. Three younger sisters are 16, 13 and 12 years old, and one brother (who can hold his own, Susan said) is 9.

Susan's father, Peter Chaplinsky, is a sales manager for Nestle Co. All seven Chaplinskys live at 433 N. Stark Dr., Palatine.

Susan's long blond hair frames her full pink-cheeked face, which usually has a smile on it. But Susan isn't a Pollyanna — she seems to have a combination of good humor and with a little sarcasm on the side.

And she is somewhat modest about the publicity she's received lately. Does her intelligence make her classmates feel inferior? "Oh, I'm not that intelligent . . . sometimes I ask really dumb questions, especially in math," she said. She protests that she isn't "brainy," and after four years of German in school, she couldn't think of the German word her sister needed for a crossword puzzle answer.

Law and business sound interesting to Susan, but she won't have to decide on a major for the first couple of years in college while she takes general requirements. She has considered journalism until "I realized that I didn't want to be called out of bed at 3 a.m. to cover a story."

Last year she worked on the school newspaper staff. "Mostly I swept up the paper clips after everybody left," she joked, but "office manager" was her official title.

FOR A WHILE this spring, making summer plans was difficult because doctors were trying to decide whether to operate on her this summer.

"Being up in the air was hard to take. If they had operated I would be hospitalized on my back for six weeks, so I couldn't plan anything ahead. They decided in May that I was still too young for the operation," Susan said. She'll be 18 Aug. 30.

But whenever the operation does come, she will be ready for it. While she's waiting for science to catch up with her, she'll be making her own special progress, in college and in life.

Urge Physical, Dental Exams Soon

Parents of children expecting to enter kindergarten or fifth grade in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 schools this fall are urged by school officials to schedule their child's physical and dental exams now.

School officials expect all entering students to return completed forms to the school by Sept. 6.

All students transferring to Dist. 54 schools from out of state are also required to have physical and dental exams regardless of grade. Proof of a recent out-of-state physical may waive the requirement of a current examination.

Examinations and immunization shots are required according to state law. The Dist. 54 board of education recently approved a policy that recognizes the value and intent of the law to safeguard the health of its students.

Dist. 54 was advised by Richard Martwick, superintendent of the educational service region of Cook County that physical exams must be received by all children unless they are excused on constitutional grounds.

James Briggs, director of special services for the local elementary schools, said forms were distributed to incoming kindergarten and fifth graders prior to the closing of school.

THESE FORMS ARE also available at local schools and the school district administration office at 804 W. Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

Parents are reminded that Aug. 30 is book fee day. The first day of class for those in grades one through eight is Sept. 6. Kindergarten children will attend their first session Sept. 8.

Cerebral Palsy Struck Family

North Aurora Center Offers Hope

by JEAN CAFARELLA

Mrs. Bea Schoonvelt is the sort of cheerful, attractive person who looks as though problems have never touched her.

She lives in Arlington Heights, is secretary to the president of Underwriter's Salvage Company in Elk Grove Village, and says she has a fantastic husband plus three lovable children.

Judy, the oldest child, is married. However the younger children were born with cerebral palsy, a disability stemming from damaged motor centers in the brain. Their leg muscles and bones never developed properly and they are partially retarded. They have slight speech impediments, cannot hear as well as they should and are consequently slower than other people.

Jack, now 30, was born prematurely with both feet turned inward. He spent much of his early life in braces and leg casts.

Patrick, 25, developed yellow jaundice, a strep infection, and problems with the Rh factor in his blood shortly after birth. He has also had numerous operations on his leg muscles.

Their mother was spending most her time taking them in and out of hospitals for leg operations when her first husband, Chester Baber, had a heart attack and died. She went out to work and her mother took care of the children, who then were ages 11, 9, and 4.

SHE MARRIED "the most fantastic man," Henry Schoonvelt, 16 years ago. "He married into a whole family and took on two retarded kids. The kids just idolize him," said Mrs. Schoonvelt.

While still very young Jack and Patrick attended the Kennedy School in Palos Park. When Jack was 18, Kennedy School personnel told Mrs. Schoonvelt there was nothing more they could do for him.

From there, Jack and Patrick went to Dixon State School for the retarded. "I spent many days crying over Dixon," said Mrs. Schoonvelt. "When my children were there they had about 5,000 residents. Many of the people there could have been trained to live in a community, but Dixon just didn't have enough help."

She said Dixon is not very home-like: residents live in dormitories of 40 to 60 people and dine in cafeteria style.

The boys then went to Sycamore Opportunity House near DeKalb for job training. "It just didn't work for Pat. He had a heart attack, which limited the sort of jobs he could do even more," Mrs. Schoonvelt said.

Jack went to work evenings in a restaurant for about four years. "Jack's an introvert, and he got lonely and didn't like the job. Pat is the extrovert. Everyone in the world is his friend. He could make friends with the President," said Mrs. Schoonvelt.

With a mother's pride, Mrs. Schoonvelt told how much her sons love to work with anything mechanical. "Jack and Pat could put a car together without instructions," she said. "They both love music, and Pat reads a lot and writes very well."

ONE OF THE workers at Dixon saw Pat's potential for training, and worked to get him admitted to the North Aurora Center. The center is nearly two years old and is considered unique among homes for the mentally retarded.

The North Aurora center admits only about 500 residents, and its programs are geared to training educable adults to fit into a community as best they can. The center is a former Hilton Hotel, and residents stay in double or triple rooms rather than large dorms. Food is served family style at small tables. Residents are responsible for their rooms, and the more advanced people are given their own room keys.

North Aurora teaches everything from basic skills, such as doing laundry and taking care of a bank account to training for a steady job. The center is funded by Illinois public aid, even though it is privately owned.

After a waiting period, Pat was admitted to the Center in May of last year. Soon he had proven his ability to care for himself and earned his own room key. The family went to visit, and Jack became interested.

"At the time he was already working and living in the community, but Jack needed friends of his own caliber. Besides, the boys get along extremely well and wanted to be together," said Mrs. Schoonvelt.

JACK WAS JUST admitted to the North Aurora center this June, and is already considered one of their most capable residents. He is living in Freedom Hall, which provides the least restraint in living style.

Pat and Jack work in the center's kitchen and make small salaries. Pat does the dishes and Jack is a bus boy. One of the center's functions is to teach residents how to handle money, so the residents pay small amounts for the things they need.

For instance, they have a clothing center where donated clothes and shoes are sold to residents. A shirt could cost a nickel and a jacket could be a quarter. "This is just to teach them that they have to pay for what they want," said Mrs. Schoonvelt.

A few months after Pat had been admitted to the center, Mr. and Mrs. Schoonvelt became involved in the organization's functions. It wasn't long before they both became members of the board of directors.

They also belong to the center's parents association, of which Mrs. Schoonvelt is secretary. They attempt to provide necessities for those residents who can't afford ordinary needs such as clothes and toiletries. Last Christmas, Mrs. Schoonvelt collected carloads of clothes for the residents to purchase. "I quit collecting the clothes because there were so many of them I couldn't handle it by myself. But they always need clothes," she said.

MRS. SCHOONVELT finds that she is usually doing work for the center on her lunch hour and after the job. "I love to do it, as long as Pat and Jack are happy," she said.

And apparently they are. The center offers a more home-like atmosphere, a swimming pool, tennis courts, and other recreation. The group also goes on tours to places like O'Hare Airport.

"I just hope and pray that someday soon we can get more centers like this. The retarded deserve dignity. They shouldn't be shoved in a closet and ignored," said Mrs. Schoonvelt. "New centers will come eventually, but we've got to prove that the North Aurora center is working."

Center's Tender Care Works

by DAVID HENDIN

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — John, 12 is a hydrocephalic. His head is more than twice as large as normal because fluids have accumulated to an excess and have, in effect, destroyed much, if not most, of his brain.

Because of this severe damage to his nervous system John is little more than a "human vegetable," distasteful though the term may be. His IQ is essentially 0 — no intelligence — although it is difficult to measure accurately in this ultra-low range.

John is one of about 3 to 5 per cent of the nation's six million mentally retarded who are classified as severely, or profoundly retarded. Most of them are not ambulatory and can do nothing but lie in bed and make grotesque noises.

They are "crib cases" who have been found drugged into a stupor and closeted in the back rooms of newly infamous institutions such as New York's Willowbrook State School. In understaffed, underfunded institutions like Willowbrook or Letchworth Village in up-state New York, huge rooms hold wall-to-wall steel-sided "cribs" which are more like cages with tranquilized children as their prisoners.

In such state institutions the staff-to-patient ratio is often so miniscule that it allows only one or two minutes for an aide to feed a child each meal. Every week youngsters die of food aspiration and subsequent suffocation or infection.

Apologists have argued that the profoundly retarded youngsters wouldn't know the difference whether they existed in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel or Willowbrook. Others, however, believe that subjectively at least the environment in which such children live makes all the difference in the world.

I recently visited John, the boy with the oversized head, at the St. Louis Center for Exceptional Children, a privately owned and operated — but state approved — facility that cares for profoundly retarded children.

John smiled at me, or at least something in his eyes, his face or his surroundings made me think he smiled at me. He was lying in a new, mesh-sided playpen, the type you may have for your own child at home. John was surrounded by simple toys in a brightly lighted room in which colorful mobiles and cartoon cutouts adorned the walls.

Thousands of John's counterparts in some of the large state institutions are drugged, asleep and alone except for the dozens of children packed in the room around them. They exist day and night in the same condition, for some their beds are moved only when a nurse or staff member has to get to a child in another bed and for feeding.

With a capacity of about 300, John's home, the St. Louis Center for Exceptional Children — refurbished from a gutted, eight-story warehouse in downtown St. Louis — is only about half full, partially due to lack of funds.

Children are placed in the center explains Dr. Harold Robb, acting director of Missouri's division of mental health, because they are profoundly retarded.

"Basically they need much more loving care and attention thatn it is possible to give in a state institution, even in the best circumstances."

In fact, at the St. Louis State School and Hospital it cost the state about $480 per month per child. At the privately owned St. Louis Center, however the cost is reduced to $425. As a further economic advantage patients often become eligible for government assistance outside the state institutional structure.

The St. Louis Center is clearly a "custodial care" facility and state officials believe it is "one of the best." But the reason it is good is not necessarily the owner's love for retarded children. It is, at least partially, because there is a lot of money to be made — "not wasted by the state," as one observer put it.

The State of Missouri recognizes the economic as well as the clinical usefulness of private facilities. Buy Dr. Bryan McCann of the National Association of Retarded Children (NARC) in Arlington, Tex., says that he finds it hard to accept the notion of good custodial care because "I've seen too many custodial-type programs which either prevent a person from developing or which, in fact, cause him to regress."

It is difficult to elicit an admission from NARC officials that there is such a thing as a retarded child who could benefit from good, totally custodial care. When officials are willing to conditionally accept this idea they argue about how one is to assign a label such as "not able to improve" to any child.

Missouri's Dr. Robb says that he believes that the "concept that everyone should be helped and is potentially educable is a good one. On the other hand, within budgetary limitations as a practical point I think there are some for whom all one can offer is the best possible medical care. This is the type of child we are putting in the St. Louis Center."

Medical director of the center is Dr. Robert L. Korn, an assistant professor of clinical pediatrics at St. Louis University School of Medicine.

"The ideal place for the severely retarded child is in the home. When the parents face guilt, frustration and inability to handle the situation the next best thing is a small, centered operation," Dr. Korn says.

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

The chairman of the Republican party in Dade County, Fla., according to a news report, has called on Florida law enforcement authorities to tighten controls on the protesters who are expected to return to Flamingo Park in Miami Beach for the Republican Convention.

Robert Rosasco, the county chairman, reportedly found reports of marijuana smoking and naked bathing in the park "particularly distressing," and called for equal treatment of delegates and non-delegates under the law.

Subsequently, Miami Beach Police Chief Rocky Pomerance was quoted as observing, "American history will record that (the Democratic Convention) was an extremely well-policed convention, and it will not go down in history that some young man skinny-dipped at two in the morning."

THE VARIOUS POLICE forces watching over the conventions have stressed since they began planning and training for the political gatherings that their prime priorities have been the safety of persons — delegates and non-delegates alike — inside and outside the convention hall.

Despite the presence of some 1,500 potential rioters in the city last week, they achieved that goal remarkably well.

Pomerance contrasted the arrest of two persons last week, and slight injuries to two policemen to the 680 arrests and 1,381 injuries suffered in Chicago during the 1968 Democratic convention.

Rosasco said the party's attorneys in Dade County are considering legal moves to force the police to evict the protestors from Flamingo Park, precisely the kind of move which triggered the most severe of the clashes between police and protesters in Chicago.

Is it unfair to wonder if Mr. Rosasco might see clashes between the police and the Flamingo Park drop-outs, who can be labeled as McGovernites, as a plus for the Nixon cause?

NOTE TO REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONERS: Any time more than a handful of demonstrators gathered in front of convention hall last week, police immediately sealed all but the rear entrance to the grounds. While there is side-street parking available near the front entrance, it's a long walk around to the back. Buses or taxis — which enter from the rear — are recommended, especially if there is trouble.

Township political organizations continue to beef up their organizations for the approaching campaign.

Wheeling Township Republican committeeman Richard A. Cowen has announced appointment of James L. Pinney, 724 S. Kaspar Ave., Arlington Heights, as area chairman for the southwest portion of the village.

Pinney will coordinate activities of precinct captains in seven precincts, bounded by Euclid Ave., Chestnut Ave., Central Road and Wilke Road.

Resident branch manager for Kohlmeyer & Co., Pinney has been active in Republican affairs since 1960 and served four years as assistant precinct captain in Precinct 8.

Cowen has also appointed five new precinct captains in Arlington Heights:

LAWRENCE E. DICKERSON Jr., 401 S. Bristol Lane, Precinct 14. He is vice president of the Freeman Co. of Mundelein, director of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library and a coach in the Arlington Heights Boys Football Program.

Alfred J. Barboro, 1543 N. Kennicott Ave., Precinct 52. A partner in the printing firm of Aetna Printers in Chicago, he is president of the Hasbrook Civic Association.

James M. Renk, 1702 N. Waterman Road, Precinct 96. He is an engineer with TEC in Chicago and a member of the Arlington Terrace Homeowners Association.

Marilyn S. Fletcher, 1315 Watling Road, Precinct 24. A volunteer teacher at Ridge School, she is active in a number of women's organizations.

Melvin R. Meyer, 1346 N. Illinois Ave., Precinct 32. He is a PBX dispatcher with Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Social Security and You

Q—I HEARD about the new social security office in Arlington Heights but the phone company doesn't have a listing for it. Is there or isn't there a social security office in Arlington Heights? Why doesn't it have a phone listed?

A—Yes, there is a social security office in Arlington Heights. Through arrangements with other social security offices in Cook County, only one number for social security is published. That number (239-7000) is for the Social Security Service Center which only handles phone inquiries. The people at the Center can answer the majority of your questions. If you are receiving social security benefits, they can also take reports for changes of address, stop and start work notices, changes in earnings and any other factors which affect your benefits. This includes questions about filing for Medicare payments.

If you happen to have a question or problem that they cannot handle, they refer you to your local social security office which you can then phone or visit. If you live in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Inverness, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows or Wheeling, your local office is at 120 W. Eastman, Arlington Heights.

If you live in another area and need to contact a local social security office, call 239-7000 and the person who answers will refer you to the proper office.

Q—MY FATHER died last month at age 77. How do I go about getting reimbursed for his last doctor bills? These bills were never submitted for payment.

A— If your father had medical insurance, there are two ways to submit the doctor bills to Medicare. Your doctor may agree to send the bill to Medicare himself. If so, the payment will be sent directly to him. If your doctor does not wish to do this, the bills must be paid before Medicare will reimburse you. You must complete a "Request for Medicare Payment" form and a "Statement Regarding Medicare Payment for Medical Services to Deceased Patient." These forms can be obtained from your social security office. Attach the itemized receipted bills to the forms and send them to the insurance company handling Medicare in your area. Payment will then be made to you.

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

The chairman of the Republican party in Dade County, Fla., according to a news report, has called on Florida law enforcement authorities to tighten controls on the protesters who are expected to return to Flamingo Park in Miami Beach for the Republican Convention.

Robert Rosasco, the county chairman, reportedly found reports of marijuana smoking and naked bathing in the park "particularly distressing," and called for equal treatment of delegates and non-delegates under the law.

Subsequently, Miami Beach Police Chief Rocky Pomerance was quoted as observing, "American history will record that (the Democratic Convention) was an extremely well-policed convention, and it will not go down in history that some young man skinny-dipped at two in the morning."

THE VARIOUS POLICE forces watching over the conventions have stressed since they began planning and training for the political gatherings that their prime priorities have been the safety of persons — delegates and non-delegates alike — inside and outside the convention hall.

Despite the presence of some 1,500 potential rioters in the city last week, they achieved that goal remarkably well.

Pomerance contrasted the arrest of two persons last week, and slight injuries to two policemen to the 680 arrests and 1,381 injuries suffered in Chicago during the 1968 Democratic convention.

Rosasco said the party's attorneys in Dade County are considering legal moves to force the police to evict the protestors from Flamingo Park, precisely the kind of move which triggered the most severe of the clashes between police and protesters in Chicago.

Is it unfair to wonder if Mr. Rosasco might see clashes between the police and the Flamingo Park drop-outs, who can be labeled as McGovernites, as a plus for the Nixon cause?

NOTE TO REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONERS: Any time more than a handful of demonstrators gathered in front of convention hall last week, police immediately sealed all but the rear entrance to the grounds. While there is side-street parking available near the front entrance, it's a long walk around to the back. Buses or taxis — which enter from the rear — are recommended, especially if there is trouble.

Township political organizations continue to beef up their organizations for the approaching campaign.

Wheeling Township Republican committeeman Richard A. Cowen has announced appointment of James L. Pinney, 724 S. Kaspar Ave., Arlington Heights, as area chairman for the southwest portion of the village.

Pinney will coordinate activities of precinct captains in seven precincts, bounded by Euclid Ave., Chestnut Ave., Central Road and Wilke Road.

Resident branch manager for Kohlmeyer & Co., Pinney has been active in Republican affairs since 1960 and served four years as assistant precinct captain in Precinct 8.

Cowen has also appointed five new precinct captains in Arlington Heights:

LAWRENCE E. DICKERSON Jr., 401 S. Bristol Lane, Precinct 14. He is vice president of the Freeman Co. of Mundelein, director of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library and a coach in the Arlington Heights Boys Football Program.

Alfred J. Barboro, 1543 N. Kennicott Ave., Precinct 52. A partner in the printing firm of Aetna Printers in Chicago, he is president of the Hasbrook Civic Association.

James M. Renk, 1702 N. Waterman Road, Precinct 96. He is an engineer with TEC in Chicago and a member of the Arlington Terrace Homeowners Association.

Marilyn S. Fletcher, 1315 Watling Road, Precinct 24. A volunteer teacher at Ridge School, she is active in a number of women's organizations.

Melvin R. Meyer, 1346 N. Illinois Ave., Precinct 32. He is a PBX dispatcher with Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Social Security and You

Q—I HEARD about the new social security office in Arlington Heights but the phone company doesn't have a listing for it. Is there or isn't there a social security office in Arlington Heights? Why doesn't it have a phone listed?

A—Yes, there is a social security office in Arlington Heights. Through arrangements with other social security offices in Cook County, only one number for social security is published. That number (239-7000) is for the Social Security Service Center which only handles phone inquiries. The people at the Center can answer the majority of your questions. If you are receiving social security benefits, they can also take reports for changes of address, stop and start work notices, changes in earnings and any other factors which affect your benefits. This includes questions about filing for Medicare payments.

If you happen to have a question or problem that they cannot handle, they refer you to your local social security office which you can then phone or visit. If you live in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Inverness, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows or Wheeling, your local office is at 120 W. Eastman, Arlington Heights.

If you live in another area and need to contact a local social security office, call 239-7000 and the person who answers will refer you to the proper office.

Money To Go To Waste Disposal Study

COG Supports Fund Application

by ROGER CAPETTINI

The Cook County Council of Governments (COG) yesterday voted to support a county application for federal funds for a study on solid waste disposal in suburban Cook County.

The endorsement of the grant application was made at the COG monthly meeting yesterday in Chicago following a presentation by Ted Brzyski of the Cook County Planning Department.

Brzyski explained the application was approved by county President George W. Dunne in May and since has gained the endorsement of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) which also has been working on a solid waste study. NIPC reportedly gave its support to the county study with the condition the county coordinate its activities with the regional planning agency and not duplicate studies done by NIPC or other agencies.

A spokesman for the county planning department, James Ebstrom, said the purpose of the study will be to examine all the alternative methods of disposing solid waste He said it differs from the NIPC report in that it will deal specifically with the suburban areas of Cook County. Ebstrom also said the county intends to include an implementation plan whereby the implementation of its ultimate proposal can begin even while some of the planning is still being completed.

A summary of the proposal states the basic goal of the project is to match the future of solid waste storage, collection and disposal capabilities with the future volumes of solid waste which will be generated. The major emphasis of the study will be on disposal rather than collection, however, Brzyski said.

THE PLAN IS TO achieve the goal through development of a solid waste management plan for the suburbs, integrated with the regional planning process of NIPC and capable of implementing the regional objectives of that planning agency.

Brzyski said the study is expected to take about three years. He said the application requests funding of $150,000 for the first year. During that period, Brzyski said, the planners will attempt to organize private scavenger firms and municipalities "into a viable mechanism for communications."

He said the second year will be devoted to consideration of the alternatives and the third year to developing a final proposal to the county board, villages and cities.

After hearing the presentation and the request for support, John Crawford, representing Glenview, offered a motion to support the application and the members in attendance approved unanimously.

Friendly Town Program In Need Of More Participants

More participants are being asked to make Friendly Town a success in the Northwest suburbs.

The program, by which area families give a two-week vacation to inner-city children, is far below the participant level of last year.

According to Betty Ginger, one of the area coordinators, only 17 families have signed up to house 23 inner-city children. Last year, 28 families brought 35 children to the suburbs, she said.

Sunday is the beginning of a new session for the program, and families who would like to participate can still do so by calling either Mrs. Mary Ann Reiter at 392-2654 or Mrs. Ginger at 259-1188.

Prospective host families may designate the age, from 7 to 13, and sex of the child or children they wish to bring into their homes All Friendly Town children are given a medical exam before their visit, and are covered by a $2,500 sickness and accident policy during their two-week suburban stay.

The program, which is in conjunction with Faith Community Church on Chicago's west side, now has a waiting list of more than 20 children who would like a suburban vacation

A third Friendly Town session will begin Aug 6.

Graduating were: Rebecca Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Clark, 1537 Fernandez; Thomas Morrissey, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Morrissey, 2315 E. Olive; Suzanne A. Ruetenik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ruetnik, 177 W. Lexington; and Richard Merkel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Merkel, 602 S. Dryden Pl.

Student Graduates

Ken Chaffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Chaffin, 1531 S. Princeton, Arlington Heights, was graduated magna cum laude from Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Texas.

Chaffin, a 1968 graduate of Elk Grove High School, earned his bachelor of arts degree in Bible study.

Friendly Town Program In Need Of More Participants

More participants are being asked to make Friendly Town a success in the Northwest suburbs.

The program, by which area families give a two-week vacation to inner-city children, is far below the participant level of last year.

According to Betty Ginger, one of the area coordinators, only 17 families have signed up to house 23 inner-city children. Last year, 28 families brought 35 children to the suburbs, she said.

Sunday is the beginning of a new session for the program, and families who would like to participate can still do so by calling either Mrs. Mary Ann Reiter at 392-2654 or Mrs. Ginger at 259-1188.

Prospective host families may designate the age, from 7 to 13, and sex of the child or children they wish to bring into their homes. All Friendly Town children are given a medical exam before their visit, and are covered by a $2,500 sickness and accident policy during their two-week suburban stay.

The program, which is in conjunction with Faith Community Church on Chicago's west side, now has a waiting list of more than 20 children who would like a suburban vacation.

A third Friendly Town session will begin Aug. 6.

LEADING OFF THE activities at the Third Annual General Grant Cantonment held at Mississippi Palisades State Park is a quarter-mile cavalry race between members of a reactivated Civil War unit and the Carroll County Sheriffs Mounted Patrol. The special event will be held this weekend.

Displays, Fireworks This Weekend

Civil War Celebration Near Savanna

The Civil War will come to life as the Illinois Department of Conservation presents its third annual Gen. Grant Civil War Cantonment this Saturday and Sunday at Mississippi Palisades State Park.

The 1,560-acre park, near Savanna, will play host to reactivated Civil War units as they compete in competition in cannon and musket firing, as well as horse racing, saber and mounted drills.

"For the park visitors we will have many more activities other than watching the competition," said Janet Pickett, acting coordinator of special events for the department. "There will be civil war displays and demonstrations of crafts which were used during the 1860s, both military and civilian, as well as musical entertainment and games."

The participating reactivated company units will set up their camps in company streets just as they did during the Civil War. Visitors will be invited to tour the streets and observe how soliders lived.

Demonstrations will include cannon firing and sharpshooting, blacksmithing and others, as well as a comparison of modern army equipment alongside that used during this era of our history.

Entertainment will be provided by the Noisey Minority, singing folk songs of the era, the Camptown Revue variety show, a reenactment of the Lincoln-Douglas debates by the Franklin Park Players, a melodrama and a band concert playing music of the Civil War Era.

There will be costume contests as well as a Saturday parade through the streets of Savanna, and that evening a military ball will be conducted. There will also be fireworks at the river landing.

Children can enter the pie-eating contest, hoop rolling and foot races.

Public Can Aid Charley, Zoo's Wombat

Contributions from the general public to help the Chicago Zoological Society's hairy-nosed wombat conservation program are mounting. The Forest Park Foundation of Peoria, which provided the funds for purchase of land in Australia last year, also has donated substantially to the maintenance of the area.

Collection boxes with a life-size fiberglass model of Charley, the male wombat in the zoo's Australia House, have been placed throughout the zoo.

The society made the decision to buy and manage 13,600 acres of semi-arid land in South Australia's "outback" as a reserve for the wombat when it became evident that the wombat's existence was threatened by sheepmen.

The entire reserve, home of one of the few sizable wombat colonies left, has been fenced and a game warden appointed to patrol the area. Various ecological study programs have been initiated including a complete survey of vegetation and a population census of the area's wildlife. The reserve, which is not open to the public, will eventually be offered to the South Australian National Parks and Wildlife Commission.

The desert, or hairy-nosed, wombat survives only in isolated colonies in the hot, dry lands of South Australia and Queensland. Like many desert mammals, the species is mainly nocturnal. It avoids harsh conditions by spending daylight hours in burrows where the temperature is about 65 degrees.

It is these burrows that have got the wombat into serious trouble. The animals live in family groups of up to 12 individuals (unlike the common wombat which is solitary). They occupy burrows of such size that Jeeps must drive around them.

The advance of agriculture has brought conflict between the grass-eating wombats and the sheep graziers who build fences on established wombat routes. Wombats usually stay within a range of 400 yards in diameter.

The wombats, not about to change their habits for man's convenience, dig under the fence to get to "their" feeding grounds. These fence breaks also allow the dingo, Australia's only large predator, access to the flocks. Instead of reasonably cropping the animals which do the damage, wombats are shot far from fence lines.

There are 13 hairy-nosed wombats in seven zoos outside of Australia. Brookfield's Charley and two females and San Diego's pair are the only specimens in the U.S.

Public Can Aid Charley, Zoo's Wombat

Contributions from the general public to help the Chicago Zoological Society's hairy-nosed wombat conservation program are mounting. The Forest Park Foundation of Peoria, which provided the funds for purchase of land in Australia last year, also has donated substantially to the maintenance of the area.

Collection boxes with a life-size fiberglass model of Charley, the male wombat in the zoo's Australia House, have been placed throughout the zoo.

The society made the decision to buy and manage 13,800 acres of semi-arid land in South Australia's "outback" as a reserve for the wombat when it became evident that the wombat's existence was threatened by sheepmen.

The entire reserve, home of one of the few sizable wombat colonies left, has been fenced and a game warden appointed to patrol the area. Various ecological study programs have been initiated including a complete survey of vegetation and a population census of the area's wildlife. The reserve, which is not open to the public, will eventually be offered to the South Australian National Parks and Wildlife Commission.

The desert, or hairy-nosed, wombat survives only in isolated colonies in the hot, dry lands of South Australia and Queensland. Like many desert mammals, the species is mainly nocturnal. It avoids harsh conditions by spending daylight hours in burrows where the temperature is about 65 degrees.

It is these burrows that have got the wombat into serious trouble. The animals live in family groups of up to 12 individuals (unlike the common wombat which is solitary). They occupy burrows of such size that Jeeps must drive around them.

The advance of agriculture has brought conflict between the grass-eating wombats and the sheep graziers who build fences on established wombat routes. Wombats usually stay within a range of 400 yards in diameter.

The wombats, not about to change their habits for man's convenience, dig under the fence to get to "their" feeding grounds. These fence breaks also allow the dingo, Australia's only large predator, access to the flocks. Instead of reasonably cropping the animals which do the damage, wombats are shot far from fence lines.

There are 13 hairy-nosed wombats in seven zoos outside of Australia. Brookfield's Charley and two females and San Diego's pair are the only specimens in the U.S.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — You had a letter in your column from a woman who had pernicious anemia. She had been receiving B-12 once a month and had never had a blood test. This reminded me of the problem concerning my mother. She had gone to the doctor for a number of years for pernicious anemia and had received a monthly shot of B-12 but there had been no blood tests or other treatment. She kept getting worse and with much urging she finally went to see my doctor who is a specialist in internal medicine. When he examined her he immediately put her in the hospital and started giving her massive doses of B-12. She responded well and was a new person. My doctor was so distressed with the treatment that she had received that he reported the problem to the county medical association. Apparently this wasn't the first time that this doctor had a problem and eventually his office was vacated.

I tell this story to ask you if you won't stress to your readers that if they are in doubt about the treatment they are receiving to see another doctor. A reputable doctor will not be offended if you ask for another consultation, but if he is, that is the time to make a change. Although 99 per cent of the doctors are reputable there is bound to be a black sheep in the medical profession just as there is in others.

Dear Reader — I don't disagree with your observation. The truth is I have seen very few people who have been canonized in life and this includes doctors. In defending physicians, however, I will say that as a group they are one of the hardest working segments of our society and most of them take their responsibilities quite seriously.

I don't know of many other segments of our society who would permit their private life to be interrupted to the degree that most physicians do or would work the same number of hours, including weekends and holidays and all hours of the night or would, in fact, do as much charity work as many physicians do.

The truth is that most doctors like their patients and they get something out of being able to do something for them. This is not to say that they don't enjoy their income as physicians, but the income doesn't keep them from enjoying the other aspects common to the practice of medicine.

I agree that if a patient is concerned about his treatment he should have a consultation. If nothing else, such attitude on the part of the patient reflects a lack of confidence and it interferes with the normal treatment relationship between the doctor and the patient. The way to solve the problem is to have a consultation and clear the air. Most doctors who are really concerned about how their patient is doing and are for some reason or another uncertain about either the patient's state or what to do for him usually will ask for a consultation from another physician who might be able to help with the problem.

New State Tree Is True King Of The Forest

If oaks are "kings of the hardwood forest," then the white oak — Illinois' new official state tree — is "king of kings."

That's the opinion expressed in the opening paragraph of a publication, "Silvical Characteristics of the White Oak," released in 1953 by the USDA Forest Service.

And the evidence is hard to dispute.

Within its natural range, which includes practically all of the eastern one-half of the United States, the white oak is usually considered the most important of many oak species. For centuries the white oak has been admired for its beauty, sturdiness, longevity and wood quality.

The white oak is a large tree, normally reaching 100 feet in height and four feet in diameter. Trees 150-feet tall, eight feet in diameter and 600-years-old have been found.

IN DENSE FOREST stands, white oaks grow tall and straight, free of side branches for more than one-half of their height. In the open, however, the trees develop broad crowns with far-reaching limbs, making them useful as ornamental and shade trees.

White oak wood is heavy, strong, close-grained, and light-brown in color and has many uses, including construction, shipbuilding, barrel-making, furniture, interior finishing and flooring.

Before the white oak was officially designated as Illinois' state tree, that distinction belonged to a nondescript oak, commonly called the "native" oak.

No one was exactly sure which of the many oak species common to Illinois was the "native," although many assumed it referred to either the white or the bur oak.

The Illinois legislature left the question up to the school children of Illinois. During the past winter, they cast their ballots and when the votes were tallied early this spring, the white oak was officially dubbed "Illinois State Tree."

One now stands on the Illinois Capitol grounds, planted there by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie during recent Arbor Day ceremonies. The tree was provided by the Illinois Technical Forestry Association (ITFA), an association of 150 professional foresters in Illinois.

Robert Young, University of Illinois Extension forester and ITFA secretary, says that although the white oak generally has the reputation of being a "slow-grower," that reputation is only partially deserved.

"EARLY GROWTH may be slower than other oaks, and under certain conditions, white oaks may be outgrown by other trees in the forest," Young says. "But they persist. And when not shaded completely by other trees, white oaks grow faster in height than nearby hickories, and nearly as fast as black oak and red oak."

Notwithstanding its slow-growth reputation, the white oak is prized for forest, highway and ornamental plantings.

Young says white oak planting stocks are available from many commercial nurseries and should be even more readily available in the future.

New plantings should be made in the early spring, however.

THE WHITE OAK — called "king of kings" — in a 1953 USDA Forest Service publication — was officially designated Illinois state tree after being selected by school children throughout the state. The species which normally grows 100 feet high and 4 feet in diameter is admired for its beauty, sturdiness, longevity and wood quality.

Leaflet Explains Medicare

A leaflet explaining what kind of care Medicare can — and cannot — help pay for in extended care facilities is available at all Social Security offices. The publication describes the conditions under which Medicare can help pay for care in an extended care facility participating in the program, when the patient requires skilled nursing services on a continuing basis for a condition that was treated in the hospital.

Extended care under Medicare is sometimes confused with other kinds of nursing home care. The leaflet explains that Medicare cannot help pay for care — even though it is provided in an extended care facility — when a patient's primary need is assistance in eating, dressing, getting around, and meeting similar personal care needs.

Single copies of the leaflet, called "Medicare Benefits in an Extended Care Facility," are free on request at the area Social Security office, 120 W. Eastman St., Arlington Heights.

32nd Barrington Horse Show Scheduled For Next Month

The 32nd annual Barrington Horse Show activities will begin with a parade through Barrington Aug. 5, at 10 a.m. The parade will feature children, adults, animals, horse-drawn vehicles, antique cars and a six-pony hitch pulling a circus wagon with a calliope.

The horse show itself begins Aug. 10, and ends Aug. 13.

The show has decided to drop its all amateur status and allow pros to compete with amateurs in an open show. Prize lists are obtained from Florence M. Mueller, 625 Arlington Pl., Chicago 60614. Entries are due by Aug. 1, also to Miss Mueller.

In the past exhibitors have come from all over Illinois to compete in this Class A show for the Illinois hourse-of-the-year award. There are 7 Class A shows in the state. It is also rated C in all divisions by the American Horse Shows Assoc.

These divisions include many for riders 13 and under and other for progressively older riders, and for adults and families. There are also lead line for the youngest riders and costume classes for the creatively adventurous riders. There are both English and Western classes. There are 6 divisions with a total of 61 classes as follows: Hunter 21, Junior Working Hunter 8, Small Working Hunter and Ponies 3, Equitation 10, Miscellaneous 13, and Local 6.

Food and drink are available, including beer. General admission is $1; for children under 14, it is 50 cents. Parking is free.

Sponsors of the show include the members of the Barrington Hills Riding Club, the Barrington Mounted Patrol, The Fox River Valley Hunt, and the Fox River Valley Pony Club.

On Friday the young exhibitors will have a splash party from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Fred Pollaks. On Saturday and Sunday there are judges luncheons at the John T. Golitz' and the Edward K. Hardy III's. Saturday night is the annual dinner dance at 7 o'clock at the Barrington Hills Country Club with dancing to Chick Coleman's Band.

New State Tree Is True King Of The Forest

If oaks are "kings of the hardwood forest," then the white oak — Illinois' new official state tree — is "king of kings."

That's the opinion expressed in the opening paragraph of a publication, "Silvical Characteristics of the White Oak," released in 1953 by the USDA Forest Service.

And the evidence is hard to dispute.

Within its natural range, which includes practically all of the eastern one-half of the United States, the white oak is usually considered the most important of many oak species. For centuries the white oak has been admired for its beauty, sturdiness, longevity and wood quality.

The white oak is a large tree, normally reaching 100 feet in height and four feet in diameter. Trees 150-feet tall, eight feet in diameter and 600-years-old have been found.

IN DENSE FOREST stands, white oaks grow tall and straight, free of side branches for more than one-half of their height. In the open, however, the trees develop broad crowns with far-reaching limbs, making them useful as ornamental and shade trees.

White oak wood is heavy, strong, close-grained, and light-brown in color and has many uses, including construction, shipbuilding, barrel-making, furniture, interior finishing and flooring.

Before the white oak was officially designated as Illinois' state tree, that distinction belonged to a nondescript oak, commonly called the "native" oak.

No one was exactly sure which of the many oak species common to Illinois was the "native," although many assumed it referred to either the white or the bur oak.

The Illinois legislature left the question up to the school children of Illinois. During the past winter, they cast their ballots and when the votes were tallied early this spring, the white oak was officially dubbed "Illinois State Tree."

One now stands on the Illinois Capitol grounds, planted there by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie during recent Arbor Day ceremonies. The tree was provided by the Illinois Technical Forestry Association (ITFA)., an association of 150 professional foresters in Illinois.

Robert Young, University of Illinois Extension forester and ITFA secretary, says that although the white oak generally has the reputation of being a "slow-grower," that reputation is only partially deserved.

"EARLY GROWTH may be slower than other oaks, and under certain conditions, white oaks may be outgrown by other trees in the forest," Young says. "But they persist. And when not shaded completely by other trees, white oaks grow faster in height than nearby hickories, and nearly as fast as black oak and red oak."

Notwithstanding its slow-growth reputation, the white oak is prized for forest, highway and ornamental plantings.

Young says white oak planting stocks are available from many commercial nurseries and should be even more readily available in the future.

New plantings should be made in the early spring, however.

THE WHITE OAK — called "king of kings" — in a 1953 USDA Forest Service publication — was officially designated Illinois state tree after being selected by school children throughout the state. The species which normally grows 100 feet high and 4 feet in diameter is admired for its beauty, sturdiness, longevity and wood quality.

Leaflet Explains Medicare

A leaflet explaining what kind of care Medicare can — and cannot — help pay for in extended care facilities is available at all Social Security offices. The publication describes the conditions under which Medicare can help pay for care in an extended care facility participating in the program, when the patient requires skilled nursing services on a continuing basis for a condition that was treated in the hospital.

Extended care under Medicare is sometimes confused with other kinds of nursing home care. The leaflet explains that Medicare cannot help pay for care — even though it is provided in an extended care facility — when a patient's primary need is assistance in eating, dressing, getting around, and meeting similar personal care needs.

Single copies of the leaflet, called "Medicare Benefits in an Extended Care Facility," are free on request at the area Social Security office, 120 W. Eastman St., Arlington Heights.

32nd Barrington Horse Show Scheduled For Next Month

The 32nd annual Barrington Horse Show activities will begin with a parade through Barrington Aug. 5, at 10 a.m. The parade will feature children, adults, animals, horse-drawn vehicles, antique cars and a six-pony hitch pulling a circus wagon with a calliope.

The horse show itself begins Aug. 10, and ends Aug. 13.

The show has decided to drop its all amateur status and allow pros to compete with amateurs in an open show. Prize lists are obtained from Florence M. Mueller, 625 Arlington Pl., Chicago 60614. Entries are due by Aug. 1, also to Miss Mueller.

In the past exhibitors have come from all over Illinois to compete in this Class A show for the Illinois hourse-of-the-year award. There are 7 Class A shows in the state. It is also rated C in all divisions by the American Horse Shows Assoc.

These divisions include many for riders 13 and under and other for progressively older riders, and for adults and families. There are also lead line for the youngest riders and costume classes for the creatively adventurous riders. There are both English and Western classes. There are 6 divisions with a total of 61 classes as follows: Hunter 21, Junior Working Hunter 8, Small Working Hunter and Ponies 3, Equitation 10, Miscellaneous 13, and Local 6.

Food and drink are available, including beer. General admission is $1; for children under 14, it is 50 cents. Parking is free.

Sponsors of the show include the members of the Barrington Hills Riding Club, the Barrington Mounted Patrol, The Fox River Valley Hunt, and the Fox River Valley Pony Club.

On Friday the young exhibitors will have a splash party from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Fred Pollaks. On Saturday and Sunday there are judges luncheons at the John T. Golitz' and the Edward K. Hardy III's. Saturday night is the annual dinner dance at 7 o'clock at the Barrington Hills Country Club with dancing to Chick Coleman's Band.

Stamp Notes

by Bernadine M. Rechner

Canada will issue four 15 cent stamps representing the sciences of photogrammetry, cartography, geology and geography on Aug. 2 at Ottawa.

They are being issued in recognition of four scientific congresses being convened in Canada in July and August — the 24th International Geological Congress, the 22nd International Geographical Congress, the 12th Congress of the International Society of Photogrammetry and the 6th Congress of the International Cartography Association.

Canada's geography stamp is an abstracted birdseye view of a village situated at the intersection of main and secondary roads.

A simplification of mountains drawn in schematic shape by using "Siegfried" lines, used in cartography in three-dimensional maps, appears on the cartography issue.

Photos for the photogrammetry and the geology stamps will be printed next week.

Gottschalk and Ash Ltd. of Montreal designed the series which will be printed se-tenant on miniature panes of sixteen stamps (four of each design). A total of eight colors will be used in producing the stamps by lithography. The initial combined print order is 16,000,000.

Some of the stamps will be "Ottawa Tagged" but there are no marginal inscriptions on corner blocks of the tagged stamps. Marginal inscriptions including the designer's name will appear on one of the four corners of each of the untagged panes of sixteen stamps.

When ordering quantities of mint stamps, collectors should specify the regular and "Ottawa Tagged" versions separately on their order. Mint stamps of both varieties may be ordered at face value through the Philatelic Service, Canada Post Office, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0B5.

First Day cancellations may be requested through the First Day Cover Service, same address. There is a 5 cents service charge for each cover.

The original National Parks series was issued in 1934 and consists of ten stamps released to commemorate "National Parks Year." The stamps include the 1 cent El Capitan, Yosemite, California; a 2 cent view of the Grand Canyon in Arizona; a 3 cent Mount Rainier and Mirror Lake, Washington; a 4 cent depicting Cliff Palace, Mesa Verde, Colo.; a 5 cent Old Faithful, Yellowstone, Wyo.; a 6 cent Crater Lake, Ore.; the 7 cent view of Great Head, Acadia Park, Maine; an 8 cent Great White Throne, Zion Park, Utah; the 9 cent Mount Rockwell (Mt. Sinopah) and Two Medicine Lake, Glacier National Park, Mont. and the 10 cent Great Smoky Mountains, N.C. stamp. (Scott Nos. 740 - 749). In 1954 an adhesive was released to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the federal law providing protection for American natural antiquities. It depicts Devils Tower National Monument, Wyo. (Scott No. 1084).

The 50th anniversary of the National Park Service, in 1966, was commemorated by the release of a 5 cent stamp showing the Park Service emblem. (Scott No. 1314).

A typo last week resulted in erroneous information on the McKinley stamp. The correct release date for the 15 cents commemorative is July 28th at McKinley Park, Alaska 99755.

Drug Overdose Deaths Up

County Coroner Andrew J. Toman yesterday released figures that showed the number of drug overdose deaths for the first half of 1972 are running almost 30 per cent ahead of last year when a record number of Cook County residents died from overdoses.

Dr. Toman said there were 147 overdose deaths as of June 30 compared to 115 deaths for the same six-month period last year.

Dr. Toman noted that there were a record 310 overdose deaths for 1971, and warned that if the present trend continues 1972 will establish another overdose record.

Of the 147 deaths, 94 were male, and 53 were female. One-hundred and twenty of the deaths occurred in Chicago, and 27 in the suburban area.

The majority of the deaths occurred from overdoses of morphine and heroin, which in the body become chemically identical. Dr. Toman said that there were 91 deaths from these two drugs.

During June 1972 there were 31 overdose deaths, compared to 16 deaths for June 1971, Dr. Toman reported.

The overdose deaths so far this year are January, 18; February, 27; March, 21; April, 21; May, 29; and June, 31.

Mosquitoes' Revenge

On a still night during these hot summer months keep a keen ear cocked in the general direction of Schaumburg.

That sound you hear, the one similar to the one made by the audience at the Civic Opera House after the closing curtain, is really the population of the whole village slapping themselves to ward off hordes of mosquitoes which have descended on that normally peaceful community.

So bad is the mosquito infestation in Schaumburg this summer that residents are being driven indoors to sit in contemplation of their outdoor greenery, something like visitors to the Field Museum who only look upon dioramas of the outdoors through plate glass windows.

The mosquitos have returned to Schaumburg with a vengeance. And in their frustration at the irksome creatures, village residents have turned for redress to their elected village officials.

Normally, that is not a story worth telling. But in this case there is a certain justice in the plight of the residents and trustees because it was the village of Schaumburg that ordered a ban on the spraying of an insecticide, malathion, by the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District.

Now the village has altered its course and asked for emergency relief from the Abatement District in the form of spraying.

It is a complete reversal for the village officials and it probably destroys whatever chance Schaumburg and the Village of Palatine had in defending themselves against litigation by the Abatement District to overturn the village ordinances against spraying.

To be sure, the Schaumburg officials may be the butts of a joke beyond anyone's control. Even with spraying in other communities, mosquitoes are bad this year.

It is such a bumper year for mosquitoes, in fact, that the State of Wisconsin is issuing warnings about the severity of the insect swarms in the northern part of the state.

In almost every field and puddle, mosquitoes are rising like clouds this year and there may not be any complete answer to their pesky proliferation. In every village and hamlet, mosquitoes are at our ankles, our wrists, our earlobes, and in the worst place of all . . . between our fingers.

No wonder the official voice of Schaumburg has changed its tune. Bring on the sprayers! Get those mosquitoes before they get us.

And as a temporary, emergency measure, we'll suspend the ecology movement until the fall.

Afterthoughts On Miami Beach

From some of the accounts I have read of the goings-on at Miami Beach last week, I think a number of reporters were covering a different convention than I was.

The convention coverage seemed right enough, but there was a seeming preoccupation over the "high-priced hookers" which a number of writers seemed to see in every hotel corridor and every aisle of the convention floor.

The closest think I saw to a hooker was two pretty boys who trilled at me from across the street as I made my way back to my hotel one sunrise, inquiring if I had a match.

I told them I didn't smoke.

Among the remarkable things about this convention to veteran spectators was the orderliness of the crowd on the convention floor.

It was, with few exceptions, a remarkably polite assemblage. In the crush on the convention floor, delegates, spectators and reporters and camera crews bent themselves into pretzels to allow others to make their way through the crowd among a buzz of mumbled "excuse me's."

Bob Lahey

One of the exceptions was perpetrated on yours truly, on the final night of the convention, when a meaty hand thumped me on the back and sent me reeling, as the voice belonging to the hand bellowed, "Excuse me!"

Upon recovery, I found the hand to be attached to the ponderous person of Jimmy Breslin, who was in hot pursuit of Rep Bella Abzug of New York, during which he was reciting loudly his considerable repertoire of obscenities.

Intrigued, I followed Breslin, who makes a lousy delegate, into a crowd in front of the New York delegation. Listening to his recital for several minutes, neither I nor the other spectators were able to figure out why he was so incensed, and Bella herself looked a little puzzled, not to mention annoyed.

I never did find out why Breslin was so upset, but I did have the opportunity, before departing, of returning his courtesy with a stiff elbow to the ribs. I, of course, told him, "Excuse me."

Breslin, who is a fine writer, regained my good graces a couple of days later by having the honesty to admint in print that — without a television set to look at and without a newspaper to read — he didn't understand anything that transpired on the convention floor until two days after it happened.

That is an accurate description. Many delegates, and most reporters, cannot comprehend the overall picture of the convention without the benefit of expert advice (I had, among others, the benefit of Rep. Harold Katz of Glencoe, who enlightened me on the parliamentary genius of the McGovern floormen as they snookered the convention on the South Carolina delegation vote. Katz took sheer delight in the mischief of that maneuver.)

Nonetheless, it was professionally embarrassing to watch the number of reporters huddled around the boob tubes in the lounge where America's railroads provided free sandwiches and other sustenance to weary reporters. Watching television is fine to get caught up on the thing, but taking notes is something else.

Walter Cronkite must have been the most-quoted "source" in the nation last week.

Jack Flach, who has been covering politics for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat too long to get starry-eyed about anything, was in the apartment of Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri, having a drink with friends, when Eagleton received the fateful phone call.

Sharing the railroad's courtesy with Flach that night, I asked him if he had been surprised by the choice of his hometown senator.

"Surprised?" he snorted, "I was damn mad! I was going home tomorrow — and now I'll be on the road for the next four months."

He testified however, that his surprise was exceeded only by that of Eagleton, who was obviously not expecting the phone call.

With the flood of press people at the convention, the resulting red tape of acquiring daily passes, and the scarcity of floor passes, the numbers of non-working news executives, sons and daughters, and celebrities taking up press credentials is a source of considerable irritation to working reporters.

A pet peeve of this writer was the sight of actor Robert Vaughan, who seemed to be everywhere you looked, wandering around with a tape recorder and reciting to repeated inquiries, like a Mattel talking toy, "I'm an ABC newsman."

Dist. 214, Community Applauded

It has been over a week since the National Associations of Student Councils Conference closed at Forest View High School. Dist. 214 and members of the community it serves can be proud of their contribution to the national leadership conference.

Many thanks to the families who housed these delegates for five days, transported them to and from school and provided them with breakfast. A Texas delegate remarked, "We thought we showed them southern hospitality in Texas, but this is really something."

Other parents assisted with conference activities. Mr and Mrs. Carey, Miss Craig and all seven Directors of Student Activities donated their assistance the entire five days of the conference. Over 200 students, most of them from Forest View, but some from each of the other six high schools donated their services so the conference would run smoothly. The numerous after school and evening meetings that preceded the conference prepared them for this task.

Our special thanks to Mr. Patberg for his assistance with busing, housing and coordinating services. The five-man Forest View custodial crew had the building and grounds in show room condition. The audio-visual department and music program were much appreciated.

The entire conference was the dream of Mr. Burton Showers. He planned it and did much of the work, and the work and cooperation of those mentioned before made it possible for his plans to be realized.

Our thanks to the local and area businesses for their support, the parents, students and District 214 personnel for their help. We shared a memorable experience in community cooperation. A national official summed it on the final day, "This year's group put it all together, they really came through."

Turkish Ms.-Usage?

The campaign to establish the indetermine abbreviation "Ms." as a feminine title in place of the too-revealing "Miss" or "Mrs." is only part of a larger goal of weeding alleged sex bias out of the language as a whole.

The idea is that the words we use determine, or at least reinforce, our attitudes and prejudices. Obviously, if we can get rid of "sexist" terms, it will go a long way toward ending unfair discrimination against women.

Any theory, however, is only as good as the assumptions it is based on. And in this case that may not be very good.

Someone has pointed out that Turkish, for instance, is almost totally free of "sexist" forms. There is one pronoun, "o," meaning he, she or it. There are no words for brother or sister, just the word "kardes," which means sibling. To specify a brother or sister it's necessary to modify it with the word for boy or girl.

Women, whether married or single, have always been addressed by the same term, "bayan." And since many Turkish first names are used by both men and women, there is one word, "sayin," which can be used in addressing a letter to someone whose sex is unknown.

According to the theory then, Turkish women should always have been among the most "liberated" women in the world. History casts some doubt on this.

Point Of Dedication 'Missed'

Thank you for the fantastic coverage of the dedication of the Hoffman Estates Municipal Building Sunday, June 25. The day after the dedication, there was one article titled "Sen. Percy Urges Drug Abuse Plan For Suburbs." I do not think that title says anything about the dedication. A person reading the paper might not even notice it. The only picture was a small one of Sen. Percy. The big picture was of a Schaumburg man dressed as a clown. The following day there was one picture. Come on! I saw city editor Steve Novick at the dedication. He was taking pictures. What happened to those pictures?

The Record of Hoffman Estates had three pictures in today's edition and that paper comes out once a week. One would presume a daily newspaper would have more than one picture. I think you should have given Hoffman Estates more in the way of pictures. Whenever something happens in Schaumburg it receives more coverage. I think newspapers should be fair. Hoffman Estates deserved better coverage for such a great event. Hoffman Estates is "Growing To Greatness" and the press can help. How about it?

Celebration 'A Success'

Thank you for the Herald's excellent coverage this year on behalf of the Hoffman Estates Independence Day Committee.

It was cooperation such as yours that made our twelfth annual celebration such a success.

Even now we are preparing for next year's festivities. Election of officers and deciding the 1973 theme will be accomplished this summer. The committee meets the 1st Friday of each month in the new village hall at 8:30 p.m.

We need representatives from every civic and social club in Schaumburg Township to insure an even bigger and better celebration next year.

Families who enjoyed this year's Fourth know that all events were free in keeping with the committee's policy of charging only for food and beverages. We believe special recognition should be given to the Hoffman Estates Park District, the Greater Woodfield Chamber of Commerce and Industry and all the individual merchants and businesses which contributed so generously, as well as the village.

We were pleased that you entered a float in the parade. It was a colorful entry in he commercial category.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation for Steve Forsyth's article in the July 6 Buffalo Grove Herald concering the departure of village trustee, Chuck Vogt, due to accepting a new job in Kansas City.

Those of us who know Chuck and have worked with him would find it difficult to express our feelings any better than Steve captured the spirit of Chuck in his Editor's Notebook column.

As Steve knows, especially from our recent President's Roundtable, many residents of Buffalo Grove have been less than ecstatic over the coverage given our village by the Herald. Also we don't always agree with his editorial comments, but we do recognize that he is making a commendable effort to improve and expand our local coverage.

City Editor Lauded

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation for Steve Forsyth's article in the July 6 Buffalo Grove Herald concering the departure of village trustee, Chuck Vogt, due to accepting a new job in Kansas City.

Those of us who know Chuck and have worked with him would find it difficult to express our feelings any better than Steve captured the spirit of Chuck in his Editor's Notebook column.

As Steve knows, especially from our recent President's Roundtable, many residents of Buffalo Grove have been less than ecstatic over the coverage given our village by the Herald. Also we don't always agree with his editorial comments, but we do recognize that he is making a commendable effort to improve and expand our local coverage.

Word-A-Day

FEELING OF SECURITY, or a return to the womb, was envisioned by an interior designer when he planned the decision room at Universal Oil Products Co. in Des Plaines. Director of administrative services, Hank Koehler, right, ponders a question with Barry Foster, of UOP public relations.

Executives Make Decisions In Unusual Surroundings

"Decisions, decisions, decisions.

"I've just got to get away from it all for a few minutes," grumbles many a harassed executive when he's had his fill of telephone calls, secretaries fluttering in and out and the usual office din.

But where to turn? For a few minutes of peace and quiet, he'll slip off to the cigar store down the street, the men's room or maybe a corner somewhere in the industrial library.

Established havens for the harried executive do exist, however. For the lucky personnel at Universal Oil Products Co.'s (UOP) new world headquarters, in Des Plaines, there are meeting rooms, a board room and a mini-auditorium. Topping off this collection is a decision room, conceived to meet the needs of employes for uninterrupted contemplation.

"Anyone in the company can use this room," says Hank Koehler, director of administrative services for UOP, of the decision room. "By far the preponderance of use is by management, though." The decision room is located within the management building of the UOP complex at the corner of Algonquin and Mount Prospect roads.

The decision room is striking. Mouse brown synthetic fur covers the floor, the walls, the chairs and even the curtains. It has a texture like a short-haired teddy bear.

The room is rounded in appearance, with nary a corner, a door knob, or a desk in sight. A lone telephone sits on a small pedestal in the front of the room. Some 20 fuzzy chairs are equipped with recessed ash trays, pencil holders and pouches for "very important papers."

"We had a series of conferences with the president of the company and other executives before we planned this room," says Koehler. "We knew we wanted audio visual equipment, but it's not the kind of thing where you can say, 'I'll take two of those.' "

A computer terminal will eventually be installed in the decision room. It will link UOP decision-makers with information on sales and production figures and any other corporate data they need.

A panel slides down in the front of the room for movie and slide projection.

Interior designer Richard Himmel sought "a feeling of returning to the womb" in this room, according to Koehler. And indeed, the curved walls, the vaulted ceiling and the sense of being enveloped in silence is powerful.

"This isn't like some decision rooms, where they have wild paintings and colors," Koehler says. "It's just a nice place to come in and think about things without interruptions." He sees telephone and other interruptions as the number one problem for many executives.

Should a decision-maker yearn for a view of the outside world, he could draw the furry curtains. A shimmering fiberglass curtain affords a view of the outdoors.

The decision room isn't heavily booked in advance, although Koehler says meetings must be scheduled. "It will be more heavily used when all the audio visual and computer equipment is installed," he says. "Many people find they still prefer the security of using a table when they're at work."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nearly every piece of furniture and every gadget in the average home contains booby traps both for the family that uses it and the company that made it.

This melancholy fact is the reason for the federal government's home accident early warning system, actually called the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System. It gathers data from hundreds of hospitals about home, playground and street accidents to be tabulated daily in Washington by the Food and Drug Administration's Bureau of Product Safety. The idea is to make recommendations for product modifications that will reduce the toll of 20 million home, playground and street accidents each year, the most numerous victims of which are children.

Although the electronic early warning system has been in effect only a few months, it has provided reports on thousands of accidents to the Bureau of Product Safety.

FOR EXAMPLE, MacNeal Memorial Hospital in Berwyn, Ill., sent the bureau 1,700 reports on accidents involving consumer products within eight months of joining the network. This hospital's experience disclosed the interesting fact that most such accidents occur between 4 and 7 p.m. and there are more accidents on Wednesday, the day when few doctors are available in their offices in the Chicago area.

The studies have produced a number of recommendations for product changes within recent months. Bicycle accidents are one of the most common causes of injuries to children. A study at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge showed 64 children cut by the knifelike action of the spokes of bicycle wheels in a two-month period last summer. On the basis of this and other reports, the Bureau of Product Safety urged that children's bikes have wheels with shielded spokes, a practice followed in Europe.

Another regulation growing out of the accident reports is for closer spacing of crib slats so babies can't get their heads between them.

NUMEROUS recommendations have been made for improvements in playground equipment to keep children from being bruised or even strangled by catching their clothes on bolts or handrails or fingers in the chain linkage of swings.

Adults also are booby trapped into accidents and manufacturers of many devices find themselves faced with expensive lawsuits. One recommendation to curb such mishaps calls for an automatic release mechanism if the housewife catches her hands in the wringer of an automatic washing machine. Another urges that electric hedge trimmers be made heavy enough so they have to be held with both hands. That can eliminate many finger cuts.

Ziegler Offers Bond Sale For Hospital

B. C. Ziegler and Co. will offer $1.8 million of first mortgage bonds today and tomorrow for Condell Memorial Hospital, Libertyville. The proceeds of the bond issue will pay for the completion of the fourth floor expansion program which was previously "shelled in," property acquisition, and refinance existing indebtedness, said Ronald Spears, manager of the firm's Arlington Heights office.

Citizens' Unit Reports On Long-Range Planning

Harper Board Gets Praise, Proposals

by BETSY BROOKER

Praise and proposals were handed to the Harper College Board of Trustees at a meeting Tuesday by a citizens' committee appointed to study long-range planning.

The committee urged the trustees to appoint community task forces to take a look at issues such as a second campus, cultural center, student aid, productivity and enrollment. To cushion the recommendations, the committee said it was extremely impressed by the college operation.

The committee, composed of representatives from 11 communities, was appointed in February to review the college's long-range plan. The original plan was written by a 10-member committee, representing a cross-section of the college community.

The citizens said they joined the project with misconceptions about the role of a community college. They urged the trustees to boost community relations and to emphasize the career, personal development and public service aspects of Harper.

THE CITIZENS' strongest criticism was reserved for enrollment projections in the report. According to John Woods, chairman of the committee and Arlington Heights village president, "it was our general consensus that your figures are very conservative. You are going to be badly burned with planning projections if you aren't aware of this."

The discrepancy between the college's and citizen's population projections was attributed to the fact that the citizen's are based on local assessment of growth. The college's figures were compiled by a six-county organization.

Keeping the college budget out of the red was another major concern expressed by the citizens. James Harring, corporate director of planning for Motorola, Inc., said he had been shocked when he saw the "projections for a continually dwindling fund balance. If you make up your mind you are going to operate at a profit, you can do it."

The citizens urged the trustees to not shy away from raising the tuition. But, as they do so, the citizens said they should also try to boost their student aid program, even if it requires new legislation.

IF A TUITION hike doesn't solve the problem, then the college should call for a local tax hike, said the citizens. And the college should make efforts to increase productivity, possibly calling in efficiency consultants.

"You shouldn't talk about new campus sites," advised Michael Redmond, associate director of Louis A. Weiss Memorial Hospital, "until you are sure you have made the best use of present facilities."

The question of adding land to the district and building a second campus was not as open to solutions. The citizens said the college should not seek annexations and possibly resist such attempts unless forced to do otherwise by the state.

However the citizens did not give the trustees specific advice on the advisability of building a second campus. "You should plan for alternatives," said Woods. "If you decide you need another campus then take a look now at sites before the cost is too high."

THE TRUSTEES pointed out a state mandate to include every square foot in Illinois in a junior college district may force them to accept annexations. Without knowing the density or boundaries of the district, they said it is difficult to pick a site.

Despite the ambiguity of the situation, the citizens urged the trustees to move ahead, adding real estate is a good investment.

Merv Fink — An Old 'Rookie' In American Legion Ball

Paul Logan

A CAR TRAVELING down Belmont Street had to slow up Tuesday evening — a ball from a pepper game bounced in its path

A little later, another car had to creep along in front of 1034 South Belmont because a game of catch was in progress in the Arlington Heights street.

If these were just passing neighbors, the baseball wasn't something unexpected. Baseballs have probably been flying, bouncing and rolling around the Fink family's house for years, only the first names of the ones batting or throwing them change.

On this warm day, Greg Fink and his Des Plaines Legion teammate, Bob Chen, were the traffic stoppers. Several years before, older brothers Jerry and Doug were the ballplayers.

The man who gave these young men their love for the game is their father Merv At the age of 52, this former Palatine stickout prep has devoted nearly half of his life to coaching.

"I always was interested in helping boys, that's all," admits Merv, who "retired" from coaching several years ago when he left the Arlington Heights Boys Baseball program His absence from the game was short lived, however

Shortly before the Ninth District Legion season was to begin, the Mount Prospect team's sponsor pulled out This left some Elk Grove and Forest View High School players without a team

Merv's interest in these young men led him to helping organize a team within a week. Playing under the name of the Des Plaines Legion Post 16 and sponsored by the Waycinden Boys Baseball Association, the team just got together in time for the league opener.

Thirteen games later, Fink's first legion team has drawn the respect and admiration of quite a few people in and outside the league They're impressed with this "rookie" head coach and his boys

This comes as no surprise to those who know Merv Fink He learned the ways of baseball along with football and basketball in Palatine. Then he went to Northern Illinois University where he played freshman ball before going into the service.

World War II interrupted his athletic and academic careers His goal prior to the war was to become a high school coach Although he didn't realize this dream, he made it as a coach nevertheless.

"I was a charter member," recalls Merv of his first coaching job in the then newly formed Arlington Little League program in 1954. "At that time there were probably about 10 teams altogether." Now there are 150!

Jerry, now 25, Doug, 23, and Greg, 17, came up through this outstanding program and then graduated to legion ball Greg is an outfielder for the team this season under the watchful eyes of his father and assistant coach Jerry.

Despite the many personal thrills both as a player and coach, the topper for Merv came as a fan in 1965 — that season when Arlington's legion team finished just short of the national title

"That's actually the highlight of my association with sports," says Merv of Arlington's fifth-place finish, "due to all the excitement and everything else that was involved "

Jerry played first base that season for Coach Lloyd Meyer as Post 208 rolled to a 42-6 record.

"That summer was quite a vacation," recalls Merv of those 48 games played all over the state and culminated in the North Dakota championships "I didn't miss one "

He helped out some coaching-wise for Meyer a couple of games that season Now he's going head-to-head with the dean of the league But then they were always rivals — friendly dairy rivals Merv is office manager of Arlington Milk Inc and Lloyd is with Meyer Brothers Dairy.

As to how this first campaign has gone so far, Merv says he hasn't "found anything hard, except I've found the conditions changing with the boys

"The boys used to come out and rake the diamond . . . and the parents, too."

This was just one example of how things used to be in legion ball Times have changed — any coach will admit that One thing remains the same, however, as Merv points out.

"Two-thirds of coaching is communication with the boys. You've got to actually be a public relations man dealing with 17 or 18 different ballplayers I think less coaching is involved at this level When you do tell a boy something up here however, you'd better make sure it's correct "

Merv lists as his biggest coaching achievement the second-place finish at the eight-state Little League tournament at Thillens in 1955 However, capturing the District Tournament title at the end of the month could move that former highlight over a bit

He's not doing any Muhammad Ali predicting, but everyone in the Ninth District knows that he has the talent to do it

"If we can get some things going, we'll scare a few people," says Des Plaines' confident coach

That's just what the other teams are afraid of

All-Star QBs Are Familiar

The College All-Star football squad has an advantage this year it never possessed before.

Two of the quarterbacks are working with their coach and offense from college as they prepare for the contest against the world champion Dallas Cowboys in Soldier Field on July 28

Coach Bob Devaney not only brought his offense from Nebraska, he hauled along his two field generals — Jerry Tagge and Van Brownson Their knowledge of the offense enabled the training camp to get off to a fast start and has kept it running smoothly since.

The other quarterback is Pat Sullivan of Auburn. The Heisman Trophy winner has looked good in All-Star camp altho he said at the start of the training period:

"I'm definately behind They (Brownson and Tagge) know the offense intimately having worked with it for three years But they're both great boys and any time I've wanted help they've been willing to give it I know, too, that I'll get a fair shot and whoever does the best will play "

Altho a fine passer and an excellent field general, Sullivan was bypassed in the first round of the National League draft because he is "only" six feet tall. Did he think his height would hurt him in pro ball?

"Not really," Sullivan answered "I've been at functions with Bob Griese (Dolphins) and Fran Tarkenton (Vikings) I'm certainly no shorter than they are and they've done a great job I don't see how some people can say I'm too short "

Devaney is pleased with his quarterbacks. With Tagge and Brownson on the scene, he has had to spend little time teaching his offense to the signal callers and has been able to devote more attention to other areas.

Tagge completed 143 of 239 passes for 2,019 yards and 17 touchdowns last year Another equally impressive statistic is the fact that he threw only four interceptions.

Brownson was Nebraska's No 1 quarterback until he was sidelined by injuries in the middle of his junior season

Brownson doesn't want to be labeled a second string quarterback. "It was a matter of the breaks and Jerry moving the club," said Brownson "Jerry and I didn't consider one person the No 1 quarterback and the other No 2 We worked together "

"I was a little surprised I was picked for the All-Star team. But Devaney told me it would be more difficult for another quarterback to adjust to his offense. I'm very pleased to get the opportunity to play in this game. Anyway he already had the best quarterbacks in college football in Sullivan and Tagge Maybe he's right I might just be the third best in the country."

Some pro scouts thought so

THE JET TOOK OFF. Bobby Hull, Chicagoans' Golden Jet, will be jetting for Winnipeg this season. He'll never wear this familiar uniform again.

Rebels End Rest Period; Busy Road Schedule Ahead

The Northwest Rebels area baseball team, after taking the last week off, were not able to play a scheduled home game Sunday because of a wet field after Friday's downpour

The squad, composed of players older than 18 who were high school and American Legion stars in this area, will be playing all road games for the next two and a half weeks It probably will not play at home (Harper College in Palatine) again until Saturday, Aug. 5 when a doubleheader is slated

Seven away games are scheduled in the meantime Saturday the Rebels go to Aurora and Sunday to Kankakee for a twin bill The following Wednesday, Northwest will take on Skokie at Oakton Park and on Saturday, July 29, the Rebels will play a pair in Winnetka

Player-coach Frank May said the team is hoping to play a series of games against the Arlington Heights Legion team and possibly the Palatine Legion squad in early August

The Rebels were playing excellent baseball until their most recent game July 9 Through that date they won eight of nine to boost their record to 11-3 Four of the victories were over teams in the North Central States semi-pro league, which has accepted the Rebels as a member for next season

The team has been getting fine pitching, in particular, from Mike Pettenuzzo and Rick Peekel and hot hitting from May

Hoffman Grid Sign-Up

The Hoffman Estates Boys Club will have their final registration at the Boys Club Barn July 22 from 10 a m to 2 p m.

The Club has expanded into seven teams this year . flur Peewees, one traveling PeeWee, the newly formed George Halas team for boys 14 and under with weight of 108 lbs , and of course the Tri Village Champs the Titans, and the junior team, the Lancers

Head Coach Ed Cyrier stated, "We have 125 brand new uniforms to fill with boys this year , and we have one juse your size." Cyrier, in addition to being the Titan Coach is vice president of the Chicago-Northwest Suburban Football League. Heading up the Lancers is Bob Hill, C N S F. Board Member, Ken Kemnitz will be head coach of the newly formed George Halas team and the PeeWee coaches will be under the direction of Ike Eisenhauer, Jim Gebhardt, Bob McCullough and Bob Hansen

The Titans and Lancers have distinguished themselves in the last four years with their travel to Columbus Ohio where they brought home the trophy from the Jaycee Bowl, and duplicated the honors the following year as winners of the Quarterback Bowl in Richmond, Virginia In 1970 the Club defeated New York in the Hoffman Bowl and last year the Titans defeated Columbus, Georgia before 5,000 persons in the largest widget bowl in the country, the Peanut Bowl where they were also honored by the Governor of Georgia The Titans added to their victories by becoming the Tri-Village Champs by defeating the Hoffman A A , the Schaumburg A A and Hanover A A

Sisters of the boys that join may also register on the July 22 date for cheerleading positions

Questions will be answered either at the Boys Club Barn, or by calling 529-2481, 529-3790 or 882-5699

Fans Wasting No Tears For Hawks

by IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

CHICAGO—(NEA) — Players the caliber of Bobby Hull do not wash ashore daily like so many shells from Lake Michigan So on the surface the response by Chicago hockey fans to Hull's defection seems quirky.

"Everyone here was happy for Bobby," said Barry Holt, a young LaSalle Street lawyer and astute sports fan. Happy that Hull fell into a fortune and pleased that the Black Hawks' management got plucked

Hull, the splendiferous National Hockey League scorer, recently signed a $2 6 million contract as player-coach of the Winnipeg Jets for the next 10 years The Jets are part of the, literally speaking, newly minted World Hockey Association

Hull is one of the most popular athletes in Chicago history. Neither his salary holdouts nor his hair transplant for greater television commercial appeal has made him a money grubber in the eyes of his public. It is commonly said here that Hull will sign autographs until his hand atrophies. Hull has been the fan's dream gently approachable in a restaurant, a demon in the rink.

The Hawk management, however, is much more scantily revered

"They've run this business like that old Marine Corps saying," said Jim Mullen, sports editor of the Chicago Sun-Times "Hooray for me, and to hell with you "

For years Chicago Stadium, home of the Hawks, has been called Octopus Palace because as soon as you walk in the joint they got you

Until recently there was not a water fountain in a place that can crowd in 17,000 throats

"Do you know what the response was to the screams for water?" asked fan Holt "Raising beer prices from 50 cents to 75 cents a cup."

Last fall the Hawk management was indicted by the federal government for raising the cost of a program from half a buck to 75 cents during the price-control freeze The case is still pending in the courts But it has been decided in the hearts of the fans Good luck, Bobby

Tickets are another source of fan disgruntlement Tickets range from $9 for box seats to $4 for the second balcony. The prices are the highest in hockey, so is the second balcony (The Chicago Bulls basketball team play at the same stadium and charges $6 to $1 for tickets)

In the days when a guy could walk in off the street and buy a ticket, he'd say, "Gimme one in heaven." Then he'd begin an unescalatored ascent, impersonating Sir Edmund Hillary.

Now, you can buy a ticket only if you once bought or were willed season tickets (which often means you are a corporation executive or the heir of a corporation executive), or only if you don't look like a cop and go into the nearby tavern where the scalpers tipple.

The Hawks proudly say they have excellent parking The fans protest that it costs four bucks a game

Besides the disdain, with which the Hawk management has treated fans, it seems they have been as arrogant with some of the players, including Hull

Fans say they won't forget how the Hawks rubbed Hull's face in the mud in 1969. That was after Hull held out for a larger salary for half the season. They chest-thumpingly called one of their rare press conferences to announce that Hull had signed and that they had extracted an abject apology from him. Hull says he hasn't forgotten that, either.

Ed Short, general manager of the Chicago concoction of the WHA, says he has received hundreds of telephone requests for season tickets He thought there might have been some reaction from Hawk fans glad to see Hull when he came to town, glad for a refreshingly new game in town

Finally.

"I'm definitely behind. They (Brownson and Tagge) know the offense intimately, having worked with it for three years. But they're both great boys and any time I've wanted help they've been willing to give it. I know, too, that I'll get a fair shot and whoever does the best will play."

Altho a fine passer and an excellent field general, Sullivan was bypassed in the first round of the National League draft because he is "only" six feet tall. Did he think his height would hurt him in pro ball?

"Not really," Sullivan answered. "I've been at functions with Bob Griese (Dolphins) and Fran Tarkenton (Vikings). I'm certainly no shorter than they are and they've done a great job. I don't see how some people can say I'm too short."

Devaney is pleased with his quarterbacks. With Tagge and Brownson on the scene, he has had to spend little time teaching his offense to the signal callers and has been able to devote more attention to other areas.

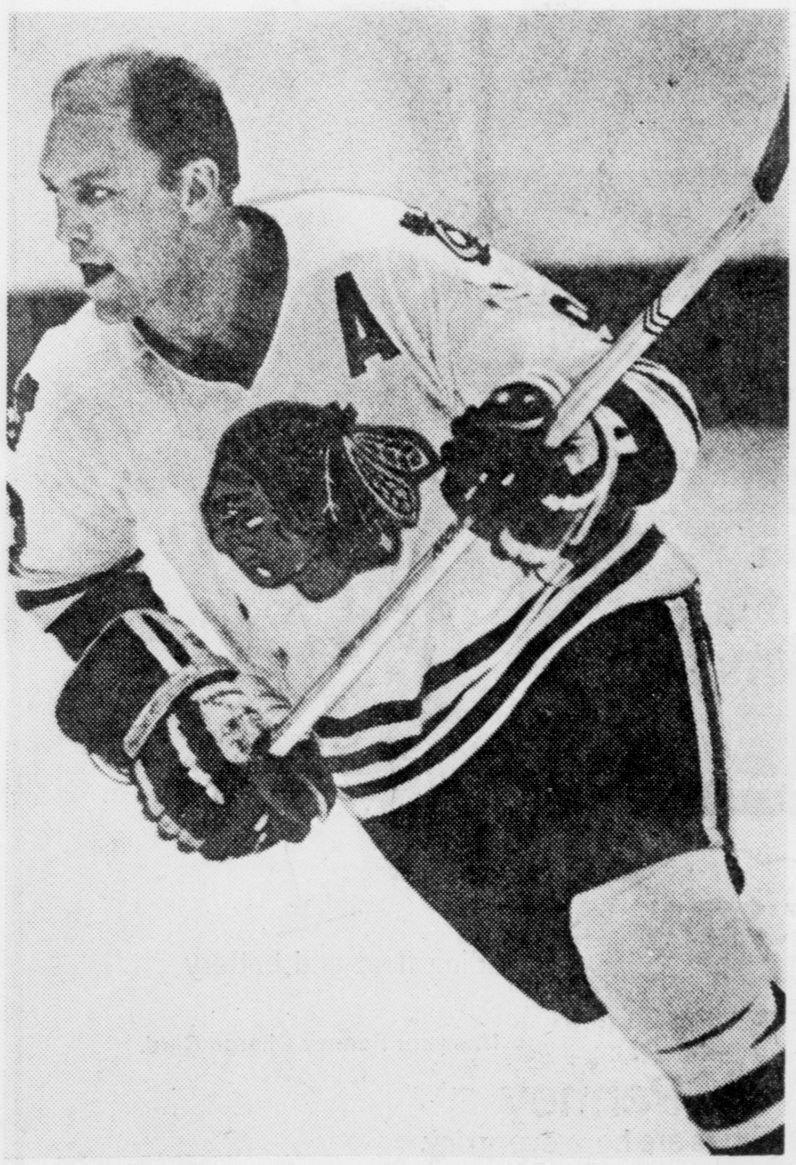
Tagge completed 143 of 239 passes for 2,019 yards and 17 touchdowns last year. Another equally impressive statistic is the fact that he threw only four interceptions.

Brownson was Nebraska's No. 1 quarterback until he was sidelined by injuries in the middle of his junior season.

Brownson doesn't want to be labeled a second string quarterback. "It was a matter of the breaks and Jerry moving the club," said Brownson. "Jerry and I didn't consider one person the No. 1 quarterback and the other No. 2. We worked together."

"I was a little surprised I was picked for the All-Star team. But Devaney told me it would be more difficult for another quarterback to adjust to his offense. I'm very pleased to get the opportunity to play in this game. Anyway he already had the best quarterbacks in college football in Sullivan and Tagge. Maybe he's right. I might just be the third best in the country."

Some pro scouts thought so.



THE JET TOOK OFF. Bobby Hull, Chicagoans' Golden Jet, will be jetting for Winnipeg this season. He'll never wear this familiar uniform again.

Rebels End Rest Period; Busy Road Schedule Ahead

The Northwest Rebels area baseball team, after taking the last week off, were not able to play a scheduled home game Sunday because of a wet field after Friday's downpour.

The squad, composed of players older than 18 who were high school and American Legion stars in this area, will be playing all road games for the next two and a half weeks. It probably will not play at home (Harper College in Palatine) again until Saturday, Aug. 5 when a doubleheader is slated.

Seven away games are scheduled in the meantime. Saturday the Rebels go to Aurora and Sunday to Kankakee for a twin bill. The following Wednesday, Northwest will take on Skokie at Oakton Park and on Saturday, July 29, the Rebels will play a pair in Winnetka.

Player-coach Frank May said the team is hoping to play a series of games against the Arlington Heights Legion team and possibly the Palatine Legion squad in early August.

The Rebels were playing excellent baseball until their most recent game July 9. Through that date they won eight of nine to boost their record to 11-3. Four of the victories were over teams in the North Central States semi-pro league, which has accepted the Rebels as a member for next season.

The team has been getting fine pitching, in particular, from Mike Pettenuzzo and Rick Peekel and hot hitting from May.

Hoffman Grid Sign-Up

The Hoffman Estates Boys Club will have their final registration at the Boys Club Barn July 22 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Club has expanded into seven teams this year . . . flur Peewees, one traveling PeeWee, the newly formed George Halas team for boys 14 and under with weight of 108 lbs., and of course the Tri Village Champs the Titans, and the junior team, the Lancers.

Head Coach Ed Cyrier stated, "We have 125 brand new uniforms to fill with boys this year . . . and we have one juse your size." Cyrier, in addition to being the Titan Coach is vice president of the Chicago-Northwest Suburban Football League. Heading up the Lancers is Bob Hill, C.N.S.F. Board Member, Ken Kemnitz will be head coach of the newly formed George Halas team and the PeeWee coaches will be under the direc tion of Ike Eisenhauer, Jim Gebhardt, Bob McCullough and Bob Hansen.

The Titans and Lancers have distinguished themselves in the last four years with their travel to Columbus, Ohio where they brought home the trophy from the Jaycee Bowl, and duplicated the honors the following year as winners of the Quarterba k Bowl in Richmond, Virginia. In 1970 the Club defeated New York in the Hoffman Bowl and last year the Titans defeated Columbus, Georgia before 5,000 persons in the largest widget bowl in the country, the Peanut Bowl where they were also honored by the Governor of Georgia. The Titans added to their victories by becoming the Tri-Village Champs by defeating the Hoffman A. A., the Schaumburg A. A. and Hanover A. A.

Sisters of the boys that join may also register on the July 22 date for cheerleading positions.

Questions will be answered either at the Boys Club Barn, or by calling 529-2481, 529-3790 or 882-5699.

Fans Wasting No Tears For Hawks

by IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

CHICAGO—(NEA) — Players the caliber of Bobby Hull do not wash ashore daily like so many shells from Lake Michigan. So on the surface the response by Chicago hockey fans to Hull's defection seems quirky.

"Everyone here was happy for Bobby," said Barry Holt, a young LaSalle Street lawyer and astute sports fan. Happy that Hull fell into a fortune and pleased that the Black Hawks' management got plucked.

Hull, the splendiferous National Hockey League scorer, recently signed a $2.6 million contract as player-coach of the Winnipeg Jets for the next 10 years. The Jets are part of the, literally speaking, newly minted World Hockey Association.

Hull is one of the most popular athletes in Chicago history. Neither his salary holdouts nor his hair transplant for greater television commercial appeal has made him a money grubber in the eyes of his public. It is commonly said here that Hull will sign autographs until his hand atrophies. Hull has been the fan's dream: gently approachable in a restaurant, a demon in the rink.

The Hawk management, however, is much more scantily revered.

"They've run this business like that old Marine Corps saying," said Jim Mullen, sports editor of the Chicago Sun-Times. "Hooray for me, and to hell with you."

For years Chicago Stadium, home of the Hawks, has been called Octopus Palace because as soon as you walk in the joint they got you.

Until recently there was not a water fountain in a place that can crowd in 17,000 throats.

"Do you know what the response was to the screams for water?" asked fan Holt. "Raising beer prives from 50 cents to 75 cents a cup."

Last fall the Hawk management was indicted by the federal government for raising the cost of a program from half a buck to 75 cents during the price-control freeze. The case is still pending in the courts. But it has been decided in the hearts of the fans: Good luck, Bobby.

Tickets are another source of fan disgruntlement. Tickets range from $9 for box seats to $4 for the second balcony. The prices are the highest in hockey; so is the second balcony. (The Chicago Bulls basketball team play at the same stadium and charges $6 to $1 for tickets.)

In the days when a guy could walk in off the street and buy a ticket, he'd say, "Gimme one in heaven." Then he'd begin an unescalatored ascent, impersonating Sir Edmund Hillary.

Now, you can buy a ticket only if you once bought or were willed season tickets (which often means you are a corporation executive or the heir of a corporation executive), or only if you don't look like a cop and go into the nearby tavern where the scalpers tipple.

The Hawks proudly say they have excellent parking. The fans protest that it costs four bucks a game.

Besides the disdain with which the Hawk management has treated fans, it seems they have been as arrogant with some of the players, including Hull.

Fans say they won't forget how the Hawks rubbed Hull's face in the mud in 1969. That was after Hull held out for a larger salary for half the season. They chest-thumpingly called one of their rare press conferences to announce that Hull had signed and that they had extracted an abject apology from him. Hull says he hasn't forgotten that, either.

Ed Short, general manager of the Chicago concoction of the WHA, says he has received hundreds of telephone requests for season tickets. He thought there might have been some reaction from Hawk fans glad to see Hull when he came to town, glad for a refreshingly new game in town.

Finally.

Little City Golf Benefit

Chicagoland businessmen and Illinois PGA members will swing their golf clubs to help mentally retarded children at Little City's Nnth Annual Pro-Am Invitational Golf Tournament, Monday, July 31 at Hillcrest Country Club, Long Grove.

More than 150 businessmen and patrons will vie for many top prizes in the four-man (one professional and three amatejurs), best-ball tournament, one of the few charity events in the Chicago area sanctioned by the Illinois Professional Golfers Association. Each player will contribute an entree fee of $350 to Little City to play in the Invitational.

Morrie Kellman is serving as tournament chairman for the ninth consecutive year, and during the past eight years over $180,000 has been contributed to Little City, the residential training community in Palatine for training, treatment, education and rehabilitation of mentally retarded children.

Hillcrest,, founded eight years ago near Lake Zurich, is one of the fine layouts (7,025 yards) in the middle-west area, praised by pros who find their golf skill defied in the challenge of a championship test. Hillcrest is one of three private clubs in this area which has offered its facilities for philanthropic endeavors.

Little City, which celebrates its 13th anniversary this fall, opened its doors in 1959 on 60 acres of land near Palatine. Little City is a non-profit, non-sectarian 1959 on 60 acres of land near Palatine. Little City is a non-profit, non-sectarian residential community for mentally-handicapped and retarded blind children. The education program at Little City is lauded as one of the finest available in the United States.

College Star Hockey Set

Final preparations are being made for the First Annual Illinois All-Star College Hockey Tournament, to be held beginning Saturday, July 22 and concluding Sunday, August 20.

Two teams, the Illinois All-Stars, and the Chicago College Golden Eagles, will be made up of the "cream of the crop" of college hockey players from the Greater Chicago area. These two all-star teams will play four games and the team with the most goals will then go into elimination with the Chicago Minor Hawks College Division team. The team with the fewer number of goals goes into elimination against the Minor Hawks Junior Division team.

All games are to be staged at the Oakton Recreation Center Ice Rink, 2800 Oakton Avenue in Park Ridge.

All proceeds from these games will be given to colleges or universities attended by the students playing in the tournament in proportion to the number of players from a particular school. The money will be specifically earmarked for use in the college or university hockey program.

There will be eight games in all, with tickets costing $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Games will be on Saturday night, starting at 8 p.m. July 22 and 29 and Aug. 5 and 12. On Saturday, Aug. 19, there will be two games at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. and on Sunday the 20th another pair of concluding games at 2:00 and 4:00.

Players will be represented from Northwestern, Chicago Circle, Lewis College, Ohio, Chicago State, Lake Forest, Loyola, Harvard, Dartmouth, Ithica, Oberlin, U. of Pennsylvania, and Merrimack.

Sobczynski Nipped In NIMAGA; To Use Same Teeoffs Friday

Although 21 juniors and 14 seniors from the Herald area were among those competing for the top half dozen places in each division, only one managed to capture a trophy in the Buffalo Grove Golf Club hosted Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association (NIMAGA) Junior Open Monday.

Jim Sobczynski, a player from Palatine, just missed capturing first place in the Junior Flight. He toured the par 72 layout in 37-40—77 to match the effort of Andy Lipnick. Then the Chicagoan edged out Sobczynski, par to bogey, in the first hole of sudden death.

Rounding out the top six spots were Jim Olson of Lake Forest (39-39—78), Tony Iantorno of Glen Ellyn (39-40—79), Phil Kline of Lincolnshire (40-39—79) and Gary Hallberg of Barrington (39-40—79).

Taking first in the Senior Flight was Kevin Klier of Naperville. He chalked up an even par on the front nine before going one over on the back for a 73. Right behind were these five golfers — D. J. Husheck of Melrose Park (38-36—74), Alan Branlund of Glen Ellyn (38-37—75), Mike Donachie of North Chicago (38-37—75), Scott McMillion of Glenview (37-39—76) and Dick Evans of Barrington (39-37—76).

This Friday the NIMAGA Junior scene switches to Chevy Chase Country Club in Wheeling. The same teeoff times as were listed for the June 23 tourney will be used on that day.

The first four finishers receive trophies with fifth and sixth placers receiving plaques.

The NIMAGA tour will wind up next month at Village Green Country Club in Mundelein for the championship. These young men qualify for the tourney by their previous showings in prior summer tour tourneys.

M-N Baseball

Maine-Northfield Little League's minor division ended its season last weekend with five teams tied for the American league second-half championship. The Flying Frenchman Restaurant won the National Minor league second half crown and will meet Walt Boyle, winner of the first half, July 22 in the championship game. To determine the American minor champ the week was slated to be filled with elimination games among Main State Insurance, Glenview Foremost, Michal-Kagan, Central-Greenwood Standard and first half champion House of Schiller.

In last week's play Flying Frenchman Restaurant edged Main State 6-5. Jimmy O'Brien was the winning pitcher and he hit two singles. Bill Schleiman tripled and singled and Brian Heraty had two singles. For Main State Dave Langer and Mike Hernandez doubled. Hernandez also singled. Danny Sanders had two singles and Danny DeCarlo and Scott DiGillo singled. Walt Boyle beat Glenview Foremost 7-2 with pitcher Binkey Schawel getting a no hitter. Pete Taaffe homered and drove in three runs. He also doubled. Tom Schauwecker's double drove in two and Jay Orlowski brought in two runs on a single.

Golf Mill Chrysler Plymouth edged Michaels Pharmacy 11 to 10. Winning pitchers were Mike Bell and Kevin McCarty. Scott Leibold tripled. McCarty doubled and singled as did Jeff Nankervis. Mike Hochberg doubled and Gary Cooper and Steve Kick singled.

Three prep players, Brett Schor, Kerry Erlich and John Nankervis did an admirable job for the winners. In their second win a 2 to 1 defeat of Semmerling Fence. It was Gary Ruske's night pitching a one-hitter, doubling to drive in both runs, and belting two singles. John Volpe and Mark Taub also singled. Mike Karlins got the Fencers lone single.

Elkhart Lake — A Roaring Good Time

by JUDY LUNDEEN

Race fans by the thousands streamed into Elkhart Lake, Wis., last weekend for a Saturday-Sunday doubleheader.

The 44,000 plus crowd enjoyed the spirited Trans-American Sedan Champion Series on Saturday with the prestigious open-wheel formula racing in the L & M Continental 5000 Grand Prix Series capping the festivities on Sunday. Needless to say, the four-mile track at Road America was the hottest stretch of pavement going.

Drama took over soon after the Trans-Am event began. George Follmer, the favorite after turning in the best qualifying time (2:32.818), parked his Javelin on the 40th lap with a cracked head. Warren Tope, who led only briefly early in the 50-lap, 200-mile test, grabbed the lead once more.

It appeared that Tope had the race locked up until a black Pontiac Firebird, driven by Milt Minter, made his bid. From out of the howling pack, Minter snaked his way into second. However, Tope's big lead of earlier in the race helped him to hold on in the final laps. Minter had made a fine try, but came up a scant 1.5 seconds short.

Jerry Lagod, a talented driver out of Barrington Hills, brought his Camaro home in 10th place. He also did a good job moving up in the 43-car field after qualifying way back in 23rd place. Lagod's effort landed him an "in the money" spot. He collected $400 of the $24,000 purse.

Tope took home a check for $4,000 and another $1450 in accessory awards. Not bad money for a little drive in the country!

Despite failing to finish the race, Follmer clinched the series championship with 95 points. Minter moved into second with 60.

Javelin also clinched the manufacturer's championship with 46 markers. Firebird was next with 28, Mustang with 25 and Camaro with 22.

Prior to the L & M Continental event, fans were treated to an additional race for small sedans. Park of the 2.5 Challenge Series and park of the program of the Sports Car Club of America, this event became a duel between the Datsun 510 sedans and the Alfa Romeo GTA's. The BRE team Datsuns, already leading the series before the race, once again had the upper hand. This tough aggregation placed its cars 1-2-3 on the starting grid.

After Horst Kwech of Gurnee blew by all three on the first lap in his Alfa, the first two Datsuns came back. John Morton regained the lead on lap No. 3 and then led to the finish. Right behind Morton after the one hour and 15 minute test was teammate Mike Downs, three seconds behind. Between them they took home $3300.

The 5000 Grand Prix was run in two heats of 96 miles each. After the warmup of the Datsuns, the crowd was really ready for the roars of the formula ones.

Skip Barber, driving last year's World Championship car, stood the entire assemblage on its collective tire iron by turning in a qualifying time of 2:08.6, four seconds faster than 1971's record time.

Barber built up a comfortable margin in the head only to find himself out of the race after just seven laps.

Having corrected his problem, Barber was pushing hard and closing fast from his 22nd starting slot. On lap 13 out of the scheduled 24, he passed the leader Graham McRae — the current leader of the series. Barber was never headed after that.

The overall winners were determined by a complex point system with McRae being declared the winner of the $20,000 first prize share of the $50,000 purse.

The next race at Elkhart will be the most prestigious Canadian-American Challenge Cup series for two-seater sports cars of unlimited engine size and design. These thundering beasts will compete Aug. 25-27 with such names as Peter Revson, former World Champion Dennis Hume, Jackie Oliver and the Roger Penske team.

Top Rebounder

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain's 19.2 rebounds per game for the champion Los Angeles Lakers, led all other NBA rebounders during the 1971-72 season. Wilt's .649 field goal percentage also led the league.

Dave Kingman Modest Hero

Dave Kingman, San Francisco's six-foot-six slugger from Mount Prospect, says, "physically, I'm not that strong," and what makes it such a joke is he means it and says this all with a straight face.

"That's his problem, he doesn't really know how strong he is," says Charlie Fox, the Giants' manager. "A week or so ago he took a half swing against Steve Carlton, — that's all it was, a half swing — and he hits a line drive outta the Philadelphia ball park."

Kingman, with 21 homers already, wasn't too impressed with that blow. "The wind was blowing out," he said.

Motorcycle Jumping Show At Santa Fe Track Friday

"Super Joe" Einhorn, holder of the world's record in motorcycle jumping, will attempt to jump a minimum of 10 cars and two vans at Santa Fe Speedway this Friday, Saturday and Sunday night, July 21, 22 and 23. Einhorn, whose 144-foot leap on ABC's Wide World of Sports bettered Evil Knievel's jump by fifteen feet, will ride a car each night reaching 14 vehicles on Sunday night; he will attempt his leaps during the regular TT motorcycle program on Friday night and the stock car shows on Saturday and Sunday evening. Friday's and Saturday's shows will start at 8:30 p.m. with Sunday's card at 7 for one-half hour earlier.

"Super Joe," 24 years old, is from San Pablo, Calif. Originally involved in motorcycle racing at 15 and a nationally ranked road racer at 17, "Super Joe" started jumping over vehicles to entertain his fellow workers during his lunch hour. His first jump was performed by running his motorcycle up a 2-by-12 plank and sailing over a pickup truck.

His major appearances have een at the San Francisco Cow Palace, April 8-11, 1971; Race of Champions (ABC-TV Wide World of Sports) Oct. 31, 1971; Cycle Circus show at the San Francisco Cow Palace, Dec. 11, 1971; and most recently at the Los Angeles Coliseum in front of 28,000 spectators.

"Super Joe" skyrocketed to fame when he leaped his motorcycle over a distance of 134 feet, ramp-to-ramp, and was viewed by millions of ABC's Wide World of Sports telecast on March 25, 1972. This [illegible] certified and measured by the American Motorcycle Association, represents the longest successful jump ever made.

"Super Joe" has had only one serious injury, resulting in hospitalization after a crash at the San Francisco Cow Palace. Ironically, "Super Joe" accident resulted from jumping too far; he missed the landing ramp after jumping fourteen cars and crashed onto the concrete arena floor at approximately sixty miles an hour. After three days in intensive care witha concussion and a broken left hand, Joe was released to the ward and was home within five days of the crash.

Not content with holding the world record, "Super Joe" has set his sights on the magic 150-foot mark — half the length of a football field. Negotiations nationally are presently under way with promoters for this incredible performance.

Also "Super Joe" challenged Knievel seven or eight months ago to a $25,000 Challenge Match. Because of bad feelings and alleged ill will between the two, Knievel has to this day not responded to the challenge. He claimed his Caesar's Palace jump was six feet further than "Super Joe's," but Knievel fell from his cycle on that attempt.

Santa Fee Speedway's "World Record Motorcycle Jump" show this Friday, Saturday, and Sunday is another reason why the southwest side clay oval is one of Chicagolands top racing attractions.

Santa Fe Speedway is located at 91st and Wolf Road.

Athletic Trainers Seminar

Richard J. Martwick, Cook County Superintendent of Schools, will sponsor a day-long seminar for athletic trainers who deal primarily with elementary and high school athletes on Saturday, Aug. 19, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Executive House in Chicago.

Orthopedic specialists, surgeons, trainers such as Skip Thayer of the Chicago Blackhawks, and educators will conduct the sessions. Exhibits will also be on display to focus on how best to prepare the budding athlete and to protect him from injury as well as how to properly treat those injuries. Sessions will also be devoted to the care and physical well being of all students.

Program coordinator will be Tom Monforti, head trainer of Loyola Academy, and formerly trainer at DePaul University and other Chicago area college and professional teams.

Program Chairman is Donald Nie, Assistant Superintendent for Health and Youth Activities of the Educational Service Region of Cook County.

County Schools Superintendent Martwick himself was formerly head football coach and athletic director at Ridgewood High School in Norridge. Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

Sculptors and engravers, like most good artists and writers, impart a certain flare to their creations that resembles an unconscious trademark or signature by which their work can be immediately identified.

Typical examples can be found on much of our coinage.

James B. Longacre, one of our earlier sculptor-engravers with the Philadelphia Mint, was best known for his repeated adaptations of his daughter Sarah's profile to the likeness of Liberty on the 1865 nickel, three-cent piece, the 1849 $1, $3 and $20 gold pieces, and the Indianhead cent.

This was more or less intentional since Longacre preferred to work from live, rather than sketched, models. But what seemed to come as a second game was his hidden admiration for the shield.

IT OCCUPIED a place of prominence in the center of his 1851 to 1873 silver three-cent piece and more so on the obverse of the 1864 to 1873 two-cent piece and the 1866 to 1883 nickel. As a matter of fact, the two latter pieces, with the exception of the Cross Pattee on the nickel contain all of the same components, variously arranged.

Some of Longacre's trial pieces suggested for other denominations also reflected his "thing" about the union shield and there is every reason to believe it would have appeared on many more U.S. coins if Longacre's tenure in office had continued beyond 1869.

Longacre was born Aug. 11, 1794, in Delaware County, Pa., and served his apprenticeship under George Murray of Philadelphia before he became a free agent in 1819. Mr. Longacre was one of the originators of the National Portrait Gallery of Distinguished Americans. As did his predecessors, Longacre died in office, Jan. 1, 1869.

As was indicated in a previous Money Clips, the Office of the Financial Secretary, Grand Cayman, Cayman Islands, British West Indies, has announced that that government will be releasing a new $2 sterling silver coin in the very near future.

THROUGH THE efforts of Financial Secretary V. G. Johnson, the Cayman Islands will soon begin a numismatic program, designed especially for collectors all over the world, including proof sets containing all eight of Cayman's new issues. In addition, there will be two $25 coins — one in silver and one in gold — to commemorate the 25th wedding anniversary of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

All coins will be struck at the Royal Canadian Mint in Ottawa but will be distributed exclusively, worldwide, by Paramount International Coin Corporation of Englewood, Ohio.

Exact prices and ordering procedures have not been publicly announced but interested readers are asked to direct their inquiries to Mr. Max Humbert, President of the Paramount International Coin Corp., Paramount Building, Englewood, Ohio 45322.

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

Sculptors and engravers, like most good artists and writers, impart a certain flare to their creations that resembles an unconscious trademark or signature by which their work can be immediately identified.

Typical examples can be found on much of our coinage.

James B. Longacre, one of our earlier sculptor-engravers with the Philadelphia Mint, was best known for his repeated adaptations of his daughter Sarah's profile to the likeness of Liberty on the 1865 nickel, three-cent piece, the 1849 $1, $3 and $20 gold pieces, and the Indianhead cent.

This was more or less intentional since Longacre preferred to work from live, rather than sketched, models. But what seemed to come as a second game was his hidden admiration for the shield.

IT OCCUPIED a place of prominence in the center of his 1851 to 1873 silver three-cent piece and more so on the obverse of the 1864 to 1873 two-cent piece and the 1866 to 1883 nickel. As a matter of fact, the two latter pieces, with the exception of the Cross Pattee on the nickel contain all of the same components, variously arranged.

Some of Longacre's trial pieces suggested for other denominations also reflected his "thing" about the union shield and there is every reason to believe it would have appeared on many more U.S. coins if Longacre's tenure in office had continued beyond 1869.

Longacre was born Aug. 11, 1794, in Delaware County, Pa., and served his apprenticeship under George Murray of Philadelphia before he became a free agent in 1819. Mr. Longacre was one of the originators of the National Portrait Gallery of Distinguished Americans. As did his predecessors, Longacre died in office, Jan. 1, 1869.

As was indicated in a previous Money Clips, the Office of the Financial Secretary, Grand Cayman, Cayman Islands, British West Indies, has announced that that government will be releasing a new $2 sterling silver coin in the very near future.

THROUGH THE efforts of Financial Secretary V. G. Johnson, the Cayman Islands will soon begin a numismatic program, designed especially for collectors all over the world, including proof sets containing all eight of Cayman's new issues. In addition, there will be two $25 coins — one in silver and one in gold — to commemorate the 25th wedding anniversary of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

All coins will be struck at the Royal Canadian Mint in Ottawa but will be distributed exclusively, worldwide, by Paramount International Coin Corporation of Englewood, Ohio.

Exact prices and ordering procedures have not been publicly announced but interested readers are asked to direct their inquiries to Mr. Max Humbert, President of the Paramount International Coin Corp., Paramount Building, Englewood, Ohio 45322.

MAKE PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS PART OF YOUR DAILY LIFE

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Laughter can improve your sex life, according to a psychiatrist writing in the magazine Psychology Today.

Although cautioning that an ill-timed snicker or an inappropriate chuckle could have unfortunate results, Dr. Martin Grotjahn says that when both partners recognize the many inherently comic aspects of sex, they may find it more enjoyable.

I can see it all now. This article obviously is the forerunner of a whole new series of scientific studies and sexology books.

There almost certainly will be a report by Masters and Johnson on "Human Sexual Jocularity." And Dr. David Reuben undoubtedly will come forth with a book entitled "Everything You Always Thought Was Funny About Sex But Were Afraid To Laugh."

IN THEIR EARLIER studies, Masters and Johnson attached electrodes to their subjects to measure pulse rates, blood pressure and other physical responses to love-making.

For the next experiment, I assume, they will add a laugh-o-meter borrowed from the old radio show "Can You Top This?"

As for Reuben, he employs the Q. and A. technique to impart information on the mating process. Here are some of the entries we can expect in his next book:

Q. Is it true that women find sex more hilarious than men do?

A. Definitely yes. On the average, women laugh five times more than men, and may, under certain circumstances, remain in a continuous uproar from start to finish.

Q. DOES THIS MEAN that women have a more highly developed sense of humor?

A. Not necessarily. It may simply mean that they have more cause for amusement.

Q. What is meant by the term "suppressed giggle"?

A. A "suppressed giggle" is a form of silent, inward or stifled laughter. It is used to give vent to one's mirth in circumstances where a loud gaffaw would be unsuitable.

Q. What should one do if one's risibilities are not aroused?

A. Sometimes it will make the situation less grim if one pretends to be tickled anyway. However, faking a ha-ha too often may make it more difficult to experience genuine mirth and one's only response will be a hollow laugh.

Q. Is it true in sex that "he who laughs last, laughs best"?

A. Yes, but as they used to say in vaudeville, "always leave them smiling."

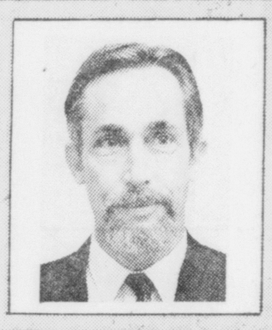
MAKE PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS PART OF YOUR DAILY LIFE



The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Laughter can improve your sex life, according to a psychiatrist writing in the magazine Psychology Today.

Although cautioning that an ill-timed snicker or an inappropriate chuckle could have unfortunate results, Dr. Martin Grotjahn says that when both partners recognize the many inherently comic aspects of sex, they may find it more enjoyable.

I can see it all now. This article obviously is the forerunner of a whole new series of scientific studies and sexology books.

There almost certainly will be a report by Masters and Johnson on "Human Sexual Jocularity." And Dr. David Reuben undoubtedly will come forth with a book entitled "Everything You Always Thought Was Funny About Sex But Were Afraid To Laugh."

IN THEIR EARLIER studies, Masters and Johnson attached electrodes to their subjects to measure pulse rates, blood pressure and other physical responses to love-making.

For the next experiment, I assume, they will add a laugh-o-meter borrowed from the old radio show "Can You Top This?"

As for Reuben, he employs the Q. and A. technique to impart information on the mating process. Here are some of the entries we can expect in his next book:

Q. Is it true that women find sex more hilarious than men do?

A. Definitely yes. On the average, women laugh five times more than men, and may, under certain circumstances, remain in a continuous uproar from start to finish.

Q. DOES THIS MEAN that women have a more highly developed sense of humor?

A. Not necessarily. It may simply mean that they have more cause for amusement.

Q. What is meant by the term "suppressed giggle"?

A. A "suppressed giggle" is a form of silent, inward or stifled laughter. It is used to give vent to one's mirth in circumstances where a loud gaffaw would be unsuitable.

Q. What should one do if one's risibilities are not aroused?

A. Sometimes it will make the situation less grim if one pretends to be tickled anyway. However, faking a ha-ha too often may make it more difficult to experience genuine mirth and one's only response will be a hollow laugh.

Q. Is it true in sex that "he who laughs last, laughs best"?

A. Yes, but as they used to say in vaudeville, "always leave them smiling."

Control of pH is an important part of home pool health and care. The pH factor in your pool should be tested often with your test kit. If your pH is too low (tests yellow between 6.8 and 7) you need PH-Plus to raise it. If it's too high (tests red or purplish red, between 7.8 and 8.6) you need PH-Minus to lower it. The containers are color-coordinated with your test kit, so you'll know exactly when you need these products.

DuBrow On TV
by Rick DuBrow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There was an exciting event on television Tuesday night — a one-hour NBC-TV rock and folk music special, "Good Vibrations From London," taped at an outdoor concert that held its audience despite rain.

The lovely setting was London's Crystal Palace Bowl, the performances packaged for the NBC-TV hour went from daytime into the night, and the artists featured were Joe Cocker, Richie Havens, Melanie, The Beach Boys and the Sha Na Na group.

In addition, there was an unscheduled appearance by another noted pop music artist, Elton John, who sat in with The Beach Boys, playing piano and singing. The executive producer was Ron Delsener, whose video credits include the memorable CBS-TV special "Barbra Streisand — A Happening in Central Park." And viewers of Tuesday night's hour who happened to be in New York City, Los Angeles, Chicago or Dallas were, according to plans, able to tune in the concert on FM stereo radio at the same time it was being telecast.

Well, so much for the bare details. A key question for NBC-TV, of course, is whether "Good Vibrations from London" got much of an audience in television terms. For commercial video has so alienated many young persons who have seen the networks all but ignore rock and folk music, or handle it ineptly in their few feeble tries, that the significant youthful audience is probably just tuned out to most television anyway.

THUS IT'S a problem for a network to suddenly get a tune-in from a segment of the viewing public it has blatantly ignored until recently, when video took some very slight steps toward being more hip in shows like "All in the Family." But even that kind of contemporary outlook is very conservative to most devotees of the new music and films; and, in fact, is the kind of series that gives many viewers a chance to insulate their opinions about touchy modern subjects.

NBC also had the other obvious problem Tuesday night of getting television's traditional viewers to watch the rock-folk concert. It's a good bet that countless persons used to more standard video shows tuned out quickly after hearing the initial blasts of the music.

Pop music purists may or may not have been impressed with Tuesday's hour. And surely it was no "Woodstock." But for commercial television it was quite an event and, one hopes, just the video's part toward a significant aspect of modern culture.

I particularly liked the singing and performing manner of Melanie, a young woman with an utterly charming presence and a big voice that renders her warm words so that they can be understood clearly. Clarity of words is sometimes the exception rather than the rule at folk-rock concerts, where big sounds and slurring delivery at times obliterate the effect of the lyrics

Is TV Showing Signs Of Maturity?

BY DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — In the days when I Love Lucy, Milton Berle, What's My Line? and the $64,000 Question were the big things on TV, nobody would have dreamed that the home screen would ever play host to a TV movie like "That Certain Summer."

It's a story of a homosexual. It proves, depending on your point of view, that television has either come of age or else gone to the dogs

Since it is all done with extreme good taste I think it represents a great stride forward The problem, of course, is that it might open the door to other things done with poor taste by the inevitable exploiters who will seize on the chance to make a cheap, sensational product.

That's in the future. The networks will have to guard against that development Meanwhile, "That Certain Summer" is her, a fait accompli

IT IS A SIMPLE story of a divorced father whose 14-year-old son comes to visit, finds his father (Hal Holbrook) with a male roommate (Martin Sheen) and eventually realizes that his old man is a homosexual Scott Jacoby plays the boy and Hope Lange is his mother

This story, in which the word "homosexual" is only spoken once, was written by Dick Levinson and Bill Link, who do the Columbo portions of NBC's Mystery Movie. They also wrote the TV film, "My Sweet Charlie," based on David Westheimer's novel about a black man and a white girl.

Levinson and Link say that NBC had misgivings about "My Sweet Charlie" originally After it was aired — and was a hit, winning many awards — they got a letter from an NBC vice-president. He said he was wrong and was apologizing

Nevertheless, when they approached the network with their idea for "That Certain Summer," they were turned down flat So they went to ABC with it and ABC said go It took them awhile to get down to work but once started they say it was the easiest script they've ever written

HOLBROOK SAYS the same thing applies to his playing of the leading role. It was hard to get started, to think of the approach to take to the character But once he began, he says, it has been easy He is playing the part straight, with no overt homosexual speech patterns or gestures

Holbrook says he knows many homosexuals and, with the majority of them, you can't tell from looking at them or talking to them that they are not perfectly normal men.

Even though the film treats its subject gingerly, everyone connected with the project is sure it will be controversial.

"There'll be a lot of flak, I'm sure," Levinson says "There are people to whom the mere mention of homosexuality is a red flag"

Holbrook believes it is a good thing for the public to get to know, via TV, a representative homosexual.

"It's like being in a movie company," he says "When I'm working in a company — such as this one — I get thrown in with all different kinds of people. People I'd never meet ordinarily But when you get to work with them for a few weeks, you realize they're like everybody else.

"I think that same thing applies to this movie — the public will get to see a homosexual, a person they'd never ordinarily see, and hopefully will realize he's a human being just as they are."

AFTER THIS Holbrook does a feature film and in August begins rehearsals for his fall opening on Broadway in Arthur Miller's new play, "The Creation of the World and Other Business." He'll play Lucifer in the play, which also has God and Adam and Eve as main characters.

He says the play has some great dialogues between God and Lucifer about good and evil. They may even discuss homosexuality

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Nanette Fabray is about 17 years older than Mary Tyler Moore, but will play Mary's mother on Miss Moore's series next season.

It wasn't an easy choice for Nanette

"At first I turned down the role," the comedienne said "I thought we weren't that far apart in age Mary called four times asking me to please accept the part

"We had some meetings with the producers and finally I agreed because I've been holding that sort of role in reserve for years Now I can do a take-off on my own mother — from memories that go back many years

"There was another reason. Most women have a terrible hangup about age and trying to keep up with youth. The mother character in the show has the same problem

"SHE KEEPS reminding people she was a child bride And I think it's time someone poked fun at this premise.

"Let's face it, I am what I am — 33 years old " Nanette laughed.

In that event, Mary Tyler Moore is a babe of 16

Nanette will make no effort to age herself physically by wearing special make-up spectacles or by putting a rackle in her voice

"I'll just look like myself," she said

"On the show Mary admits to being over 30 years old That means I can't be playing a youngster, of course But it's a cliche that all mothers must wear aprons and have gray hair

"As her mother, Dotty Richards, I'll be happy vital and think young The producers were worried about the age factor in the beginning"

AS THE WIFE of a retired doctor, Nanette's role will allow her to wear a chic wardrobe But there are outside complications

Nanette will head for Broadway later this summer to rehearse for a new show. Therefore it is necessary that the writers provide as many scripts as possible to include the new character while Nanette is available

Nanette has been a near regular on the Carol Burnett show for several years and isn't troubled by establishing herself in any particular image.

Miss Fabray may not portray ingenues, but her lively sense of humor and spirited outlook give the lie to her role as the mother of a 30-year-old daughter.

"I'm looking forward to it, nonetheless," Nanette concluded "She's a funny lady, and these are my favorite kind of people"

Northwest YMCA Reports On Its Swimming Activities

The Northwest Suburban Y in Des Plaines reports the synchronized swimming program is growing rapidly.

There are three levels in the youth synchronized swimming program. The first is a pre-synchronized swimming class geared for the child who has an interest and needs work on the three basic strokes and the building of endurance. This is an introductory course to synchronized swimming.

Another course is the synchronized swimming course for youth, and is involved with the learning and perfecting of beginner and intermediate skills and stunts The youths must be shark level or better, have basic water skills, and be able to swim 75 feet of front crawl, back crawl and breast stroke separately.

ANOTHER PHASE of synchronized swimming for youths is the AAU synchronized swim team offered at the Y. This is the competitive level. At this level they learn stunts and skills for competition and have an opportunity to compete in meets.

A competitive synchronized swim meet includes skills and stunts performed by each contestant plus a routine to music made up and performed by each competitor.

There is an adult coed synchronized swimming course which is also divided into three levels; beginner, intermediate and advanced. Out of the adult classes come three swim clubs; the mermaid mamas and neptune kings, and the mermaid maidens. These three clubs together with the youth synchronized group perform a show each year.

For the summer, the youth class is offered from 11 to 12 a.m. on Tuesday; adult coed on Tuesday from 9 to 10 p.m. and Thursday from 11 to 12 a.m. The competitive AAU class meets on Wednesday from 9 to 10 a.m. and Friday from 10 to 11 a.m.

How To Prevent Paint From Peeling

People have been known to change brands of paint every time they paint the house because the last paint peeled or blistered. Chances are that they don't have any better luck with a different brand.

Not that there isn't a difference in quality between brands of paint, but paint that peels generally does so because of improper preparation or because of some defect in the structure of the house.

Dirt and moisture are common enemies of a good paint job. Pores in the wood that are supposed to soak up paint are already filled with dirt and moisture. It's impossible for the paint to stick to such a surface, so it peels off

Peeling is different from flaking. When paint peels, the bare wood is left showing. Flaking occurs at the surface of the paint with some of it left behind on the wood.

WHEN PAINT peels it generally blisters first Hot sun causes moisture in the wall to vaporize It is drawn outward and pushes the paint ahead of it, causing it to swell

Blistering often means the paint was put on too soon after a rainfall Modern latex paints, however, can be applied to surfaces that are not bone dry. It's best to play safe and work on dry surfaces But blistering also can indicate the presence of dampness in the walls

This is generally the case when blisters occur around a window frame, in inside corners and just below the roof Water is generally entering from above and seeping down into the wall

Check for defective calking around door and window frames and in corners where surfaces meet Look for leaky gutters or stopped-up gutters that cause the water to back up onto the roof and then soak down into the wall

Repair all such defects before repainting

Defective paint should be scraped and sanded before new paint is applied Give the wall time to dry out once the repairs are made and the blistered paint removed

MAYBE THE CAUSE of the moisture isn't that obvious Is there moisture in the area behind the wall, moisture that isn't being properly vented? And is the wall on the inside in need of painting? When doors and windows are tightly closed and steam from cooking and washing builds up indoors it may in time push through the wall.

Flaking and peeling of the top layer can be caused by moisture but also is caused by applying paint to dirty or dusty surfaces.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Readers of Dumas will recall that D'Artagnan was the greatest swordsman in France. Readers of this column also know him as the best bridge player of the day Here we find him crossing swords at the bridge table with the wily Rochefort

D'Artagnan's jump to six no-trump was typical of his life style. Porthos, his partner in bridge and all other activities, was not much of a card player and D'Artagnan wanted to take full charge.

D'Artagnan won the opening lead and saw that his no-trump slam would make easily unless East held all four hearts. The safety play to guard against finding all four in Rochefort's hand (Rochefort was West) would be to play low from dummy after West followed with the eight, nine or 10, but the wily Rochefort played the queen.

D'Artagnan started to play dummy's ace and claim seven, but paused to reflect that Rochefort was not completely reliable in matters concerning queens. Then he let the queen hold the trick!

"I don't know why I play bridge with you," groaned Rochefort "I might have some chance with swords "

GENERAL INFORMATION:

The conservative German farming community of Schaumburg incorporated as a village in 1956, claimed 986 residents in 1960, and took only ten years to reach the 21,000 mark. Its current population of 25,155 residents marks an increase of nearly 135% in the last 2 years. There are still many farms, barns, and cornfields on the gentle hills in this dynamic suburb, but most of the open land is owned by developers and new construction is always apparent. (The village's projected population increase has been estimated at 60,000 by 1975!) Salt Creek and Poplar Creek wind through the area, and the DuPage River begins here. There are 2,400 zoned acres of industrial land in town and some 40 modern plants have already located in Schaumburg. Government is centered around several former farm buildings now used as a civic center, and a new municipal and public works building. Schaumburg is one of the Midwest's fastest growing communities offering spacious lots, planned residential neighborhoods, and housing of all types.

HOUSING:

Homes older than 9 years in Schaumburg are a rarity. Prices range from $30,000 to $80,000 with new homes starting at $33,500. Plans are for 20,000 apartment units, renting from $190 up (including some luxury units).

SCHOOLS:

There are 5 public elementary and 3 junior high schools and a new ultra-modern High School in the village. Pupil-teacher ratio is 25:1 and $576 is spent annually per pupil. One Lutheran elementary school serves the area.

CHURCHES:

Includes 4 Lutheran, 2 Baptist, 2 Methodist, and 1 Catholic congregation.

TRANSPORTATION:

Milwaukee Road trains stop in nearby Roselle (57 minute local to the Loop; 44 minute express). The Northwest Tollway runs through Schaumburg.

TOWN SHOPPING:

"Original Schaumburg" offers limited shopping; 5 other centers are located in the village, the largest of which is Woodfield Mall, one of America's most prominent indoor shopping complexes. The "downtown" area of Schaumburg at Roselle and Golf Roads offers many fine shops, stores, and services.

MEDICAL SERVICES:

A broad range of medical services is developing in Schaumburg with numerous medical centers open or under construction for doctors, dentists, and other medical specialists.

A hospital site has been designated in the central part of Schaumburg and hospital facilities are close by in neighboring communities.

RECREATION:

Schaumburg's Park District this year moved into a $250,000 recreation center in the Lancer Park subdivision, base of operation for its 22 parks. Two outdoor swimming pools are available to the community through the park district, which is also running its first summer camp this year in addition to a full scale recreational program.

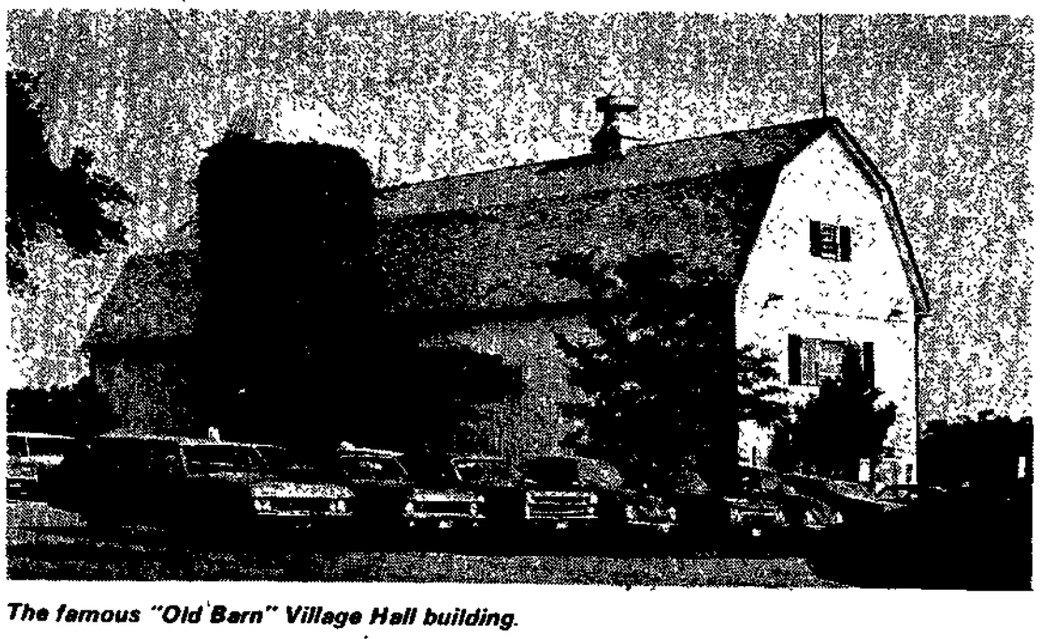
The village is also planning a 250 acre nature preserve along Salt Creek which runs through the eastern part of town. Schaumburg is surrounded by thousands of acres run by the Cook County Forest Preserve District. A public golf course is under construction by the district at Roselle and Central Roads, the privately owned Golden Acres Country Club and golf course is in Schaumburg, and there are numerous other courses a short drive from town. In addition, tennis courts, ball diamonds, and basketball facilities are available, as well as ice skating at 2 areas in season.

GOVERNMENT:

Schaumburg is planning for a population of more than 200,000, using an 11 volume master plan for its actions. Operations of government are handled by a full time Mayor and a Board of 6 trustees who are backed up by commissions for zoning, planning, and environment.

Full time police and fire protection are both under Village Board authority with police operations located in the complex of buildings now serving as a civic center. Ground is to be broken next month for the first building of a new civic and cultural center nearby. The village's first fire station is located in the residential center and a second station, recently opened near Woodfield, is to be dedicated Sunday.

Entrance to Woodfield Mall Shopping Center.



The famous "Old Barn" Village Hall building.

Full time police and fire protection are both under Village Board authority with police operations located in the complex of buildings now serving as a civic center. Ground is to be broken next month for the first building of a new civic and cultural center nearby. The village's first fire station is located in the residential center and a second station, recently opened near Woodfield, is to be dedicated Sunday.

Buying A Home? Tuck Heart Away And Follow Your Head

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) —Home buying for most families involves the emotions as well as the pocketbook. Nevertheless, it's an undertaking in which you'd best "put your heart on the shelf and let your head guide you."

This advice comes from the Family Banker, money management newsletter of the Continental Bank, Chicago.

Simple common sense, concern for detail, and some boning up beforehand are important ingredients in a successful house-hunting venture, the bank says.

It outlines some general pointers and, noting that many complicating details accompany the purchase of a home, strongly advises the use of professional help

If you have the slightest question of your ability to or understanding of the procedure of buying a home, the bank advises, "do additional research or consult a professional in the area about which you're concerned — before you set out on a house-hunting venture."

It recommends use of a qualified, reliable real estate broker who knows the area in which you are looking. Get the recommendations of friends or, if you are new to an area, your local bank may be able to suggest the names of several reputable firms.

It stresses, too, the importance of consulting an attorney familiar with real estate before you put anything in writing.

Some guidelines:

—Above all, avoid hasty decisions. Accept the fact — at the onset — that searching for and purchasing the right home will be a time consuming and sometimes exasperating process. Plan to investigate thoroughly neighborhoods, homes, and financial arrangements most suited to your needs. And don't be misguided by impulsiveness.

Determine your price range. While in the past, the rule of thumb indicated the price tag on your home should equal two and a half times your annual income, or monthly housing costs should not exceed one full week's take-home pay, the bank suggests instead a more personal guideline.

" . . . Determine exactly how much you can afford each month for all the expenses of home ownership: mortgage payments, insurance, taxes, electricity, heat, water, miscellaneous services, and maintenance. Be sure that you're also willing to pay that amount each month — that your housing investment won't infringe too heavily on your financial flexibility in other areas."

—Shop for the mortgage that best suits your needs. In addition to settling on the best interest rate, amount of down payment and term of loan, know the answers to questions like these:

What is the difference between FHA, VA and conventional loans?

Is there an escalation clause which would allow the lender the right to raise the interest rate at a later date?

Is there a prepayment clause which would allow prepayment of some or all of the loan before the scheduled time? If so, does it impose a penalty for such prepayment?

Are there other charges such as appraisal and closing costs?

Might it be possible to assume the seller's mortgage?

Have I agreed to a contract purchase, which would not give ownership in the house until the entire loan was paid? In such case, if a payment is missed, the person financing the house could take possession without foreclosure action.

—Settle on location. Long before you look at a home, you should investigate communities carefully with an eye to suitability for your family. Look for a neighborhood with a socio-economic standard similar to your own. Look into transportation, shopping and recreational facilities, schools, churches and special attractions. Search for a reasonable zoning ordinance which allows for some growth and is well enforced by the community.

—Maintain a checklist of things to observe in potential homes and keep a written record of the homes you visit which interest you.

—In looking over a home, don't be afraid to take your time. Ask questions freely, and expect direct answers from the real estate agent and the seller. It is not out of line to ask to see fuel receipts, to ask for the names of people who have serviced equipment and plumbing.

At the least, you should:

Note if there are water stains or dampness in corners of the basement. Either could be the tip-off to a seepage problem.

Check the electric service entrance to be sure wiring is adequate for your needs. Today, 100 amp service is minimum and this will rapidly become inadequate as more electronic products come into use.

Check water heater for size and telltale leaks at the bottom of the tank.

Turn on faucets in the kitchen and bathroom at the same time. Water pressure is adequate if you get a good flow from each.

Walk around outside and examine condition of roof, gutters, downspouts, drainage, siding, paint and caulking.

When you've decided on a home, if common sense and personal investigation don't tell you all you need to know about the soundness of a home, seek the advice of a professional — an engineer, or reliable builder or home inspection service.

Why Move Unless You Improve?

It's hard to believe, but almost 40 million people will be changing their address this year, according to the U.S Department of Commerce. This means one out of every five people.

If your family is among those planning to move, heed a few words of advice from the Chicagoland Better Heating-Cooling Council.

In most parts of the country, heating is needed at least eight months of the year. In some areas it is even more. Therefore, make sure your new home has a heating system to make your family most comfortable. The Council recommends hydronic (hot water) baseboard for heating and a separate overhead cooling system.

Some systems boast of a combination heating-cooling system. Because warmed air rises and cooled air falls, unless this system has separate outlets — those for heating near the floor and those for cooling near the ceiling — it is a bad compromise, the Council warns, and will give less than top performance.

If the outlets are near the ceiling, only your head will be warm in the winter. If they are near the floor, only your ankles will be cool in the summer.

If you are going to suffer the hot head-cold ankle syndrome, the sign of a sick comfort system, why move?

Tips On Heating

Since heat rises, the best place to install heating outlets is close to the floor on outside walls, especially under windows. According to the Chicagoland Better Heating-Cooling Council, this will create a curtain of warmth to act as a barrier against the cold outside air.

In hydronic systems, the Council points out, heated water is piped through small tubing to baseboard panels on outside walls resulting in greater comfort.

Buying A Home? Tuck Heart Away And Follow Your Head

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) —Home buying for most families involves the emotions as well as the pocketbook. Nevertheless, it's an undertaking in which you'd best "put your heart on the shelf and let your head guide you."

This advice comes from the Family Banker, money management newsletter of the Continental Bank, Chicago.

Simple common sense, concern for detail, and some boning up beforehand are important ingredients in a successful house-hunting venture, the bank says.

It outlines some general pointers and, noting that many complicating details accompany the purchase of a home, strongly advises the use of professional help.

If you have the slightest question of your ability to or understanding of the procedure of buying a home, the bank advises, "do additional research or consult a professional in the area about which you're concerned — before you set out on a house-hunting venture."

It recommends use of a qualified, reliable real estate broker who knows the area in which you are looking. Get the recommendations of friends or, if you are new to an area, your local bank may be able to suggest the names of several reputable firms.

It stresses, too, the importance of consulting an attorney familiar with real estate before you put anything in writing.

Some guidelines:

—Above all, avoid hasty decisions. Accept the fact — at the onset — that searching for and purchasing the right home will be a time consuming and sometimes exasperating process. Plan to investigate thoroughly neighborhoods, homes, and financial arrangements most suited to your needs. And don't be misguided by impulsiveness.

Determine your price range. While in the past, the rule of thumb indicated the price tag on your home should equal two and a half times your annual income, or monthly housing costs should not exceed one full week's take-home pay, the bank suggests instead a more personal guideline.

" . . . Determine exactly how much you can afford each month for all the expenses of home ownership: mortgage payments, insurance, taxes, electricity, heat, water, miscellaneous services, and maintenance. Be sure that you're also willing to pay that amount each month — that your housing investment won't infringe too heavily on your financial flexibility in other areas."

—Shop for the mortgage that best suits your needs. In addition to settling on the best interest rate, amount of down payment and term of loan, know the answers to questions like these:

What is the difference between FHA, VA and conventional loans?

Is there an escalation clause which would allow the lender the right to raise the interest rate at a later date?

Is there a prepayment clause which would allow prepayment of some or all of the loan before the scheduled time? If so, does it impose a penalty for such prepayment?

Are there other charges such as appraisal and closing costs?

Might it be possible to assume the seller's mortgage?

Have I agreed to a contract purchase, which would not give ownership in the house until the entire loan was paid? In such case, if a payment is missed, the person financing the house could take possession without foreclosure action.

—Settle on location. Long before you look at a home, you should investigate communities carefully with an eye to suitability for your family. Look for a neighborhood with a socio-economic standard similar to your own. Look into transportation, shopping and recreational facilities, schools, churches and special attractions. Search for a reasonable zoning ordinance which allows for some growth and is well enforced by the community.

—Maintain a checklist of things to observe in potential homes and keep a written record of the homes you visit which interest you.

—In looking over a home, don't be afraid to take your time. Ask questions freely, and expect direct answers from the real estate agent and the seller. It is not out of line to ask to see fuel receipts, to ask for the names of people who have serviced equipment and plumbing.

At the least, you should:

Note if there are water stains or dampness in corners of the basement. Either could be the tip-off to a seepage problem.

Check the electric service entrance to be sure wiring is adequate for your needs. Today, 100 amp service is minimum and this will rapidly become inadequate as more electronic products come into use.

Check water heater for size and telltale leaks at the bottom of the tank.

Turn on faucets in the kitchen and bathroom at the same time. Water pressure is adequate if you get a good flow from each.

Walk around outside and examine condition of roof, gutters, downspouts, drainage, siding, paint and caulking.

When you've decided on a home, if common sense and personal investigation don't tell you all you need to know about the soundness of a home, seek the advice of a professional — an engineer, or reliable builder or home inspection service.

Why Move Unless You Improve?

It's hard to believe, but almost 40 million people will be changing their address this year, according to the U.S Department of Commerce. This means one out of every five people.

If your family is among those planning to move, heed a few words of advice from the Chicagoland Better Heating-Cooling Council.

In most parts of the country, heating is needed at least eight months of the year. In some areas it is even more. Therefore, make sure your new home has a heating system to make your family most comfortable. The Council recommends hydronic (hot water) baseboard for heating and a separate overhead cooling system.

Some systems boast of a combination heating-cooling system. Because warmed air rises and cooled air falls, unless this system has separate outlets — those for heating near the floor and those for cooling near the ceiling — it is a bad compromise, the Council warns, and will give less than top performance.

If the outlets are near the ceiling, only your head will be warm in the winter. If they are near the floor, only your ankles will be cool in the summer.

If you are going to suffer the hot head-cold ankle syndrome, the sign of a sick comfort system, why move?

Tips On Heating

Since heat rises, the best place to install heating outlets is close to the floor on outside walls, especially under windows. According to the Chicagoland Better Heating-Cooling Council, this will create a curtain of warmth to act as a barrier against the cold outside air.

In hydronic systems, the Council points out, heated water is piped through small tubing to baseboard panels on outside walls resulting in greater comfort.

Schaumburg Twp. Realty Transfers Are Announced

County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen in the mid-summer Schaumburg township real estate transfer report listed the sales of 12 properties in Hanover Park, four in Roselle, and 161 in Schaumburg and the rest of the township.

The following property transfers for the township were recorded. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

The transfers are:

7811 Berkshire Ct., Hanover Pk. Geo. R. De Meyers to Frank Eremity $31; 1441 Hillcrest, Hanover Pk. Robert S. Bausch to Jas. R. Johannsen $33.50; 7962 Sherwood Circle, North, Hanover Pk. Horst M. Spaeth to Arthur E. Schimmelman $36.50; 7494 Churchill, Hanover Pk. Roger R. Christensen to Thaddeus W. Woods $32.50; 7016 Meadowbrook Lane, Hanover Pk. Robert C. Schaumburg Twp. Realty Transfers Are Announced

County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen in the mid-summer Schaumburg township real estate transfer report listed the sales of 12 properties in Hanover Park, four in Roselle, and 161 in Schaumburg and the rest of the township.

The following property transfers for the township were recorded. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

'Under 7' Rate Policy Continues

Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Association will extend its "under seven per cent" home mortgage policy through August, President Frank J. Kinst has announced.

Previous cut-off date for Lincoln's "maverick" 6.7 to 6.9 rate on home loans up to and including 80 per cent had been July 15. Kinst cautions that all funds must be disbursed by August 31.

Since announcing its inflation-challenging mortgage interest freeze in February, the $126 million Berwyn institution has made more than $20 million in new loans. This less-than-six-month-mortgage figure exceeds that of entire 1971, top annual lending period in Lincoln Federal's 56-year history.

The 6.7 to 6.9 per cent rate freeze was intended, originally, to apply only until April 30, but unfavorable weather, which delayed both construction and home purchase decisions, prompted extension to July 15. At the time, Kinst said home seekers should know where they stand on something as important as financing. He also reported success of Lincoln's time-saving one-and two-visit loans and 24-to 48-hour mortgage commitments.

Kinst attributes the Aug. 31 extension to a desire to serve the hundreds of families attempting to arrange home occupancy prior to the beginning of school.

Lincoln Federal will offer a one per cent service charge package on all home mortgages of up to and including 80 per cent of appraised value. Covered in the one per cent will be appraisal fees, credit report costs and loan process.

Hardboard Panel Design Process

A unique process is employed to assure the uniform design of prefinished hardboard wall panels.

For instance, to produce a walnut woodgrain design, as many as 150 walnut fliches are examined before the most attractive sections are chosen.

These sections are mounted on a 4-by 8-foot panel, photographed and etched on plates. Then they are printed on a special hardboard base panel.

Result is a uniform grain and color for all panels. The need to match panels is eliminated.

'Under 7' Rate Policy Continues

Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Association will extend its "under seven per cent" home mortgage policy through August, President Frank J. Kinst has announced.

Previous cut-off date for Lincoln's "maverick" 6.7 to 6.9 rate on home loans up to and including 80 per cent had been July 15. Kinst cautions that all funds must be disbursed by August 31.

Since announcing its inflation-challenging mortgage interest freeze in February, the $126 million Berwyn institution has made more than $20 million in new loans. This less-than-six-month-mortgage figure exceeds that of entire 1971, top annual lending period in Lincoln Federal's 56-year history.

The 6.7 to 6.9 per cent rate freeze was intended, originally, to apply only until April 30, but unfavorable weather, which delayed both construction and home purchase decisions, prompted extension to July 15. At the time, Kinst said home seekers should know where they stand on something as important as financing. He also reported success of Lincoln's time-saving one-and two-visit loans and 24-to 48-hour mortgage commitments.

Kinst attributes the Aug. 31 extension to a desire to serve the hundreds of families attempting to arrange home occupancy prior to the beginning of school.

Lincoln Federal will offer a one per cent service charge package on all home mortgages of up to and including 80 per cent of appraised value. Covered in the one per cent will be appraisal fees, credit report costs and loan process.

Hardboard Panel Design Process

A unique process is employed to assure the uniform design of prefinished hardboard wall panels.

For instance, to produce a walnut woodgrain design, as many as 150 walnut fliches are examined before the most attractive sections are chosen.

These sections are mounted on a 4-by 8-foot panel, photographed and etched on plates. Then they are printed on a special hardboard base panel.

Result is a uniform grain and color for all panels. The need to match panels is eliminated.

Think Twice When Starting That Dangerous Lawn Mower

Power mowers are dangerous. Nearly every suburbanite owns one; they are so common that they are taken for granted and the inherent danger largely forgotten. As a result, we hear more reports each year of injuries from these machines.

Although both reel and rotary mowers are dangerous, reel mowers are probably less hazardous than rotaries because the blades more more slowly and are not likely to pick up and throw stones, wire, or other debris. Also the blades are usually better protected so it is more difficult to get hands and feet into the cutting parts.

Mowers can be operated safely if some precautions are observed:

Always use a sharp mower. Sharp blades make a cleaner cut and the engine can be run at a slower speed and still cut nicely. Rotary mowers may need sharpening several times a season.

Walk over the entire lawn area and pick up stones, wire, sticks, toys, or other debris that could be picked up and thrown by the mower. Innocent bystanders can be hurt by flying debris.

Wear sturdy shoes. It is amazing how many times people mow barefoot with a speeding blade only inches from their toes. Do not allow young children to operate or play near running mowers.

Fill the gasoline tank outdoors and do not fill the tank if the engine is hot or running.

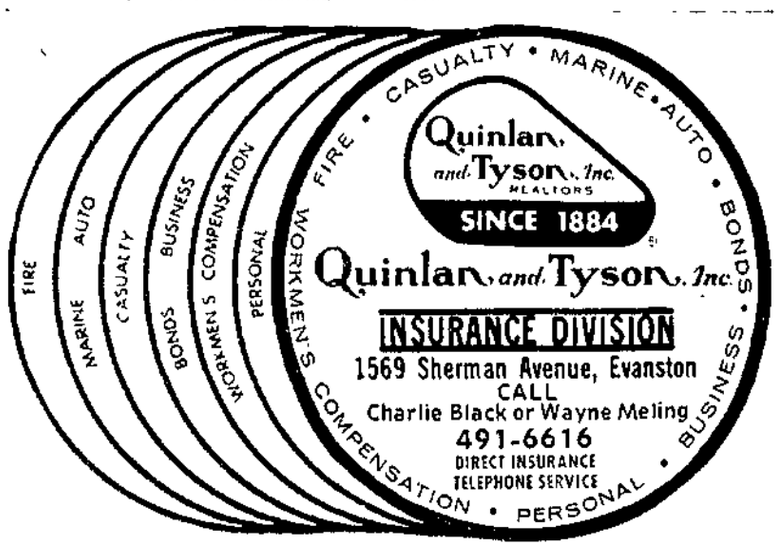
Start the mower carefully. Make sure the clutch is disengaged and feet and hands are clear of the blades. Stop the mower whenever it is unattended or someone approaches.

Run the mower only fast enough to do the job. Mowers are not built for speed. Speed only increases the danger of thrown debris or lost control.

Never adjust or clean out the mower until it has been stopped and the spark plug wire removed. Some rotary mowers can be started by turning the blades.

Finally, keep the mower clean and in good repair. Inspect it regularly and check the oil level before each use. Service the machine according to the manufacturers recommendations.

Used sensibly, these machines safely relieve us of backbreaking work. Improperly used they could cost a hand or a foot.



MAP Reports 6-Month Sales Record

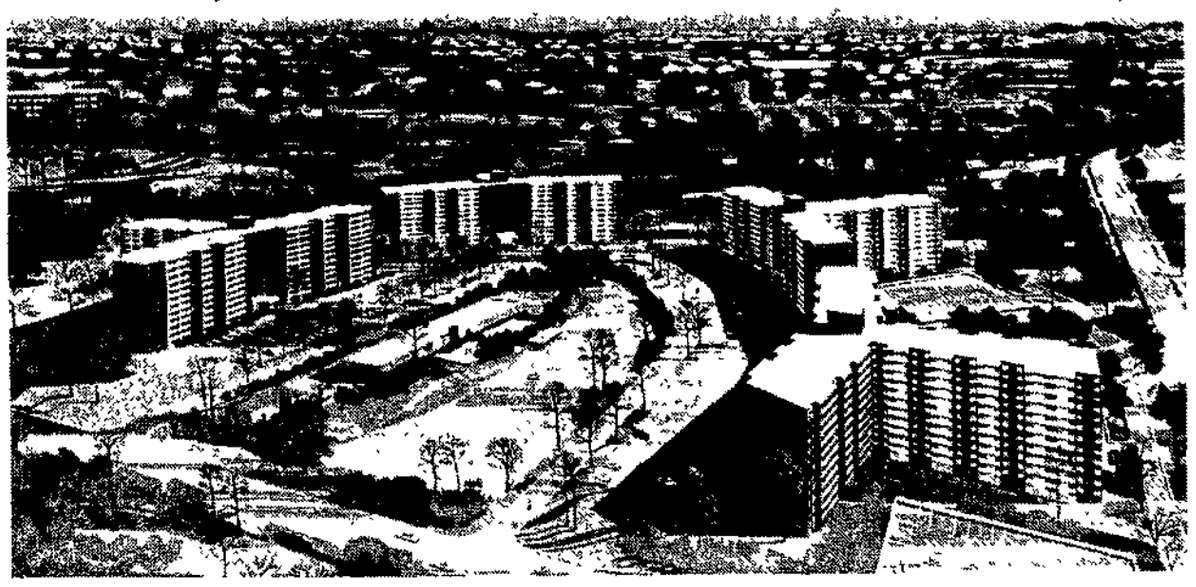
A record cooperative sales volume of $12,765,390 marked the highest June sales volume ever recorded for MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service. The sales volume record topped the 1971, June sales by slightly over $4,000,000.

The $12,765,390 June, 1972 sales volume is the result of 324 cooperative sales between participating MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate companies, and combined with the number of non-cooperative sales established an all-time high average home sale price of $39,275. For the first six months in 1972, MAP Multiple Listing offices have sales totaling $66,862 691 in cooperative sales, the result of 1,736 cooperative home sales, an all-time six-month record in the history of MAP Multiple Listing Service.

The sales figures were disclosed at a recent MAP Board of Directors meeting attended by the newly elected board and officers, presided by William Kleiner, president.

"The MAP sales figures reflect the continued interest in Northwest suburban real estate," says Kleiner. "All of our cooperating offices report continuing enthusiasm in home purchases with a definite increase in the transferee market. If we have any problem at all, it is the problem of maintaining a realistic sale price of the homes to be commensurate with the high cost of new home construction. We must be aware of our duty to get the seller the best price for the home but still attempt to keep the home priced competitively within the market."

MAP Real Estate Service has over 900 sales representatives representing more than 65 member offices serving the greater Northwest suburban area.



HILLCREST TOWERS is a new high-rise apartment complex soon to get under way in Schaumburg. The structure, described as a major residential project, is being constructed by American Housing Systems Corp., a Cleveland-based holding company. The development upon completion will consist of four 12-story apartment buildings of one, two and three-bedroom suites. The complex will be located on a 43-acre site on Roselle Road between Golf Road and the Northwest Tollway and will feature a three-acre pond and a commercial building.

High-Rise Complex For Schaumburg

A major residential building project in Schaumburg by American Housing Systems Corp., a Cleveland-based holding company, has been announced by Weisner Realty Inc. of Chicago.

Construction of the project, a high-rise apartment complex named Hillcrest Towers, is expected to get under way immediately.

Ronald Weisner, sole broker who represented both parties in the land transaction, said the apartment complex is a planned unit development consisting of four 12-story apartment buildings containing one, two and three-bedroom suites. The comples, set in a planned environment which will include a recreation center, a three-acre pond and a commercial building, will located on a 43-acre site on Roselle Road between Golf Road and the Northwest Tollway.

WEISNER SAID construction of the first phase of the project consisting of two of the apartment buildings and the recreation area, is slated to begin immediately. Phase one of the project is valued at $14 million. The first building is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy by spring 1973.

With completion of all four buildings, the complex will contain 1,428 units. The commercial center, which will contain a supermarket and other retail facilities, will occupy four acres, 30,000 square feet of which will be under roof.

The project is being built by Amcon Construction Corp., a subsidiary of American Housing Systems.

American Housing Systems is a holding company whose four subsidiaries are engaged in three basic areas: land acquisition and development, construction of underground utility and sewer systems and construction of residential and commercial buildings. Its four subsidiaries are Terracon Corp.; Insana Construction Co.; Horizon Homes Inc., and Amcon Construction Corp.

Think Twice When Starting That Dangerous Lawn Mower

Power mowers are dangerous. Nearly every suburbanite owns one; they are so common that they are taken for granted and the inherent danger largely forgotten. As a result, we hear more reports each year of injuries from these machines.

'Warmth And Practicality' Goals

Dramatizing the livability and the unusual design ideas at Fremont Junction in Hanover Park was the goal of interior designer Arlene Brumlik when she began the job of decorating the four Quad Plus model homes in the new development

"Our major ingredient in each instance was the home itself," explains Miss Brumlik. "Each has its own distinctive character."

McKeon Construction, builder of Fremont Junction, knew that their maintenance free Quad-Plus homes would appeal to a wide range of prospective new home buyers, including young couples and singles, so another guideline was to stay within a reasonable budget rather than presenting decorating ideas that only a few people could afford. After taking in the overall impression of the homes, visitors are often surprised to notice that the shag carpeting used is a standard feature, and that all of the drapery and spreads are ready-made, "because most of us just wouldn't pay $200 for a bedspread," says Miss Brumlik.

This is immediately noticeable in the Stanford Ranch. Here the enclosed garden patio opens directly into the L-shaped living and dining room, creating an exceptionally light, "open" feeling. This has been woven into an overall spring-like theme with a generous use of flowers and floral patterns, light colors and cheerful furniture styles. In one of the bedrooms, a king-size bed has been included to demonstrate the spaciousness of the room. Miss Brumlik notes that in many model homes, builders specify three-quarter size beds to make the rooms look bigger than they actually are.

THE HOPKINS is a two-story home furnished to provide decorating ideas for the more traditional-minded person or couple, and to emphasize the great amount of individuality possible. Soft colors have been used in the living room and dining room and in the first floor powder room, with a distinctive, yet subdued approach. But a few steps away, up the open stairway with its wrought-iron railing, the visitor sees a sharp contrast in the second bedroom, finished as an artist's studio. Here the colors are more contemporary, so the homeowner can enjoy a change of atmosphere without leaving his home. The same idea is applicable if the buyer prefers to utilize the second bedroom as a sewing room, reading or music room, hobby room or study. The kitchen in the Hopkins has a cozy atmosphere, aided by the traditional wood door to the patio. A big window area in the upper portion admits a generous portion of natural light, without sacrificing security. Natural sunlight is also provided on the stairway, with an outside window at the landing.

Bright and dramatic is how you might describe the impression made by the Huntington, another two-story. Miss Brumlik wanted a natural feeling private but hospitable. Some of the elements used to achieve this atmosphere were a real rock garden under the living room stairway and unique "archway" designs which seem to extend the green and white gingham draped windows. An unusual furnishing innovation is the coffee table covered in the same green and white gingham as the living room drapes. Occasional use of bamboo further accents the natural feeling. In this home, the second bedroom has become a "Preschool schoolroom," with primary colors throughout and a number of scholastic elements such as an actual classroom desk and bulletin board.

THE VERY NAME 'Penthouse Ranch" suggest something vibrant and active, and that describes The Crocker. Anyone who likes to entertain will be inspired by this extraordinarily roomy home, which seems always ready for a party. Bachelors, career women and sociable couples have found it particularly appealing. Here rich earth colors have been used throughout with some striking selections in furnishings, like the happy monkey figure balancing a sheet of glass and thus providing the coffee table. Wicker and wrought-iron bar chairs stand by the kitchen-to-living-room counter, and next to them, sliding glass doors to the private balcony invite guests to a moment of open air refreshment. If the gigantic living room, kitchen and balcony don't suffice for entertaining, there's always the den which has been utilized as an extension of the living area. Miss Brumlik notes that the Crocker was done contemporary but that the same entertainment-oriented approach could be used with a traditional theme. The decorator chandelier, a standard feature, is available in a choice of contemporary or traditional style.

'EVERYBODY HAS visited a model home and thought, Boy, their decorator really knocked himself out'' says the deeply suntanned, Miss Brumlik. I think it's a more sincere compliment if the visitor says, 'wouldn't it be fun to live here!' That's what we're proving in Fremont Junction.' Miss Brumlik owns and manages Interiors Et Cetera. She holds a degree from the University of Illinois and also attended Harrington Institute of Design.

Her handiwork and the new home designs which made McKeon Construction the nation's fifth largest residential builder can both be admired at Fremont Junction, ¼ mile east of Barrington Road on Lake Street in northwest suburban Hanover Park. Models are open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to dusk.

Sale-Leaseback Investigated

Despite many seemingly good reasons for entering into a real estate sale-lease back it is not axiomatic that all business and personal problems could (or should) be solved by the use of the sale leaseback device.

So advises Irving Korb, Oakland, Calif., in a revised edition of Real Estate Sale Leaseback — A Basic Analysis just published by the Society of Industrial Realtors.

Where appropriate however, and if judiciously implemented, the sale leaseback is a business tool which carries many benefits. If employed, the effects of a sale leaseback on the seller-lessee are far-reaching and, in many cases, of considerable magnitude, said Korb.

The new booklet analyzes the pros and cons of sale leaseback, which Korb defines as "the sale of a parcel of real estate (either land or buildings, or both) by its owner-user who, simultaneously with the sale, enters into a lease (with the buyer) for the seller's continuing use of the property just sold."

It discusses in detail advantages and disadvantages of the sale-leaseback to both the owner-user and the buyer-lessor.

The revised edition contains an addendum on apartment investment application, and an extensive bibliography on real estate sale leaseback.

AMONG THE exhibits are estimated projection worksheets, tables for real estate appraising and financing, a discussion outline for accounting for leases in financial statements of lessees, proposed changes in accounting of lessees and lessors, a form purchase agreement, a form indenture of lease for sale leaseback situation, computer printouts, ownership vs. tenancy and cost of living adjustment discussions.

The new booklet is a completely updated version of a work originally published in 1966 by the Society — a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The exhibits in the revised edition did not appear in the original publication.

Copies of the revised edition are available at $6.50 each from the Society of Industrial Realtors, 1300 Connecticut Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Other Heating Uses

Many homeowners are learning that they can use their hydronic (modern hot water) home heating systems for other comforts, notes the Chicagoland Better Heating-Cooling Council. Some use it to melt snow automatically from their driveways, others heat backyard swimming pools, greenhouses, add-on rooms and attached garages.

'Warmth And Practicality' Goals

Dramatizing the livability and the unusual design ideas at Fremont Junction in Hanover Park was the goal of interior designer Arlene Brumlik when she began the job of decorating the four Quad-Plus model homes in the new development.

"Our major ingredient in each instance was the home itself," explains Miss Brumlik. "Each has its own distinctive character."

McKeon Construction, builder of Fremont Junction, knew that their maintenance-free Quad-Plus homes would appeal to a wide range of prospective new home buyers, including young couples and singles, so another guideline was to stay within a reasonable budget rather than presenting decorating ideas that only a few people could afford. After taking in the overall impression of the homes, visitors are often surprised to notice that the shag carpeting used is a standard feature, and that all of the drapery and spreads are ready-made, "because most of us just wouldn't pay $200 for a bedspread," says Miss Brumlik.

This is immediately noticeable in the Stanford Ranch. Here the enclosed garden patio opens directly into the L-shaped living and dining room, creating an exceptionally light, "open" feeling. This has been woven into an overall spring-like theme with a generous use of flowers and floral patterns, light colors and cheerful furniture styles. In one of the bedrooms, a king-size bed has been included to demonstrate the spaciousness of the room. Miss Brumlik notes that in many model homes, builders specify three-quarter size beds to make the rooms look bigger than they actually are.

THE HOPKINS is a two-story home furnished to provide decorating ideas for the more traditional-minded person or couple, and to emphasize the great amount of individuality possible. Soft colors have been used in the living room and dining room and in the first floor powder room, with a distinctive, yet subdued approach. But a few steps away, up the open stairway with its wrought-iron railing, the visitor sees a sharp contrast in the second bedroom, finished as an artist's studio. Here the colors are more contemporary, so the homeowner can enjoy a change of atmosphere without leaving his home. The same idea is applicable if the buyer prefers to utilize the second bedroom as a sewing room, reading or music room, hobby room or study. The kitchen in the Hopkins has a cozy atmosphere, aided by the traditional wood door to the patio. A big window area in the upper portion admits a generous portion of natural light, without sacrificing security. Natural sunlight is also provided on the stairway, with an outside window at the landing.

Bright and dramatic is how you might describe the impression made by the Huntington, another two-story. Miss Brumlik wanted a natural feeling, private but hospitable. Some of the elements used to achieve this atmosphere were a real rock garden under the living room stairway and unique "archway" designs which seem to extend the green and white gingham draped windows. An unusual furnishing innovation is the coffee table, covered in the same green and white gingham as the living room drapes. Occasional use of bamboo further accents the natural feeling. In this home, the second bedroom has become a "Preschool schoolroom," with primary colors throughout and a number of scholastic elements such as an actual classroom desk and bulletin board.

THE VERY NAME "Penthouse Ranch" suggest something vibrant and active, and that describes The Crocker. Anyone who likes to entertain will be inspired by this extraordinarily roomy home, which seems always ready for a party. Bachelors, career women and sociable couples have found it particularly appealing. Here rich earth colors have been used throughout with some striking selections in furnishings, like the happy monkey figure balancing a sheet of glass and thus providing the coffee table. Wicker and wrought-iron bar chairs stand by the kitchen-to-living-room counter, and next to them, sliding glass doors to the private balcony invite guests to a moment of open air refreshment. If the gigantic living room, kitchen and balcony don't suffice for entertaining, there's always the den which has been utilized as an extension of the living area. Miss Brumlik notes that the Crocker was done contemporary, but that the same entertainment-oriented approach could be used with a traditional theme. The decorator chandelier, a standard feature, is available in a choice of contemporary or traditional style.

"EVERYBODY HAS visited a model home and thought, 'Boy, their decorator really knocked himself out,' " says the deeply suntanned, Miss Brumlik. "I think it's a more sincere compliment if the visitor says, 'wouldn't it be fun to live here!' That's what we're proving in Fremont Junction." Miss Brumlik owns and manages Interiors Et Cetera. She holds a degree from the University of Illinois and also attended Harrington Institute of Design.

Her handiwork and the new home designs which made McKeon Construction the nation's fifth largest residential builder can both be admired at Fremont Junction, ¼ mile east of Barrington Road on Lake Street in northwest suburban Hanover Park. Models are open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to dusk.

Sale-Leaseback Investigated

Despite many seemingly good reasons for entering into a real estate sale-leaseback, it is not axiomatic that all business and personal problems could (or should) be solved by the use of the sale-leaseback device.

So advises Irving Korb, Oakland, Calif., in a revised edition of Real Estate Sale-Leaseback — A Basic Analysis, just published by the Society of Industrial Realtors.

"Where appropriate, however, and if judiciously implemented, the sale-leaseback is a business tool which carries many benefits. If employed, the effects of a sale-leaseback on the seller-lessee are far-reaching and, in many cases, of considerable magnitude," said Korb.

The new booklet analyzes the pros and cons of sale-leaseback, which Korb defines as "the sale of a parcel of real estate (either land, or buildings, or both) by its owner-user who, simultaneoulsy with the sale, enters into a lease (with the buyer) for the seller's continuing use of the property just sold."

It discusses in detail advantages and disadvantages of the sale-leaseback to both the owner-user and the buyer-lessor.

The revised edition contains an addendum on apartment investment application, and an extensive bibliography on real estate sale-leaseback.

AMONG THE exhibits are: estimated projection worksheets; tables for real estate appraising and financing; a discussion outline for accounting for leases in financial statements of lessees; proposed changes in accounting of lessees and lessors; a form purchase agreement; a form indenture of lease for sale-leaseback situation; computer printouts; ownership vs. tenancy, and cost of living adjustment discussions.

The new booklet is a completely updated version of a work originally published in 1966 by the Society — a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The exhibits in the revised edition did not appear in the original publication.

Copies of the revised edition are available at $6.50 each from the Society of Industrial Realtors, 1300 Connecticut Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Other Heating Uses

Many homeowners are learning that they can use their hydronic (modern hot water) home heating systems for other comforts, notes the Chicagoland Better Heating-Cooling Council. Some use it to melt snow automatically from their driveways, others heat backyard swimming pools, greenhouses, add-on rooms and attached garages.

New Managers At Gladstone

Robert A. Poltzer has been promoted to general manger of Gladstone, Realtors and Stuart Edinoff has been named to replace him as sales manager in Goadstone's Des Plaines office, 1255 Lee St.

In addition to the Des Plaines office, the firm is located in Franklin Park, Villa Park, Mount Prospect, and Elk Grove Village, where the industrial/investment division shares a building with the residential division.

Poltzer, a four year Gladstone veteran, will remain headquartered in Des Plaines. He is a graduate of DeVry Technical Institute and for eight years owned and directed the Inland Technical Training Institute in Chicago before entering the real estate field. In addition to his duties at Gladstone, he teaches a monthly computer training course for the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors and is president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, the largest homeowners' association in unincorporated Cook County.

Poltzer and his wife Laurette and their five children live at 109 North Pky., Prospect Heights.

Edinoff was formerly sales coordinator for the Des Plaines office. He is a native of New York and a graduate of New York University, where he majored in business administration. A member of the board of directors of the Des Plaines Jaycees, he has been with Gladstone for the last two years.

Edinoff and his wife Lynn live at 1267 Earl Ave., Des Plaines.

Land-Use Planning Is Essential

Comprehensive land-use planning is essential if new home developers are to provide adequate metropolitan-area housing while preserving a pleasant environment, according to Harry Wogman.

Wogman, active in sales of multi-family housing for the past 16 years, is vice president-marketing of I. Simon and Son, Inc. His firm recently was awarded first-place honors by the Home Builders Assoc. of Chicago for excellent land-use in one of its developments The Portals at 415 Grant Place, Lincoln Park.

"Scarcity of land available for housing development near major cities, resulting higher land prices, and rising construction costs have put traditional, quality detached houses beyond the economic reach of many persons with moderate incomes," Wogman said. "In addition, changing lifestyles, with families' seeking maintenance-free living, have turned people's thoughts toward cluster homes with large green areas or condominium apartments."

Innovative zoning practices and in-depth land-use planning by new home developers are needed to supply the growing market for multi-family housing without destroying the suburbs as pleasant places in which to live, Wogman added.

"Zoning to allow planned unit developments will result in more appealing land use than the typical grid pattern for townhouses or apartments, or small building lots for detached family housing," Wogman said. He cited Atrium, the first planned unit development in west-suburban Elmhurst, as an example of the PUD approach.

"By clustering townhomes around landscaped quarter-acre courtyards, and locating the six-story apartment buildings in one corner of the 27½-acre site, we will provide broad, intervening green areas," Wogman said.

"The result will be an outdoors-oriented but maintenance-free lifestyle, centered around a contemporary clubhouse with indoor and outdoor heated swimming pools and other recreational facilities," he added. "This would be impossible in a typical grid arrangement in which a developer merely conforms to multi-family zoning regulations.

Besides esthetics, developing a PUD can have practical advantages. A portion of a tract that might make construction difficult because of topography or subsoil conditions can be an asset for a green area of recreation, for example.

Provided the proper zoning, a developer should view each parcel of land as a unique opportunity to provide the best possible housing," Wogman said. "The land's own characteristics, and its relationship with the surrounding community should be studied. The effects of residential density on tax base, schools, traffic flow and community facilities should be determined.

"With all the facts in hand, and market potential evaluated, the expertise of a land-use planner should be coordinated with that of building and landscape architects. The finished product should be a development that will provide comfortable lifestyle for owners at the same time that their investments appreciate, be an attractive and economic addition to a community, and be a profitable venture for the builders."

Home Building Boom Set For Small Cities

Home building rates will be at record highs in practically every part of the country in the second half of 1972 but, interestingly enough, it will not be the burgeoning metropolitan centers that are grabbing up all of the news headlines.

"Builders in smaller cities — the rural-suburban towns — they are the ones who will be going full blast," said Jackson W. Goss, president of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston, who adds that "the blistering pace of the home building industry signals another record-breaking year in the making."

Investors Mortgage, a subsidiary of Continental Investment Corp., Boston, is a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry. The company works with lenders, such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and commercial banks, by insuring the top 20-25 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

"THE HOTTEST 10 housing markets for the second half of this year will be Mobile, Ala.; San Antonio, Tex.; Charleston, W. Va.; Newport News, Va.; Lincoln, Neb.; Eugene, Ore.; Columbia, S. C.; Kalamazoo, Mich.; the Washington, D.C.-Maryland-Northern Virginia area; and Flint, Mich.

"These areas started the year with a tremendous backlog of demand — and builders are now pressing to meet these demands — plus new orders that continue to flow in," Goss said.

Strong gains are expected in all of the "hot" markets — housing will be up about 21 per cent for the year in Mobile. Elsewhere, San Antonio will be up 19 per cent; Charleston, 17 per cent; Newport News, 15 per cent; Lincoln, 14 per cent; 13 per cent in Eugene, Columbia and Kalamazoo; 12 per cent in the Washington, D. C. metropolitan area; and about 10 per cent in Flint, he observes.

In the Southeast, building rates have leveled off. Even so, Goss notes, single-family starts in that region will run about 5 per cent ahead of last year's rates.

"With warmer weather, builders in the Northeast and North Central sections will now begin to pick up the pace — and maintain it during the rest of 1972. Single-family home starts will be up about 4 per cent this year in the Northeast — and about 2 per cent in the North Central region," he said.

IMPROVING EC OMIC conditions in the Northwest are helping to brighten the housing picture there. An increase of about 2 per cent in single3family homes is anticipated for 1972.

Goss adds that townhouse and condominium demand and construction rates will continue to go up rapidly. An expected 168,000 townhouse and condominium starts this year will account for about 14 per cent of total 1972 housing production.

"Builders show no signs of letting up in their efforts — or slowing down the pace set in the first half of the year.

"There is a strong, stable supply of mortgage money, attractive interest rates, new home financing programs, and an ever burgeoning reservoir of home buyers. Add up all of these ingredients — and you have another record year for housing practically assured," Goss said.

Nebel Honored By State Farm

Harold Nebel, local agent for the State Farm Insurance Companies, was recently honored at a luncheon to commemorate his 25th anniversary with State Farm.

Harold Nebel

Nebel has been a leading agent with the company, especially in the field of fire insurance. He was recently selected to participate in an agent's panel film pertaining to Homeowners Insurance. He has been a member of the Society of Profitable Quality Agents within the company since its inception and is a life member of the State Farm's President's Club.

He is also very active in the community, currently serving as first vice president of the Rotary Club and Sgt. of the VFW Rifle Squad. He has also held various positions in St. Peter Lutheran Church.

For over 20 years, the location of Harolf Nebel's office has been at 212 E. Northwest Hwy. in Arlington Heights.

6 Winners Named In July 4 Gallery Of Homes Contest

W. Richard Impey, president of the Arlington Heights Gallery of Homes, has announced the winners of the "July 4th Coloring Contest" conducted by his real estate office for local children during June and early July.

First and second prizes of $50 and $25 U. S. Savings Bonds were awarded in each of three age groups. Top prize in the seven and under group went to Elizabeth Kunze, 7, of 530 S. Newbury Pl., Arlington Heights. B. J. Wirka, 9, of 617 S. Arlington Heights Rd., took first prize in the 8 and 9 group. Pattie Deger, 10, of 220 S. Ridge, Arlington Heights, won top honors in the 10 and 11 age group.

Runner-up prizes in the three groups were won by Mary Drolet, 6, of 709 W. Rockwell; Maryanne Kraft, 9, of 625 S. Kaspar; and Anne Lewis, 11, of 609 ww. Rockwell, all in Arlington Heights.

Entrants in the contest were required to color all 14 pages of a cartoon booklet supplied by the Gallery of Homes office.

Credit was given for neatness, appropriateness of color choices, and overall skill exhibited in the coloring assignment. Each child entering the contest received a free parchment reprint of the original Declaration of Independence suitable for framing.

"This is the first time we have sponsored an event of this type," Impey said, "and we were absolutely delighted at the response. All of the children were very enthusiastic about the contest, and I must say I was impressed by the surprising skill and patience shown by the prize-winners."

Impey also indicated his pleasure at the cooperation of the four persons, all with extensive art backgrounds, who volunteered to judge the entries. Two of the judges, Sean and Millie O'Kelly, are proprietors of O'Kelly's Gallery of Fine Art and Antiques in Long Grove.

Shirley Pizzato, a third judge, has been a collector of fine art for more than ten years, and she and her husband, Bruno, have displayed in their Arlington Heights home an impressive assortment of paintings, drawings and other works of art gathered both here and in their many trips abroad.

The fourth judge, Guy Marsh, who resides in Mount Prospect, is director of advertising and sales promotion for a major Chicago publisher. A one-time student at the Washington University Fine Arts School in St. Louis, and a commercial artist before he turned to the advertising and promotion field, Marsh has a broad background in illustration and design.

Cite Niles Dumke For Performance

Niles C. Dumke, a member of the sales staff of Kole Real Estate, Ltd. Mount Prospect office, has been cited for outstanding performance during the month of June. This is in recognition of completion of eight transactions resulting in a volume of well over $300,000 for the month.

Niles Dumke

Prior to his association with Kole, Dumke was in the construction field for 15 years, and a licensed real estate salesman for two years while building and selling homes of his own.

Dumke, his wife, Elizabeth and their three children live in Rolling Meadows on Bluebird Lane in a home they purchased from Robert Kole eight years ago. He is a former precinct captain and candidate for alderman in Rolling Meadows.

Mrs. Bandemer Joins Rich Port

Charlotte Bandemer has joined Rich Port, Realtor as a sales associate in the Schaumburg office. The announcement was made by Bert Carlson, sales manager of the Schaumburg, Rich Port, Realtor office.

Prior to joining the firm, Mrs. Bandemer was associated with the Hoffman Estates News Agency, and previous to that served another local real estate firm.

Mrs. Bandemer attended Harper College in Palatine. She is a Brownie Scout leader, and attendance and publicity chairman for St. Peter's Lutheran School in Schaumburg. Born in Chicago and raised in Mount Prospect, Mrs. Bandemer, with her husband, Gerald, and two children, reside in Schaumburg.

The Schaumburg, Rich Port, Realtor office is located at 8 N. Roselle Rd., and is one of five Rich Port facilities in the northwest suburbs specializing in residential, commercial and investment real estate.

Home Remodeling Hints Available

Are you planning any home remodeling projects this year? If so, the National Better Heating-Cooling Council has a few tips on heating and cooling.

The council, a non-profit organization, is making available a 16-page, 4-color booklet offering remodeling hints.

The booklet, "Remodeling Your Home With Hydronics," explains why hydronics is especailly suitable for modernization with older houes. It illustrates how finger-size tubing can be easily snaked through wall spaces or old ducts and pipes for a neat, completely concealed installation.

Various heating options such as automatic snow melting, swimming pool heating and zone control are also discussed. Also illustrated are a variety of methods for summer air conditioning.

To get this booklet, send 25 cents to cover postage and handling to Remodeling Book, National Better Heating-Cooling Council, 35 Russo Pl., Berkeley Heights, N.J. 07922.

Plan Your Home's Lighting

Planned lighting can be one of the most effective decorating tools the homemaker can use.

New fixtures arranged according to a planned design will do as much as carpeting, wall colors, furnishings and accessories to create an attractive and welcoming atmosphere, explains the American Home Lighting Institute (AHLI).

Poor lighting causes colors, textures, and furniture settings to pale into drabness. Good lighting, on the other hand, dramatizes the visual beauties of any room.

In selecting fixtures, consider lighting for the desired effect in different rooms. Will the living room be used for convivial parties or quiet relaxing? Should the family room have well-lit and attractive study areas for school-age children? Is the dining room the gathering place for family friends, and much entertaining?

GUIDANCE IN meeting these needs for individual interiors is available from the consultants of AHLI "Light for Living Centers," recognized by the American Home Lighting Institute for quality lighting services.

Lighting falls into three categories — general, accent and task lighting.

General illumination must be potentially strong, but may use built-in dimmers for altering atmosphere. This is created by chandeliers or other ceiling-suspended fixtures, as well as recessed lighting.

Accent lighting is used to emphasize certain areas, such as a handsome fireplace setting or a wall or paintings. This is done with bullet or beam spotlights focused directly on the arrangement.

Task lighting is for work areas, such as kitchen stoves, counter tops, and study areas. This concentrated illumination is provided from wall-mounted or recessed fixtures.

TYPICAL OF available choices, a provincial entry hall may be enhanced by gleaming brass wall lanterns, or a colonial "gaslit" fixture. Or an elegantly serene dining room may be dramatized by the flash of shimmering Strass crystals. Or a contemporary living room, bold with color and pattern, will further brighten with the airy lightness of a sculptured "bare-bulb" chandelier.

Apartment dwellers and home owners with smaller rooms will find popular designs in scaled-down models which provide as much light as a standard 5-light chandelier. Many styles range from 1 to 3-light wall lanterns or sconces to 5-, 10-, 15-or 35-light chandeliers.

Throughout the home, as redecorating is planned, consider the lighting before you undertake decorative or structural changes. With properly placed and decorative new fixtures, you can bring visual excitement to any area of the home — at a cost compatible with today's tighter budgets.

Mount Prospect Residents Invited To Attend Picnic

Every family in Mount Prospect is invited to attend Mount Prospect days, July 22 and 23, at Lake Carroll, Shannon, Ill. It will include a picnic lunch of country fried chicken, outdoor games, wagon rides for children and other entertainment. Lake Carroll is a recreational second home community being built 26 miles southwest of Freeport.

Route to resort area is Illinois tollway to Rockford, U.S. 20 west to Freeport. Route 26 to 72, 72 to 73. The entrance to Lake Carroll is off route 73, one mile from Route 72.

IDI Locates In Wilmette

An announcement of note to local investors involves the location of the corporate headquarters of International Diversified Investments, Inc., (IDI) in Wilmette. Offices are located in Edens Executive Center, 3201 Old Glenview Rd., in an area close to the Old Orchard shopping center.

I.D.I. specializes in acquiring, developing and managing large, high quality income-producing properties. According to chairman of the board, Donald Rosenbloom, the firm's participation in income producing real estate commences with the medium-sized apartment complex, includes larger and more sohisticated developments, high rise office buildings and shopping centers — and extends into completely self-contained communities.

I.D.I.'s stated objective is "to bring within the reach of every serious investor such benefits as safe, high returns coupled with capital gain and tax shelter advantages."

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE

RECORD SALES MONTH FOR MAP

A record cooperative sales volume of $12,187,100 marked the highest May sales volume ever recorded for MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service. The sales volume record topped the 1971 May sales by slightly over $4,000,000.

The $12,187,100 May 1972 sales volume is the result of 314 cooperative sales between participating MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate companies, and combined with the number of non-cooperative sales established an all time high average home sale price of $38,291. Thus far in 1972, MAP Multiple Listing offices have sales totaling $54,097,301 in cooperative sales, the result of 1,412 cooperative home sales.

The May sales figures were disclosed at a MAP Officers and Directors meeting where a main topic of discussion was the outlook for Real Estate sales in the coming year and the requirements needed to answer the growing changes in customer home buying habits.

"We are unanimous in our feeling that the last half of 1972 will produce another outstanding year in area Real Estate Sales," says Bill Nieman, current MAP President. "The MAP officers and directors base their outlook on the general atmosphere of buying and listing enthusiasm that is obvious in the market. We see no major fluctuation in the all important mortgage money situation and we all see continued substantiation in the fact that the Northwest Suburban Chicago area is certainly still one of America's most desirable living areas."

Plan Your Home's Lighting

Plannd lighting can be one of the most effective decorating tools the homemaker can use.

New fixtures arranged according to a planned design will do as much as carpeting, wall colors, furnishings and accessories to create an attractive and welcoming atmosphere, explains the American Home Lighting Institute (AHLI).

Poor lighting causes colors, textures, and furniture settings to pale into drabness. Good lighting, on the other hand, dramatizes the visual beauties of any room.

In selecting fixtures, consider lighting for the desired effect in different rooms. Will the living room be used for convivial parties or quiet relaxing? Should the family room have well-lit and attractive study areas for school-age children? Is the dining room the gathering place for family friends, and much entertaining?

GUIDANCE IN meeting these needs for individual interiors is available from the consultants of AHLI "Light for Living Centers," recognized by the American Home Lighting Institute for quality lighting services.

Lighting falls into three categories — general, accent and task lighting.

General illumination must be potentially strong, but may use built-in dimmers for altering atmosphere. This is created by chandeliers or other ceiling-suspended fixtures, as well as recessed lighting.

Accent lighting is used to emphasize certain areas, such as a handsome fireplace setting or a wall or paintings. This is done with bullet or beam spotlights focused directly on the arrangement.

Task lighting is for work areas, such as kitchen stoves, counter tops, and study areas. This concentrated illumination is provided from wall-mounted or recessed fixtures.

TYPICAL OF available choices, a provincial entry hall may be enhanced by gleaming brass wall lanterns, or a colonial "gaslit" fixture. Or an elegantly serene dining room may be dramatized by the flash of shimmering Strass crystals. Or a contemporary living room, bold with color and pattern, will further brighten with the airy lightness of a sculptured "bare-bulb" chandelier.

Apartment dwellers and home owners with smaller rooms will find popular designs in scaled-down models which provide as much light as a standard 5-light chandelier. Many styles range from 1 to 3-light wall lanterns or sconces to 5-, 10-, 15-or 35-light chandeliers.

Throughout the home, as redecorating is planned, consider the lighting before you undertake decorative or structural changes. With properly placed and decorative new fixtures, you can bring visual excitement to any area of the home — at a cost compatible with today's tighter budgets.

Mount Prospect Residents Invited To Attend Picnic

Every family in Mount Prospect is invited to attend Mount Prospect days, July 22 and 23, at Lake Carroll, Shannon, Ill. It will include a picnic lunch of country fried chicken, outdoor games, wagon rides for children and other entertainment. Lake Carroll is a recreational second home community being built 26 miles southwest of Freeport.

Route to resort area is Illinois tollway to Rockford, U.S. 20 west to Freeport, Route 26 to 72, 72 to 73. The entrance to Lake Carroll is off route 73, one mile from Route 72.

IDI Locates In Wilmette

An announcement of note to local investors involves the location of the corporate headquarters of International Diversified Investments, Inc., (IDI) in Wilmette. Offices are located in Edens Executive Center, 3201 Old Glenview Rd., in an area close to the Old Orchard shopping center.

I.D.I. specializes in acquiring, developing and managing large, high quality income-producing properties. According to chairman of the board, Donald Rosenbloom, the firm's participation in income producing real estate commences with the medium-sized apartment complex, includes larger and more sohisticated developments, high rise office buildings and shopping centers — and extends into completely self-contained communities.

I.D.I.'s stated objective is "to bring within the reach of every serious investor such benefits as safe, high returns coupled with capital gain and tax shelter advantages."

A record cooperative sales volume of $12,187,100 marked the highest May sales volume ever recorded for MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service. The sales volume record topped the 1971 May sales by slightly over $4,000,000.

The $12,187,100 May 1972 sales volume is the result of 314 cooperative sales between participating MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate companies, and combined with the number of non-cooperative sales established an all time high average home sale price of $38,291. Thus far in 1972, MAP Multiple Listing offices have sales totaling $54,097,301 in cooperative sales, the result of 1,412 cooperative home sales.

The May sales figures were disclosed at a MAP Officers and Directors meeting where a main topic of discussion was the outlook for Real Estate sales in the coming year and the requirements needed to answer the growing changes in customer home buying habits.

"We are unanimous in our feeling that the last half of 1972 will produce another outstanding year in area Real Estate Sales," says Bill Nieman, current MAP President. "The MAP officers and directors base their outlook on the general atmosphere of buying and listing enthusiasm that is obvious in the market. We see no major fluctuation in the all important mortgage money situation and we all see continued substantiation in the fact that the Northwest Suburban Chicago area is certainly still one of America's most desirable living areas."

Owner's Association Can Make Or Break Condos

Condominium ownership can be a satisfying way of life, if everything goes right. But it can be utterly frustrating if the people who live in the condominium building make a shambles of the owners' association that's responsible for running the property.

In fact, many people who buy condominiums don't even realize they must become part of an owners' association and abide by its rules until they're presented with the final papers at the closing.

"This is an aspect of condominium living that isn't often talked about when the developer is trying to sell you a condominium," according to William D. Sally, vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc., and general manager of the firm's property management division.

Even if the developer does the maximum to get the condominium off on the right foot, once the building is completely sold out, it's up to the owners to keep it running. And that's where the trouble can start, Sally said.

Here's the story:

A condominium building really is made up of two parts: the apartments themselves, which are individually owned by the residents, and the common elements, which include the grounds, lobby, elevators, halls, stairways, etc.

Each owner of an apartment also owns a percentage of these common elements. Along with the ownership of the common elements goes a proportionate responsibility to pay for the upkeep and maintenance of these items and the building.

For instance, there are the costs of heat and water. There are the costs of electricity to operate elevators and lights in the lobby and parking areas. The janitor and doorman must be hired and paid. There are taxes and insurance on the common elements. A reserve should be set up for replacement of equipment and repairs.

All of these mean the condominium owner gets an assessment each month in addition to paying for his mortgage, taxes, and insurance on his own apartment.

"If paying for the common elements were all there was to it, the problem would be simple," Sally said. "However, certain policy decisions have to be made, and the building has to be managed. That's where the owners' association comes in."

This association is responsible for all policy decisions relating to the building. It's set up on democratic principles. All owners of condominium apartments become members of the association. They have votes in proportion to the cost of their apartment to the cost of the building as a whole.

Actual decisions of the owners' association are made by a board of directors elected by all the other members. It's up to this board to determine what has to be done to keep the condominium running, and to see that owners pay their fair share of the upkeep. If costs go up, the board must increase the assessments to each owner. A strong board can do much to keep the condominium running on an even keel: a weak board can invite disaster.

"At first, when the developer begins selling condominiums, he really is the majority owner, and his ownership interest diminishes as units are sold," Sally says. "He therefore dominates the owners' association, and it is in his interest to see that the building is properly run. So he usually retains a professional property management firm to manage the building for him."

However, once the condominium is 75 to 80 per cent sold out, the developer turns over the management and control of property to the owners, and they are then responsible for running it.

The property management firm that originally was retained by the developer typically has a three to five-year contract. In most cases, this contract is still in effect when the building is turned over to the owners, and so the property management firm continues to do the actual management.

Depending on the amenities and prestige of the property, and the complexity of managing it, the management firm's charge for condominiums could be anywhere from 5 to 16 per cent of the gross assessment charges. Seeing these charges, the condominium board of directors may be tempted to cut costs as soon as possible by terminating the management firm when the contract runs out and managing the property themselves.

"This is particularly apt to happen if the owners consist of businessmen, lawyers, accountants, and other professionals who feel that managing a condominium is easy," Sally said.

But most owner's associations falter when it comes to property management. They haven't the experience or patience. Most important, the members begin fighting among themselves, since they don't have the teamwork necessary to keep up with the day-to-day problems of running the building. This is characteristic of a weak board with every member clamoring to have his say.

A recent case cited by House & Home magazine shows what can happen. One condominium owner investigated the books kept by the board of directors and found gross over-spending and irresponsible neglect in record-keeping. The board wasn't putting money aside for emergencies. The manager who was hired to oversee maintenance was criticized for her policies.

The upset owner sent a 20-page letter reporting her findings to the other condominium residents, and the result was a major confrontation at the next association meeting. Lawsuits were threatened. Later, several owners sold and moved because of what happened.

As House & Home reported it, the biggest disadvantage in this situation is that there is no productive way to handle dissent. Too much depends on the leadership talent that happens to buy into the property. If there are too many chiefs and no Indians, the result can be trouble.

The magazine went on to say that in many cases, the trouble could be avoided if the condominium management were turned over to a professional property management firm, which was given full responsibility to operate the property.

"Policy still remains in the hands of the board of directors, but the professional responsibility is fixed in a firm that is capable of handling it," Sally said. "The board, for example, decides whether it wants to have a 24-hour doorman, but the property management firm hires him, supervises him, and pays him.

"The board should also discipline the condominium owners not to direct the employes of the building staff into performing this task or that, since supervision is the job of the manager. Owners must also refrain from tipping or paying employes to do special jobs for them. This kind of interference confuses the staff, leads to favoritism, and causes inefficiencies in employe performance which makes the management's job harder."

In addition to supervising employes, the management firm is also responsible for preparing budgets, keeping records, paying bills, sending out assessment invoices to owners, arranging for repairs and maintenance, seeing that taxes are paid, and so forth. This can't be done by the board of directors on a part-time basis.

Naturally, the property management firm must be paid for these services, but the cost is usually more than worth it in terms of better condominium operations and satisfied owners.

"When you buy into a new condominium, if the developer has a property management firm working for him, that - a good sign that the condominium will operate properly for at least the term on the contract," the Baird & Warner executive said. "But once the owners' association is in the driver's seat, it's their decision to renew the contract and retain a management firm or try to do it themselves.

"My advice is, that if you become a condominium owner, do all you can to insist that the association have professional management. It's your assurance that the advantages of owning a condominium won't evaporate in the disenchantment of having amateurs trying to run the condominium building."

Owner's Association Can Make Or Break Condos

Condominium ownership can be a satisfying way of life, if everything goes right. But it can be utterly frustrating if the people who live in the condominium building make a shambles of the owners' association that's responsible for running the property.

In fact, many people who buy condominiums don't even realize they must become part of an owners' association and abide by its rules until they're presented with the final papers at the closing.

"This is an aspect of condominium living that isn't often talked about when the developer is trying to sell you a condominium," according to William D. Sally, vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc., and general manager of the firm's property management division.

Even if the developer does the maximum to get the condominium off on the right foot, once the building is completely sold out, it's up to the owners to keep it running. And that's where the trouble can start, Sally said.

Here's the story:

A condominium building really is made up of two parts: the apartments themselves, which are individually owned by the residents, and the common elements, which include the grounds, lobby, elevators, halls, stairways, etc.

Each owner of an apartment also owns a percentage of these common elements. Along with the ownership of the common elements goes a proportionate responsibility to pay for the upkeep and maintenance of these items and the building.

For instance, there are the costs of heat and water. There are the costs of electricity to operate elevators and lights in the lobby and parking areas. The janitor and doorman must be hired and paid. There are taxes and insurance on the common elements. A reserve should be set up for replacement of equipment and repairs.

All of these mean the condominium owner gets an assessment each month in addition to paying for his mortgage, taxes, and insurance on his own apartment.

"If paying for the common elements were all there was to it, the problem would be simple," Sally said. "However, certain policy decisions have to be made, and the building has to be managed. That's where the owners' association comes in."

This association is responsible for all policy decisions relating to the building. It's set up on democratic principles. All owners of condominium apartments become members of the association. They have votes in proportion to the cost of their apartment to the cost of the building as a whole.

Actual decisions of the owners' association are made by a board of directors elected by all the other members. It's up to this board to determine what has to be done to keep the condominium running, and to see that owners pay their fair share of the upkeep. If costs go up, the board must increase the assessments to each owner. A strong board can do much to keep the condomimium running on an even keel; a weak board can invite disaster.

"At first, when the developer begins selling condominiums, he really is the majority owner, and his ownership interest diminishes as units are sold," Sally says. "He therefore dominates the owners' association, and it is in his interest to see that the building is properly run. So he usually retains a professional property management firm to manage the building for him."

However, once the condominium is 75 to 80 per cent sold out, the developer turns over the management and control of property to the owners, and they are then responsible for running it.

The property management firm that originally was retained by the developer typically has a three to five-year contract. In most cases, this contract is still in effect when the building is turned over to the owners, and so the property management firm continues to do the actual management.

Depending on the amenities and prestige of the property, and the complexity of managing it, the management firm's charge for condominiums could be anywhere from 5 to 16 per cent of the gross assessment charges. Seeing these charges, the condominium board of directors may be tempted to cut costs as soon as possible by terminating the management firm when the contract runs out and managing the property themselves.

"This is particularly apt to happen if the owners consist of businessmen, lawyers, accountants, and other professionals who feel that managing a condominium is easy," Sally said.

But most owner's associations falter when it comes to property management. They haven't the experience or patience. Most important, the members begin fighting among themselves, since they don't have the teamwork necessary to keep up with the day-to-day problems of running the building. This is characteristic of a weak board with every member clamoring to have his say.

A recent case cited by House & Home magazine shows what can happen. One condominium owner investigated the books kept by the board of directors and found gross over-spending and irresponsible neglect in record-keeping. The board wasn't putting money aside for emergencies. The manager who was hired to oversee maintenance was criticized for her policies.

The upset owner sent a 20-page letter reporting her findings to the other condominium residents, and the result was a major confrontation at the next association meeting. Lawsuits were threatened. Later, several owners sold and moved because of what happened.

As House & Home reported it, the biggest disadvantage in this situation is that there is no productive way to handle dissent. Too much depends on the leadership talent that happens to buy into the property. If there are too many chiefs and no Indians, the result can be trouble.

The magazine went on to say that in many cases, the trouble could be avoided if the condominium management were turned over to a professional property management firm, which was given full responsibility to operate the property.

"Policy still remains in the hands of the board of directors, but the professional responsibility is fixed in a firm that is capable of handling it," Sally said. "The board, for example, decides whether it wants to have a 24-hour doorman, but the property management firm hires him, supervises him, and pays him.

Recycling Space Topic Of Parley

New school construction is not only a controversial issue in most communities but an expensive proposition especially in terms of real-estate tax dollars that go to pay for construction.

But "recycling" existing space may be the logical, and money-saving, answer.

Four experts in the field of school design and construction and space utilization will discuss practical and cost-effective ways of converting space in existing buildings into new, "open-space" configurations at a one-day seminar to be held in Chicago tomorrow. The seminar is sponsored by the Educational Facilities Center, 223 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, and will be open to school board members and administrators.

Rolling Meadows Bank Announces Promotions

Chairman Robert T. Casey and Pres. William A. Glassgow of the Bank of Rolling Meadows recently announced the

Douglas MacNiff

Douglas Milliman

promotions of Douglas MacNiff and Douglas Milliman to assistant cashiers.

MacNiff, a graduate of Southern Illinois University and Palatine High School, joined the Bank of Rolling Meadows in 1970. In his new position he will be with the loan department.

He and his wife Linda and two children reside in Palatine.

Milliman, a graduate of Prospect High School, Mount Prospect, also came to the bank in 1970, after attending Piedmont College. His new duties are in operations.

He and his wife, Carole, live in Schaumburg.

Glassgow also announced that $100,000 has been transferred from undivided profits to the surplus account which has raised the bank's lending limit to any one individual or corporation to $90,000.

Prudential Names Division Manager

J. P. Ressetar, 1102 N. Dale, Arlington Heights, was recently appointed division manager in Prudential Insurance Co.'s

J. P. Ressetar

James J. Griffin & Associates agency, Schiller Park.

Agency manager James J. Griffin, CLU, said that Ressetar joined the company's Plaza Agency in Prudential's Mid-America home office in March, 1970, as a sales management trainee. In July, 1971, he was transferred to the Griffin & Associates agency.

Ressetar is a native of Lincoln and a 1962 graduate of that city's high school. In 1967, he was awarded a bachelor's degree in business administration by Murray State University in Murray, Ky. He served with the U.S. Army in Germany for three years.

Catering Sales Chief Appointed

Elmer J. Stamm has been appointed catering sales representative for the Arlington Park Towers hotel, it was announced by G. Don Ellison, general manager of the Madison Square Garden Hotel.

Elmer Stamm

Stamm started his sales career with the Peoples Gas, Light, and Coke Co. He is now starting another phase in his sales career by entering the hotel industry after 43 years with the utilities firm. He retired from Peoples Gas, Light, and Coke Company as sales promotion manager of the domestic sales department.

Castleberry Promoted By Union 76 Division

The Union 76 Division, Union Oil of California, has appointed F. N. Castleberry to the position of regional credit manager. The appointment was announced by A. A. Brisson, assistant general credit manager.

Castleberry, who will headquarter in Palatine, joined the company in 1953. He previously held the position of assistant regional credit manager.

He is a graduate of the University of Florida.

Castleberry and his wife, Gail, reside at 2006 W. Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect.

Named Associate General Counsel

James G. McWaters of Palatine has been promoted by Montgomery Wards to the new senior position of associate general counsel.

James McWaters

He began his professional career with Wards in 1949. Prior to his new appointment, McWaters held the position of assistant general counsel.

He is a member of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity and the Chicago Bar Assn. He earned a B.S. degree in economics and political science in 1946 and a J.D. law degree in 1949, both from Northwestern University.

Larry Jackson Joins Retail Workers Union

Larry Jackson, 1731 Rosehill Dr., Arlington Heights, recently joined the staff of the United Retail Workers Union as a MASS MERCHANDISING is the marketing tool of the seventies, according to Grover C. Lee, manager of the security counseling service department of INA Insurance of Illinois. Lee recently addressed a meeting of the Chicago chapter of the Society of Chartered Property and Casualty underwriters in Chicago. The businessman can expect in the coming decade to deal with a "better paid, better educated buyer," said Lee. "By the end of this decade some two-thirds of the adult population will consist of people who grew up in the prosperous post World War II period," he continued. "By 1980, young adults — those between 20 and 35 years old — will receive one third of the nation's income. And by that time one out of every four adults will have some college education." Mass merchandising in the insurance industry will meet the need for this market, Lee said.

NOW THAT THE KIDS HAVE LEFT HOME, WHY DON'T YOU?

It's time to get away from it all.

Away from the house that has more space than you need. And gives more work than you want.

But don't just settle for an apartment in the city. Settle instead at Three Fountains On-The-Lake, new condominium homes by Scholz.

You'll have a country kind of life here. With tennis courts. With a pool and cabana. A pitch 'n putt golf green. Even a private lake right outside your sliding glass patio door.

Take your choice of 1-bedroom, 2-bedroom or 2-bedroom-with-study condominium apartments. They include air conditioning, appliances, carpeting. And if you want, even a wood-burning fireplace.

When you arrive at the entrance, follow the curving roadway across the arched bridge.

It leads to your life in the country. Right next to the city.

Come see.
Come live.

Take Northwest Tollway, exit North at Rt. 53, go short distance to Algonquin Rd. (Rt. 62) then East ½ mile to Three Fountains entrance. Near Woodfield Mall, Rolling Meadows. Phone 255-2505. Models open daily 10 AM to 6 PM. Other times by appointment.

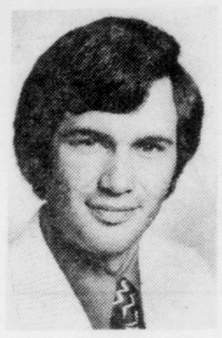
Rolling Meadows Bank Announces Promotions

Chairman Robert T. Casey and Pres. William A. Glassgow of the Bank of Rolling Meadows recently announced the promotions of Douglas MacNiff and Douglas Milliman to assistant cashiers.

Douglas MacNiff



Douglas Milliman

MacNiff, a graduate of Southern Illinois University and Palatine High School, joined the Bank of Rolling Meadows in 1970. In his new position he will be with the loan department.

He and his wife Linda and two children reside in Palatine.

Milliman, a graduate of Prospect High School, Mount Prospect, also came to the bank in 1970, after attending Piedmont College. His new duties are in operations.

He and his wife, Carole, live in Schaumburg.

Glassgow also announced that $100,000 has been transferred from undivided profits to the surplus account which has raised the bank's lending limit to any one individual or corporation to $90,000.

Prudential Names Division Manager

J. P. Ressetar, 1102 N. Dale, Arlington Heights, was recently appointed division manager in Prudential Insurance Co.'s James J. Griffin & Associates agency, Schiller Park.

J. P. Ressetar

Agency manager James J. Griffin, CLU, said that Ressetar joined the company's Plaza Agency in Prudential's Mid-America home office in March, 1970, as a sales management trainee. In July, 1971, he was transferred to the Griffin & Associates agency.

Ressetar is a native of Lincoln and a 1962 graduate of that city's high school. In 1967, he was awarded a bachelor's degree in business administration by Murray State University in Murray, Ky. He served with the U.S. Army in Germany for three years.

Catering Sales Chief Appointed

Elmer J. Stamm has been appointed catering sales representative for the Arlington Park Towers hotel, it was announced by G. Don Ellison, general manager of the Madison Square Garden Hotel.

Elmer Stamm

Stamm started his sales career with the Peoples Gas, Light, and Coke Co. He is now starting another phase in his sales career by entering the hotel industry after 43 years with the utilities firm. He retired from Peoples Gas, Light, and Coke Company as sales promotion manager of the domestic sales department.

Castleberry Promoted By Union 76 Division

The Union 76 Division, Union Oil of California, has appointed F. N. Castleberry to the position of regional credit manager. The appointment was announced by A. A. Brisson, assistant general credit manager.

Castleberry, who will headquarter in Palatine, joined the company in 1953. He previously held the position of assistant regional credit manager.

He is a graduate of the University of Florida.

Castleberry and his wife, Gail, reside at 2006 W. Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect.

Named Associate General Counsel

James G. McWaters of Palatine has been promoted by Montgomery Wards to the new senior position of associate general counsel.

James McWaters

He began his professional career with Wards in 1949. Prior to his new appointment, McWaters held the position of assistant general counsel.

He is a member of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity and the Chicago Bar Assn. He earned a B.S. degree in economics and political science in 1946 and a J.D. law degree in 1949, both from Northwestern University.

MASS MERCHANDISING is the marketing tool of the seventies, according to Grover C. Lee, manager of the security counseling service department of INA Insurance of Illinois. Lee recently addressed a meeting of the Chicago chapter of the Society of Chartered Property and Casualty underwriters in Chicago. The businessman can expect in the coming decade to deal with a "better paid, better educated buyer," said Lee. "By the end of this decade some two-thirds of the adult population will consist of people who grew up in the prosperous post World War II period," he continued. "By 1980, young adults — those between 20 and 35 years old — will receive one third of the nation's income. And by that time one out of every four adults will have some college education." Mass merchandising in the insurance industry will meet the need for this market, Lee said.

The decorator chandeleir is a standard feature and is available in a choice of contemporary or traditional style.

Union 76 Names New Supervisor

The Chicago Division of Union Oil Co. of California has named John H. Link to the position of supervisor, pricing.

Link joined Union 76 in 1947. His most recent position was field service manager in the Cleveland Division.

He has been a member of the West Virginia Petroleum Club and the Cleveland Petroleum Club.

Link, his wife Rosemary, and four children presently reside at 4517 Mackall Rd., South Euclid, Ohio. They will move to the Palatine area some time in the near future.

Named Sales Rep For Chemplex Co.

Billy M. Burleson, formerly marketing services supervisor, has been named a sales representative for Chemplex Co. in Rolling Meadows. He will be responsible for the sale of polyethylene resins for molding and extrusion applications in the Southeast.

Prior to joining Chemplex, Burleson was with Litton Industries in Lubbock, Tex. He received an associate degree in engineering from Odessa College in Odessa, Tex., in 1960.

Burleson presently resides with his wife and family in Crystal Lake, but will be relocating in the Southeast.

Walgreens Names Elk Grove Manager

Frank J. De Luca, R.Ph., has been named manager of the Walgreen Drug Store at 955 Grove Mall, Elk Grove Village.

De Luca, a 10-year Walgreen employe, has previously been store manager of the Walgreens at the Higgins Golf Shopping Center in Schaumburg. He graduated in 1963 from the Purdue University college of pharmacy with a bachelor of science degree in pharmacy.

He succeeds James F. Chota, the previous Walgreen manager at Elk Grove Mall, who was transferred to a Chicago store.

Receives M.D.

James R. Brasic of Elmhurst Avenue, Mount Prospect, received an M.D. degree from the Boston University School of Medicine at commencement exercises recently.

He was one of 93 graduates from the largest class in the history of the Boston University School of Medicine — now in its 99th year.

Dr. Brasic will be interning in medicine at the University of Alabama Medical Center in Birmingham, Ala.

Home Improvements Vary Widely

Home handymen — and women — spend more than two billion dollars each year on do-it-yourself improvement projects, ranging from simple painting to major structural renovations.

Some rugged individuals work entirely alone; most seek help from family and friends; consult with contractors for advice or assistance on more complicated jobs.

Surveys conducted by home improvement groups show that interior painting is by far the most popular — and the most successful — job for do-it-yourselfers. Wallpapering runs a close second, but paper is not used as often.

Outside painting also ranks high as a frequent do-it-yourself job. However, many homeowners call in professional help for preparing the surface or for second-story work.

GREEN — in all its shades and tones — is the current most popular color for repainting interior rooms, with yellow or gold an increasing favorite.

WHITE is still tops for exterior paint with New England greens a close runner-up.

Most do-it-yourselfers say they find repainting work enjoyable, especially when it's a family project. In general, the wife is the first to notice that painting needs to be done; husband and wife confer and agree on a color choice; the husband chooses the brand and most often buys the paint.

If you are well equipped with the handy do-it-yourself tools, and every homeowner should be so equipped — there is no end to the number of repairs and improvements you can undertake yourself. The tools are a good investment for any householder. They come with instruction booklets clearly setting forth what can be done with them and how to do it.

Building supplies firms have a wide assortment of leaflets and booklets that will be helpful. Check them. Their personnel are experts in recommending the choices of materials of any kind best suited to your project.

Do-it-yourselfers list insulation, roofing and siding as the most difficult jobs. Sheer size seems to be the major deterrent.

Beyond personal preference, however, veteran home handymen warn that several projects should never be attempted by amateurs.

In general, leave these to the experts:

1. ELECTRICAL WORK. Unless you are fully qualified, you run the risk of serious injury — shock, burn, even electrocution. And makeshift wiring systems create household fire hazards.

2. Major plumbing projects. Fixing a leak is one thing. Installing new fixtures is something else. New piping has to fit in with the rest of the plumbing system. There's no economy if you end up with water damage throughout the house.

3. Room remodeling. Don't attempt any structural changes without professional consultation. Removing a wall between two rooms — or even an archway — can weaken the entire house if you're not sure just what you're doing.

Moving Company's Volume Increases

Rick Wille, sales representative, 7 Santini Bros., Inc., an authorized agent for United Van Lines, Inc., said that volume registered with United last month totaled more than $7,724,800, or 17.4 per cent higher than was registered in May, 1971.

The sum, Mr. Wille said, set a new monthly dollar volume increase for United, a world-wide household goods carrier. The previous record was established in August 1965, when registered volume was $1,082,650 more than in August 1964.

United experienced increases in both domestic and international registrations last month. Demoestic registered volume climbed by 18 per cent over May, 1971, while international increased by 2.8 per cent. In addition, the total number of moves registered and their weight increased, he said.

The 7 Santini Bros. is one of more than 800 United Van Lines agents located in principle cities throughout the world. UVL agents have the capabilities to move electronics, displays and other commodities in addition to household goods. The 7 Santini Bros., Inc. is headquartered at 3310 N. Mannheim Road, Franklin Park.

Fashion Fabrics 100th Store Open

Fashion Fabrics Inc., a Salt Lake City based chain, has now opened their 100th store and plans to open 40 more stores in the next year. During the last nine months, the company has opened two new stores in the Chicago area; one at 1735 W. Golf Rd. in Mount Prospect and one at 563 Roosevelt Rd. in Glen Ellyn. These stores, which do business under the name of Fashion Yardage, are currently participating in the first company-wide sale in celebration of the opening of the company's 100th store.

Leslie G. Johnson Receives Promotion

The promotion of Leslie G. Johnson to manager, corporate marketing services, has been announced by David W. Without, vice president, corporate development, Miner Enterprises, Inc., Chicago-based, diversified international manufacturer.

Leslie Johnson

Johnson joined Miner in 1971 as technical assistant to the vice president, corporate development. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois with a degree in mechanical engineering and is presently completing work toward a Master's degree at the University of Chicago.

Johnson is married and the father of three children. He and his family make their home at 555 Jarvis Ct., Palatine.

The sum, Mr. Wille said, set a new monthly dollar volume increase for United, a world-wide household goods carrier. The previous record was established in August 1965, when registered volume was $1,082,650 more than in August 1964.

United experienced increases in both domestic and international registrations last month. Demoestic registered volume climbed by 18 per cent over May, 1971, while international increased by 2.8 per cent. In addition, the total number of moves registered and their weight increased, he said.

The 7 Santini Bros. is one of more than 800 United Van Lines agents located in principle cities throughout the world. UVL agents have the capabilities to move electronics, displays and other commodities in addition to household goods. The 7 Santini Bros., Inc. is headquartered at 3310 N. Mannheim Road, Franklin Park.

Fashion Fabrics 100th Store Open

Fashion Fabrics Inc., a Salt Lake City based chain, has now opened their 100th store and plans to open 40 more stores in the next year. During the last nine months, the company has opened two new stores in the Chicago area; one at 1735 W. Golf Rd. in Mount Prospect and one at 563 Roosevelt Rd. in Glen Ellyn. These stores, which do business under the name of Fashion Yardage, are currently participating in the first company-wide sale in celebration of the opening of the company's 100th store.

Leslie G. Johnson Receives Promotion

The promotion of Leslie G. Johnson to manager, corporate marketing services, has been announced by David W. Withall, vice president, corporate development, Miner Enterprises, Inc., Chicago-based, diversified international manufacturer.

Leslie Johnson

Johnson joined Miner in 1971 as technical assistant to the vice president, corporate development. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois with a degree in mechanical engineering and is presently completing work toward a Master's degree at the University of Chicago.

Johnson is married and the father of three children. He and his family make their home at 555 Jarvis Ct., Palatine.

Inverness

IMMEDIATE OCCUPANCY

Distinctive CAPE COD, loaded with charm, beautifully situated on well landscaped lot in the choicest part of Inverness. Rooms are large enough for entertaining, but small enough to reflect cozy family living. Home is complete with every desirable feature plus a sizable screened porch. Impossible to duplicate for asking price of $92,000.

Sharp FRENCH PROVINCIAL, 3 year old brick home has just become available due to transfer. A carefully studied floor plan provides excellent traffic pattern and easy maintenance. Home has 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, and a separate den in addition to lovely paneled family room which could be used as a 5th bedroom. Generous eating area in kitchen and 1st floor laundry are pluses. Beautifully decorated. Asking $89,000.

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Bonds are one [illegible] safest, surest investments you can make. When you sell them you're guaranteed [illegible] Bonds are a good way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

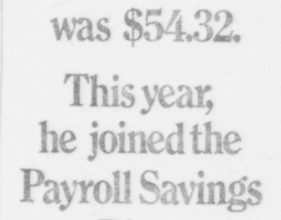
Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.



Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at most banks. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a good way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Is Consultant For Toro Distrubuting

Roy T. Baril, vice president and general manager of the distributing division of The Toro Co., the nation's leading independent producer of powered lawn and turf-care equipment, has announced the appointment of Charles E. Daugherty as consultant to Toro Distributing-Chicago, the branch distribution facility through which Toro serves northern Illinois. General manager of the branch is E. D. McConkey.

Daugherty was formerly vice president, institutional sales, for Geo. A. Davis, Inc., distributor for Toro products in the greater Chicago market until last summer when the Minneapolis-based company opened its own distributing operation.

According to Baril, Daugherty has agreed to a six-month appointment as consultant for turf product sales, the area in which he specialized for most of his 22 years service with Davis.

Daugherty is a graduate of DePauw University (Greencastle, Ind.), where he was awarded a bachelor of arts degree in 1943. He saw wartime service in the U.S. Air Force as a pilot. He and his wife make their home at 1855 Stuart Ln., in Palatine, with their four children.

Crouch Wins 'Seal Of Confidence'

Raymond Crouch, 413 S. Yale, Arlington Heights, has been awarded "Seal of Confidence" certification by the Allstate Insurance Companies, according to Illinois Regional Manager Richard A. Hogan. Seventy-nine of the companies' 680 Illinois sales representatives received this distinction recently.

The "Seal of Cinfidence" is awarded only to those among the companies' agents who have demonstrated over a long period of time their outstanding ability and exceptional judgment in dealing with the public as company representatives.

Crouch received certification in 1971 and has repeated his accomplishment this year. Crouch has been an Allstate agent since 1953. He represents the companies in the Touhy Sales Office, 7700 Touhy Ave., Chicago.

Report 700 Companies Now On 4-Day Work Week

Experts can stop predicting the four-day work week and the three-day weekend that goes with it, They're here.

"Enough companies across the country have made the switch that its effect is being felt just about everywhere," notes Wilgus Gibbs, senior vice president of Russwood, Inc., creators of vacation second-home communities like Lake Carroll near Shannon, Ill., 137 Miles west of Chicago.

Across the U.S. more than 700 companies are on a four-day week now, and almost 1,000 more say they're about to switch. Even the federal government is getting into the act. As soon as Congress gives approval, Social Security headquarters is going on a four-day week.

None of this counts the long string of three-day holiday weekends now the law of the land or the still-standard practice of an early Friday getaway for executives and professionals who can set their own hours. It adds up to the fact that a steadily growing number of Americans are relaxing three days and working four.

There's a best-selling book on the subject, "Four Days, Forty Hours," edited by management consultant Riva Poor, which surveyed what people are reallly doing with their three-day weekends.

The findings: swimming and boating had increased 319 per cent and hunting and fishing 95 per cent.

This sort of trend is one reason why Lake Carroll will surround its own man-made lake.

Six hundred surface acres of water with over 13 miles of shoreline will be formed by a dam across the east fork of the Plum River, which now crosses the property. The lake will fill small valleys stretching like fingers into many different areas to give wide access to property owners for water sports and recreation, including water skiing, boating, swimming and fishing.

A swim and tennis club, with second swimming pool and tennis courts, will be the main feature of the northern area of Lake Carroll. An 18-hole golf course is in the eastern area.

"Another big point," notes Gibbs, "as the three-day weekend becomes even more widespread, open-to-the-public resorts, no matter how fancy, are expected to be jammed to the rafters. That's going to make the privacy of Lake Carroll's property-owners facilities and activities more inviting than ever," he predicts.

Crouch Wins 'Seal Of Confidence'

Raymond Crouch, 413 S. Yale, Arlington Heights, has been awarded "Seal of Confidence" certification by the Allstate Insurance Companies, according to Illinois Regional Manager Richard A. Hogan. Seventy-nine of the companies' 680 Illinois sales representatives received this distinction recently.

The "Seal of Cinfidence" is awarded only to those among the companies' agents who have demonstrated over a long period of time their outstanding ability and exceptional judgment in dealing with the public as company representatives.

Crouch received certification in 1971 and has repeated his accomplishment this year. Crouch has been an Allstate agent since 1953. He represents the companies in the Touhy Sales Office, 7700 Touhy Ave., Chicago.

Report 700 Companies Now On 4-Day Work Week

Experts can stop predicting the four-day work week and the three-day weekend that goes with it. They're here.

"Enough companies across the country have made the switch that its effect is being felt just about everywhere," notes Wilgus Gibbs, senior vice president of Russwood, Inc., creators of vacation second-home communities like Lake Carroll near Shannon, Ill., 137 Miles west of Chicago.

Across the U.S. more than 700 companies are on a four-day week now, and almost 1,000 more say they're about to switch. Even the federal government is getting into the act. As soon as Congress gives approval, Social Security headquarters is going on a four-day week.

None of this counts the long string of three-day holiday weekends now the law of the land or the still-standard practice of an early Friday getaway for executives and professionals who can set their own hours. It adds up to the fact that a steadily growing number of Americans are relaxing three days and working four.

There's a best-selling book on the subject, "Four Days, Forty Hours," edited by management consultant Riva Poor, which surveyed what people are reallly doing with their three-day weekends.

The findings: swimming and boating had increased 319 per cent and hunting and fishing 95 per cent.

This sort of trend is one reason why Lake Carroll will surround its own man-made lake.

Six hundred surface acres of water with over 13 miles of shoreline will be formed by a dam across the east fork of the Plum River, which now crosses the property. The lake will fill small valleys stretching like fingers into many different areas to give wide access to property owners for water sports and recreation, including water skiing, boating, swimming and fishing.

A swim and tennis club, with second swimming pool and tennis courts, will be the main feature of the northern area of Lake Carroll. An 18-hole golf course is in the eastern area.

"Another big point," notes Gibbs, "as the three-day weekend becomes even more widespread, open-to-the-public resorts, no matter how fancy, are expected to be jammed to the rafters. That's going to make the privacy of Lake Carroll's property-owners facilities and activities more inviting than ever," he predicts.

A Barbecue Banquet!

An international favorite because of its succulent, distinctive flavor, duckling roasted on a covered barbecue has an exceptional savoriness that will be relished by your guests at a patio or dinner party. Better yet, Barbecued Duckling is easy to prepare.

Noted for its versatility with accompanying foods, Barbecued Duckling with rice stuffing, basted with orange marmalade and served with string beans, tomatoes topped with shredded cheese, assorted fruit and lemonade makes for a "special occasion" during the summer and autumn seasons.

BARBECUED DUCKLING WITH RICE STUFFING

1 frozen duckling (4½ to 5 pounds), defrosted
1½ teaspoons salt Water
¾ cup uncooked rice
½ cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup orange marmalade

Wash, drain and pat duckling dry with paper toweling. Sprinkle neck and body cavities with 1/2 teaspoon salt. Prepare stuffing. Add water as needed to cook rice as directed on package label, using 1 teaspoon salt. Saute celery in butter or margarine until tender and mix with cooked rice. Fill neck and body cavities loosely with stuffing mixture. Use a sharp knife to make a cut between the wing joints and breast to permit draining of excess fat during cooking.

Preparation of covered barbecue equipment: Arrange approximately 80 charcoal briquets in a circular pile; thoroughly ignite. Use an aluminum pan 12x18x2 inch deep or make a pan this size with heavy aluminum foil and place in cooker. Using asbestos gloves or tongs, surround aluminum pan with briquets. Place the duckling breast side up on top of the grill and directly above the aluminum pan so that drippings will fall into the pan. Cover and cook with all drafts open for 2 hours, basting with heated marmalade after each hour. Allow duckling to crispen for 30 minutes. Yield: 3 to 4 servings.

BARBECUED DUCKLING QUARTERS IN FOIL

1 frozen duckling (4½ to 5 pounds) defrosted and quartered
1 tablespoon poultry seasoning
1 tablespoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt

Wash, drain and dry duckling quarters. Mix poultry seasoning, paprika and salt thoroughly and sprinkle on duckling quarters.

Place each duckling quarter on an 18-inch sheet of heavy duty aluminum foil. Fold the aluminum foil over the duckling quarter and fold in the sides and the end to form a seal.

Place wrapped duckling quarters on grill over moderate to hot coals about 6 inches above the fire. Turn with heavy gloves or barbecue tongs every 20 minutes for 2 hours and 20 minutes.

Remove wrapped duckling quarters from grill and allow to cool for 10 minutes. This method prevents the duckling quarters from sticking to the foil and also allows the aluminum foil to cool sufficiently so that the quarters can be unwrapped easily.

For extra crispness, remove the foil and put the duckling quarters on the grill for an additional 20 minutes. Yield: 4 pieces, 2 to 4 servings.

Vanilla Raspberry Trifle

Vanilla Enhances Trifle

There is nothing trifling about Vanilla Raspberry Trifle. If your taste buds quiver at the mention of cake soaked in succulent fruit juices (or spirits) and enrobed in whipped cream, then trifles are for you and this one you'll find a triumph.

Vanilla works a special magic on fruit, mellowing the tartness and literally bringing out the natural sweetness. In this trifle recipe pure vanilla extract is both mixed into the fruit and combined with the cream before whipping. Incidentally, fresh strawberries may be used in place of raspberries.

The French are credited with the discovery that vanilla — and only the real vanilla, by the way — improves the flavor of fruit. Master chefs a century or so ago heated pieces of vanilla bean in the fruit liquid and steeped them briefly. It's still a good trick if you have a bean; otherwise, pure vanilla extract is your answer, as shown in the trifle recipe and also in the Vanilla Pineapple Cheese Cake Pudding.

VANILLA RASPBERRY TRIFLE

2 packages (3 to 3 5/8 oz. each) vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
4½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract, divided
4 slices pound cake, cut ½-inch thick
1/3 cup red raspberry preserves or jam
1/3 cup crushed almond or coconut macaroons
1 package (10 oz.) frozen raspberries, thawed
1 cup heavy cream

Prepare both packages of pudding mix as label directs; cool slightly. Stir in 2 teaspoons of the vanilla extract. Place clear plastic wrap or waxed paper on the surface of the pudding. Cool. Meanwhile, spread one side of the pound cake with preserves; arrange, preserve-side up, in a 2-quart glass serving dish. Sprinkle with crushed macaroons. Reserve a few whole raspberries for garnish; gently stir 1 teaspoon of the vanilla extract into the remaining raspberries; spoon over crumbs. Pour cooled custard over berries and refrigerate until thoroughly chilled. Combine cream with remaining 1½ teaspoons vanilla extract. Whip until stiff; spread half over the custard. Garnish with remaining whipped cream and reserved raspberries. Chill thoroughly. Yield: 10 to 12 portions.

NOTE: Strawberry preserves and frozen strawberries may be substituted for the raspberries.

VANILLA PINEAPPLE CHEESE CAKE PUDDING

1 package (10½ oz.) no-bake cheese cake mix
1 can (8¼ oz.) crushed pineapple, drained
2 tablespoons pure vanilla extract
1 cup heavy cream, whipped and divided

Sprinkle graham cracker crumbs from mix onto a cookie sheet. Place in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 5 minutes; cool. Prepare cheese cake filling as label directs. Stir pineapple and vanilla extract into filling. Fold in half of the whipped cream. Into a 1½ quart serving dish, spoon about ¼ of this cheese cake filling. Sprinkle with 1/3 of the graham cracker crumbs. Repeat layering until all of the filling and crumbs are used. Garnish with remaining whipped cream. Chill about 6 hours. Yield: 8 portions.

Serve Six-Vegetable Puree With Any Meat Or Fish Dish

Pureeing vegetables is a common practice in France. Pureeing eliminates vegetable fibers which have no flavor or nutritive value. To puree, use a food mill that forces the flavorful part of such vegetables as corn, peas and lima beans through the mill and holds back the fibers. A food mill also strains the blended vegetables, which pureeing in a blender does not. This recipe for a Six-Vegetable Puree is seasoned with herbs. For those who do not like herb seasoning, a little salt and pepper will do. Those on a salt-free diet should eliminate salt in the cooking water and in seasoning and season with herbs only. This is a dish that can be made in advance for an outdoor barbecue.

SIX-VEGETABLE PUREE

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped onion
1½ teaspoons dried lemon thyme leaves
1 teaspoon dried basil leaves
½ teaspoon dried tarragon leaves
2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 (10-oz.) package frozen Fordhook lima beans
1 (10-oz.) package frozen corn
1 (10-oz.) package frozen peas and carrots
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter in a saucepan or small skillet. Add celery, onion, thyme, basil and tarragon. Cook over low heat until vegetables are very tender. Meanwhile, bring water to a boil in a large saucepan. Add beans and cook 5 minutes. Add corn and cook 5 minutes. Add peas and carrots and cook 5 minutes or until all vegetables are tender and water is absorbed. Stir in celery and onion mixture. Puree vegetables through food mill into a saucepan. Cook puree over low heat until thick and hot. Taste and add salt and pepper as desired. Makes about 2¼ quarts or 6 servings.

Vanilla Raspberry Trifle

Vanilla Enhances Trifle

There is nothing trifling about Vanilla Raspberry Trifle. If your taste buds quiver at the mention of cake soaked in succulent fruit juices (or spirits) and enrobed in whipped cream, then trifles are for you and this one you'll find a triumph.

Vanilla works a special magic on fruit, mellowing the tartness and literally bringing out the natural sweetness. In this trifle recipe pure vanilla extract is both mixed into the fruit and combined with the cream before whipping. Incidentally, fresh strawberries may be used in place of raspberries.

The French are credited with the discovery that vanilla — and only the real vanilla, by the way — improves the flavor of fruit. Master chefs a century or so ago heated pieces of vanilla bean in the fruit liquid and steeped them briefly. It's still a good trick if you have a bean; otherwise, pure vanilla extract is your answer, as shown in the trifle recipe and also in the Vanilla Pineapple Cheese Cake Pudding.

VANILLA RASPBERRY TRIFLE

2 packages (3 to 3 5/8 oz. each) vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
4½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract, divided
4 slices pound cake, cut ½-inch thick
1/3 cup red raspberry preserves or jam
1/3 cup crushed almond or coconut macaroons
1 package (10 oz.) frozen raspberries, thawed
1 cup heavy cream

Prepare both packages of pudding mix as label directs; cool slightly. Stir in 2 teaspoons of the vanilla extract. Place clear plastic wrap or waxed paper on the surface of the pudding. Cool. Meanwhile, spread one side of the pound cake with preserves; arrange, preserve-side up, in a 2-quart glass serving dish. Sprinkle with crushed macaroons. Reserve a few whole raspberries for garnish; gently stir 1 teaspoon of the vanilla extract into the remaining raspberries; spoon over crumbs. Pour cooled custard over berries and refrigerate until thoroughly chilled. Combine cream with remaining 1½ teaspoons vanilla extract. Whip until stiff; spread half over the custard. Garnish with remaining whipped cream and reserved raspberries. Chill thoroughly. Yield: 10 to 12 portions.

NOTE: Strawberry preserves and frozen strawberries may be substituted for the raspberries.

VANILLA PINEAPPLE CHEESE CAKE PUDDING

1 package (10½ oz.) no-bake cheese cake mix
1 can (8¼ oz.) crushed pineapple, drained
2 tablespoons pure vanilla extract
1 cup heavy cream, whipped and divided

Sprinkle graham cracker crumbs from mix onto a cookie sheet. Place in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 5 minutes; cool. Prepare cheese cake filling as label directs. Stir pineapple and vanilla extract into filling. Fold in half of the whipped cream. Into a 1½ quart serving dish, spoon about ¼ of this cheese cake filling. Sprinkle with 1/3 of the graham cracker crumbs. Repeat layering until all of the filling and crumbs are used. Garnish with remaining whipped cream. Chill about 6 hours. Yield: 8 portions.

Serve Six-Vegetable Puree

With Any Meat Or Fish Dish

Pureeing vegetables is a common practice in France. Pureeing eliminates vegetable fibers which have no flavor or nutritive value. To puree, use a food mill that forces the flavorful part of such vegetables as corn, peas and lima beans through the mill and holds back the fibers. A food mill also strains the blended vegetables, which pureeing in a blender does not. This recipe for a Six-Vegetable Puree is seasoned with herbs. For those who do not like herb seasoning, a little salt and pepper will do. Those on a salt-free diet should eliminate salt in the cooking water and in seasoning and season with herbs only. This is a dish that can be made in advance for an outdoor barbecue.

SIX-VEGETABLE PUREE

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped onion
1½ teaspoons dried lemon thyme leaves
1 teaspoon dried basil leaves
½ teaspoon dried tarragon leaves
2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 (10-oz.) package frozen Fordhook lima beans
1 (10-oz.) package frozen corn
1 (10-oz.) package frozen peas and carrots
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter in a saucepan or small skillet. Add celery, onion, thyme, basil and tarragon. Cook over low heat until vegetables are very tender. Meanwhile, bring water to a boil in a large saucepan. Add beans and cook 5 minutes. Add corn and cook 5 minutes. Add peas and carrots and cook 5 minutes or until all vegetables are tender and water is absorbed. Stir in celery and onion mixture. Puree vegetables through food mill into a saucepan. Cook puree over low heat until thick and hot. Taste and add salt and pepper as desired. Makes about 2¼ quarts or 6 servings.

A Peanut Butter Fan Speaks Out

by ROBERT CAREY

As a charter member of the Peanut Butter Fan Club and a life-long booster and user of the creamy spread, I feel compelled to speak out on recent developments in the field.

To set the stage historically, peanut butter and I go back a long way. I cannot remember not having access to it and using the stuff on a fairly steady basis.

In the early years of our marriage, my wife has told me, she knew something had gone amiss in the evening meal when I, easing back from the chair, would go to the cabinet and return with bread and peanut butter to continue my nourishment.

I would, too, on occasion, eat half a jar with a teaspoon while sitting reflectively in the kitchen drinking milk.

Alas, those days are gone, a casualty of trying to hold one's waist line from season to season. However, my son now calls for it each morning to put on his toast and the peanut butter jar has returned to the table.

So it was with more than passing interest that I read recently of presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey's special affinity for peanut butter.

Humphrey, a man never caught without something to say, had been asked by Miss Paulette Brown, the reigning "Georgia Peanut Princess," how he felt about peanut butter.

"I agree with you that peanut butter is as much or more of a household treat as Mom's apple pie," the Minnesota Senator wrote the Georgia Peach. "My favorite sandwich is peanut butter, baloney, cheddar cheese, lettuce and mayonnaise on toasted bread with lots of catsup on the side."

WELL SIR, there was a show stopper. Was he serious? I had been a pretty tough peanut butter combination man myself in my day. I have dined on peanut butter and mayonnaise sandwiches, peanut butter and banana and your standard peanut butter and jelly, of course, among other combinations. I tried peanut butter and raw onion for a brief period but developed no real fondness for it.

There was only one way. Test it. I chose Sunday afternoon, feeling that the hospital emergency wards would be less crowded at that time should I need assistance.

Selection of an accompanying beverage was necessary. I chose a can of beer. Science was at wrok here as I figured the alcoholic content of the beer might somehow offset any strange bacterial cultures that the stomach would give house to when the peanut butter, mayonnaise, baloney and cheese came sliding down with the catsup.

I made the sandwich, sloshed catsup on the side of the plate, popped open a can of beer and fell to. The first bite was without catsup, the second with, 2so as to get the full range of taste subtleties involved.

Friends, it was fine. I ended up eating two of the things. It's true I have witnesses. I am of a mind now that Hubert wasn't putting us on at all.

Simple ingredients, when fitted to the imagination of the gourmet chef, are reborn into an epicure's symphoic delight. Pass the catsup.

More Sherry Drinkers

American consumption of Spanish sherry more than tripled between 1961 and 1971, going from 483,243 gallons to 1,490,960 gallons. The figures are from the National Association of Beverage Importers, Washington, D.C.

During the 15 years prior to 1960, imported sherry sales in the United States had increased by only 3 per cent. The Sherry Institute attributes the rapid growth since then to heavy advertising and promotional campaigns and to an affluent society's search for a "quality" image.

Baked Shanks Italian Style

Fans of Italian dishes can whip up their own Osso Bucco and serve with spaghetti and sauce with little trouble. Baked Shanks Italian Style makes use of a still relatively inexpensive meat cut that offers a lot of flavor. Men especially like this dish and will enjoy adding it to their list of specialties. Serve with a hearty green salad and pumpernickel rolls.

BAKED SHANKS
ITALIAN STYLE
(Mock Osso Bucco)

4 meaty lamb shanks
2 tablespoons liquid gravy seasoning and browning sauce
Seasoned flour
½ cup salad oil
1 large onion, sliced thin
½ cup diced celery
1 cup sliced carrots
1 clove garlic, mashed
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 can (2 lbs. 3 oz.) plum tomatoes
½ teaspoon seasoned pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
1 large green pepper, diced and sauteed
Cooked spaghetti

Wipe the lamb shanks well on paper towels then brush all over with liquid gravy seasoning and browning sauce. Let shanks dry a little and reserve remaining liquid sauce. Roll the shanks in seasoned flour and brown on all sides in hot oil in a Dutch oven or heavy skillet. Remove shanks. Add to oil remaining in pan, onion, celery, carrots, garlic and parsley. Cook over medium heat 3 to 4 minutes. Add tomatoes and seasonings to pan, mix well. Return lamb shanks and any remaining liquid sauce to pan, cover. Simmer over moderately low heat until very tender, about 1 hour or more.

Have ready a serving platter filled with hot cooked spaghetti. Saute green pepper and pour over spaghetti. Stir ¼ cup warm red wine or hot water into sauce remaining in pan, then process in blender until smooth or press through strainer. Pour sauce over shanks and serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Tips For Barbecues

The nonprofit National Fire Protection Association offers the following tips for barbecue-lovers:

Never add any flammable liquid to a burning fire, use starter fuels sparingly and only before the fire is lighted. Never use gasoline, paint thinners, alcohol or similar liquids.

Keep fire-starter cans away from the barbecue.

Better still, use a solid starter, a cake-form chemical which reduces chances of a flareup.

Keep youngsters at a safe distance from the barbecue.

Watch lightweight clothing, such as frilly party dresses that little girls often wear.

In the early years of our marriage, my wife has told me, she knew something had gone amiss in the evening meal when I, easing back from the chair, would go to the cabinet and return with bread and peanut butter to continue my nourishment.

I would, too, on occasion, eat half a jar with a teaspoon while sitting reflectively in the kitchen drinking milk.

Alas, those days are gone, a casualty of trying to hold one's waist line from season to season. However, my son now calls for it each morning to put on his toast and the peanut butter jar has returned to the table.

So it was with more than passing interest that I read recently of presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey's special affinity for peanut butter.

Humphrey, a man never caught without something to say, had been asked by Miss Paulette Brown, the reigning "Georgia Peanut Princess," how he felt about peanut butter.

"I agree with you that peanut butter is as much or more of a household treat as Mom's apple pie," the Minnesota Senator wrote the Georgia Peach. "My favorite sandwich is peanut butter, baloney, cheddar cheese, lettuce and mayonniase on toasted bread with lots of catsup on the side."

WELL SIR, there was a show stopper. Was he serious? I had been a pretty tough peanut butter combination man myself in my day. I have dined on peanut butter and mayonnaise sandwiches, peanut butter and banana and your standard peanut butter and jelly, of course, among other combinations. I tried peanut butter and raw onion for a brief period but developed no real fondness for it.

There was only one way. Test it. I chose Sunday afternoon, feeling that the hospital emergency wards would be less crowded at that time should I need assistance.

Selection of an accompanying beverage was necessary. I chose a can of beer. Science was at wrok here as I figured the alcoholic content of the beer might somehow offset any strange bacterial cultures that the stomach would give house to when the peanut butter, mayonnaise, baloney and cheese came sliding down with the catsup.

I made the sandwich, sloshed catsup on the side of the plate, popped open a can of beer and fell to. The first bite was without catsup, the second with, 2so as to get the full range of taste subtleties involved.

Friends, it was fine. I ended up eating two of the things. It's true. I have witnesses. I am of a mind now that Hubert wasn't putting us on at all.

Simple ingredients, when fitted to the imagination of the gourmet chef, are reborn into an epicure's symphoic delight. Pass the catsup.

More Sherry Drinkers

American consumption of Spanish sherry more than tripled between 1961 and 1971, going from 483,243 gallons to 1,490,960 gallons. The figures are from the National Association of Beverage Importers, Washington, D.C.

During the 15 years prior to 1960, imported sherry sales in the United States had increased by only 3 per cent. The Sherry Institute attributes the rapid growth since then to heavy advertising and promotional campaigns and to an affluent society's search for a "quality" image.

Baked Shanks Italian Style

Fans of Italian dishes can whip up their own Osso Bucco and serve with spaghetti and sauce with little trouble. Baked Shanks Italian Style makes use of a still relatively inexpensive meat cut that offers a lot of flavor. Men especially like this dish and will enjoy adding it to their list of specialties. Serve with a hearty green salad and pumpernickel rolls.

BAKED SHANKS
ITALIAN STYLE
(Mock Osso Bucco)

4 meaty lamb shanks
2 tablespoons liquid gravy seasoning and browning sauce
Seasoned flour
½ cup salad oil
1 large onion, sliced thin
½ cup diced celery
1 cup sliced carrots
1 clove garlic, mashed
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 can (2 lbs. 3 oz.) plum tomatoes
¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
1 large green pepper, diced and sauteed
Cooked spaghetti

Wipe the lamb shanks well on paper towels then brush all over with liquid gravy seasoning and browning sauce. Let shanks dry a little and reserve remaining liquid sauce. Roll the shanks in seasoned flour and brown on all sides in hot oil in a Dutch oven or heavy skillet. Remove shanks. Add to oil remaining in pan, onion, celery, carrots, garlic and parsley. Cook over medium heat 3 to 4 minutes. Add tomatoes and seasonings to pan, mix well. Return lamb shanks and any remaining liquid sauce to pan, cover. Simmer over moderately low heat until very tender, about 1 hour or more.

Have ready a serving platter filled with hot cooked spaghetti. Saute green pepper and pour over spaghetti. Stir ¼ cup warm red wine or hot water into sauce remaining in pan, then process in blender until smooth or press through strainer. Pour sauce over shanks and serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Tips For Barbecues

The nonprofit National Fire Protection Association offers the following tips for barbecue-lovers:

Never add any flammable liquid to a burning fire, use starter fuels sparingly and only before the fire is lighted. Never use gasoline, paint thinners, alcohol or similar liquids.

Keep fire-starter cans away from the barbecue.

Better still, use a solid starter, a cake-form chemical which reduces chances of a flareup.

Keep youngsters at a safe distance from the barbecue.

Watch lightweight clothing, such as frilly party dresses that little girls often wear.

'Everything You've Always Wanted To Know...'

The Cookbook That Tells It All

by FRAN HECKART

Is a green-tinged orange ripe?

What are crudites?

How can you judge whether meat is spoiled or not?

Helen McCully answers these questions plus about 230 pages more in her new book "Things You've Always Wanted to Know About Food & Drink" Holt, Rinehart & Winston, New York.

Miss McCulley follows the question and answer format in this companion volume to "Nobody Ever Tells You These Things About Food and Drink." She covers information on weights and measures, cooking techniques and various food categories.

The book not only makes good reading, but is a practical guide to the cook whether new in the kitchen and in the market, or more experienced.

Tucked amidst the questions and answers are several unusual recipes Miss McCully included for illustrations. Poached Chicken with Lemon Sauce, Avocado Soup and Jacques Pepin's Steak au Poivre are among the offerings

STRAIGHT FORWARD answers are Miss McCully's style. But her subtle sense of humor adds personality to the replies. Both characteristics add to the readibility of the book.

To the query, "What is ginger brandy?" the author explains that it is a brandy flavored with ginger

Like ginger ale, ginger beer and ginger wine, bruised ginger roots are used to give the drink its flavor. However, she says, it is considerably stronger than any of these light drinks although boiled at a lower proof than straight brandies. Like a cordial, which it really is, ginger brandy is served after dinner.

Miss McCully concludes the subject of ginger brandy with the following comment, "Next time you feel a cold coming on, use ginger brandy to make a hot toddy. It is as effective as any pill."

REGARDING THE maturity of the green-tinged orange, Miss McCully states that the answer is "yes," because of a process known to grocers as regreening. The process is a phenomenon of nature that seems to be particularly true of Valencias. Even a fully ripe, bright Valencia orange will turn slightly green at the stem end while still on the tree.

Crudite, from the French, means raw. In the culinary world, crudites means raw food, especially fresh vegetables (radishes, baby carrots, turnips, scallions, tomatoes, etc.) that taste good served raw as hors d'oeuvres, with salt or mayonnaise, according to Miss McCully.

To judge whether meat is spoiled or not, your nose is a partial detector. Further, continues the author, there is usually a general change in quality of the meat which includes loss of freshness and a color change from bright red in the case of beef or pale pink for pork or veal to a dull grayed color. An off-odor may occur, or if the meat has been kept in an unopened package, a slippery surface may result

Miss McCully indicates that the old rule is still the best: "When in doubt, throw it out."

FOR THE FIRST time in "Things You've Always Wanted to Know About Food & Drink," or any other American book devoted to food, Miss McCully includes a discussion of the metric system of measurements. Since the United States is considering the possibility of going "metric," the author foresees the need for clarification, should the change occur.

As with all good reference books "Things You've Always Wanted to Know. . ." is equipped with index and chapter divisions. English Translations of French Menus, Housekeeping, Fruits, and Cooking Terms And Techniques categorize the information.

Helen McCully is food editor of House Beautiful. Her column, "Nobody Ever Tells You These Things About Food & Drink," is a regular monthly feature of that magazine. Besides many other books on food, she authored the popular "Cooking With Helen McCully Beside You."

Shortcut Sauerbraten

by AILEEN CLAIRE

A sneaky way to test a recipe is to try it out on a bachelor (male) relative who is accustomed to being spoiled by women of all ages. One such test resulted in a full 100 per cent vote for tastiness. This involved a shortcut sauerbraten with Dill Pickle Sauce. The delicious dish also got high marks for being a 331-calorie per serving item Non-dieting family members also may enjoy the traditional spatzle, or noodles, that often accompany this German "sour roast." Use the marinade for a delicious gravy.

SAUERBRATEN WITH DILL PICKLE SAUCE

- 1½ cups dill pickle liquid
- 1 cup water
- ½ cup dry red wine (or red wine vinegar)
- 3 medium onions, sliced
- 1 teaspoon mustard seed
- 6 whole cloves
- 3 bay leaves
- ½ teaspoon peppercorns
- 4 pound eye round rolled beef roast
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 6 large dill pickles, quartered lengthwise
- 1 pound small white onions, peeled
- 8 large carrots, peeled and cut in 1-inch diagonal pieces
- 4 (2-inch) gingersnaps, crushed

combine pickle liquid, water, wine, onions, and seasonings in large bowl. Add beef; cover and chill over-night, turning meat once or twice. Remove beef and dry, reserve marinade Heat oil in Dutch oven; add beef and brown on all sides. Drain off drippings. Add marinade; cover and simmer 3½ hours or until meat is tender. Add pickles, onions and carrots during last 15 minutes cooking time; simmer just until tender. Remove sauerbraten and pickles to serving plate; keep warm. Pour cooking liquid into quart measure; skim off fat. Add enough water to liquid to make 2½ cups; return to pan. Stir in gingersnap crumbs; taste and add salt if needed. Boil gravy 1 to 2 minutes. Serve with the sauerbraten. Makes 8 servings. (Approximately 331 calories per serving.)

Kitchen Notes

Sixteen-to-22-pound frozen turkeys are a good shopping value for small families when you ask the meat dealer to saw them into quarters. Each breast and leg quarter will provide eight 3-ounce servings after cooking.

Brussels sprouts first were grown on a large scale around Brussels, Belgium. They were marketed on an international scale as early as 1793.

Half a cup of either cottage cheese or vanilla ice cream contains as much calvium as 3 cup of whole milk.

Baked potatoes will be mealier and fluffier if they're baked without foil wrapping and in a 425-degree oven. Prick each potato with a fork before baking to prevent it from bursting when steam builds inside the skin.

Buy only the amount of potatoes at one time that can be stored properly — in a dark spot where the temperature ranges between 45 and 50 degrees. Refrigerated uncooked potatoes become sweet and brown too quickly when fried.

A medium potato which weighs about 5 ounces contains about 90 calories. It's the butter, gravy or sour cream served with potatoes that makes the calorie count zoom. Add flavor without excess calories by cooking potatoes in bouillon or fat-free broth and season with chopped chives.

Tucked amidst the questions and answers are several unusual recipes Miss McCully included for illustrations. Poached Chicken with Lemon Sauce, Avocado Soup and Jacques Pepin's Steak au Poivre are among the offerings.

STRAIGHT FORWARD answers are Miss McCully's style. But her subtle sense of humor adds personality to the replies. Both characteristics add to the readibility of the book.

To the query, "What is ginger brandy?" the author explains that it is a brandy flavored with ginger.

Like ginger ale, ginger beer and ginger wine, bruised ginger roots are used to give the drink its flavor. However, she says, it is considerably stronger than any of these light drinks although boiled at a lower proof than straight brandies. Like a cordial, which it really is, ginger brandy is served after dinner.

Miss McCully concludes the subject of ginger brandy with the following comment, "Next time you feel a cold coming on, use ginger brandy to make a hot toddy. It is as effective as any pill."

REGARDING THE maturity of the green-tinged orange, Miss McCully states that the answer is "yes," because of a process known to grocers as regreening. The process is a phenomenon of nature that seems to be particularly true of Valencias. Even a fully ripe, bright Valencia orange will turn slightly green at the stem end while still on the tree.

Crudite, from the French, means raw. In the culinary world, crudites means raw food, especially fresh vegetables (radishes, baby carrots, turnips, scallions, tomatoes, etc.) that taste good served raw as hors d'oeuvres, with salt or mayonnaise, according to Miss McCully.

To judge whether meat is spoiled or not, your nose is a partial detector. Further, continues the author, there is usually a general change in quality of the meat which includes loss of freshness and a color change from bright red in the case of beef or pale pink for pork or veal to a dull grayed color. An off-odor may occur, or if the meat has been kept in an unopened package, a slippery surface may result.

Miss McCully indicates that the old rule is still the best: "When in doubt, throw it out."

FOR THE FIRST time in "Things You've Always Wanted to Know About Food & Drink," or any other American book devoted to food, Miss McCully includes a discussion of the metric system of measurements. Since the United States is considering the possibility of going "metric," the author foresees the need for clarification, should the change occur.

As with all good reference books "Things You've Always Wanted to Know. . ." is equipped with index and chapter divisions. English Translations of French Menus, Housekeeping, Fruits, and Cooking Terms And Techniques categorize the information.

Helen McCully is food editor of House Beautiful. Her column, "Nobody Ever Tells You These Things About Food & Drink," is a regular monthly feature of that magazine. Besides many other books on food, she authored the popular "Cooking With Helen McCully Beside You."

Shortcut Sauerbraten

by AILEEN CLAIRE

A sneaky way to test a recipe is to try it out on a bachelor (male) relative who is accustomed to being spoiled by women of all ages. One such test resulted in a full 100 per cent vote for tastiness. This involved a shortcut sauerbraten with Dill Pickle Sauce. The delicious dish also got high marks for being a 331-calorie per serving item. Non-dieting family members also may enjoy the traditional spatzle, or noodles, that often accompany this German "sour roast." Use the marinade for a delicious gravy.

SAUERBRATEN WITH DILL PICKLE SAUCE

- 1½ cups dill pickle liquid
- 1 cup water
- ½ cup dry red wine (or red wine vinegar)
- 3 medium onions, sliced
- 1 teaspoon mustard seed
- 6 whole cloves
- 3 bay leaves
- ½ teaspoon peppercorns
- 4 pound eye round rolled beef roast
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 6 large dill pickles, quartered lengthwise
- 1 pound small white onions, peeled
- 8 large carrots, peeled and cut in 1-inch diagonal pieces
- 4 (2-inch) gingersnaps, crushed

combine pickle liquid, water, wine, onions, and seasonings in large bowl. Add beef; cover and chill over-night, turning meat once or twice. Remove beef and dry; reserve marinade. Heat oil in Dutch oven; add beef and brown on all sides. Drain off drippings. Add marinade; cover and simmer 3½ hours or until meat is tender. Add pickles, onions and carrots during last 15 minutes cooking time; simmer just until tender. Remove sauerbraten and pickles to serving plate; keep warm. Pour cooking liquid into quart measure; skim off fat. Add enough water to liquid to make 2½ cups; return to pan. Stir in gingersnap crumbs; taste and add salt if needed. Boil gravy 1 to 2 minutes. Serve with the sauerbraten. Makes 8 servings. (Approximately 331 calories per serving.)

Kitchen Notes

Sixteen-to-22-pound frozen turkeys are a good shopping value for small families when you ask the meat dealer to saw them into quarters. Each breast and leg quarter will provide eight 3-ounce servings after cooking.

Brussels sprouts first were grown on a large scale around Brussels, Belgium. They were marketed on an international scale as early as 1793.

Half a cup of either cottage cheese or vanilla ice cream contains as much calvium as 3 cup of whole milk.

Baked potatoes will be mealier and fluffier if they're baked without foil wrapping and in a 425-degree oven. Prick each potato with a fork before baking to prevent it from bursting when steam builds inside the skin.

Buy only the amount of potatoes at one time that can be stored properly — in a dark spot where the temperature ranges between 45 and 50 degrees. Refrigerated uncooked potatoes become sweet and brown too quickly when fried.

A medium potato which weighs about 5 ounces contains about 90 calories. It's the butter, gravy or sour cream served with potatoes that makes the calorie count zoom. Add flavor without excess calories by cooking potatoes in bouillon or fat-free broth and season with chopped chives.

Mrs. Clifford Johnson

She Cooks Inside And 'Carries Out'

by LOIS SEILER

Dining on the patio during the summer months is part of the lifestyle of the Clifford R. Johnson family of Arlington Heights.

"We seldom cook outdoors, but because we enjoy eating on the patio I concentrate on meals that can be transported easily to the table," Mitzi Johnson commented.

One of her favorite menus for the family or small dinner parties is Pork Chops Provencale.

"The recipe serves four, but it expands nicely for a larger group," she said.

Mitzi browns the chops first then bakes them in an herb-seasoned tomato sauce. She uses an attractive pewter-type casserole that can go directly from the oven to the table. The sauce has an appealing blend of flavors, and the chops become fork-tender.

When serving Pork Chops Provencale to guests, Mitzi usually accompanies them with wild rice. For her family, she prepares the less-expensive long grain and wild rice combination cooked in bouillon. Bib lettuce with ambrosia dressing and cheese puffs complete the menu.

The cheese puffs are one of her husband's favorites. Mitzi has been making them for 20 years, and they are always a success. Although a yeast recipe, there is no kneading involved. After the dough is mixed, it is dropped by tablespoonsfull into muffin pans. After rising until double in bulk, they are baked for 8 to 10 minutes.

A cup of Cheddar cheese and dry mustard incorporated into the dough give the puffs a nippy flavor, and they are light in texture.

"LEFTOVER PUFFS can be split and toasted, and are delicious for breakfast with eggs," Mitzi said.

For dessert, she suggests coffee ice cream and kahlua garnished with whipped cream and pistachio nuts for adults and chocolate sundaes for children.

With the sundaes she serves Mountain Cookies, a favorite of her children Susan, 18; Glen, 15; Jeanne, 12; and Robert, 9.

"These are chocolate cookies which are rolled in confectioners' sugar," Mitzi said. "During the baking period they rise and crack on top, resembling snow-capped chocolate mountains," she explained.

"Do not over-bake them," she cautioned, "as their appeal is their soft fudgie texture."

Mitzie remarked that she loves to cook, but seldom makes anything ahead of time. She finds that all of these recipes can easily be made the day she is entertaining. None require extensive preparation, yet the dinner is exceedingly appetizing from entree to dessert.

In addition to her culinary interests, Mitzi is a member of Goday Questers, is picture lady at Dryden School and a volunteer in the pediatrics ward at Presbyterian-St. Lukes Hospital. She plays tennis weekly year-round and particularly enjoys reading as a pastime.

PORK CHOPS PROVENCALE

4 medium pork chops
1 teaspoon salt
Spice Parisienne
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
½ teaspoon paprika
½ cup canned tomatoes
2 ounces dry sherry
½ teaspoon dried parsley
¼ teaspoon thyme
¼ teaspoon dill weed
½ piece bay leaf

Cut fat from pork chops and render fat in skillet. Brown chops well, seasoning them on both sides with salt. Sprinkle a dash of Spice Parisienne on each side. When chops are browned, arrange them in a baking dish.

Pour off all but one tablespoon fat in skillet. Soak instant minced onion in one tablespoon water for five minutes. Cook in fat until onions turn golden. Then add remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil and pour over chops in baking dish. Cover with foil and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until chops are tender.

Serve with wild rice or long grain and wild rice mix. Serves 4.

CHEESE PUFFS

2 small packages compressed yeast or 2 envelopes granular yeast
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup lukewarm water
¼ cup butter
2 eggs
1 tablespoon milk
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
¾ teaspoon salt
1½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons dry mustard
Grated cheese for topping (optional)

Combine yeast, sugar and lukewarm water.

Cream butter. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each addition. Add cheese and salt and mix well. Add yeast mixture, beating thoroughly.

Sift together flour and mustard; add to batter gradually, beating well.

Drop batter by tablespoonsful into greased, 2-inch muffin pans. Let rise until double in bulk, about one hour.

Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, about 8 to 10 minutes or until golden. If desired, the tops may be brushed with milk and sprinkled with grated cheese. Makes about 32 two-inch puffs.

MOUNTAIN COOKIES

½ cup corn oil
4 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
2 cups granulated sugar
4 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups sifted enriched flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup confectioners' sugar

Mix together oil, chocolate and sugar. Blend in eggs one at a time until well-mixed. Stir in salt, flour and baking powder. Chill several hours or overnight.

Drop small balls of batter into confectioners' sugar and roll. Place two inches apart on greased baking sheet. Bake 8 to 12 minutes, watching carefully. Do not over-bake. Makes about 50 cookies.

Franfare

Sweet green peppers are in plentiful supply now and are a great nutritional find This crisp vegetable is remarkably high in vitamin C as one medium, raw green pepper provides more than the recommended daily allowance of vitamin C for an adult.

It also supplies some vitamin A and a variety of other vitamins and minerals, plus bulk desirable for good digestion. An additional plus for the green pepper is that a 3½-inch one contains only 19 calories.

Botanists believe that the original home of the green pepper was Brazil. Columbus was looking for pepper on his voyage to what he thought was the Orient. It seems he believed that he had found it in some of the fiery varieties of Capsicum annum that he discovered in the New World, and he called them "peppers." The name gradually became the term for all varieties, sweet or hot.

Plump, crisp green peppers are just right for the salads and slaws, or to serve as a vegetable or main dish. Chopped, the peppers are delicious seasoning for stews, soups, meatloaves and sandwich fillings.

Green peppers can also be prepared the Italian way by cutting them into strips and sauteing them briefly in garlic-flavored olive oil. Just as tomatoes, they also make attractive containers for serving salad mixtures.

Peppers should be fresh, firm, bright, thick-fleshed and either bright green or with more or less red. The immature peppers are usually soft and dull looking.

The kinds most used are four to five inches long, are three or four-lobed and taper only slightly toward the blossom end. They are often called bell peppers.

Once purchased, keep them cool and humid; using within a few days.

To freeze green peppers select crisp, well-developed ones of good color, green or red. Wash, cut out stem and remove seeds. Cut in halves, dice or slice.

Scald green pepper halves three minutes; sliced and diced, 2 minutes. Chill, package and freeze.

Peppers lose crispness in freezing but are satisfactory for cooked dishes and do not need thawing. They can also be frozen without scalding.

Spicing: A Secret Of Pie Bakers

While Americans could undoubtedly win any international pie eating contest without the slightest effort, the pie-eatingest part of the country mus surely have been the Middle West a half century ago, especially at harvest times.

Twice a day the hungry crews were served a veritable banquet by their hostess, all kinds of tempting dishes, with pies as the finishing touch. In July and August there were early apples, fully-ripe pie cherries, blackberries, raspberries or gooseberries from the farm itself. Early peaches, too, and from the store, bananas and lemons by the bagful. The rivalry among the hostesses of the neighborhood was intense. And as often as not their fame as pie bakers rested on their spicing tricks.

Apple pie was spiced with a generous sprinkling of cinnamon, allspice or a bit of nutmeg. Cherry pie had the slyest bit of mace, "the cherry pie spice" or nutmeg. Cloves, used discreetly, were apt to flavor almost any fruit pie. Banana cream pie — generously topped with whipped cream or meringue, was given a dash of nutmeg.

Pie baking is still rewarding and today's bakers have even more spicy secrets, i.e., the convenient apple pie spice and pumpkin pie spice which offer professionally-compounded mixtures of several spices that flavor a pie perfectly at a single dash.

The recipes for Spiced Streusel-Topped Peach and Strawberry Pie and Open Sesame Blueberry Pie were created by the American Spice Trade Association.

SPICED STREUSEL-TOPPED PEACH AND STRAWBERRY PIE

1½ pounds peaches
1 pint strawberries, hulled and sliced
½ cup sugar
¼ cup quick-cooking tapioca
1½ teaspoons ground allspice, divided
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg, divided
1/8 teaspoon salt
½ cup flour
¼ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
¼ cup graham cracker crumbs
9-inch unbaked pastry shell

Peel and slice peaches (makes about 3 cups). In a large mixing bowl combine peaches and strawberries. Blend sugar with tapioca, 1 teaspoon of the allspice, ¼ teaspoon of the nutmeg and salt; mix with fruits; let stand 15 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare streusel topping by combining flour and brown sugar with remaining ½ teaspoon allspice and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg. Using a pastry blender or 2 knives cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle graham cracker crumbs over bottom of pastry shell. Pour fruit mixture over crumbs. Sprinkle streusel topping over fruit. Bake in a preheated very hot oven (450 degrees) for 20 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees) and bake 35 minutes longer or until topping is golden. Yield: One 9-inch pie

OPEN SESAME BLUEBERRY PIE (Deep Dish)

½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
¾ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ teaspoon ground cardamom
1 tablespoon orange juice
6 cups blueberries
1 package (10 to 11 oz.) pie crust mix
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon milk
¼ cup sesame seed

In a large bowl combine sugar, cornstarch, orange peel, nutmeg, cardamom and orange juice. Add blueberries; toss well and set aside. Prepare pie crust mix as label directs. Roll into a 12-inch circle 1/8-inch thick. Pour blueberry mixture into an unlined 10-inch pie plate. Dot with butter. Top with pastry; turn under and flute edges Make slits in pastry for steam to escape. Brush with milk. Sprinkle with sesame seed. Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 degrees) for 40 minutes or until crust is browned and juice begins to bubble through slits. Yield: One 10-inch pie.

PIE BAKING IS STILL rewarding for today's modern bakers. Spiced Streusel-Topped Peach and Strawberry Pie combines two seasonal fruits with a delicately spiced streusel toping. The recipe has all the flavor of an old fashioned pie with a modern method.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

Creativity is practiced all too infrequently in the preparation of vegetables in American restaurants and homes. Thus, vegetables come to the table most often overcooked and essentially tasteless. This need not be.

Vegetables overall can be prepared to yield maximum flavor qualities as well as color and variety to menus. Take this recipe which utilizes two No. 2 cans of whole baby beets.

Drain beets and reserve 2 tablespoons of the juice. In a saucepan or 10-inch Teflon skillet mix 2 tablespoons cornstarch with the beet juice. Add 1 cup orange juice, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, and 2 tablespoons vinegar.

Cook this sauce until clear. Add 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, and the beets. Mix. Preparation to this point can be done in advance and the beets held for several hours under refrigeration.

A few minutes before serving reheat the beets and add 4 tablespoons melted butter and 2 tablespoons grated orange peel. Serve hot to 6.

Chopped spinach can be tasty and attractive prepared in this fashion. Cook 3 cups chopped frozen spinach according to directions. Meanwhile cook ¼ cup chopped bacon until crisp. Reserve.

In the bacon fat saute ¼ cup chopped onion. When spinach is cooked, drain, add onion, bacon and ¼ cup light cream, mixing thoroughly while keeping hot. Season with salt and pepper. A tasty dish for 6.

WITH FRESH vegetables, too, creativity can make much more interesting fare. Here's a simple but unusual salad. In salad bowls or dishes, place a bed of crisp lettuce. Top with chilled fresh tomato slices and slices of ripe avocado. Season with salt and freshly ground pepper.

Cover generously with this dressing. Combine 4 tablespoons mayonnaise with 2 tablespoons sour cream. Add lemon juice to taste. I use about 1 teaspoon. Stir well. This makes enough dressing for 4 salads.

And, during the fresh corn season, try this old timer. Husk corn and remove silks. Cut or scrape kernels from the cob and place in a skillet with butter or bacon drippings. Cover and cook slowly, turning frequently and sprinkling with salt and pepper.

Two medium-sized ears will make about ½ cup, and you should allow that much per person for a delicious vegetable dish. Good corn eaters will easily devour a whole cup.

Mrs. Clifford Johnson

She Cooks Inside And 'Carries Out'

by LOIS SEILER

Dining on the patio during the summer months is part of the lifestyle of the Clifford R. Johnson family of Arlington Heights.

"We seldom cook outdoors, but because we enjoy eating on the patio I concentrate on meals that can be transported easily to the table," Mitzi Johnson commented.

One of her favorite menus for the family or small dinner parties is Pork Chops Provencale.

"The recipe serves four, but it expands nicely for a larger group," she said.

Mitzi browns the chops first then bakes them in an herb-seasoned tomato sauce. She uses an attractive pewter-type casserole that can go directly from the oven to the table. The sauce has an appealing blend of flavors, and the chops become fork-tender.

When serving Pork Chops Provencale to guests, Mitzi usually accompanies them with wild rice. For her family, she prepares the less-expensive long grain and wild rice combination cooked in bouillon. Bib lettuce with ambrosia dressing and cheese puffs complete the menu.

With over 70 Chicagoland Jewel Stores open until midnight seven days a week . . . there's sure to be a Midnight Jewel near you! And just imagine how much more convenient that's bound to make your shopping. Now you can shop when you have the time . . . not when you can make the time. After the kids are asleep, for instance, because that's the only time Dad will agree to babysit — or later in the evening, just because you don't want to wait in the lines right after work. And there's more! Most of the Midnight Jewels are now open at 8 o'clock in the morning every day except Sunday! Keep your Midnight Jewel in mind the next time you run out of staples; need breakfast cereal for the morning or just crave a late night snack . . . we help you do your job better!

PRICES EFFECTIVE, UNLESS OTHERWISE INDICATED THRU SAT., JULY 22, 1972 AT ALL JEWEL FOOD STORES IN COOK, LAKE, DUPAGE AND McHENRY COUNTIES (EXCLUDING RIVER OAKS).

ONLY SMOKED MEATS, LUNCHMEATS, POULTRY AND FROZEN FISH AND SEAFOOD ARE AVAILABLE AFTER 6 P.M. AND ALL DAY SUNDAYS AND HOLIDAYS.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The Volunteer Bureau

Offices Are Closed In July, August

Branch offices of the Volunteer Bureau, Northwest Cook County, are located in Arlington Heights, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Mount Prospect, and Elk Grove. These offices are staffed completely by volunteers. They are open only selected hours each week, and during the months of July and August they are not open at all.

All requests should be directed to the central office in the District 214 Administration Center in Mount Prospect, although the phone is not the district's phone. The phone in the name of the Volunteer Bureau is 398-1320. During the summer, this office is open Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday from 9 to 1. The paid staff, part-time, is at the central office.

The Volunteer Bureau knows that there are many persons in the northwest suburban area who are genuinely concerned about others and how to translate this concern into action. By maintaining branch offices it identifies more closely with the immediate residents, and yet the cost of operating the office is at a minimum by the procedure of the central office staff.

THE ELK GROVE branch office was at one time the Volunteer Resource Pool of District 59, and in February of 1971 it petitioned to become part of the Volunteer Service Bureau, Northwest Cook County, in order to receive the benefits of a central office, training programs, greater publicity, and the availability of a larger file of enrichment volunteers for the school curriculum.

Mrs. Ethel Brodl, Des Plaines, has been the director of the Volunteer Resource Pool and subsequently the branch office of the Volunteer Bureau for five years. Under her guidance the office served District 59, Elk Grove Community Services, Child Development Center-Headstart, Little City, Alexian Brothers Medical Center, and various other non-profit civic organizations. The office is in High Ridge Knolls School of District 59 where a desk, filing cabinet, phone, bulletin board, etc. are available for the office staff.

Donna Pressly, and Audrey Phillips of Arlington Heights have been part of that staff assisting Mrs. Brodl in clerical duties and in phoning responsibilities. The office has been open during the school year on Tuesdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

SOME OF THE requests that have been filled during the 1971-72 year are a demonstration of bagpipes, a lecture on snakes and their behaviour, a talk on oceanography, a lecture by a disc jockey, teachers aides for kindergarten, a presentation of a shell collection, a talk with slides on Italy, a lecture on the history and search for new drugs, a lecture on Norway and the customs and holidays of that country, a tutor to a fourth grade Polish speaking student, a lecture on local government, a demonstration on facets of pioneer life such as spinning, quilting, and candle making, and such services as grading spelling books and storytelling.

Mrs. Brodl compiled a collection of the highlights of the 1971-72 year and presented it to interested parties in the bureau and in the Elk Grove area. Mrs. Brodl was one of the recipients of the Volunteer of the Month award at the March annual meeting of the Volunteer

Many Condone Violence, According To A Study

(This is a weekly column presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited 135-bed psychiatric hospital, known for its programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

A lot of American men think it's necessary to use violence in order to control things and according to a recent study, many more American men think burning a draft card is more violent than shooting a looter.

Monica Blumenthal, M.D., co-author of the book "Justifying Violence: The Attitudes of American Men" and assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Michigan, interviewed American men throughout the country on their attitudes toward violence.

"We found there are several things which influence people's attitudes toward violence: how they define violence — that is, what they actually call violence; how much they identify with the violated person or persons and if a person is more retributive he is more likely to be inclined toward violence

"DURING THE COURSE of our interview," Dr. Blumenthal explained, "we found that 58 per cent of the men we questioned thought burning a draft card is violent and 56 per cent thought the beating of a student by police is violent; considerably fewer thought shooting a looter was violent."

Dr Blumenthal said her definition of violence is the act of injuring someone else or destroying property "but not all Americans look at it that way.

"One of the things that surprised us," she continued, "was the number of men who were willing to hoot in certain situations. Almost 50 per cent of those questioned thought police should shoot in campus disturbances — they didn't think it necessary to kill — but to shoot. The message is it's all right to use violence for certain kinds of things — like to control things."

According to Dr. Blumenthal what a person calls violence influences what he is prepared to do about it. "So if you think burning a card is violent and student protest is violent you're more likely to recommend more police force in controlling the disturbances. But if you don't think protest is violent you're more likely to recommend more peaceful kinds of methods to handle the situation."

She thinks that the more one segment of society uses violence for whatever end — even if it's good — the more other people will learn it's all right to use violence and violence escalates. "For instance, if I'm willing to use the violence of police to maintain control then the kid who is protesting thinks it's all right to use violence for some things, so, he ups the level of violence for his use and the whole thing spirals off."

SINCE SHE FOUND one of the ways people justify violence is on the basis of retribution, that is, the more they believe retributive justice is an appropriate kind of ethic, the more apt they are to justify violence for social control.

"I think we need to think about when we're being retributive because that's escalating violence. We have to defend ourselves all the time. We have to put ourselves in the other guy's shoes so we can better understand. We have to become more other-oriented rather than self-oriented. Violence is counterproductive no matter what we're trying to achieve.

"I think violence is something we can train away or change" Dr. Blumenthal added. "I think there may be some biological basis for some violence, but I don't think that controls everything. One has to sit and think why in the United States we're seven times more likely to kill someone with a gun than in any other civilized western country."

Veterans' News

Q — I AM attending school under the GI Bill and receive $205 monthly educational allowance for myself and wife. Will my wife be dropped as my dependent if she works and earns a certain amount of money?

A — No. Your wife's income has no bearing on the amount of educational assistance you receive.

Q — I RECEIVE compensation based on a 100 per cent disability. May I obtain employment without a reduction in compensation?

A — Yes, if your condition is rated 100 per cent based on unemployability, your rated less than 100 per cent and you are receiving temporary compensation at 100 per cent based on unemployability, your compensation would be reduced if you became employed.

Q — I AM A World War II veteran who never used his GI loan benefits. Is it true that I can still use this benefit?

A — Yes. The Veterans Housing Act of 1970 restored unused, expired loan benefits to all veterans who were previously eligible. These benefits are now available until used.

Q — DOES VA pay dividends on "RH" insurance issued to veterans separated from service because of service-connected disabilities?

A — No. By law, VA is not permitted to pay dividends on "RH" insurance policies.

Q — IF I DECIDE to go to school under the GI Bill, what can I do to speed up the arrival of educational allowance checks?

A — As soon as you receive your certificate of eligibility from VA, submit it to the proper school official for completion and make certain the school returns it to VA as soon as possible. As soon as VA receives the certificate, your checks will be started.

Q — I AM A veteran in prison drawing VA compensation. Since I am 65 and eligible for pension will VA pay me a pension if it is a greater benefit?

A — No. VA pension benefits are terminated on the 61st day of imprisonment in a penal institution. However, compensation payments can continue.

Q — IF I DECIDE to go to school under the GI Bill, what can I do to speed up the arrival of educational allowance checks?

A — As soon as you receive your certificate of eligibility from VA, submit it to the proper school official for completion and make certain the school returns it to VA as soon as possible. As soon as VA receives the certificate, your checks will be started.

Q — I AM A veteran in prison drawing VA compensation. Since I am 65 and eligible for pension will VA pay me a pension if it is a greater benefit?

A — No. VA pension benefits are terminated on the 61st day of imprisonment in a penal institution. However, compensation payments can continue.

BAR CABINET, designed by H. Paul Browning for American Furniture Co. (Romweber), has three compartments, one for bar equipment. Top comes either in hammered copper or walnut.

HORSESHOE-SHAPED Hunt server bar by Baker Furniture is copied from an English Regency wine table and provides space for person serving and room for plenty of bottles and glasses.

Today's Bar Units

Styled For Male Tastes

by FRAN HECKART

Designers of cabinetry to hold liquid refreshments are evidently paying little heed to the lady drinkers inasmuch as they are still styling the units to appeal mostly to masculine tastes.

The new bar units run the gamut from small medium priced chairside cabinets and bar-servers to "refreshment centers" that almost take the place of walk-in bars. Some of the larger units can be used in either home or office and are designed for very generous budgets.

Jamestown Lounge Co. has outfitted a handsome armoire in traditional design as a liquor cabinet. Considering its dimensions, 40 x 20 x 82 inches high, it is easy to visualize the quantity of bottles and the number of glasses it can store. There are also a black plastic shelf and a pull-out mixing area plus a utensil tray. An automatic light contributes to the self-sufficiency of the unit. The armoire is crafted in pecan and elm and is designed for the man who has almost everything. The massive self-contained bar retails for about $1,000.

ALSO DESIGNED for those in the larger income brackets are the Hunt server bar by Baker Furniture, Inc., and the bar cabinet from the Dorchester House collection by American Furniture Co.

Baker's bar is horse-shoe shaped and looks like an adaptation of the Hunt desk. In reality it's a copy of an English Regency wine table. Worked in French walnut and cherry, it has a slot in the center for the host who mixes and serves the drinks . . . and lots of space for storage of bottles and glasses.

H. Paul Browning designed Romweber's unique bar cabinet that can double as a buffet server in the dining room. It is 80 inches long, 20 inches deep, and 42 inches high, and is crafted in Circassian walnut and narrow hard cherry. There are three compartments, one of which is for bar equipment. It is available with either a walnut top or a hammered copper surface.

THE ETHAN ALLEN Collection by Baumritter Corp. now includes a complete refreshment center. There are two base cabinets and a deck. One base houses a refrigerator and the other stores bottles, while the deck is for glasses and equipment.

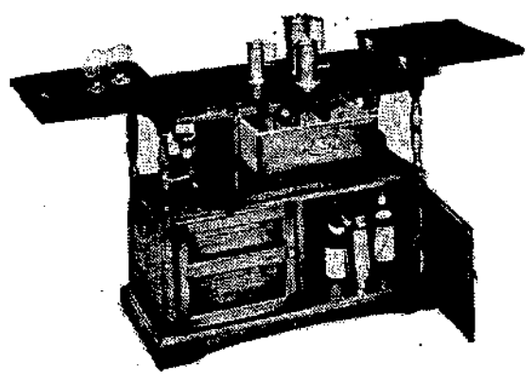
Extensole Corp.'s bar cabinets look like beautifully designed consoles, as do those by Jasper Cabinet Co. Extensole has one unit in cherry, available in either wood or paint finishes; another is crafted in solid elm and pecan veneers in medium brown finish. Both units are in Mediterranean design and have black plastic tops for mixing areas. Each contain space for a small refrigerator which is available for an extra charge of $150 — as is a set of glassware for an additional $20. The basic unit retails for about $458.

One of Jasper Cabinet's bars has an extra amount of masculine appeal in that it is in oak veneers and solids with quatrefoil decorations on the center front panel and is available with Spanish galleons burned in on leather on front end panels. The flip-top opening provides a generous work surface and accessibility to the bottles and glasses stored below.

CONANT BALL CO'S bar cart is equipped with casters so it can be easily moved from room to room. From the Roger Conant collection, it offers generous space for storing bottles, glasses and mixing equipment. The top opens to form a 67-inch work surface. The top and subtop have black laminated surfaces in leather pattern for durability and easy care. It retails for $310.

A desk chest by Basic-Witz, a division of Mohasco Industries, Inc., is interchangeable as a liquor cabinet-chest. Inside the drop lid is a plastic surface which can be used either as a writing surface or drink-mixing area. The interior can be arranged to store bottles and glasses. The unit is from the Campeon collection and is crafted in oak solids and veneers in fruitwood finish. It pairs with a book and TV chest for use in the den, living room or family room. Both are in the low-medium price brackets at $160.

A small unit from the Boutique series by Brandt Cabinet Works, Inc. is reminiscent of cellarettes, available in early post-Prohibition days, in design. For chairside use in den or living room, it is crafted in pecan veneers, stands 27 inches high and retails for about $122.



BAR CART ON CASTERS can "roam the range" to supply guests with liquid refreshments. From the Roger Conant collection by Conant Ball Co., it is in solid maple and features sufficient storage space for everything needed for mixing drinks.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

FOR THE MAN with a touch of the "old salt" in his nature, this bar unit in oak veneers and solids has quatrefoil decoration in the front panel and also comes — for a slightly higher — with Spanish galleons burned in on leather on front end panels. The wood front retails for $369, with galleons about $450.

ARMOIRE, HANDSOMELY RIGGED as a liquor cabinet, is by Jamestown Lounge Co. In pecan and elm, it has pull-out mixing shelf, an automatic light and utensil tray. Back panel is finished in gold leaf.

Diane Bang Chooses Blue, Lavender Wedding Scheme

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Baker

Diane Bang of Arlington Heights chose a lavender and blue color scheme for her June 24 marriage to Jeffrey Baker in St. Paul United Church of Christ of Palatine.

Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Bang, 1315 N. Illinois Ave., and Jeffrey's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clare R. Baker, 727 N. Maple St., Palatine.

Tiny blue flowers accented Diane's bridal bouquet of white roses, carnations and baby's breath. Her shirtwaist style dress was of embroidered nylon with long sleeves, a high neck and tiny buttons down the front of the shirtwaist bodice. A petal headpiece held her shoulder-length veil.

MRS. BANG sewed the dresses worn by the matron of honor, Diane's sister, Mrs. Kelley J. Williams of Chicago, and the bridesmaid, her cousin, Sherry Hanus of Buffalo Grove. The gowns were a sheer material in shades of lavender and blue. With them they carried mixed bouquets of daisies, blue cornflowers, baby's breath and assorted field flowers.

Al Gabriel of Palatine was Jeffrey's best man. Bob and Jack Franciskovich of Arlington Heights, cousins of the bridegroom, and Tom Bang, the bride's brother, ushered.

After the wedding the newlyweds were feted at a reception for 60 guests at the Holiday Inn in Elk Grove Village. They toured Wisconsin on their honeymoon and now are living in Channel Lake, Ill.

The bride attended Arlington High School and the groom, William Fremd. He is employed by Northwest Chicago Furnace Supply Co. in Mundelein.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Buying your own home is quite a thrill but even with all the pleasure, you find various problems. With not much money to play with, we thought we'd try wallpapering two rooms ourselves. We bought a pamphlet which explains just about every step — how to take off paper, how to prepare the walls, how to measure for the number of rolls necessary and so on, but the one question to which we need an answer is not in any of the literature. When you have to cover over a grease spot, is it better to use shellac or cover the area with foil? — Margot H.

If you really want trouble for the future, use foil. Josef Seibert, who has supervised many a job of this kind, says the best idea is the old-time remedy of clear shellac, thinned down with 20 per cent denatured alcohol. Foil will work, he says, but if you ever want to change the wallpaper, you will discover it is almost impossible to get off.

Dear Dorothy: One of the best home remedies for insect bites is to apply liberally a paste made of baking soda and water, then let dry. — C.A.D.

Dear Dorothy: Here is another recipe for salsify or, as we always call it, oyster plant. Scrape and wash the roots. Boil in salted water — using as little water as possible so as not to waste the flavor. When tender, mash, add one egg and a few cracker crumbs. Drop by spoonfuls in hot fat. The patties are delicious and can be served with anything. Wish this vegetable was easier to find in the market. — Helen Auth.

Tip to brides: If you will store your nail polish in the refrigerator, it will last almost indefinitely.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006).

Area Secretaries At Convention

"Thirty Years of Progress through Performance" is the theme of the 27th annual convention of the National Secretaries Association. Delegates and members will gather July 25-29 at the Palmer House of Chicago for the observance.

Two area secretaries are among those handling details of the convention activities. They are Eleanore Koss of Arlington Heights and Emily Jane Rauch of Des Plaines. Each is a certified professional secretary.

Twelve members of the local Park-Plaines Chapter of NSA will be attending the convention. Mrs. Dolores Parr, past president of the chapter, will be the voting delegate. Mrs. Dorothy Mydlach, incoming chapter president, will be alternate.

Accompanying them will be Gloria Boye, Fern Jacobs, Louise Kitto, Clara Ludwig, Donna Lawrence, Isobelle McKinnon, Doris Michel, Grace Roth, Gail Schmelzlen and Olive Schumacher.

Public Invited To Garden Club Symposium

Mrs. Jerome Thelander of Mount Prospect is staging chairman for the ninth annual symposium of the Garden Club of Illinois, Inc., and the Illinois Judges Council. It is slated for July 25, 26 and 27 at Stouffer's Oak Brook Inn.

All lectures are open to the public as well as to garden club members. Nationally accredited flower show judges are eligible to take the course for credit as a refresher or as a required symposium toward the master certificate.

Registration chairman Mrs. David Moore of LaGrange, 354-4574, will reserve seats in order of paid attendance. Single lectures are $10; one day including lunch, $15; full course including lunch Tuesday and Wednesday, $28; dinner Tuesday, $6.

Remittance should be made to Garden Club of Illinois, Inc., and sent to Mrs. Moore, 2 Calle View Drive, LaGrange 60525.

Pattern Sizing Talk At Penney's

Hours of fitting frustration can be eliminated when you know how to make simple alterations, according to Simplicity Pattern Co., which is sending a representative to Penney's at Woodfield Friday and Saturday.

Nancy Hunt, Simplicity stylist, will talk on "Know Your Correct Pattern Size" with emphasis on choosing the correct pattern size for your particular figure type and body measurements. The pattern expert will also have a complete set of fitting dresses which home seamstresses may try on to determine size and figure type. According to Miss Hunt the correct pattern size will cut alterations to a minimum and save hours of dressmaking time.

The informal lecture will be presented at 10:30 a.m. Friday and at 11 a.m. Saturday in the sewing room of Penney's fabric department.

The program is free and open to all women who sew.

How to Have A Lovely Vacation

By Elizabeth Olsson
Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio

The promise of a vacation trip is as exciting as ever — a beautiful feeling of expectation that grows stronger every day until the time of departure finally arrives.

Whatever your plans are — relaxing at a seashore, hiding away at a mountain retreat, seeing the sights of a large city or touring a foreign country, — you should prepare now so you will look and feel your loveliest for the special occasion.

Be sure to pack and take your beauty accessories with you because it isn't always possible to pick up your favorite cosmetics when you are away from home. With a little pre-planning, you can organize your beauty aids for travel and avoid disappointment while you are vacationing.

Use spillproof bottles and jars to hold your complexion-care preparations. Don't discard or minimize your regular beauty routine in anticipation of travel inconveniences. It is important to cleanse, stimulate and protect your complexion while you are away from home because a change in environment may effect a change in your complexion.

Protect your skin from the harmful rays of the sun with a sunscreen cream or lotion. Use an after-sun moisturizer to replenish your parched skin with moisture after sunning. Be sure to take your sun in small doses and never at midday in order to avoid a nasty burn that could spoil your vacation.

Be sure to take your regular shade of base and one darker shade. In this way, as your skin tone changes, you will be able to mix the two shades to blend perfectly with your changing skin tone. Your base will act as a protection against sun, wind and dirt and help keep your complexion soft and lovely.

You'll want your feet to look and feel their best too. Soak your feet in a special foot bath with a soap intended just for feet. Gently rub corns and callouses with a foot sponge until all hardened skin has been removed. Rinse and dry feet thoroughly.

Apply a foot-moisturizing cream to smooth, soothe and deodorize. And, as a treat to your feet, use a cooling foot spray to bring quick relief to hot, tired feet.

You will also want to color co-ordinate your clothes with your eye shadows and lipstick shades. A shadow box with many shades of eye shadow is a space saver. Lipstick totes with six shades of lipstick are also available. They will make it convenient for you because you will have just the right shade of lipstick on hand for every occasion.

A small cosmetic bag will hold your eyeliner, mascara and brow make-up. Don't forget the necessary brushes, tweezers and cotton balls.

Hair shampoo and conditioner, small hand hair dryer and rollers will help keep hair manageable if there is not a qualified hair dresser available. Of course, a pre-cut, prestyled and pre-curled wig will give you the luxury of easy-care hair and allow you to appear well-groomed and well-coiffured in an instant.

To restore your sense of serenity at the end of a long hot summer day, a luxurious bath in scented water does wonders for the femine psyche.

To the basic needs mentioned above, add your own personal can't-live-without items and get ready to fulfill the travel folders promise of excitement during the sun-filled days and romantic nights that lie ahead.

Diane Bang of Arlington Heights chose a lavender and blue color scheme for her June 24 marriage to Jeffrey Baker in St. Paul United Church of Christ of Palatine.

Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Bang, 1315 N. Illinois Ave., and Jeffrey's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clare R. Baker, 727 N. Maple St., Palatine.

Tiny blue flowers accented Diane's bridal bouquet of white roses, carnations and baby's breath. Her shirtwaist style dress was of embroidered nylon with long sleeves, a high neck and tiny buttons down the front of the shirtwaist bodice. A petal headpiece held her shoulder-length veil.

MRS. BANG sewed the dresses worn by the matron of honor, Diane's sister, Mrs. Kelley J. Williams of Chicago, and the bridesmaid, her cousin, Sherry Hanus of Buffalo Grove. The gowns were a sheer material in shades of lavender and blue. With them they carried mixed bouquets of daisies, blue cornflowers, baby's breath and assorted field flowers.

Al Gabriel of Palatine was Jeffrey's best man. Bob and Jack Franciskovich of Arlington Heights, cousins of the bridegroom, and Tom Bang, the bride's brother, ushered.

After the wedding the newlyweds were feted at a reception for 60 guests at the Holiday Inn in Elk Grove Village. They toured Wisconsin on their honeymoon and now are living in Channel Lake, Ill.

The bride attended Arlington High School and the groom, William Fremd. He is employed by Northwest Chicago Furnace Supply Co. in Mundelein.

Birth Notes

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Shawn Patrick McGinnis arrived July 7 for Mr. and Mrs. James T. McGinnis of 625 Groen Lane, Schaumburg. He is their first child and weighed 6 pounds 7½ ounces. Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Mache of Arlington Heights and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert McGinnis of Orlando, Fla., are his grandparents.

Deanna Lynne Morales, second child in the junior Francisco Morales family of Carpentersville, has grandparents living in Mount Prospect, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Talo. The baby was born July 10 at 6 pounds 4 ounces. Frankie, 3, is her brother. Deanna's other grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. F. Morales of Carpentersville.

John Charles Larsen, second son for Mr. and Mrs. James G. Larsen, 448 S. Vail, Arlington Heights, was born July 14. The baby weighed 7 pounds 7 ounces and is a brother for 3-year-old Eric. His grandparents are the J. O. Larsens of Indianapolis and the Carl Longs of Newton, Iowa.

Carolyn Debra Ernst is the name given to the baby born July 15 to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Ernst, 317 Beverly Lane, Mount Prospect. She has a sister, Laura Lynne, 2. Grandparents are the C. J. Muellers of Mount Prospect and the Albert P. Ernsts of Chicago. Carolyn's birthweight was an even 7 pounds.

Rebecca Lynne Thorne arrived July 15 for Mr. and Mrs. Mark S. Thorne of 1618 Weathersfield Way, Schaumburg. She is their second child, a sister for Randy, 18 months old. Her grandparents are the Frank B. Hendersons and the Arthur J. Thornes, all of Mount Prospect. Rebecca weighed 8 pounds 7 ounces at birth.

ALEXIAN BROTHERS

Daniel Aceudo Puente is the name of the first-born for Mr. and Mrs. Mario Aceuedo, 1102 W. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights. The baby arrived July 10 at 7 pounds 4 ounces. His grandparents are the Felipe Puentes of Des Plaines and the Ernesto Aceuedos of Palatine.

Andrea Kathleen Hill's birth took place July 14 for Mr. and Mrs. George Hill, 139 S. Ash St., Palatine. She has two sisters, Bobbie Jo, 12, and Georgia Ann, 3, and a brother Michael, 10. The 7 pound 12 ounce newcomer is the granddaughter of Mrs. Pauline Gunto of Moundsville, W. Va.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Buying your own home is quite a thrill but even with all the pleasure, you find various problems. With not much money to play with, we thought we'd try wallpapering two rooms ourselves. We bought a pamphlet which explains just about every step — how to take off paper, how to prepare the walls, how to measure for the number of rolls necessary and so on, but the one question to which we need an answer is not in any of the literature. When you have to cover over a grease spot, is it better to use shellac or cover the area with foil? — Margot H.

If you really want trouble for the future, use foil. Josef Seibert, who has supervised many a job of this kind, says the best idea is the old-time remedy of clear shellac, thinned down with 20 per cent denatured alcohol. Foil will work, he says, but if you ever want to change the wallpaper, you will discover it is almost impossible to get off.

Dear Dorothy: One of the best home remedies for insect bites is to apply liberally a paste made of baking soda and water, then let dry. — C.A.D.

Dear Dorothy: Here is another recipe for salsify or, as we always call it, oyster plant. Scrape and wash the roots. Boil in salted water — using as little water as possible so as not to waste the flavor. When tender, mash, add one egg and a few cracker crumbs. Drop by spoonfuls in hot fat. The patties are delicious and can be served with anything. Wish this vegetable was easier to find in the market. — Helen Auth.

Tip to brides: If you will store your nail polish in the refrigerator, it will last almost indefinitely.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006).

Area Secretaries At Convention

"Thirty Years of Progress through Performance" is the theme of the 27th annual convention of the National Secretaries Association. Delegates and members will gather July 25-29 at the Palmer House of Chicago for the observance.

Two area secretaries are among those handling details of the convention activities. They are Eleanore Koss of Arlington Heights and Emily Jane Rauch of Des Plaines. Each is a certified professional secretary.

Twelve members of the local Park-Plaines Chapter of NSA will be attending the convention. Mrs. Dolores Parr, past president of the chapter, will be the voting delegate. Mrs. Dorothy Mydlach, incoming chapter president, will be alternate.

Accompanying them will be Gloria Boye, Fern Jacobs, Louise Kitto, Clara Ludwig, Donna Lawrence, Isobelle McKinnon, Doris Michel, Grace Roth, Gail Schmelzlen and Olive Schumacher.

Public Invited To Garden Club Symposium

Mrs. Jerome Thelander of Mount Prospect is staging chairman for the ninth annual symposium of the Garden Club of Illinois, Inc., and the Illinois Judges Council. It is slated for July 25, 26 and 27 at Stouffer's Oak Brook Inn.

All lectures are open to the public as well as to garden club members. Nationally accredited flower show judges are eligible to take the course for credit as a refresher or as a required symposium toward the master certificate.

Registration chairman Mrs. David Moore of LaGrange, 354-4574, will reserve seats in order of paid attendance. Single lectures are $10; one day including lunch, $15; full course including lunch Tuesday and Wednesday, $28; dinner Tuesday, $6.

Remittance should be made to Garden Club of Illinois, Inc., and sent to Mrs. Moore, 2 Calle View Drive, LaGrange 60525.

Pattern Sizing Talk At Penney's

Hours of fitting frustration can be eliminated when you know how to make simple alterations, according to Simplicity Pattern Co., which is sending a representative to Penney's at Woodfield Friday and Saturday.

Nancy Hunt, Simplicity stylist, will talk on "Know Your Correct Pattern Size" with emphasis on choosing the correct pattern size for your particular figure type and body measurements. The pattern expert will also have a complete set of fitting dresses which home seamstresses may try on to determine size and figure type. According to Miss Hunt the correct pattern size will cut alterations to a minimum and save hours of dressmaking time.

The informal lecture will be presented at 10:30 a.m. Friday and at 11 a.m. Saturday in the sewing room of Penney's fabric department.

The program is free and open to all women who sew.

How to Have A Lovely Vacation

By Elizabeth Olsson
Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio

The promise of a vacation trip is as exciting as ever — a beautiful feeling of expectation that grows stronger every day until the time of departure finally arrives.

Whatever your plans are — relaxing at a seashore, hiding away at a mountain retreat, seeing the sights of a large city or touring a foreign country, — you should prepare now so you will look and feel your loveliest for the special occasion.

Be sure to pack and take your beauty accessories with you because it isn't always possible to pick up your favorite cosmetics when you are away from home. With a little pre-planning, you can organize your beauty aids for travel and avoid disappointment while you are vacationing.

Use spillproof bottles and jars to hold your complexion-care preparations. Don't discard or minimize your regular beauty routine in anticipation of travel inconveniences. It is important to cleanse, stimulate and protect your complexion while you are away from home because a change in environment may effect a change in your complexion.

Protect your skin from the harmful rays of the sun with a sunscreen cream or lotion. Use an after-sun moisturizer to replenish your parched skin with moisture after sunning. Be sure to take your sun in small doses and never at midday in order to avoid a nasty burn that could spoil your vacation.

Be sure to take your regular shade of base and one darker shade. In this way, as your skin tone changes, you will be able to mix the two shades to blend perfectly with your changing skin tone. Your base will act as a protection against sun, wind and dirt and help keep your complexion soft and lovely.

You'll want your feet to look and feel their best too. Soak your feet in a special foot bath with a soap intended just for feet. Gently rub corns and callouses with a foot sponge until all hardened skin has been removed. Rinse and dry feet thoroughly.

Apply a foot-moisturizing cream to smooth, soothe and deodorize. And, as a treat to your feet, use a cooling foot spray to bring quick relief to hot, tired feet.

You will also want to color co-ordinate your clothes with your eye shadows and lipstick shades. A shadow box with many shades of eye shadow is a space saver. Lipstick totes with six shades of lipstick are also available. They will make it convenient for you because you will have just the right shade of lipstick on hand for every occasion.

A small cosmetic bag will hold your eyeliner, mascara and brow make-up. Don't forget the necessary brushes, tweezers and cotton balls.

Hair shampoo and conditioner, small hand hair dryer and rollers will help keep hair manageable if there is not a qualified hair dresser available. Of course, a pre-cut, prestyled and pre-curled wig will give you the luxury of easy-care hair and allow you to appear well-groomed and well-coiffured in an instant.

To restore your sense of serenity at the end of a long hot summer day, a luxurious bath in scented water does wonders for the femine psyche.

To the basic needs mentioned above, add your own personal can't-live-without items and get ready to fulfill the travel folders promise of excitement during the sun-filled days and romantic nights that lie ahead.

Tour Of Europe Started A Romance

An organ study group touring Europe during the summer of 1970 introduced Diane Papenberg of Red Bud, Ill., and John Olson, Wheeling. Both are now teachers in Lutheran schools, Diane in Saginaw, Mich., and John in Auburn, Mich.

They were married June 24 in St. John Lutheran Church, Red Bud, where the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Papenberg, live. John is the son of the Wallace C. Olsons of Wheeling.

For the evening ceremony, the bride chose her sister, Anita Papenberg of Peoria, as maid of honor and Virginia Herodes of Grand Rapids, Mich., as bridesmaid.

WALLACE OLSON JR. of Mundelein served his brother as best man and another brother, Bill Olson, Wheeling, was groomsman. The wedding guests were seated by Clifford Papenberg, Diane's brother, and her cousin, Harold Liefer of Red Bud.

As she was given in marriage, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza over satin. The organza overlaid the high neckline, the fitted bodice with short sleeves and extended in two panels down the front of the flared skirt and chapel train. Tiny daisies of Venise lace outlined the overlays.

With the gown Diane wore a satin pillbow and four-tier veil. She carried a nosegay of mixed blooms.

HER TWO ATTENDANTS wore two-toned gowns that combined a hot pink bodice and a floral printed skirt flowing from a raised waistline. The girls carried nosegays of pink flowers.

Seventy-five guests greeted the couple at a dinner reception at Augustine's Restaurant in Belleville. After a week's honeymoon, the newlyweds are making their home in Auburn, Mich., where John teaches at Zion Lutheran School.

Couple Back On Campus After Palatine Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. William Wallinger

Pamela A. Zmich and William J. Wallinger are doing a lot of commuting between Macomb and Palatine this sumfer.

Pamela, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zmich, 732 Lakeside Drive, Palatine, met Bill while attending Western Illinois University, Macomb, where she graduated this year. They were married in Palatine June 24, returned to Macomb while Bill continues his education, but late in August they will come back to Palatine again. Pamela will begin teaching here in the fall, and Bill will graduate from Western Illinois in December.

They were married at 11 a.m. in St. Theresa Catholic Church, Palatine, and feted at a reception at Indian Lakes Country Club.

Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wallinger of Pekin, Ill. His brother David was best man, and four of his friends from Pekin were ushers, along with the bride's brother Terry. The four include Steve Vidic, David Hudson, William Holman and Virgil Turner, who is also his cousin.

PAMELA CHOSE Joann Kerns of St. Ann, Mo., as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Chris Hruby, Westchester; Lorrie Behnke, Crystal Lake; and Patti Berberek, Lyons, Ill.

All four were gowned alike in white lace over mint green with matching green picture hats. They carried white carnations, orange roses, yellow daisies and baby's breath.

THE BRIDE was attired in a white organza gown trimmed with lace on the high neckline, down the long full sleeves and on the chapel train. An organza cap trimmed with lace held her fingertip veil, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, orange roses, yellow daisies, stephanotis and baby's breath.

As "something old" she wore her grandmother's heirloom ring.

Also in her bridal party was a cousin, Kim Ferguson of Rolling Meadows, who was flower girl. Kim wore a dress to match the adult attendants and carried similar flowers.

Before studying at Western Illinois, Pamela was a '68 graduate of Fremd High School.

Donnajean Sembach Married

Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Somerfield

The former Donnajean M. Sembach of Hoffman Estates will combine homemaker duties with her teaching this fall following her June 10 marriage.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Sembach, 169 Payson St., Donnajean was married in a one o'clock ceremony at St. Mary's Church of West Chicago to Jack L. Somerfield, son of Mrs. Frank D. Somerfield of Riverside.

The couple are living in West Chicago. Donnajean, a graduate of Palatine High School and Northern Illinois University, is a third grade teacher in the Elburn (Ill.) elementary schools, and Jack is employed by the Glen Ellyn school district.

Carol Urbancic of Waukegan was Donnajean's maid of honor. Mrs. Lynn White of Chicago Heights was bridesmaid while a cousin, Mary Ann Homenko of Chicago, was junior bridesmaid.

Jack was attended by Raymond Bonner of Riverside as best man. Ushers were Richard McGann, Darien, Ill.; Charles Dimberg, Hoffman Estates; and James McGann, Downers Grove.

A reception for the 100 guests was held at the Swedish Manor Smorgasbord in Hillside.

The couple had a one-week honeymoon at the Wisconsin Dells.

Weds In Detroit

A former Palatine girl, Karen Jean Orndorff, was married July 14 in Detroit, Mich., to Robert Stewart Robertson Jr. of Jersey City, N.J. The couple are both students at Wayne State University, Detroit.

Karen, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Owen Orndorff, now of Glen Arbor, Mich., graduated from Palatine High School in 1967 and from Michigan State University in '70. She is studying law at Wayne State, and her husband is a medical student.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

It's the berries—

STRAWBERRIES, this week anyway.

Perhaps, dear readers, you think I've gone loopy, talking about fruit-picking last week and then again this week! Well, maybe I have.

But right now I've got startling discoveries to tell you.

I've been involved in a serious consumer research project. In the interests of my readers, I have spent all week eating strawberries in an effort to discover just when a strawberry is at its peak taste. And believe me, it took a lot of sampling. How I work for you readers!

MY INTENSIVE study was started after I visited the Roberts Berry Farm in Heafford Junction, Wis., where the pick-your-own strawberries were selling for a quarter a quart. I couldn't believe it when I saw the golf-ball sized berries.

I asked the farmer what kind of fertilizer, fungicide and pesticide he uses. As an organic gardener, I was delighted when he told me, ' The most important thing in growing strawberries is good tilth (loose, friable soil). So I disc in manures, straw, compost, all organic materials to keep the soil light," he said.

After picking 24 quarts of strawberries, I found that the biggest ones aren't necessarily the best. Aided by my panel of teenage researchers who helped me test the berries, the Good Consumer Report found out the sweetest fruit has a tinge of white on the bottom. Picked perfectly ripe, a berry has poor holding quality, especially if the berry-putter-upper isn't going to freeze, can, make pie or jam for a few days.

WE STRAWBERRY "connoisseurs" discovered the berries whose seeds were recessed on the skin were better than those whose seeds were raised. The darker the berry, the more sugar loss.

We used the younger, lighter, but larger berries for eating and shortcake; the smaller, seedy ones for pies; and the mushy, overripe ones for jam and sauce. We made a quickie pie with a vanilla wafer and butter crust, filled the crust with homemade strawberry ice cream and dribbled strawberry sauce atop it. Yum!

The strawberry season continues for possibly another week in the northern regions, but here are a few tips for next season in Illinois:

Peak berries snap when you pluck them (like string beans). When you pick a berry that is overripe, even if it looks good, the stem will fall away from the berry. You don't want that one.

And last, but not least, if in doubt, conduct your own survey.

"KNOW YOUR CORRECT PATTERN SIZE"

Come in and learn how to choose your correct pattern size by figure-type . . . how to save time and work by using a Basic Muslin as a fitting guide!

Simplicity suggests that for the best Basic Muslin fit women wear an effective foundation garment and a simple basic dress. Trying a muslin over a heavy wool or double-knit will not establish a true pattern size. So please come prepared!

Plan to attend one of our Presentations:

At our Woodfield store, in the Fashion Fabric Dept., lower level, on Friday, July 21st at 10:30 a.m. and on Saturday, July 22nd at 11:00 a.m.

Miss Nancy Hunt, stylist at Simplicity, will show you helpful hints in the fitting and adjusting of patterns.

Step Back

Like the old general store, we have a little of everything. Mostly, we have a folksy at-home feeling that says, "Come browse." Hunt for antique stoves, candle molds, Tiffany lamps or bright new enamelware, kitchen tools and wickerware. Our Gourmet Section includes spices and soups, delicious cheeses to sample, and more candies than an old-time penny store. Your nose will lead you to our Bakery. Breads, Strudels, Cookies and Pies waft sweet in the air as they are baked fresh in our ovens. And you must pause in our Winery and let Aunt Hilda pour you a glass of one of our exclusive California Fruit Wines.

Couple Back On Campus After Palatine Nuptials

Pamela A. Zmich and William J. Wallinger are doing a lot of commuting between Macomb and Palatine this sumfer.

Pamela, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zmich, 732 Lakeside Drive, Palatine, met Bill while attending Western Illinois University, Macomb, where she graduated this year. They were married in Palatine June 24, returned to Maçomb while Bill continues his education, but late in August they will come back to Palatine again. Pamela will begin teaching here in the fall, and Bill will graduate from Western Illinois in December.

They were married at 11 a.m. in St. Theresa Catholic Church, Palatine, and feted at a reception at Indian Lakes Country Club.

Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wallinger of Pekin, Ill. His brother David was best man, and four of his friends from Pekin were ushers, along with the bride's brother Terry. The four include Steve Vidic, David Hudson, William Holman and Virgil Turner, who is also his cousin.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wallinger

PAMELA CHOSE Joann Kerns of St. Ann, Mo., as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Chris Hruby, Westchester; Lorrie Behnke, Crystal Lake; and Patti Berberek, Lyons, Ill.

All four were gowned alike in white lace over mint green with matching green picture hats. They carried white carnations, orange roses, yellow daisies and baby's breath.

THE BRIDE was attired in a white organza gown trimmed with lace on the high neckline, down the long full sleeves and on the chapel train. An organza cap trimmed with lace held her fingertip veil, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, orange roses, yellow daisies, stephanotis and baby's breath.

As "something old" she wore her grandmother's heirloom ring.

Also in her bridal party was a cousin, Kim Ferguson of Rolling Meadows, who was flower girl. Kim wore a dress to match the adult attendants and carried similar flowers.

Before studying at Western Illinois, Pamela was a '68 graduate of Fremd High School.

Donnajean Sembach Married

The former Donnajean M. Sembach of Hoffman Estates will combine homemaker duties with her teaching this fall following her June 10 marriage.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Sembach, 169 Payson St., Donnajean was married in a one o'clock ceremony at St. Mary's Church of West Chicago to Jack L. Somerfield, son of Mrs. Frank D. Somerfield of Riverside.

The couple are living in West Chicago. Donnajean, a graduate of Palatine High School and Northern Illinois University, is a third grade teacher in the Elburn (Ill.) elementary schools, and Jack is employed by the Glen Ellyn school district.

Carol Urbancic of Waukegan was Donnajean's maid of honor. Mrs. Lynn White of Chicago Heights was bridesmaid while a cousin, Mary Ann Homenko of Chicago, was junior bridesmaid.

Jack was attended by Raymond Bonner of Riverside as best man. Ushers were Richard McGann, Darien, Ill.; Charles Dimberg, Hoffman Estates; and James McGann, Downers Grove.

A reception for the 100 guests was held at the Swedish Manor Smorgasbord in Hillside.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Somerfield

The couple had a one-week honeymoon at the Wisconsin Dells.

Weds In Detroit

A former Palatine girl, Karen Jean Orndorff, was married July 14 in Detroit, Mich., to Robert Stewart Robertson Jr. of Jersey City, N.J. The couple art both students at Wayne State University, Detroit.

Karen, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Owen Orndorff, now of Glen Arbor, Mich., graduated from Palatine High School in 1967 and from Michigan State University in '70. She is studying law at Wayne State, and her husband is a medical student.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

It's the berries—

STRAWBERRIES, this week anyway.

Perhaps, dear readers, you think I've gone loopy, talking about fruit-picking last week and then again this week! Well, maybe I have.

But right now I've got startling discoveries to tell you.

I've been involved in a serious consumer research project. In the interests of my readers, I have spent all week eating strawberries in an effort to discover just when a strawberry is at its peak taste. And believe me, it took a lot of sampling. How I work for you readers!

MY INTENSIVE study was started after I visited the Roberts Berry Farm in Heafford Junction, Wis., where the pick-your-own strawberries were selling for a quarter a quart. I couldn't believe it when I saw the golf-ball sized berries.

I asked the farmer what kind of fertilizer, fungicide and pesticide he uses. As an organic gardener, I was delighted when he told me, ' The most important thing in growing strawberries is good tilth (loose, friable soil). So I disc in manures, straw, compost, all organic materials to keep the soil light," he said.

After picking 24 quarts of strawberries, I found that the biggest ones aren't necessarily the best. Aided by my panel of teenage researchers who helped me test the berries, the Good Consumer Report found out the sweetest fruit has a tinge of white on the bottom. Picked perfectly ripe, a berry has poor holding quality, especially if the berry-putter-upper isn't going to freeze, can, make pie or jam for a few days.

WE STRAWBERRY "connoisseurs" discovered the berries whose seeds were recessed on the skin were better than those whose seeds were raised. The darker the berry, the more sugar loss.

We used the younger, lighter, but larger berries for eating and shortcake; the smaller, seedy ones for pies; and the mushy, overripe ones for jam and sauce. We made a quickie pie with a vanilla wafer and butter crust, filled the crust with homemade strawberry ice cream and dribbled strawberry sauce atop it. Yum!

The strawberry season continues for possibly another week in the northern regions, but here are a few tips for next season in Illinois:

Peak berries snap when you pluck them (like string beans). When you pick a berry that is overripe, even if it looks good, the stem will fall away from the berry. You don't want that one.

And last, but not least, if in doubt, conduct your own survey.

ANNOUNCEMENT
The Herald Newspaper does not knowingly accept HELP WANTED ads that indicate a preference based on age from employers covered by the

AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT.

HELP WANTED headings directed specifically toward either men or women are used merely for the convenience of our readers, to let them know which jobs have historically been more attractive to persons of one sex than the other. The placement of an ad under a heading is not in itself an expression of a preference, limitation, specification or discrimination based on sex. For further information contact the Wage and Hour Division Office of U.S. Department of Labor at 4032 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago, Illinois. Telephone (312) 736-2909.

ANNOUNCEMENT

AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT.

HELP WANTED headings directed specifically toward either men or women are used merely for the convenience of our readers, to let them know which jobs have historically been more attractive to persons of one sex than the other. The placement of an ad under a heading is not in itself an expression of a preference, limitation, specification or discrimination based on sex. BOARD OF LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS VILLAGE OF MOUNT PROSPECT, ILLINOIS SOUTHWEST STORM SEWER IMPROVEMENTS SPECIAL ASSESSMENT No. 71-CO-0081(70)

Notice to Bidders

Receipt of Proposals

Sealed Proposals for the construction of the Southwest Storm Sewer Improvements in the Village of Mount Prospect are invited and will be received on or before, but not later than, 8:00 P.M., Local Time, on Tuesday, the 8th day of August, 1972, at the office of the Village Manager, 112 E. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect, Illinois 60056, and immediately thereafter all bids will be publicly opened and the prices bid read aloud.

Sealed envelopes or packages containing Proposals shall be marked or endorsed "Proposal for Southwest Storm Sewer Improvements, Special Assessment No. 71-CO-0081(70), MFT Section 42-SS-CS." No Proposal will be considered unless it is made on the Proposal Form which is included in the Contract Documents. The Proposal must not be removed from, but must be kept bound with, such other Sections of the Contract Documents with which it has been bound by Owner.

General Description of Work

The above-designated work and improvements referred to as Southwest Storm Sewer Improvements, Special Assessment No. 71-CO-0081(70), MFT Section 42-SS-CS, on which Proposals are requested will be based upon construction of the following major items:

Approximately 5,720 feet of reinforced concrete storm sewer ranging in size from 72 inch diameter to 10 inch diameter, chamber bases, manholes, reinforced concrete headwall for 72 inch diameter sewer, 6,500 cubic yards of trench backfill, and all restoration, and including any and all appurtenances required to complete the improvements as shown on the plans.

Contract Documents

A copy of the Contract Documents, including Contract Drawings, are on file and available for inspection at the office of the Village Engineer, 11 S. Pine St., Mount Prospect, Illinois 60056, and at the office of Consoer, Townsend and Associates, Consulting Engineers, 360 E. Grand Ave., Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Reference shall be made to said documents for full particulars respecting the work to be performed.

Copies of Contract Documents required for review or bidding purposes may be obtained only from the office of the Village Clerk at the address named above upon payment of Twenty Dollars ($20.00), non-refundable for each set of documents so obtained.

Bid Security

Cashier's check or certified check drawn on a solvent bank in the State of Illinois, payable without condition to the President of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Mount Prospect, Illinois, in his official capacity, in an amount not less than ten per cent (10%) of the bid, shall be submitted with each Proposal.

Holding of Proposals

No bid shall be withdrawn after the opening of Proposals without the consent of the Owner for a period of thirty (30) days after the scheduled time of closing bids.

Award of Contract

The Owner reserves the right to reject any Proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this Notice or of any of the Contract Documents; however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion. The Owner further reserves the right to reject any and all Proposals or to award a contract which, in its judgment, is in the best interest of the Owner.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory Performance Bond in the sum of the full amount of the contract.

Payment

The Contractor will be paid in bonds and vouchers drawn against the Special Assessment, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent (6%), or whichever rate is in accordance with State ordinance at time of preparation of bonds, for work under this project. The Public Benefit portion of the assessments will be retired from the Village's allotment of Motor Fuel Tax Funds.

Dated at Mount Prospect, Illinois this 13th day of July, 1972.

BOARD OF LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS VILLAGE OF MOUNT PROSPECT, ILLINOIS SOUTHWEST STORM SEWER IMPROVEMENTS SPECIAL ASSESSMENT No. 71-CO-0081(70)

Notice to Bidders

Receipt of Proposals

Sealed Proposals for the construction of the Southwest Storm Sewer Improvements in the Village of Mount Prospect are invited and will be received on or before, but not later than, 8:00 P.M., Local Time, on Tuesday, the 8th day of August, 1972, at the office of the Village Manager, 112 E. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect, Illinois 60056, and immediately thereafter all bids will be publicly opened and the prices bid read aloud.

Sealed envelopes or packages containing Proposals shall be marked or endorsed "Proposal for Southwest Storm Sewer Improvements, Special Assessment No. 71-CO-0081(70), MFT Section 42-SS-CS." No Proposal will be considered unless it is made on the Proposal Form which is included in the Contract Documents. The Proposal must not be removed from, but must be kept bound with, such other Sections of the Contract Documents with which it has been bound by Owner.

General Description of Work

The above-designated work and improvements referred to as Southwest Storm Sewer Improvements, Special Assessment No. 71-CO-0081(70), MFT Section 42-SS-CS, on which Proposals are requested will be based upon construction of the following major items:

Approximately 5,720 feet of reinforced concrete storm sewer ranging in size from 72 inch diameter to 10 inch diameter, chamber bases, manholes, reinforced concrete headwall for 72 inch diameter sewer, 6,500 cubic yards of trench backfill, and all restoration, and including any and all appurtenances required to complete the improvements as shown on the plans.

Contract Documents

A copy of the Contract Documents, including Contract Drawings, are on file and available for inspection at the office of the Village Engineer, 11 S. Pine St., Mount Prospect, Illinois 60056, and at the office of Consoer, Townsend and Associates, Consulting Engineers, 360 E. Grand Ave., Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Reference shall be made to said documents for full particulars respecting the work to be performed.

Copies of Contract Documents required for review or bidding purposes may be obtained only from the office of the Village Clerk at the address named above upon payment of Twenty Dollars ($20.00), non-refundable, for each set of documents so obtained.

Bid Security

Cashier's check or certified check drawn on a solvent bank in the State of Illinois, payable without condition to the President of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Mount Prospect, Illinois, in his official capacity, in an amount not less than ten per cent (10%) of the bid, shall be submitted with each Proposal.

Holding of Proposals

No bid shall be withdrawn after the opening of Proposals without the consent of the Owner for a period of thirty (30) days after the scheduled time of closing bids.

Award of Contract

The Owner reserves the right to reject any Proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this Notice or of any of the Contract Documents; however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion. The Owner further reserves the right to reject any and all Proposals or to award a contract which, in its judgment, is in the best interest of the Owner.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory Performance Bond in the sum of the full amount of the contract.

Payment

The Contractor will be paid in bonds and vouchers drawn against the Special Assessment, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent (6%), or whichever rate is in accordance with State ordinance at time of preparation of bonds, for work under this project. The Public Benefit portion of the assessments will be retired from the Village's allotment of Motor Fuel Tax Funds.

Dated at Mount Prospect, Illinois this 13th day of July, 1972.

200-Bed Facility At Least 3 Years Away

$12 Million Hospital Set For Schaumburg

Plans to build a $12 million hospital facility in Schaumburg were announced jointly last night by Dr. James A. Campbell, president of Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center of Chicago, and Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Calling it a "major step forward" not only for the village but for the entire Northwest suburban area, Atcher said the health care needs of the suburbs would be greatly served by the new facility.

Construction of the hospital probably will take about three years. Initial plans call for a 200-bed facility to be built. Additions are contemplated, Dr. Campbell said.

The offer from Presbyterian-St. Luke's, which has been in the discussion stages for several months, calls for a land donation of approximately 20 to 25 acres and a pledge to raise $4 million for construction of the hospital.

At least one step of that offer was fulfilled last night when the deed for a 20-acre site was turned over to Dr. Campbell by Harold Anderson. The site, located about one-half mile west of the intersection of Schaumburg and Roselle roads, is commonly referred to as Sarah's Grove.

DR. CAMPBELL said the planned facility is part of a general expansion program of Presbyterian-St. Luke's that encompasses affiliations with already existing hospitals and the construction of several new facilities.

Also in attendance at the announcement were Hoffman Estates Mayor Frederick Downey and Roselle Mayor Robert Frantz.

Downey said he was disturbed by the announcement of the hospital's plans because he questioned the fate of a $20,000 study currently being made to plan the health care needs of the area.

Downey said other groups also have approached Hoffman Estates offering to build hospitals there. "But we have committed ourselves to wait until this study is completed," Downey said.

"I hope the village of Schaumburg and Presbyterian-St. Luke's also will wait until the study is completed," he added.

Atcher said his village certainly would examine the results of the study closely.

Atcher also congratulated Mrs. Jean Kessell, who has headed a local hospital committee for several years, for her work in contacting representatives of Presbyterian-St. Luke's, which led to last night's announcement.

Regan Reviews Howie Property Development

The needs of the community concerning development of the Howie-In-The-Hills property, north of Winston Knoll subdivision, were reviewed by Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plan commission chairman.

The 500-acre site, also near Inverness and Palatine, is now held in federal receivership. It will be sold to Maridian Investment Co., New York, July 31, provided the six-units-per-acre zoning desired can be attained from the village.

"The bidders should have come in and talked to us first," Regan said, about developers who opted for the land. Maridian's $5.6 million bid came out on top after a virtual auction was held Monday in the court of Federal Judge William Campbell.

"Twenty per cent of that land is not buildable," said Regan, adding there are peat bogs 15 to 20 feet deep that sit on the site. "It is difficult to say if six or 10 units per acre can be built there," he added, questioning the density of clusters that might be needed to accommodate zoning of this type.

Regan also spoke of the need for buildable land that will have to be dedicated for public use. With 500 acres there the need exists for at least two elementary school sites, totaling 12 acres and possibly a junior high school site for Palatine Twp. Dist. 15, he predicted.

Tractor Vote Disrupts Park Board Meeting

The tempers of several commissioners of the Hoffman Estates Park District flared briefly Tuesday night after discussion on the purchase of a $5,000 tractor ended in a 2-2 vote.

The draw vote caused by the absence of commissioner Fred Weaver, forced the decision on whether or not to buy a tractor to be tabled until the next board meeting.

Commissioner George Seaver tried to get other board members to reconsider their action, arguing that the tractor was needed to handle summer maintenance programs.

Park board Pres. Tom Barber then ruled that the issue had been sufficiently discussed and ruled Seaver out of order.

When Barber tried to move on to new business, Seaver continued at the same time to talk about the need for the tractor. Barber then temporarily adjourned the meeting and walked away from the table.

When the meeting convened minutes later, Seaver tried to return to the tractor issue. Commissioner Claude Crase called for a point of order on the discussion, telling Seaver "you're trying to bleed a dead horse and you won't get any more out of it."

Seaver then accused Barber of trying to stifle discussions of the board and refusing to listen to minority opinions.

Barber denied the charge and allowed Seaver to continue his statement.

In other action, the board heard a report from Howard Kessler of the firm Kessler, Merci and Lochner about plans for beginning the park development program approved by voters June 10.

The architects will probably present a more detailed plan for the $675,000 program next month. Kessler told the board that first priority construction will take place this fall primarily at school sites.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE planned for Cottonwood, Sicher, Highpoint, Blackhawk, Twinbrook, Fairview and Armstrong Parks in the next few months. Improvements at the other 12 park sites in the district will be started next spring. The district hopes to have all park improvements completed by early summer, 1973.

2 Injured In Crash

A 16-year-old Palatine girl and a man from Streamwood were injured in an automobile accident yesterday afternoon at Ill. Rte. 72 and Shoefactory Road in Hoffman Estates.

Listed in critical condition at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, is Robert McGough of 16 S. Oltendorf Rd., Streamwood. In good condition, according to hospital authorities, is Joyce Gliot, of 2065 W. Frost, Palatine.

Counselors Seek Parent Assistance

The four guidance counselors in High School Dist. 211 agree on two wishes — they would like more parents to participate in their programs and a greater opportunity to reach average students.

The four directors appeared before the board of education Thursday to describe their duties, problems and the students they work with.

Following their presentation, Board Pres. Robert Creek asked, "What can we do to make your jobs better? When you start the sentence 'I wish we could . . .' how do you finish it?"

"I wish we could get more parents involved," Tom Howard, director at Schaumburg, said. "We had programs at night for parents last year and we publicized them every way we knew how and very few people turned out. When you deal with family problems every day, it can get very discouraging when people don't seem to care."

OTHER COUNSELORS agreed with Howard. William Perry, director at Conant, added: "I wish if the finances were available we could lower the ratio of counselors to counselees so maybe we could do more counseling."

The directors explained counselors in the district carry a load of about 300 to 325 students unless they have extra duties. "I think our counseling ratio is respectable," Perry said, "but if it was lower maybe we could do more for the average kids."

The counselors said they spend about 30 per cent of their time in direct counseling with students having problems of some kind. In addition, they help students set up course programs each spring and do vocational and college counseling.

"We all believe it's important for adolescents to have an adult to talk to who won't pass judgment," Howard said. "We're not teachers so we don't have a grade over them. We aren't involved with discipline — we are someone they can talk to about what's really bothering them."

Howard said counselors generally try to see freshmen at least three times a year, and see other students as the need arises.

HOWEVER, WHEN A board member asked if they saw average students, who were neither very bright or having obvious problems, he said, "We have to plead guilty — sometimes we don't see those kids. It's amazing sometimes that you'll call a student in to make small talk and he'll explode. Then you wonder how long he's been walking around like that."

Ray Mills, director at Palatine High School, said the area of college counseling has changed the most for the counselors in recent years. "More and more students are going to junior colleges and as a result many of the state schools and some private schools are having their enrollment drop. Students are under much less pressure in choosing their colleges now," he said.

He added fewer parents were planning to make large financial sacrifices to send their children to college and more students were planning to pay their own way. "It is more important to the students now to be independent," he said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

In raids reminiscent of Carrie Nation, officials in Kansas and Oklahoma stopped Amtrak trains and arrested crewmen for running open saloons. The battle over booze will be taken to court to determine which is stronger — federal or state law.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R.-Ky., has proposed a complete and total withdrawal of U.S. forces from Indochina if negotiations fail to end the Vietnam War in four months. In the most far-reaching end-the-war legislation yet offered, Cooper eliminated, for the first time, release of American prisoners of war as a condition for pulling out.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council, long a bulwark of Democratic political strength, followed President George Meany's wishes and voted not to endorse either Sen. George S. McGovern or Richard M. Nixon in this year's election. It marked the first time since the 13.6 million member group was merged in 1955 that the council had declined to back a Democratic presidential candidate.

The World

Nixon administrator trouble-shooter Henry A. Kissinger and two top North Vietnamese peace negotiators met secretly in Paris to try and find a solution to the Vietnam war.

The War

South Vietnamese airborne troops holding southern parts of Quang Tri city withstood two fierce Communist attacks, and small paratroop units resumed their house-to-house clearing operations, field reports said. Spokesmen in Saigon said 163 Communist soldiers were killed in one attack, making it one of the bloodiest battles of the three-week-old drive to recapture South Vietnam's northernmost provincial capital.

FIREMAKER Chuck Millett, 8, works with some pieces of kindling to build an old-fashioned fire, part of activities at Camp Granada, a program offered by the Schaumburg Park District.

OVER THERE . . . That is what camp director Marsha Pridgeon seems to be telling several youngsters during the Schaumburg Park District's Camp Granada program. Fourteen youngsters recently completed the first session of the summer-long program held at Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Camp Granada Teaches Area Kids Nature Skills

by STEVE BROWN

"Hello Mudda, hello Fadda, here I am at Camp Granada." That is the tune that many Schaumburg area youngsters are singing this summer. But unlike the Camp Granada which comic Allan Sherman sang about a few years ago, this one is free of all of the disasters which Sherman had.

This summer, dozens of boys and girls have been learning crafts, nature skills and folklore daily in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

The group held its "Paul Bunyan Day" last week. The activities for the day were the culmination of the skills the group had learned during the past two weeks.

FOURTEEN CAMPERS and four leaders spent the day hunting for a variety of trees and plants, building fires and learning to raise a tent which was used the following day for the camp's "overnight."

"We try to give the youngsters a few basic skills in outdoor living," said Marsha Pridgeon, camp director. While this is the first year for Schaumburg's program, Miss Pridgein has been involved with day camps for about five years.

The campers seem to have learned their lessons well as they moved about the camp site, demonstrating their various talents. Divided into teams, the youngsters battled for the log-rolling championship, and raced to see which team could boil water the fastest. As a particular team member was competing, others shouted encouragement.

In addition to the daily sessions, a nature class is offered by a conservationist for the campers. A field trip to some local spot of interest is also planned.

OVER 50 YOUNGSTERS are registered for the camp's second session which begins this week.

The larger group should keep the camp director and her assistants, Kathy Mernerm, Cathy Brown and Ken Welker, busy for the next two weeks. They report that there are still openings for the camp's third session which begins Aug. 11. The $12 fee for the two-week program includes bus transportation daily, supplies and a Camp Granada T-shirt. More information about the programs can be obtained by calling the park district at 894-4660.

Grand Opening Today For Hardware Store

True-Value Hardware store, new to Schaumburg's Weathersfield Commons, will celebrate its grand opening today with ribbon cutting ceremonies at 10:30 a.m.

Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher, store owner Richard L. Breslich and representatives from Carter and Co., owners of the national chain, will participate in the festivities.

The store's grand opening sale on its line of household items, gifts, toys, sporting goods and hardware needs will begin at 11 a.m.

One of 4400 True-Value stores nationwide, the outlet will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Travelers Sought For European Tour

Singers, non-singers and their families are invited to join the Hoffman Hallmark Chorus on tour in Europe next summer.

Kirk Beck, Schaumburg Travel Agency tour director, chorus director June Kessler Cowin and chorus Pres. Lillian Allen will provide tour information and answer questions at an 8 p.m. meeting July 26 at the Vogelei Barn on Higgins Road, Hoffman Estates.

Non-singing supporters of the chorus may accompany the group or go their own way during the two weeks the chorus will spend in Switzerland, Italy and Austria.

A special charter rate will be available to the chorus supporters, and they will receive complimentary tickets to all the European concerts. For further information, call Cowin, 529-7208.

Plan 'Families Anonymous' For Drug Users' Relatives

The formation of a group called "Families Anonymous" has been announced by Richard Wynn, director of the TORCH Community Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling.

"Families Anonymous" is for parents and families of drug abusers. According to Wynn, "Participants in the program believe it is important for the family to be helped as early as possible when first confronted with evidence of drug abuse, or when suspicions are first aroused."

Wynn said it is important for families in the Wheeling area to know more about drugs and their effects because of the increase in drug users the past few years.

Cook County authorities said earlier this week that the number of deaths caused by overdoses of harmful drugs was up more than 30 per cent in the first half of 1972. It is expected to be even higher by the end of the year.

Authorities had no specifics on drug users in the Wheeling area but said they feel the rate has probably increased.

WYNN SAID one reason for the increase is the lack of knowledge, on the family's part, of how to treat drug abusers.

"The initial fear, panic and guilt of the family frequently result in a destructive pattern of hostility," said Wynn. "It may also go the other route and the family may become over-protective."

"In either case the relationship between a drug abuser and his family will usually have disastrous results," he explained

The TORCH director said "Families Anonymous" will be "The sharing of experiences in a positive approach program. It will give families, parents, and spouses a chance to make rapid progress in coping with their individual problems "

He said the participants in the program will remain completely anonymous and first names only will be used. He added that there is no cost in belonging to the program, which will meet once a week at Wheeling High School

Those wishing to attend the meetings, which will be held at 8:30 p m on Tuesdays, may do so without making prior arrangements Wynn said members will offer neither advice nor pity to those attending the meetings

RATHER THE meetings are expected to have the families encouraged to make an honest self-appraisal and be asked to recognize attitudes and reactions that may be aggravating a drug situation.

Wynn said his organization is not officially sponsoring the program but the clinic is offering assistance in getting the program off the ground

Interested persons in the Wheeling area are invited to attend the Tuesday night meetings at the high school.

Arrangements have been made for Dr Peter Digre, Executive director of the Omni-House Youth Services Bureau, and Brooke Whitted, probation officer of the Cook County Juvenile Court, to speak at the meetings in August

Anyone wishing more information about "Families Anonymous" can contact Wynn at 537-8270.

ROADSIDE VEGETABLE stands, once abundant in this area, are being squeezed out by residential and industrial development. Homegrown carrots, cabbage, beets, onions and corn can still be bought at stands like Koeppen's on Dundee Road. The last vegetable stand in Wheeling, Koeppen's has had to cut down on the type of produce sold because of dwindling farm land.

Association To Analyze School District Budget

Next year's budget figures for School Dist 23 will be analyzed by Prospect Heights Education Association (PHEA) members to see if adjustments can be made to accommodate pay hikes for Dist 23 teachers, according to Larry Halter, PHEA spokesman.

At a second round of salary negotiations Tuesday, school board bargainers said they could allow only a 2.6 per cent cost-of-living raise in contrast to the 5 5 per cent increase the teachers are seeking.

Due to the tightness of next year's budget, and previous cuts in spending geared at eliminating a deficit of close to $100,000, the board explained the 5 5 per cent hike cannot be met

Halter felt however that with a new state aid formula which would allow the district an additional $200,000 a higher increase than the board offered may be possible through adjusting the budget.

"THAT'S WHY we want to examine the budget to see if cuts in other spending would make a higher raise possible," he said

Statistics presented by the PHEA Tuesday, showed that Prospect Heights schools rank sixth on a list of average salaries in seven districts at $9,475 as compared with Arlington Heights Dist 25, Elk Grove Dist. 59, Palatine Dist. 15 and River Trails Dist. 26, whose average salaries are higher than Prospect Heights

Halter feels that the district's low ranking on the list means that higher quality teachers would not be attracted to Prospect Heights schools.

Board negotiators felt however that the difference in salaries among districts would be of little significance in attracting teachers.

They also mentioned the 10 per cent turnover rate of teachers in the district is the major reason for the low average salary. With a higher number of teachers coming into the district being paid the $7,541 starting wage, they said, the average remains lower

The figures, taken from the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI) showed Dist. 25 heading the list with an average salary of $10,780 and Wheeling at the bottom with $9,230.

ALSO AT Tuesday's talks, the board rejected a PHEA request for yearly merit increases consisting of $800 for superior, $600 for above average and $400 for competent teachers They countered this offer with an offer for a $10,000 lump sum in merit pay to be divided among the 74 district teachers

A total of $14,000 was also offered by the board for extra-duty pay compared with a $16,000 request by the teachers.

The two sides are scheduled to meet again Aug. 16 to further discuss the salary package The only item resolved so far has been the PHEA'S sick leave proposal

Summer School Session Comes To Close Tonight

The Prospect Heights Dist 23 summer school session comes to a close with an evening of open house and performances at 6:30 tonight in MacArthur Junior High School, Palatine and Schoenbeck roads.

The MacArthur Junior High Concert and Military Bands will open the program followed with performances by the drama workshop and music department. The drama workshop will perform a three-act operatic version of "Rip Van Winkle "

Following the performances, the school will be open and parents may visit the school's classrooms

A fashion show will also be held in the school sewing room.

For little girls who would like to grow up to be Miss America, the Little Miss Wheeling Park District Contest is coming up at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the outdoor community pool in Chamber of Commerce Park.

Girls ages three to five will be judged in swimsuit competition and on answers to questions asked by the judges. Three members of the park district staff will size up the contestants.

The winner of the contest will receive a sash bearing her new title. There is no entry fee, but contestants should arrive wearing bathing suits.

Bit Of Green Among Cement

Last Of Roadside Stands

by LYNN ASINOF

The last roadside vegetable stand in Wheeling lies nestled between two symbols of modern development — the flat-topped municipal building and Wickes Furniture Co 's spacious new store

Leafy green vegetables brighten the wooden stand that sports a painted sign in front that says, "Koeppen's " Although members of Andrew Koeppen's family have been farming and selling vegetables in Wheeling for 53 years, they have never owned the land they farm Instead, they rent their fields from land owners in the area

"We started with about 110 acres," said Mrs Koeppen "Now it's about 18 acres Years ago we used to grow soybeans and larger stuff, but now it's just vegetables."

BIT BY BIT, property owners sold the land that the Koeppens used to farm, since real estate in Wheeling became more valuable. The fields now wrap around the municipal building, providing a striking contrast of the new and the old

"We grow just about everything we sell," said 15-year-old Jane Koeppen. "This stuff over here isn't homegrown yet," she said, indicating a wooden table laden with fresh produce. "We have to wait for it to grow.

"We've had to cut down a lot," she added, "because we don't have that much land anymore."

The Koeppens have two large wooden tables at their stand. One displays the homegrown carrots, cabbage, beans, beets and other vegetables. The other is for produce that is not raised on the farm

"We keep them separate to show which is homegrown," Mrs. Koeppen said. "Being truthful to your customers — that's the main thing."

She said most of the people who buy at their stand come from the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area. "There are new customers, sure," she said. "But some go back 15, 20, 25 years."

THIS WEEKEND the Koeppens hope to start selling their most popular item, homegrown sweet corn. The corn is late this year because of the cold spring and rainy summer weather.

'We usually start selling the sweet corn around the 13th," Mrs. Koeppen said 'This year there is a late growing season."

Members of the Koeppen family farm the land and run the stand as well. Although there are only three Koeppens at home now, son Jerry helps out on the weekends. A daughter who lives in Michigan also comes to help out occasionally.

The roadside vegetable stand is open from 9 a.m. to about 8:30 p.m., seven days a week from July until the end of October. Although the vegetables change with the crop seasons, the hours don't, and the Koeppens close their stand only when the weather is bad

'State Of School' Report

Urges Community Take Active Education Role

More community participation in reviewing and developing educational programs was recommended by Supt. Harold Banser at the Adlai Stevenson High School board of education meeting this week.

In his annual "State of the School" report, Banser urged that a citizens' committee be appointed to work with the board and faculty on new one, three and five-year program improvement plans. He referred to new requirements being developed by the state superintendent of public instruction which will require boards to take similar steps and even hold public hearings.

Board members praised the idea and Pres. Robert Anderson recommended that Stevenson hold its first public hearing sometime this fall.

Supt. Banser also recommended that board members review new junior college legislation which may require the Stevenson High School District to become part of a nearby junior college district within the next two years. At present Stevenson pays part of the tuition of local residents who attend nearby junior colleges and levies one third of what it would cost to belong to a junior college district, Banser explained.

He also urged that plans be developed to permit more students to participate in community service programs. He pointed to a small but highly successful Stevenson student group called the Outreach Club which worked with local nursing homes, a veteran's hospital and retarded children schools during the past year.

BANSER SAID present projections indicate that the second planned addition to the high school probably will be needed by the fall of 1975. Stevenson has $850,000 left in the $3 million bond issue approved three years ago which can be used for the structure, he said. Bonds will not be sold for the building until the money is needed.

He recommended that the staff begin reviewing existing facilities and examine needs beyond the present 1,200 student capacity. He suggested that an architect be hired next year and that construction should begin in early 1974.

In other action the board approved tentative budgets in major funds to be placed on display in the district offices for one month beginning July 21. The annual budget hearing was set for 8 p.m., Monday, August 21.

Karen Snelson 'Best Young Cheerleader'

Karen Snelson, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Snelson, 518 E. Burr Oak St., Arlington Heights, was recently chosen the "best young miss cheerleader" of the annual Illinois Junior High Cheerleading Clinic in Lake Forest.

Karen was selected on the basis of her performance in tumbling skills, partner stunts, gymnastic ability, voice projection, pep and enthusiasm.

"Karen's desire and determination in the finals carried her to the top spot in competition over 180 girls from 25 schools in the Chicago suburban area," said Sue Fitzsimmons, director of the clinic.

Along with her teammates from Cooper Junior High School in Buffalo Grove, Karen will be the guest of the Chicago Bulls for a game this fall where the team will cheer for the Bulls in the Chicago Stadium.

Karen was also awarded the Spirit Award Scholarship which entitles her to attendance at next year's cheering clinic.

Karen, an honors student at Cooper Junior High in Buffalo Grove, is also a member of the student council, pep club and girls' athletics. Her seventh grade cheerleading squad placed second in last winter's competition at Woodlands Academy Tournament in Lake Forest.

Damage Suit Against Dist. Faces Delay

A $1.5 million damage suit filed against High School Dist. 214 is moving slowly through the Cook County judicial processes, and the attorney for the families involved does not believe it will come to trial for another three years.

The suit was filed last year on behalf of three Arlington High School students seriously injured when a "modesty wall" in a school rest room collapsed on them as the result of a prank.

The boys, Brad Boice, 814 Ridge Ave.; William Kelly, 751 S. Burton Pl. and William Horn, 1345 N. Highland, were trying to force their way out of the restroom by placing their backs against the wall and pushing on the door when the wall collapsed. Two other boys had locked the door from the outside by slipping a two-by-four through the door handles.

All three victims suffered compressed fractures of the spine. Horn died several months later as a result of complications from his injuries.

THE LAWSUIT, on behalf of Boice, Kelly and the Horn family, was filed shortly after the accident by attorney John D. Hayes. It charges the school district, the company that constructed the wall and the two boys who locked the door with negligence.

Hayes said yesterday he has been preparing the case and is having tests conducted on the materials used in the wall. Boice, he said, has been hospitalized several times because of recurring infections, but neither he nor Kelly are paralyzed.

Hayes said because of the backlog of cases in Cook County courts he does not expect the case to come to trial until about four years after it was filed. The case was filed about one month after the January 1971 accident.

He said pretrial conferences will probably be held with the school district's insurance company but added, "At this point I can't say whether the case will be settled out of court because we simply don't know enough."

Balloon Launch Will Open Bible School

The Sunday School of the Village Baptist Church, 385 Buffalo Grove Rd., will open its daily vacation bible school program Sunday with a balloon launch from the church lawn. The bible school will be from July 31 to Aug. 4.

A film, "Beloved Enemy," will also be shown Sunday at 7:15 p.m. The film shows a scientist's attempts to disprove the existence of Jesus Christ.

She's Young Victim Of Arthritis

Susan Won,t Yield To A Handicap

by JULIA BAUER

Susan Chaplinsky chalked up quite a few accomplishments in high school.

She graduated fifth in a class of 366 from Palatine High School, was voted by classmates and faculty for the DAR award, won a $500 gift for citizenship and character from a Palatine bank and represented Palatine High on the television quiz show "It's Academic."

But the 17-ear-old's biggest challenge in recent years has been arthritis, which started affecting her knees and hips when she was 11. Someday doctors may have to perform an operation to replace the arthritic bones.

During the last half of her senior year, Susan began working part-time for a Palatine realty company, where she now is working full time until she leaves for college in September.

And today, despite her restrictions, she looks toward the future.

LIKE MANY 17-going-on-18-year-olds, Susan is anxious to get out on her own in college. She'll be a freshman at the University of Illinois at Champaign this fall. Until then, she's wondering how she'll fit her clothes into a tiny dormitory room with a roommate and no dresser, while fielding her mother's frequent suggestions to "be sure and take that — I thought you could use this" and contemplating her dorm. "They're coed now which suits me!" she chuckled.

A dorm might be less hectic than her home — Susan is the oldest of five children. Three younger sisters are 16, 13 and 12 years old, and one brother (who can hold his own, Susan said) is 9.

Susan's father, Peter Chaplinsky, is a sales manager for Nestle Co. All seven Chaplinskys live at 433 N. Stark Dr., Palatine.

Susan's long blond hair frames her full pink-cheeked face, which usually has a smile on it. But Susan isn't a Pollyanna — she seems to have a combination of good humor and with a little sarcasm on the side.

And she is somewhat modest about the publicity she's received lately. Does her intelligence make her classmates feel inferior? "Oh, I'm not that intelligent . . . sometimes I ask really dumb questions, especially in math," she said. She protests that she isn't "brainy," and after four years of German in school, she couldn't think of the German word her sister needed for a crossword puzzle answer.

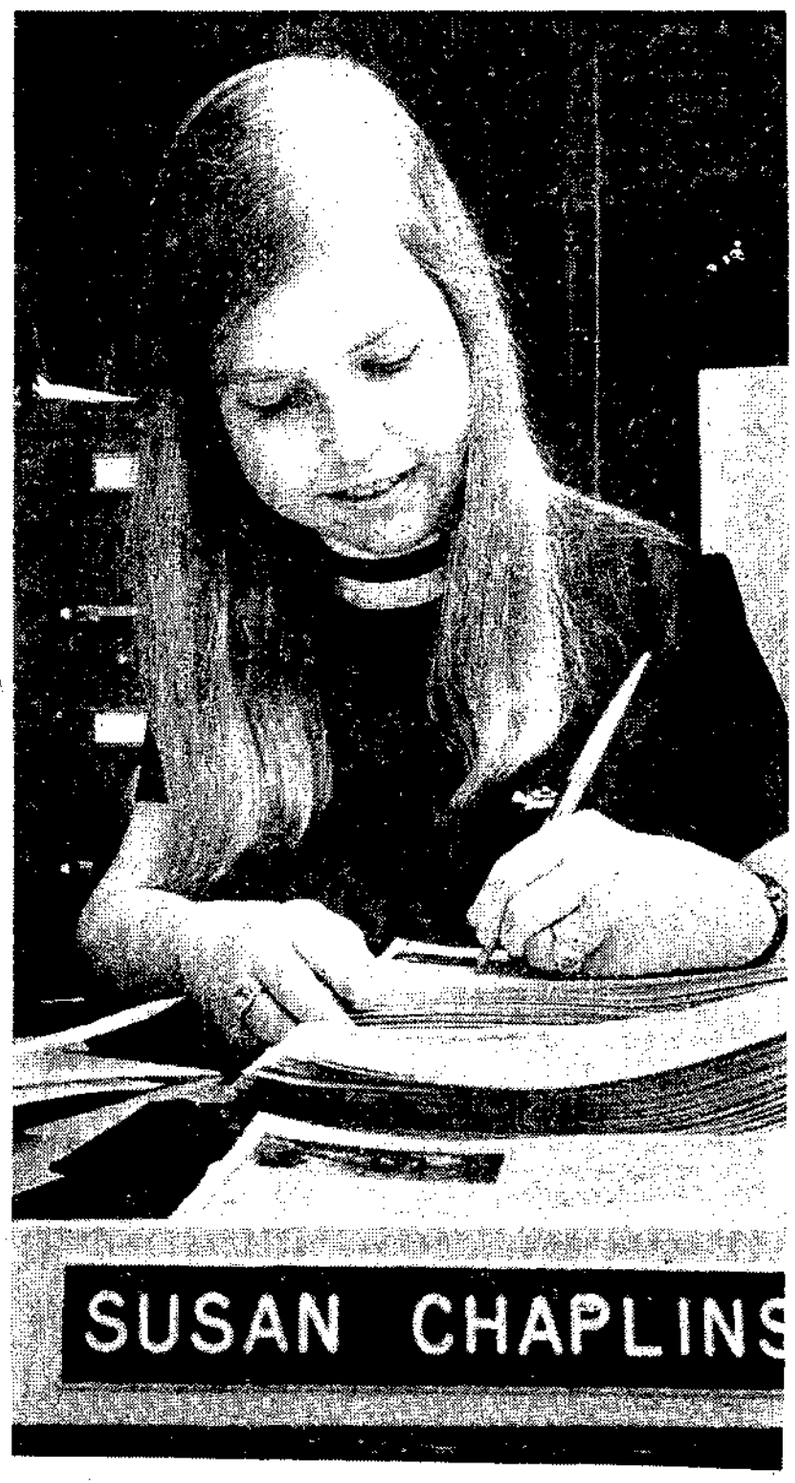
Law and business sound interesting to Susan, but she won't have to decide on a major for the first couple of years in college while she takes general requirements. She has considered journalism until "I realized that I didn't want to be called out of bed at 3 a.m. to cover a story."

Last year she worked on the school newspaper staff. "Mostly I swept up the paper clips after everybody left," she joked, but "office manager" was her official title.

FOR A WHILE this spring, making summer plans was difficult because doctors were trying to decide whether to operate on her this summer.

"Being up in the air was hard to take. If they had operated I would be hospitalized on my back for six weeks, so I couldn't plan anything ahead. They decided in May that I was still too young for the operation," Susan said. She'll be 18 Aug. 30.

But whenever the operation does come, she will be ready for it. While she's waiting for science to catch up with her, she'll be making her own special progress, in college and in life.



WHILE BATTLING a crippling disease, Susan Chaplinsky has won accolades from Palatine High School classmates, teachers and friends. Most recently the teenager was winner of the school's Daughters of American Revolution (DAR) Award.

Fees, Rules For Swimming Pool Told

Fees and rules for operating Buffalo Grove's first public pool have been announced by the park district.

The unnamed pool, which will also have an adjoining park, two lighted tenns courts, a basketball court, playground and tot lot, is south of the end of Farrington Drive. The pool is expected to open about Aug. 1.

During the week, the pool will be open from 10 a.m. to noon, 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. There will be no night swimming on weekends.

Due to the short swimming season for the new pool this year, Park Director Stan Crosland said no season tickets will be available. Single admission prices will be $1 for adults, 50 cents for students in the eighth grade or younger, and 25 cents for children playing only in the wading pool.

COIN-OPERATED lockers will be available for storing belongings.

A snack bar will feature hot dogs, ice cream, soft drinks and other refreshments.

Contracts were awarded about a month ago for the construction of an indoor pool adjacent to Buffalo Grove High School. This pool will be operated jointly by the Buffalo Grove Park District and High School Dist. 214 and will be open to the public on evenings, weekends and summers.

Mini-Skirted Girls Seek Chance To Reign Over Derby

Attractive young girls from throughout the Northwest suburbs will be decked out in hot pants and mini-skirts today for the Miss American Derby beauty pageant, an annual event sponsored by Arlington Park Race Track.

Contest judging is set for 9:30 a.m. and the winner will reign over the happenings at the $100,000 American Derby horse race at Arlington Park Saturday.

The pageant is open to single girls between the ages of 18 and 26. No pre-registration is necessary.

Contest dress is mini-skirts or hot pants outfits and the winner and two runners-up will begin their duties immediately by drawing the post positions for Saturday's race.

CONTEST PRIZES include a $100 savings bond, a tiara and the day with luncheon at the races Saturday for the winner and her family.

In addition, the 1972 Miss American Derby will ride in a coach on Derby Day and present a silver trophy to the winning trainer and jockey.

Contestants should enter the race track through the stable gate off of Rohlwing Road and drive to the clubhouse parking lot. The contest will take place in the clubhouse.

Fire District Vote To Be In Two Questions

Rolling Meadows residents will probably be asked to vote on two questions in the city's referendum to take over the fire protection district. The vote is scheduled Aug. 19.

City Atty. Donald Rose yesterday said there will be two questions on the ballot, which will be submitted in ordinance form to the city council for approval next Tuesday.

The first item will be an advisory question, Rose said. Voters will be asked to indicate whether they think the city should take over the Rolling Meadows Fire Protection District and provide fire protection within the corporate boundaries of the city.

The second question is probably more important for determining if the city can absorb the district in the next year.

THAT QUESTION will ask voters to give the city the power to tax for fire protection at a rate not to exceed the 40 cents per $100 assessed property valuation that the fire district now levies.

Rose explained that each question will be carried by a simple majority of those voting.

He also stressed that the referendum is not binding on the city or the fire district and, even if both questions pass, neither party is bound to go through with the annexation.

The tax levy question, however, must pass to allow the city to assume the district's taxing rate.

Without a favorable referendum, the city could only levy at a rate of five cents per $100 assessed valuation. That would raise about $40,000 to operate a fire department that now has a budget exceeding $330,000.

With the same taxing power as the fire district, the city would be able to raise more than $300,000 annually to support a fire department. In addition, the city could use sales tax surplus funds to partially subsidize the fire department.

Several rough areas are still to be settled before a completely satisfactory annexation agreement will be reached between city officials and fire district trustees.

NO DECISION has yet been made if the city will subsidize hiring additional full-time firemen if the referendum goes through. Although the finance committee recommended participating in the cost of hiring at least three new full-time firemen, the proposal was met with some objections.

Mayor Roland Meyer said the committee overstepped its bounds in making that recommendation.

There has been no subsequent resolution of the manpower problem, and other areas of dispute are yet to be settled. This week officials were discussing unsettled fringe benefits questions.

Many of the hurdles are not expected to be cleared until after the referendum vote.

The vote likely will be held at the fire station on Aug. 19, although there has not yet been official confirmation on the site.

Township Government Petitions Out

Petitions are circulating in Palatine Township to get a referendum on the November general election ballot asking for a yes or no vote on the township form of government.

Palatine's League of Women Voters (LWV) have distributed 80 petitions to members and interested citizens in the past two weeks. They need approxmately 1,710 signatures to get the issue on the ballot.

A tally of the signatures will be made at an Aug. 3 LWV board meeting, and women heading the drive hope to have the required number of signatures by Aug. 7.

Action to reconsider the township form of government began when an in-depth look at the township's functions was organized by the LWV.

"The large number of taxing bodies in Illinois is confusing to most people," said Ann Scollay, one of the drive's organizers. Many functions of the township have been taken over by other taxing bodies, and those that aren't could be, LWV members concluded in their analysis.

The issue isn't restricted to Palatine Township. Similar petitions are circulating in both Northfield and Niles townships.

Paper Drive Saturday

The Community Church of Rolling Meadows will hold a paper drive Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Papers should be placed in grocery bags and then taken to the church at Kirchoff Road and Meadow Drive. Pickup service is available by calling CL5-5510. Proceeds will go toward summer camps and winter retreats.

9 Earn Degrees From Western

Nine area students reveived bachelor's degrees in recent ceremonies at Western Illinois University, Macomb.

Four were from Arlington Heights, three from Rolling Meadows and two from Palatine.

The Arlington Heights residents are Rebecca Clark, 1537 Fernandez, Ave.; Thomas Morrissey, 2315 E. Olive St.; Suzanne A. Ruetenik, 1711 W. Lexington Dr.; and Richard Merkel, 602 S. Dryden Pl. All received bachelor of arts degrees.

The three Rolling Meadows residents are Dennis Patrick Lynch, 2909 Dove St., bachelor of arts degree; Michael J. Mibratz, 3304 Bobolink Ln., bachelor of science degree; and Diane Lynn Mueller, 2341 Algonquin Pkwy., bachelor of science, teacher education.

BAT-WIELDING GIRLS from Rolling Meadows take their swings every Wednesday night in a suburban women's softball league. Games are played at the Wheeling High School diamond with the Rolling Meadows Park District entry competing against teams from Wheeling, River Trails Park District, and Prospect Heights.

200-Bed Facility At Least 3 Years Away

$12 Million Hospital For Schaumburg

Plans to build a $12 million hospital facility in Schaumburg were announced jointly last night by Dr. James A. Campbell, president of Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center of Chicago, and Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Calling it a "major step forward" not only for the village but for the entire Northwest suburban area, Atcher said the health care needs of the suburbs would be greatly served by the new facility.

Construction of the hospital probably will take about three years. Initial plans call for a 200-bed facility to be built. Additions are contemplated, Dr. Campbell said.

The offer from Presbyterian-St. Luke's, which has been in the discussion stages for several months, calls for a land donation of approximately 20 to 25 acres and a pledge to raise $4 million for construction of the hospital.

At least one step of that offer was fulfilled last night when the deed for a 20-acre site was turned over to Dr. Campbell by Harold Anderson. The site, located about one-half mile west of the intersection of Schaumburg and Roselle roads, is commonly referred to as Sarah's Grove.

DR. CAMPBELL said the planned facility is part of a general expansion program of Presbyterian-St. Luke's that encompasses affiliations with already existing hospitals and the construction of several new facilities.

Also in attendance at the announcement were Hoffman Estates Mayor Frederick Downey and Roselle Mayor Robert Frantz.

Downey said he was disturbed by the announcement of the hospital's plans because he questioned the fate of a $20,000 study currently being made to plan the health care needs of the area.

Downey said other groups also have approached Hoffman Estates offering to build hospitals there. "But we have committed ourselves to wait until this study is completed," Downey said.

"I hope the village of Schaumburg and Presbyterian-St. Luke's also will wait until the study is completed," he added.

Atcher said his village certainly would examine the results of the study closely.

Atcher also congratulated Mrs. Jean Kessell, who has headed a local hospital committee for several years, for her work in contacting representatives of Presbyterian-St. Luke's, which led to last night's announcement.

Ice Hockey School Here Is Extended

The Gene Ubriaco Hockey School has been extended and will be conducted during the week of Aug. 28 at the Rolling Meadows Park District Sports Complex.

Classes for eight through 10-year-old boys will be from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.; classes for 11 through 13-year-old boys from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.; and classes for boys 14 through 17-year-old from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Registration fee for the school is $30 for residents and $45 for non-residents. For further information call 394-4381.

Man Charged With Forgery

A Chicago man has been arrested by Rolling Meadows police and charged with forgery.

Paul H. Cohen, 30, of Chicago was arrested Tuesday in Skokie in connection with a three-month investigation of bad checks that have surfaced in the city, according to Police Chief Lewis Case.

Cohen is allegedly linked with another man to the circulation of about $5,000 worth of forged checks in Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights and Wheeling during the past three months.

Case said both Arlington Heights and Wheeling police departments hold warrants for his arrest.

Cohen posted $2,000 bond and was released by Rolling Meadows police pending a July 28 appearance in Arlington Heights branch court.

Swim Team Loses To Des Plaines

The Rolling Meadows Park District swim team lost its second dual meet 287 to 253 against the Des Plaines Park District swim team.

Rolling Meadows swimmers took 35 first places in the meet and set a number of pool and team records. Team records were set by Linda Stahnke in the 9 and 10-year-old girls' 50-meter backstroke; Connie Wilson in the 9 and 10-year-old girls' 50-meter breast stroke and 100-meter individual medley; Beth Ambrose in the 9 and 10-year-old girls' 50-meter butterfly; Tom Stahnke in the 11 and 12-year-old boys' 100-meter individual medley and 50-meter butterfly.

Dawn Grunwald had record time in the 13 and 14-year-old girls' 100-meter freestyle and 50-meter butterfly; Kay Corbett in the girls' 15 and over 50-meter butterfly. The 13 and 14-year-old girls' relay team of Peggy Wilson, Dawn Grunwald, Shannon Corbett and Mary Kay Mate also set a new record.

The meet results were as follows:

Set Hockey Classes For Nonskaters

Beginning hockey classes for nonskaters interested in learning to play hockey will be offered the week of Aug 28 at the Rolling Meadows Park District Sports Complex.

The classes will be held for five days from 10 a.m to 11.30 a.m. The classes will include a half hour of classroom instruction and an hour of ice time.

Boys 10 years old and under may register for the program at the sports complex. Registration fees are $25 for residents and $35 for nonresidents. The only equipment boys will need are ice skates and hockey sticks.

Roadside Stand . . . Bit Of Green Between Cement Vise

by LYNN ASINOF

The last roadside vegetable stand in Wheeling lies nestled between two symbols of modern development — the flat-topped municipal building and Wickes Furniture Co.'s spacious new store.

Leafy green vegetables brighten the wooden stand that sports a painted sign in front that says, "Koeppen's." Although members of Andrew Koeppen's family have been farming and selling vegetables in Wheeling for 53 years, they have never owned the land they farm. Instead, they rent their fields from land owners in the area.

"We started with about 110 acres," said Mrs. Koeppen. "Now it's about 18 acres. Years ago we used to grow soybeans and larger stuff, but now it's just vegetables."

BIT BY BIT, property owners sold the land that the Koeppens used to farm, since real estate in Wheeling became more valuable. The fields now wrap around the municipal building, providing a striking contrast of the new and the old.

"We grow just about everything we sell," said 15-year-old Jane Koeppen. "This stuff over here isn't homegrown yet," she said, indicating a wooden table laden with fresh produce. "We have to wait for it to grow.

"We've had to cut down a lot," she added, "because we don't have that much land anymore."

The Koeppens have two large wooden tables at their stand. One displays the homegrown carrots, cabbage, beans, beets and other vegetables. The other is for produce that is not raised on the farm.

"We keep them separate to show which is homegrown," Mrs. Koeppen said. "Being truthful to your customers — that's the main thing."

She said most of the people who buy at their stand come from the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area. "There are new customers, sure," she said. "But some go back 15, 20, 25 years."

THIS WEEKEND the Koeppens hope to start selling their most popular item, homegrown sweet corn. The corn is late this year because of the cold spring and rainy summer weather.

'We usually start selling the sweet corn around the 13th," Mrs. Koeppen said. 'This year there is a late growing season."

Members of the Koeppen family farm the land and run the stand as well. Although there are only three Koeppens at home now, son Jerry helps out on the weekends. A daughter who lives in Michigan also comes to help out occasionally.

The roadside vegetable stand is open from 9 a.m. to about 8:30 p.m., seven days a week from July until the end of October. Although the vegetables change with the crop seasons, the hours don't, and the Koeppens close their stand only when the weather is bad.

Unveil Plans For Commercial Area Along NW Hwy.

Plans have been outlined for a commercial complex, including a bowling alley, along Northwest Highway in Palatine.

Property owner Onofrio Guttilla, 516 Willow Wood Dr., asked the Palatine Plan Commission for annexation and B-2, general service district, zoning of the seven-acre site at the southwest corner of Northwest Highway and Smith Street.

The property is just east of the Village Oasis, which includes 15 shops, developed by Guttilla last year.

The plan commission is expected to consider the new petition at its Aug. 1 meeting before making a recommendation to the village board.

Guttilla said he is seeking the B-2 zoning to construct a 40-lane Brunswick bowling alley on the property.

In addition, a small restaurant and cocktail lounge would be provided, and a Subaru dealership operated by the owners of the Foreign Car Center in Palatine.

Guttilla said a total of 10 to 12 stores would be included in the complex.

Oops! Oversight In Budget Calls For Bank Loans

A $185,000 oversight made in preparing the budget forced the Mount Prospect Village Board Tuesday to authorize the borrowing of that sum from local banks.

The village supposedly had a balanced budget for this year; however, the trustees in computing the budget had forgotten a commitment to build a 2-million-gallon water tank under the Old Orchard Country Club development agreement.

The omission came in the waterworks and sewage portion of the budget. This is a separate section from the rest of the budget and does not affect the remainder as it is funded through the sale of water.

UNDER THE LEGAL decree permitting the Old Orchard development, the village agreed to have started construction on the tank by May 1, 1972. Because work is impossible during the winter months, the start would have to come during this fiscal year. But the cost of the tank was not in the budget, even though Old Orchard owner Albert Newman's $85,000 contribution was.

"We were somewhat remiss ourselves in not keeping track of our consent decree," Mayor Robert D. Teichert told the village board.

When Trustee Daniel J. Ahern asked if the project could be delayed a year, Teichert said, "Albert Newman would like to hold off, but it is to our advantage to go ahead. Cost-wise we will never come out ahead if we delay."

Teichert meant that any delays by the village would mean increased construction and material costs, while Newman is required to donate $85,000 no matter what the final cost is.

The board also voted to award the contract for the Old Orchard tank and the tank to go with Well 16, off Algonquin Road, to Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co. The cost will be slightly in excess of $317,000. This includes a $3,670 discount for buying the two tanks at once.

A spokesman for the company at the meeting said the discount was possible because their equipment and crews would already be in the area after completing the first tank.

VILLAGE ENG. Leonard Dicke estimated the first tank would be completed in December and the second in February. He added that painting of the tanks could not be done until May or June. This would mean about $100,000 of the cost would not be due until about June.

Previously, the board had approved borrowing $250,000, mainly for Well 16's development. All of these projects have been approved as part of a five-year plan to upgrade the village's water system. A recent water rate hike was to cover the additional costs of the plan but it was to be done on a five-year basis.

"We're being compelled to spend monies before we have received them," Teichert said. He estimated that they will now end up doing two-thirds to three-quarters of all the work in the first year.

PHEA To See Budget For 'Adjustments'

Next year's budget figures for School Dist. 23 will be analyzed by Prospect Heights Education Association (PHEA) members to see if adjustments can be made to accommodate pay hikes for Dist. 23 teachers, according to Larry Halter, PHEA spokesman.

At a second round of salary negotiations Tuesday, school board bargainers said they could allow only a 2.6 per cent cost-of-living raise in contrast to the 5.5 per cent increase the teachers are seeking.

Due to the tightness of next year's budget, and previous cuts in spending geared at eliminating a deficit of close to $100,000, the board explained the 5.5 per cent hike cannot be met.

Halter felt however that with a new state aid formula which would allow the district an additional $200,000 a higher increase than the board offered may be possible through adjusting the budget.

"THAT'S WHY we want to examine the budget to see if cuts in other spending would make a higher raise possible," he said.

Statistics presented by the PHEA Tuesday, showed that Prospect Heights schools rank sixth on a list of average salaries in seven districts at $9,475 as compared with Arlington Heights Dist. 25, Elk Grove Dist. 59, Palatine Dist. 15 and River Trails Dist. 26, whose average salaries are higher than Prospect Heights.

Halter feels that the district's low ranking on the list means that higher quality teachers would not be attracted to Prospect Heights schools.

Board negotiators felt however that the difference in salaries among districts would be of little significance in attracting teachers.

They also mentioned the 10 per cent turnover rate of teachers in the district is the major reason for the low average salary. With a higher number of teachers coming into the district being paid the $7,541 starting wage, they said, the average remains lower.

The figures, taken from the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI) showed Dist. 25 heading the list with an average salary of $10,780 and Wheeling at the bottom with $9,230.

ALSO AT Tuesday's talks, the board rejected a PHEA request for yearly merit increases consisting of $800 for superior, $600 for above average and $400 for competent teachers. They countered this offer with an offer for a $10,000 lump sum in merit pay to be divided among the 74 district teachers.

A total of $14,000 was also offered by the board for extra-duty pay compared with a $16,000 request by the teachers.

The two sides are scheduled to meet again Aug. 16 to further discuss the salary package. The only item resolved so far has been the PHEA'S sick leave proposal.

Decision To Stand — Two Principals Reassigned

The River Trails Dist. 26 school board early yesterday morning reaffirmed its decision to reassign two principals, after questioning each for about two hours.

The board's decision came at about 2 a.m. yesterday after five hours of closed sessions. About 25 parents and teachers waited while the board held closed hearings with Bea Amundson, Feehanville School principal for seven years, and James Ackley, River Trails Junior High School principal for three years. Both had requested hearings to protest their reassignments to new positions.

Board Pres. Lloyd Demel praised the former principals for their service to the district. "They both can contribute much in their new positions," he said.

Miss Amundson has been reassigned as a teacher at River Road School and director of career and outdoor education in the district. Ackley would become media center director, a newly created position. Both said yesterday they have not yet decided if they would accept the new jobs.

Supt. Thomas Warden, who recommended the reassignments, would not make public his reasons. He did say there was a "conflict of administrative philosophy" between him and Miss Amundson. Ackley said yesterday he has not been given specific reasons for the move.

MISS AMUNDSON, represented by Atty. William Carrier during the hearing, said she felt the board really listened to her side of the story.

"It was as fair a hearing as we could have had," said Carrier, who is with the firm of Elmer Gertz, a well-known civil rights attorney. Carrier said he would investigate the matter further to see if there is any basis for legal action.

Ackley said the board members "appeared to have an open mind" but he said he had "a feeling" they would not change their decision. He said all board members questioned him and that there was no rebuttal to his statements. Warden attended both hearings, but said little, according to the principals.

After the hearings, the board met for an hour before announcing its decision. Demel said the board considered both principals weaknesses and strengths as well as opinions of teachers, parents and former school board members before making the decision. He refused to make the reasons for the moves public.

The board decided to grant the hearing at a meeting earlier this month, after parents urged them to do so.

Auto Accidents Take Toll In Damages

More than $3,000 worth of damage to both village and private property were caused by two separate auto accidents recently in Mount Prospect.

Police said William E. Cash, 18, of 922 Willow Rd., Wheeling, was slightly injured yesterday morning when his car hit seven trees and two mailboxes on Seneca Lane.

Cash was found 1½ blocks away from the scene in his Triumph convertible. Police said the heavily damaged car was filled with leaves and had branches in its frame.

Police charged Cash with damage to village property, driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquid and failure to drive on the right side of the road. He will appear Aug. 16 in the Mount Prospect branch of circuit court.

The accident happened shortly after 2 a.m.

IN THE SECOND accident, which took place shortly after 2 a.m. Tuesday, a car operated by Paul K. Lutsch, 17, of 316 N. Wille St., Mount Prospect, struck a house at 503 W. Henry St.

Lutsch was listed in good condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital. He suffered facial and arm cuts. About $1,000 damage was done to the Norbert A. Miloch home.

An Aug. 30 court date has been set for Lutsch who has been charged with leaving the roadway, damage to village property and curfew violation.

'Among My Souvenirs'

It is a timeworn tradition in America to take a towel "souvenir" from a hotel. However, the Mount Prospect Holiday Inn, at 200 E. Rand Rd., had the misfortune to run into an obsessive towel snatcher recently.

Police said that $274.59 worth of pillow cases, sheets and bath towels were taken from a maid's linen room. In addition, a $450 color television was stolen.

Board OKs Rezoning For Apartment Building

Initial approval for rezoning of property at the northwest corner of River and Foundry roads was granted Tuesday by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

In what Mayor Robert D. Teichert called "a policy of zoning," the board concured with a judiciary committee recommendation that a four-story, 140-unit apartment building be allowed on the site. Also, a light business usage was approved for the southeast corner.

The property was rezoned single-family last year when it was involuntarily annexed. In the county, the owners had received zoning for two five-story buildings with both commercial and residential use in them.

Four residents of the village, two of whom live adjacent to the subject property, appeared before the board to ask the "public's rights" be guarded also.

TRUSTEE DONALD B. Furst summed up the feelings of most of the board members when he said, "To some extent there is a moral obligation here as they already had the zoning in the county."

Furst helped engineer a compromise for development of the property. The board accepted that compromise. Earlier, the plan commission had voted against the owners' original request for a five-story, 172-unit apartment building or a five-story apartment building with commercial and 140-units on the larger lot, and for a heavier commercial zoning on the small lot.

Trustee George B. Anderson said at one point, "Personally, I don't see anything wrong with the density. The area is a natural for it." He referred to the compromise.

The board also gave initial approval to commercial zoning for a White Hen Pantry shopping center on the north side of Camp McDonald Road, three lots west of River Road.

Application For Housing Funds OKd

Mount Prospect's application for federally subsidized low-rent housing for the elderly was approved Tuesday by the village board.

A resolution was passed approving a cooperative agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA) and asking the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for a preliminary loan.

The CCHA will act as the village's agent in procuring the loans. CCHA also will manage the building once it is constructed.

The preliminary loan, of $50,000, is to cover the costs of surveys and planning in connection with the development of such a project.

The application will seek 250 units of low-income housing. What is really wanted is 125 units but Victor Walchirk, of CCHA, said HUD usually cuts applications in half.

A RECENT VILLAGE survey had results that indicated 125 units could be filled with no trouble.

Once CCHA officials receive the Mount Prospect resolutions, they will make the formal application to HUD. Then HUD will research the request, taking a minimum of 90 days, to see if any units are needed, and if so, how many. A program reservation for a certain number of units would then be made by HUD for Mount Prospect.

After suitable land is found and purchased, there would follow some 15 or 16 months of construction. In all, this means occupancy of the building would be at least 2½ years in the future.

Walchirk has told the board he sees no problem with convincing HUD that "the community can fill them (the units) all by itself." He said the lengthy wait would be for the program reservation.

Correction

An article in yesterday's Herald incorrectly stated the day of a charter bus trip to Ravinia Park for the Ike and Tina Turner concert.

The trip will be July 28. Tickets for the trip are $1 and are available at Keefer's Pharmacy, 5 W. Prospect Ave. Concert tickets at $2.50 each will be sold on the bus. The bus will leave the parking lot of St. Raymond Catholic Church, 311 S. I-Oka at 6 p.m. and return by midnight.

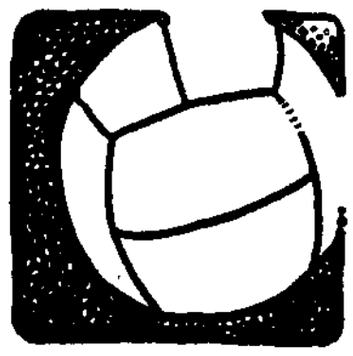
Corner of Elm & Evergreen, Mt. Prospect • 259-2210
Open Daily 8:00 a.m. 'til 5:30 p.m Monday thru Saturday

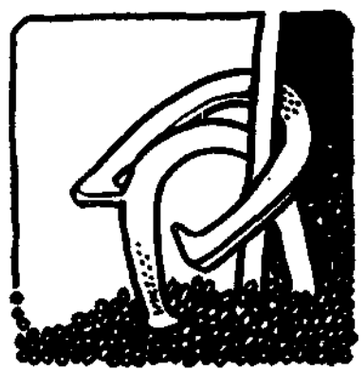
Everybody in Mt. Prospect is invited over to our place this weekend.

This weekend, we're inviting you and your family, your friends and neighbors, in fact your whole community, to come out to Lake Carroll and have an old-fashioned good time. And as far as we're concerned, that means plenty of fun and games and plenty of good food.

A Day in the Country—
Here's what the menu looks like for both Saturday and Sunday: Hot barbeque chicken, baked beans, creamy cole slaw, rolls, and gallons of tangy iced tea. And it will all be served outdoors, picnic-style, on tables, or blankets spread on the ground, whichever you prefer. You can eat as soon as you arrive, if you want to, (the fun begins at 11 a.m. both days and continues until dark) but we suggest that you wait a while because you'll have lots of opportunity to build up a real Mid-western appetite during the day.



Remember Your Sneakers—
In addition to taking a tour of the Lake Carroll property and seeing what a magnificent year-round recreational development this is going to be, you'll also be able to compete for fun and prizes at volleyball, basketball, softball, badminton, and horse shoes. And by way of letting you catch your breath, we'll have wagons and mountains of nice soft hay for hay rides. The kids will love the wagon rides and they'll also love our Animal Farm, a special area set aside for watching live chickens, ducks, sheep and other animals native to this part of Carroll County.



Everything Is Free—
Everything that you eat or do at Lake Carroll this weekend will be absolutely free. All we ask is that sometime during the day, you allow us to show you the property and tell you about our plans for making Lake Carroll into the most exciting recreational spot in the Mid-west.

Remember, the Day in the Country is this coming weekend, Saturday and Sunday. The fun starts at 11 a.m. both days and continues right up until dark, so you can come anytime. Come early or late, whichever suits you best, but be sure to come. We guarantee it's going to be a picnic for everyone.

Damage Suit Against Dist. Faces Delay

A $1.5 million damage suit filed against High School Dist. 214 is moving slowly through the Cook County judicial processes, and the attorney for the families involved does not believe it will come to trial for another three years.

The suit was filed last year on behalf of three Arlington High School students seriously injured when a "modesty wall" in a school rest room collapsed on them as the result of a prank.

The boys, Brad Boice, 814 Ridge Ave.; William Kelly, 751 S. Burton Pl. and William Horn, 1345 N. Highland, were trying to force their way out of the restroom by placing their backs against the wall and pushing on the door when the wall collapsed. Two other boys had locked the door from the outside by slipping a two-by-four through the door handles.

All three victims suffered compressed fractures of the spine. Horn died several months later as a result of complications from his injuries.

THE LAWSUIT, on behalf of Boice, Kelly and the Horn family, was filed shortly after the accident by attorney John D. Hayes. It charges the school district, the company that constructed the wall and the two boys who locked the door with negligence.

Hayes said yesterday he has been preparing the case and is having tests conducted on the materials used in the wall. Boice, he said, has been hospitalized several times because of recurring infections, but neither he nor Kelly are paralyzed.

Hayes said because of the backlog of cases in Cook County courts he does not expect the case to come to trial until about four years after it was filed. The case was filed about one month after the January 1971 accident.

He said pretrial conferences will probably be held with the school district's insurance company but added, "At this point I can't say whether the case will be settled out of court because we simply don't know enough."

Kansas Graduates

Three local residents graduated recently from Kansas University at Lawrence. They are Robert W. Haase, 106 S. Elm St., and Marilyn A. Shea, 800 W. Lonnquist Blvd., both of Mount Prospect, and John M. Sutton Jr., 310 S. Lee St., Prospect Heights.

Intruder Steals Stereo, Records

He must have been a music critic.

An nuknown thief entered Roger Threadwell's bedroom, at 200 W. Hiawatha Tr., between 10:30 p.m. and midnight Monday. The thief took a stereo phonograph system and a number of record albums.

However, the thief did not take all the Threadwell's albums. He was selective, leaving most of them and other available valuables.

Entry was gained through an unlocked door, police said.

200-Bed Facility At Least 3 Years Away

$12 Million Hospital For Schaumburg

Plans to build a $12 million hospital facility in Schaumburg were announced jointly last night by Dr. James A. Campbell, president of Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center of Chicago, and Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Calling it a "major step forward" not only for the village but for the entire Northwest suburban area, Atcher said the health care needs of the suburbs would be greatly served by the new facility.

Construction of the hospital probably will take about three years. Initial plans call for a 200-bed facility to be built. Additions are contemplated, Dr. Campbell said.

The offer from Presbyterian-St. Luke's, which has been in the discussion stages for several months, calls for a land donation of approximately 20 to 25 acres and a pledge to raise $4 million for construction of the hospital.

At least one step of that offer was fulfilled last night when the deed for a 20-acre site was turned over to Dr. Campbell by Harold Anderson. The site, located about one-half mile west of the intersection of Schaumburg and Roselle roads, is commonly referred to as Sarah's Grove.

DR. CAMPBELL said the planned facility is part of a general expansion program of Presbyterian-St. Luke's that encompasses affiliations with already existing hospitals and the construction of several new facilities.

Also in attendance at the announcement were Hoffman Estates Mayor Frederick Downey and Roselle Mayor Robert Frantz.

Downey said he was disturbed by the announcement of the hospital's plans because he questioned the fate of a $20,000 study currently being made to plan the health care needs of the area.

Downey said other groups also have approached Hoffman Estates offering to build hospitals there. "But we have committed ourselves to wait until this study is completed," Downey said.

"I hope the village of Schaumburg and Presbyterian-St. Luke's also will wait until the study is completed," he added.

Atcher said his village certainly would examine the results of the study closely.

Atcher also congratulated Mrs. Jean Kessell, who has headed a local hospital committee for several years, for her work in contacting representatives of Presbyterian-St. Luke's, which led to last night's announcement.

Village Employe Injured

William J. Cunningham, 1900 Cholo Ln., has been charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and damage to village property after an accident in which a Mount Prospect public works employe was seriously injured.

Cunningham struck a public works truck that was hoisting a stone pillar into place on Lowden Lane, police said. This caused the pillar to fall on Rodney Pike, 5 N. Main St., pinning him to the ground.

A spokeswoman for Holy Family Hospital said yesterday Pike's condition has improved. He is now listed in fair condition with multiple fractures.

Cunningham and two passengers in his car, Jo R. Pifciotta, 17, of 712 Boulder Dr., and Mark T. Petersen, 17, of 1830 Camp McDonad Rd., were also injured in the accident, which took place about 2 p.m. Monday.

Engineer Sees No Easy Solution To Sewer Backup

Short of rebuilding miles of outdated and undersized sewer lines at a cost of millions of dollars, there is little the Arlington Heights engineering department can do to eliminate recent sewer backups, according to Village Eng. Allen Sander.

Most of the cases of sewer backup that have been reported to the engineering department during the past few days involve older, combined storm and sanitary sewers, some of which were built as long ago as 1900, Sander said yesterday.

"After four heavy storms in three weeks, the sewers just can't handle any more water," he said.

MEASUREMENTS TAKEN at the fire station on north Arlington Heights Road show that three-fourths of an inch of rain fell in 15 minutes Monday night and that nearly 2.6 inches of rain have fallen in the past seven days.

The combined storm and sanitary sewers are gravity sewers, Sander explained, and if the water in them backs up far enough it can come up through basement drains.

One solution to this is to require, as the village started to do last year, that new sewer connections be overhead connections which are made at the first floor rather than in the basement of a home.

The overhead connections, however, do require an electric sump pump to pump water from basement drains up to the first-floor connection. This makes the system vulnerable during electric power failures.

One of the reported areas of serious sewer backup is along north Dunton Avenue between Thomas and Olive streets.

"In 1968 the village improved the existing 12-inch combined sewer by installing an additional storm relief sewer," Sander said.

The storm relief sewer did not solve the backup problem along north Dunton Avenue but it did take some of the pressure off the main combination sewer, Sander said.

Putting in a storm relief sewer is easy and inexpensive compared to the cost of wholly replacing combination sewers with separate storm and sanitary sewer systems.

The village is currently at work replacing combination sewer lines on north Dunton Avenue between Euclid Avenue and Oakton Street but this replacement will not affect the sewer situation further north on Dunton, Sander said.

Another problem is that local sewer improvements often depend on similar improvements downstream to be effective.

THIS IS THE case with storm sewers that drain into Salt and McDonald creeks, both of which overfill during periods of heavy rain.

One possible solution to this problem that has been contemplated by the village is the installation of special lift pumps. These pumps would take water out of overcharged storm sewers and throw it back out on top of Salt Creek.

Such a pump system has been discussed for the Surrey Ridge West area.

A long-term solution, however, is tied to the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Improvement Project, a multi-million dollar federal, state and local program designed to build a 600-acre reservoir in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Karen Snelson 'Best Young Cheerleader'

Karen Snelson, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Snelson, 518 E. Burr Oak St., Arlington Heights, was recently chosen the "best young miss cheerleader" of the annual Illinois Junior High Cheerleading Clinic in Lake Forest.

Karen was selected on the basis of her performance in tumbling skills, partner stunts, gymnastic ability, voice projection, pep and enthusiasm.

"Karen's desire and determination in the finals carried her to the top spot in competition over 180 girls from 25 schools in the Chicago suburban area," said Sue Fitzsimmons, director of the clinic.

Along with her teammates from Cooper Junior High School in Buffalo Grove, Karen will be the guest of the Chicago Bulls for a game this fall where the team will cheer for the Bulls in the Chicago Stadium.

Karen was also awarded the Spirit Award Scholarship which entitles her to attendance at next year's cheering clinic.

Karen, an honors student at Cooper Junior High in Buffalo Grove, is also a member of the student council, pep club and girls' athletics. Her seventh grade cheerleading squad placed second in last winter's competition at Woodlands Academy Tournament in Lake Forest.

150 Kids Will Compete For Dog Show Trophies

More than 150 dogs are expected to compete for trophies and ribbons at the Kids Dog Show Saturday on the cultural center site in Arlington Heights.

Trophies will be awarded to winners in each of four classes; small dogs, large dogs, best tricks and best costume. Each child entering a dog in the competition will receive a blue Sidewalk Days ribbon.

Trophies will go to first place entrants, with red second place and white third place ribbons. Any youngster may enter simply by registering at the site at 9:30 a.m.

Directing the judging at 10 a.m. will be Herb Semper, well known area dog obedience judge. Others assisting will be Paul Logan, associate sports editor of Paddock Publications; James Drake, Country Companies Insurance and Gene Korn of the Arlington Heights Police Department.

Other features of Sidewalk Days in Arlington Heights next week include Talented Teen Revue Thursday evening, July 27. Delores Eiler Dance Revue will perform Friday evening and the Singin' Strings Saturday evening. All performances will begin at 8 p.m. in front of the bleachers next to the Herald building at 114 W. Campbell.

A carnival will be held in downtown Arlington Heights Wednesday through Sunday in conjunction with Sidewalk Days.

Talented teens, singles or groups wishing to audition for the Thursday night show may call Mrs. Joe Wanner, 392-2311.

Free Swimming Set For Senior Citizens

Free swim lessons and recreational swimming for residents over 65 years old will be held tonight at Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge, Arlington Heights, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. The senior citizens will have exclusive use of the pool.

All swimmers, however, must have an Arlington Heights Park District Gold Key, which can be obtained free of charge at any neighborhood center in the district, including the administration building, 660 N. Ridge.

After a swim in the heated pool, senior citizens will also have the opportunity to use the Olympic Park sauna bath free of charge.

200-Bed Facility At Least 3 Years Away

$12 Million Hospital For Schaumburg

Plans to build a $12 million hospital facility in Schaumburg were announced jointly last night by Dr. James A. Campbell, president of Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center of Chicago, and Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Calling it a "major step forward" not only for the village but for the entire Northwest suburban area, Atcher said the health care needs of the suburbs would be greatly served by the new facility.

Construction of the hospital probably will take about three years. Initial plans call for a 200-bed facility to be built. Additions are contemplated, Dr. Campbell said.

The offer from Presbyterian-St. Luke's, which has been in the discussion stages for several months, calls for a land donation of approximately 20 to 25 acres and a pledge to raise $4 million for construction of the hospital.

At least one step of that offer was fulfilled last night when the deed for a 20-acre site was turned over to Dr. Campbell by Harold Anderson. The site, located about one-half mile west of the intersection of Schaumburg and Roselle roads, is commonly referred to as Sarah's Grove.

DR. CAMPBELL said the planned facility is part of a general expansion program of Presbyterian-St. Luke's that encompasses affiliations with already existing hospitals and the construction of several new facilities.

Also in attendance at the announcement were Hoffman Estates Mayor Frederick Downey and Roselle Mayor Robert Frantz.

Downey said he was disturbed by the announcement of the hospital's plans because he questioned the fate of a $20,000 study currently being made to plan the health care needs of the area.

Downey said other groups also have approached Hoffman Estates offering to build hospitals there. "But we have committed ourselves to wait until this study is completed," Downey said.

"I hope the village of Schaumburg and Presbyterian-St. Luke's also will wait until the study is completed," he added.

Atcher said his village certainly would examine the results of the study closely.

Atcher also congratulated Mrs. Jean Kessell, who has headed a local hospital committee for several years, for her work in contacting representatives of Presbyterian-St. Luke's, which led to last night's announcement.

Association To Analyze School District Budget

Next year's budget figures for School Dist 23 will be analyzed by Prospect Heights Education Association (PHEA) members to see if adjustments can be made to accommodate pay hikes for Dist. 23 teachers, according to Larry Halter, PHEA spokesman.

At a second round of salary negotiations Tuesday, school board bargainers said they could allow only a 2.6 per cent cost-of-living raise in contrast to the 5.5 per cent increase the teachers are seeking.

Due to the tightness of next year's budget, and previous cuts in spending geared at eliminating a deficit of close to $100,000, the board explained the 5.5 per cent hike cannot be met.

Halter felt however that with a new state aid formula which would allow the district an additional $200,000 a higher increase than the board offered may be possible through adjusting the budget.

"THAT'S WHY we want to examine the budget to see if cuts in other spending would make a higher raise possible," he said.

Statistics presented by the PHEA Tuesday, showed that Prospect Heights schools rank sixth on a list of average salaries in seven districts at $9,475 as compared with Arlington Heights Dist. 25, Elk Grove Dist. 59, Palatine Dist. 15 and River Trails Dist. 26, whose average salaries are higher than Prospect Heights.

Halter feels that the district's low ranking on the list means that higher quality teachers would not be attracted to Prospect Heights schools.

Board negotiators felt however that the difference in salaries among districts would be of little significance in attracting teachers.

They also mentioned the 10 per cent turnover rate of teachers in the district is the major reason for the low average salary. With a higher number of teachers coming into the district being paid the $7,541 starting wage, they said, the average remains lower.

The figures, taken from the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI) showed Dist. 25 heading the list with an average salary of $10,780 and Wheeling at the bottom with $9,230.

ALSO AT Tuesday's talks, the board rejected a PHEA request for yearly merit increases consisting of $800 for superior, $600 for above average and $400 for competent teachers. They countered this offer with an offer for a $10,000 lump sum in merit pay to be divided among the 74 district teachers.

A total of $14,000 was also offered by the board for extra-duty pay compared with a $16,000 request by the teachers.

The two sides are scheduled to meet again Aug. 16 to further discuss the salary package. The only item resolved so far has been the PHEA'S sick leave proposal.

Woman, 44, Injured When Autos Collide

A Palatine woman is hospitalized and in the intensive care unit after her car apparently crossed the center line on Northwest Highway and collided with another car head-on yesterday.

Police report that June Waskosky, 44, of 202 N. Greenwood, may have had difficulty with her car fishtailing in the rain. The accident occurred at 11 a.m. in the vicinity of 228 N. Northwest Hwy.

James W McVey, driver of the other car, and his passenger, Lionel Mulholland, were treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital in Arlingto Heights. McVey, 40, lives at 710 E. Thomas in Arlington Heights and Mulholland is a Thousand Oaks, Cal., resident.

Miss Waskosky, who was admitted to Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village, was ticketed for driving on the left side of the center line.

Carnival Is Slated To Fight Dystrophy

A neighborhood carnival will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at 3 E. Brookwood, Arlington Heights, in an attempt to raise money to fight muscular dystrophy.

The carnival will be at the home of Robin German, who will serve as the ringmaster, assisted by her sister Leslie. The girls are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bob German.

Included in carnival games will be ring and bean bag tosses; and cookies and drinks will be sold.

Last year, 28,143 carnivals were held by children across the nation which raised more than $750,000 for research and patient service programs.

Application For Housing Funds OKd

Mount Prospect's application for federally subsidized low-rent housing for the elderly was approved Tuesday by the village board.

A resolution was passed approving a cooperative agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA) and asking the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for a preliminary loan.

The CCHA will act as the village's agent in procuring the loans. CCHA also will manage the building once it is constructed.

The preliminary loan, of $50,000, is to cover the costs of surveys and planning in connection with the development of such a project.

The application will seek 250 units of low-income housing. What is really wanted is 125 units but Victor Walchirk, of CCHA, said HUD usually cuts applications in half.

A RECENT VILLAGE survey had results that indicated 125 units could be filled with no trouble.

Once CCHA officials receive the Mount Prospect resolutions, they will make the formal application to HUD. Then HUD will research the request, taking a minimum of 90 days, to see if any units are needed, and if so, how many. A program reservation for a certain number of units would then be made by HUD for Mount Prospect.

After suitable land is found and purchased, there would follow some 15 or 16 months of construction. In all, this means occupancy of the building would be at least 2½ years in the future.

Walchirk has told the board he sees no problem with convincing HUD that "the community can fill them (the units) all by itself." He said the lengthy wait would be for the program reservation.

Storm Clean-Up May Take Up To Another 60 Days

by CAROL RHYNE

Some Elk Grove Village businessmen estimated Wednesday it will take one to two months of clean-up and rebuilding before everything will be back to normal after last weekend's wind storm that caused nearly $1.3 million in damage to buildings and equipment.

Removal of the debris from the storm is expected to take one to two weeks, but reconstruction of collapsed roofs and walls has been slowed by persistent rains this week.

Village officials counted 47 buildings in the industrial park badly damaged by the strong winds and rain. Especially hard hit was the business district north of Rte. 72 and east of Arlington Heights Road.

Throughout the industrial district, wrecked buildings stood next to other structures untouched by the storm.

Although no tornado was reported Friday night, Ed Murphy, of Murphy Tire Center, 352 Lively Blvd., said, "You can't tell me it wasn't a tornado or tornado-like winds that blew through here."

THE STORM BLEW off half of the roof and the back wall of the building housing Murphy's store, and carpenters put up a temporary wall on the building Saturday.

Dan Silberman, treasurer of National Heat and Power Co., 170 Lively Blvd., said he was waiting for some clear, dry days so his men could install a new roof. He said a third of the roof was blown away in the storm and the remainder would probably have to be replaced too.

Silberman said if everything goes well, he hopes the plant will be in full operation in a month. He said now the sheet metal shop, which makes heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems, is only in partial operation.

"My biggest worry now is rust," Tom Ryan, manager of Atlas Chain Co., 135 Kelly Blvd., said. He said prompt action of the Elk Grove Village Fire Department in covering his walls and roof with heavy plastic saved him thousands of dollars in water damage to inventory from rains this week.

Ryan said business was in full operation by Monday and orders were being shipped as they came in. However by Wednesday power had not been restored to the building. He said the firm was moving to another building on Gordon Street for a month or two until a collapsed roof and walls could be rebuilt.

PAULEX TOOL and Mold Co., 935 Lee St., where the storm blew down half the building's roof and a wall, may be back in full operation in 30 days.

Werner Bieberstein, Paulex manager, said he hopes to bring back some of the workers Monday in a makeshift operation. So far neither telephone service nor power has been restored, but construction workers started building a new roof and wall yesterday, which hopefully will be completed in a month, he said.

Man Charged With Forgery

A Chicago man has been arrested by Rolling Meadows police and charged with forgery.

Paul H. Cohen, 30, of Chicago was arrested Tuesday in Skokie in connection with a three-month investigation of bad checks that have surfaced in the city, according to Police Chief Lewis Case.

Cohen is allegedly linked with another man to the circulation of about $5,000 worth of forged checks in Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights and Wheeling during the past three months.

Case said both Arlington Heights and Wheeling police departments hold warrants for his arrest.

Cohen posted $2,000 bond and was released by Rolling Meadows police pending a July 28 appearance in Arlington Heights branch court.

Summer School Session Comes To Close Tonight

The Prospect Heights Dist. 23 summer school session comes to a close with an evening of open house and performances at 6:30 tonight in MacArthur Junior High School, Palatine and Schoenbeck roads.

The MacArthur Junior High Concert and Military Bands will open the program followed with performances by the drama workshop and music department. The drama workshop will perform a three-act operatic version of "Rip Van Winkle."

Following the performances, the school will be open and parents may visit the school's classrooms.

Dodd Will Handle Extra Park Work

Until the fall, Ronald H. Dodd, superintendent of recreation at the Arlington Heights Park District, will perform two jobs.

Besides his regular duties, he will take over for Recreation Supervisor Jack Peleck who became director of a recreation cooperative in Marengo, Ill. Monday.

"We have to do a lot of interviewing, and I just think it will take that long to find a replacement for Jack," said Dodd.

Included in the recreation supervisor's duties formerly held by Peleck are overseeing all swimming pool operations and the recreation center programs.

Strikes, Rain Delay School

Strikes and excessive rain have placed construction on Palatine Hills Junior High School behind schedule.

John Andrup, superintendent at the site for the general contractors, Kiendl Construction Co., said he did not know exactly how far behind schedule the school is. He said the carpenters' strike, which stopped all construction at the school, put the project at least three weeks behind schedule.

"We feel that while the project was delayed, knowing the kind of reputation Kiendl has, it will be no time before the work is back on schedule," said Joseph Kiszka, deputy superintendent of Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

All the workers are now on the site and the walls, electrical wiring, plumbing and concrete floors are being put in. Andrup said he anticipated no problem in getting the school enclosed by winter.

The school, on Smith Street in Palatine, is scheduled for completion by the spring of 1973.

ALL IN STEP. Girls in the Coronets display their winning form which brought the State American Legion Championship to Arlington Heights last weekend. The win was the third championship in three contests this summer for the 80-girl squad. After a few more meets, including one at the "Festival of Music" in Milwaukee Saturday, the girls will travel to the national drill team championships in Minneapolis, Minn. in August.

Arlington Coronets To Seek National Drill Team Title

After capturing three state titles this summer, the Arlington Heights Coronets are hoping they will bring the national drill team title home from Minneapolis, Minn., in August.

Most recently, the 80-member drill team captured the State American Legion Championship last weekend at Elk Grove High School.

The team also has won the Veterans of Foreign Wars State Championship and an open contest in Columbus, Wis. this year.

The Coronets feel hard work has been the secret of their success. Weekly practices during the school year become twice weekly during the summer and will peak to daily workouts as the time for the nationals draws near.

"The girls really take their marching seriously, and so do their instructors Lynn and George Lindstrom of Kenosha, Wis., who come to Arlington Heights several days weekly," said Herb Carl, father of one of the girls.

Fund raising for contest trips, which are almost weekly during the summer, is also taken seriously by the team. Ticket selling for tag day, an annual beef dinner and other projects is as much a group effort as their marching.

"The $12,000 yearly budget covers the cost of most trips and overnight accommodations at the nationals," said Carl. "But at the end of the season, the girls sometimes have to pitch in a little more to come out even."

A SPECIAL EXPENSE this year has been for sound equipment, so the girls can march to music during field competition. In previous years the girls have marched to the commands of a leader.

Now in their 10th year, the Coronets were started by Mrs. Lindstrom, formerly a teacher at Arlington High School. Her idea was to combine marchers from all Arlington high schools to form a village team to march during summer months.

"The Coronets are now one of the largest and finest drill teams in the country," said Carl.

The team is co-sponsored by Arlington Heights V.F.W. Post 981, American Legion Post 208 and Arlington Elks Lodge 2048. Coronet captains are Karen Stephens, Lorrie Pedersen and Jackie McCubbin, all of Arlington Heights.

2 Injured In Crash

A 16-year-old Palatine girl and a man from Streamwood were injured in an automobile accident yesterday afternoon at Ill. Rte. 72 and Shoefactory Road in Hoffman Estates.

Listed in critical condition at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, is Robert McGough of 16 S. Oltendorf Rd., Streamwood. In good condition, according to hospital authorities, is Joyce Gliot, of 2065 W. Frost, Palatine.

Roadside Stand . . . Bit Of Green Between Cement Vise

by LYNN ASINOF

The last roadside vegetable stand in Wheeling lies nestled between two symbols of modern development — the flat-topped municipal building and Wickes Furniture Co.'s spacious new store.

Leafy green vegetables brighten the wooden stand that sports a painted sign in front that says, "Koeppen's." Although members of Andrew Koeppen's family have been farming and selling vegetables in Wheeling for 53 years, they have never owned the land they farm. Instead, they rent their fields from land owners in the area.

"We started with about 110 acres," said Mrs. Koeppen. "Now it's about 18 acres. Years ago we used to grow soybeans and larger stuff, but now it's just vegetables."

BIT BY BIT, property owners sold the land that the Koeppens used to farm, since real estate in Wheeling became more valuable. The fields now wrap around the municipal building, providing a striking contrast of the new and the old.

"We grow just about everything we sell," said 15-year-old Jane Koeppen. "This stuff over here isn't homegrown yet," she said, indicating a wooden table laden with fresh produce. "We have to wait for it to grow.

"We've had to cut down a lot," she added, "because we don't have that much land anymore."

The Koeppens have two large wooden tables at their stand. One displays the homegrown carrots, cabbage, beans, beets and other vegetables. The other is for produce that is not raised on the farm.

"We keep them separate to show which is homegrown," Mrs. Koeppen said. "Being truthful to your customers — that's the main thing."

She said most of the people who buy at their stand come from the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area. "There are new customers, sure," she said. "But some go back 15, 20, 25 years."

THIS WEEKEND the Koeppens hope to start selling their most popular item, homegrown sweet corn. The corn is late this year because of the cold spring and rainy summer weather.

"We usually start selling the sweet corn around the 13th," Mrs. Koeppen said. "This year there is a late growing season."

Members of the Koeppen family farm the land and run the stand as well. Although there are only three Koeppens at home now, son Jerry helps out on the weekends. A daughter who lives in Michigan also comes to help out occasionally.

The roadside vegetable stand is open from 9 a.m. to about 8:30 p.m., seven days a week from July until the end of October. Although the vegetables change with the crop seasons, the hours don't, and the Koeppens close their stand only when the weather is bad.

Auto Accidents Take Toll

More than $3,000 worth of damage to both village and private property were caused by two separate auto accidents recently in Mount Prospect.

Police said William E. Cash, 18, of 922 Willow Rd., Wheeling, was slightly injured yesterday morning when his car hit seven trees and two mailboxes on Seneca Lane.

Cash was found 1½ blocks away from the scene in his Triumph convertible. Police said the heavily damaged car was filled with leaves and had branches in its frame.

Police charged Cash with damage to village property, driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquid and failure to drive on the right side of the road. He will appear Aug. 16 in the Mount Prospect branch of circuit court.

The accident happened shortly after 2 a.m.

IN THE SECOND accident, which took place shortly after 2 a.m. Tuesday, a car operated by Paul K. Lutsch, 17, of 316 N. Wille St., Mount Prospect, struck a house at 503 W. Henry St.

Lutsch was listed in good condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital. He suffered facial and arm cuts. About $1,000 damage was done to the Norbert A. Miloch home.

An Aug. 30 court date has been set for Lutsch who has been charged with leaving the roadway, damage to village property and curfew violation.

Unveil Plans For Commercial Area Along NW Hwy.

Plans have been outlined for a commercial complex, including a bowling alley, along Northwest Highway in Palatine.

Property owner Onofrio Guttilla, 516 Willow Wood Dr., asked the Palatine Plan Commission for annexation and B-2, general service district, zoning of the seven-acre site at the southwest corner of Northwest Highway and Smith Street.

The property is just east of the Village Oasis, which includes 15 shops, developed by Guttilla last year.

The plan commission is expected to consider the new petition at its Aug. 1 meeting before making a recommendation to the village board.

Guttilla said he is seeking the B-2 zoning to construct a 40-lane Brunswick bowling alley on the property.

In addition, a small restaurant and cocktail lounge would be provided, and a Subaru dealership operated by the owners of the Foreign Car Center in Palatine.

Guttilla said a total of 10 to 12 stores would be included in the complex.

Hypnotic Research Group Will Meet

The National Hypnotic Research Center will hold its monthly meeting July 28 at 8 p.m. at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights.

The guest speaker will be Henry E. Rucker, a psychic and director of the Psychic Research Foundation of Chicago.

Admission to the meeting is $2 for nonmembers and $1 for members.

Police Report Sharp Increases In Robberies, Burglaries

by JACK PENCHOFF

A sharp 240 per cent in robberies and 74 per cent increase in the number of burglaries have contributed to a 22 per cent increase in major crimes in Des Plaines during the first half of 1972

The crime rate figures were disclosed in the Des Plaines Police Department second quarter report released by Police Chief Arthur Hintz

The figures show there have been 24 robberies so far this year compared to seven during the first six months of last year Eleven of this year's 24 robberies occurred in the second quarter, a 120 per cent increase over the five robberies reported in the second quarter of 1971

There have been 312 burglaries reported in Des Plaines during the first six months of this year compared to 179 during the corresponding period last year

During the second quarter of this year, there were 169 reported burglaries, a 69 5 per cent increase over the 105 during the same period last year

Other offenses beside robbery and burglary included in the major crime category are murder, rape, aggravated assault, theft and auto theft

The 22 per cent increase in major crimes was reflected in figures that showed 621 reports of such crimes for the first six months of this year, compared to 534 incidents in the first half of this year

The report released by Hintz actually cited 696 cases of major crime However, 75 cases of simple battery and simple assault were subtracted from this year's figures for purposes of comparison, because of different reporting procedures now used by the police departments

There were 615 reported thefts in the first two quarters of this year, a 7 5 per cent increase over the 571 thefts during the same period last year Included in this year's theft figures are 64 burglaries from autos, actually listed separately in this year's second quarter report because of the new reporting procedures

Of the 1,057 minor crimes reported during the first six months of this year, more than 94 per cent were thefts and burglaries Of the remaining 54 offenses, 24 were robberies, 26 were aggravated assaults, three were rapes and one was an attempted murder

Minor crimes, under the police department's reporting procedures, include such offenses as narcotic and drug laws, vandalism, other sex offenses, weapons, liquor law violations and driving while intoxicated

THERE WERE ONLY 51 additional reported minor crimes during the first six months of this year compared to the same period last year There were 1,098 minor crimes during the first half of this year compared to 1,047 last year

Some 123 simple batteries and simple assaults have been added to this year s major crime figures Under the 1971 reporting procedures those offenses were listed as minor crimes

There were 38 fewer juvenile arrests during the second quarter of 1972 as compared with the corresponding period last year Police arrested 387 juveniles during the months of April, May and June compared with 425 juvenile arrests during the same period last year

Total juvenile arrests are almost even for the first six months of this year compared to the same period last year There were 679 juvenile arrests during the first six months of 1971, one more arrest than the 678 for the January-June period of this year

A significant figure among the juvenile arrests in the second quarter was the number of juveniles arrested for burglary The number almost tripled with 17 juveniles arrested for burglary the second three months of this year compared to six arrests for the same offense in the first half of 1971

During the first six months of this year juvenile arrests almost doubled with 22, compared with 12 for the first six months of last year Police list juveniles as males under 17 and females under 18

Doors Of Youth Center Open On Weekends Only

Place for People youth center 1415 Ellinwood St will close its doors until September to all but weekend evening activities beginning Sunday center officials have announced

Also announced was the resignation of Rev David Russell director and only remaining paid staff member of the financially troubled drop-in center

Rev Russell, who said there are no more funds available to pay his salary, has indicated he will seek a similar job in the counseling field perhaps at another area youth center

Officials said there is enough money available to pay the rent for the rest of the year in the center's second floor quarters on Ellinwood Street Friday and Saturday evening programs which include concerts and film nights, will be continued because they bring in money and because several groups have already been booked for summer performances

At a meeting Monday night, directors and trustees of the center also approved a new program under which young people would pay $10 to $20 a year to become Place for People members They would also commit themselves to a certain number of hours work each week and to attending a monthly meeting

UNDER THE NEW program, designed to raise additional funds, attendance at the center would be restricted to members on certain nights and open to nonmembers on others Also, members would be able to participate in certain activities at reduced cost

The youth center, which has been in financial trouble almost since it opened two years ago, has relied on donations, fund raising activities by members and, recently, an allocation from the Des Plaines Community Chest Those sources have been unable to provide enough money for operating expenses and staff salaries, prompting the scheduled closing for the remainder of the summer

At the meeting Monday, officials of Place for People also discussed a plan by James Reilly, 1030 Cora St , a center director to obtain more money through a major fund-raising drive aimed at churches, local business and industry, service organizations and parents of young people who use the center

It has been estimated such a drive could bring in as much as $14,000, with the remainder of funds needed to operate the center being raised by the young people

Place for People officials also said changes are expected this fall in a number of center programs The center will conduct a voter registration drive aimed at 18 to 21 year olds and invite candidates to address members during the fall election campaign

Place for People also hopes to continue its We Care clean-up campaign program now under way in Des Plaines and expand its activities to help clean up the Des Plaines River

A social action group will be set up to build better relations with the police, local businesses, service and community groups Counseling services, special "rap sessions" as well a film and entertainment nights will continue to be provided The center also plans to offer an arts and crafts night in the fall, officials said

WE CARE, A CLEAN UP project sponsored by Place for People youth center, 1415 Ellinwood St , is helping remove litter and trash from several areas of the city, including the Lee Street-Oakton Street intersection, where Debbie Michalson is shown picking up The youth center has announced it will close its doors until September because of financial difficulties

School Board Has 3 New Members

Dr Charles Giroux and John Bardowski were elected recently to the school board of St Stephen s School in Des Plaines Dave Clark, who was also re elected to the board resigned after the election and was replaced by Mrs Helen McNaney Dr Giroux was chosen president of the school board at its first meeting after the board election

600 Attend Country Fair, Flea Market

More than 600 persons attended the Country Fair and Flea Market sponsored July 9 by the Des Plaines Historical Society Society officials expressed appreciation to the 60 exhibitors and everyone who attended the fair held on the society's museum grounds 777 Lee St

Behrel To Recommend New Alderman

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel has announced that he may recommend appointment of a new fourth Ward alderman at the Aug 7 city council meeting

Speaking at his weekly press conference, Mayor Behrel said he will meet with ward leaders to select a resident who can fill the unexpired term of Ald Morgan O'Brien, who died July 9 apparently of a heart attack

City interpretations of Illinois statutes indicated that the city council has the power to appoint a new alderman to complete the last nine months of O'Brien's term, according to Behrel However, he said, if a majority of aldermen choose, they can order a special election

Behrel also said he will propose changes in the council committees, including assignment of a new chairman for the streets, traffic and forestry committee, which O'Brien had headed He also was a member of the finance and insurance and the building grounds and parking lots committees

At present, the ward has one council member, Ald Daniel Kisslinger, who was appointed last November to fill the unexpired term of Robert Hinde who resigned for business reasons

ACCORDING TO City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach, Kisslinger will have a choice of seeking election in April 1973 to either a two-year or a four-year term The newly appointed alderman, who must also seek election in April if he or she wants to remain in office, would have to run for the term Kisslinger does not choose, she said

This system of two and four-year terms whenever two new aldermen are elected eventually creates a situation in which only one alderman is elected every two years The alderman elected to a two year term in 1973, would run for reelection in 1975 for a four-year term The alderman elected in 1973 for a four year term would seek reelection in 1977 for a four year term

The fourth Ward elections may be further complicated by reapportionment of city, which must be completed before the April election One proposal, for a city ward remap which has already been rejected by aldermen would have placed Kisslinger s home into a new third ward Mrs Rohrbach is now studying census statistics to create a new ward remap proposal

THE CITY COUNCIL honored O Brien at its meeting Monday complimenting his 'unselfish and open minded manner O Brien had served for almost two years He was appointed in 1970, after the death of Reuel Figard, who died of an apparent heart attack

Aldermen unanimously approved a resolution which stated that the 'past, present and future generations of the City of Des Plaines owe him a debt of gratitude for his efforts'

Northwest Education Groups Are Combined

Ties between the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) and the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO) have been tightened. In a reorganization move, both groups were placed under a single administrator, Gloria Kinney.

The NEC Governing Board voted to combine the two groups into a single administrative structure at a meeting Saturday, following the recommendation of consultant Oscar Chute.

Chute, dean of academic affairs at the National College of Education in Evanston, was hired to streamline what school officials said was, at times, an unwieldy and inefficient organization.

NEC, organized in 1969 by 10 school districts, serves as an umbrella over several cooperative programs including NSSEO and a data services program. Yet in recent years NSSEO has taken on an independent identity and its director, John Wightman, has had a position more or less lateral with Mrs. Kinney.

According to Richard Schlott, president of the governing board, drawing NSSEO closer under the NEC umbrella will release Wightman from routine administrative duties and allow him to devote more time to special education.

Actual details of the reorganization, including legal aspects, will be worked out by Mrs. Kinney. It may necessitate revising the charter agreement between the two groups.

IN ANOTHER MOVE to centralize management, the board authorized the hiring of a business manager to oversee all NEC programs. Currently most NEC business transactions are supervised by the High School Dist. 214 office. The high school district serves as administrative district for the cooperative.

NEC members have complained in the past that the present arrangement is both time consuming and inefficient. All financial transactions now have to pass through a series of steps including approval from both NEC and Dist 214 boards.

The new business manager will be paid a salary ranging between $14,000 and $20,000, and will be responsible for budget preparation, payroll, transportation, investment and employment of non-certified personnel. The cooperative is looking for someone with a bachelor's degree and three years of business experience.

Creation of the new position was supported by all NEC member districts except Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. Albert Domanico, Dist. 59 representative, said his board does not feel a student load of 600 requires hiring a business manager.

Supporters of the hiring proposal, on the other hand, contend a budget of over $2 million does require a business manager's supervision. Along with the other eight NEC representatives, the superintendents' council and Wightman approved the proposal.

Decision Stands — Principals Move

The River Trails Dist. 26 school board early yesterday morning reaffirmed its decision to reassign two principals, after questioning each for about two hours.

The board's decision came at about 2 a.m. yesterday after five hours of closed sessions. About 25 parents and teachers waited while the board held closed hearings with Bea Amundson, Feehanville School principal for seven years, and James Ackley, River Trails Junior High School principal for three years. Both had requested hearings to protest their reassignments to new positions.

Board Pres. Lloyd Demel praised the former principals for their service to the district. "They both can contribute much in their new positions," he said.

Miss Amundson has been reassigned as a teacher at River Road School and director of career and outdoor education in the district. Ackley would become media center director, a newly created position. Both said yesterday they have not yet decided if they would accept the new jobs.

Supt. Thomas Warden, who recommended the reassignments, would not make public his reasons. He did say there was a "conflict of administrative philosophy" between him and Miss Amundson. Ackley said yesterday he has not been given specific reasons for the move.

MISS AMUNDSON, represented by Atty. William Carrier during the hearing, said she felt the board really listened to her side of the story.

"It was as fair a hearing as we could have had," said Carrier, who is with the firm of Elmer Gertz, a well-known civil rights attorney. Carrier said he would investigate the matter further to see if there is any basis for legal action.

Ackley said the board members "appeared to have an open mind" but he said he had "a feeling" they would not change their decision. He said all board members questioned him and that there was no rebuttal to his statements. Warden attended both hearings, but said little, according to the principals.

After the hearings, the board met for an hour before announcing its decision. Demel said the board considered both principals weaknesses and strengths as well as opinions of teachers, parents and former school board members before making the decision. He refused to make the reasons for the moves public.

The board decided to grant the hearing at a meeting earlier this month, after parents urged them to do so.

For Work-Study Program

Oakton Gets Federal Funds

Oakton Community College will receive $25,707 in federal funds to be used for student wages as part of a work-study program in the 1972-73 school year.

The college board of trustees voted Tuesday to participate in the program at what was said to be a maximum cost to Oakton of $5,141, which is equal to 20 per cent of the federal contribution.

According to John A. Allison, assistant director of admissions and records, the college is contacting nonprofit organizations in the community to encourage participation in this program during the coming year. If Oakton is successful in securing employment of students under the work-study program in the community, it will reduce the cost of the program to the college, he said.

Non-profit organizations qualifying for the program include social service agencies, non-profit private schools, the public elementary and high school districts, and city governments. They would pay 20 per cent of the student wages with the remaining 80 per cent paid from federal funds.

STUDENTS UNDER the work-study program are employed in a variety of jobs, including child care, maintenance and custodial, tutoring, typing and clerical. Organizations within the college district that are interested in participating in this program can contact Allison at 967-5120, ext. 391.

Oakton Community College will also receive $31,853 under the Economic Opportunity Grant program with $21,752 designated for initial awards and $10,101 designated for renewal awards, college officials said. No contributions from Oakton are required.

The college also plans to participate in the National Defense Student Loan program but college officials have not been informed on funding for this program. The college has submitted a request for $49,275 for student loans. If approved, a total of $168,926 in federal funds would be channeled to needy Oakton students.

Allison said 245 Oakton students will receive help from the programs. In order to participate in any of the three programs, a student must be enrolled or accepted by the college, demonstrate financial need, and be a citizen of the United States or intend to become a permanent resident.

No commitments to financial aid applicants for the 1972-73 school year have as yet been made, but applications are now being accepted.

3 Businesses, Trailer Burglarized Tuesday

Three Des Plaines businesses and a construction trailer were burglarized Tuesday night, with more than $2,000 worth of tools and money stolen from one of them, Wally's Auto Body, 1200 E. Golf Rd.

The two other firms broken into were Stan's Standard Service Station, 1445 Oakton St., and Cesar's Pizza Restaurant, 1881 Oakton St. The construction was located in a trailer at 350 N. River Rd.

According to police reports, thieves pried open the rear door of Wally's Auto Body and stole several tools valued $950. Some of the missing tools included a floor torch, a pneumatic impact wrench and two metal tool boxes containing assorted tools.

Police said the burglars ransacked the office area and escaped with $140 in cash in addition to the tools.

Thieves entered Stan's Standard Service station by prying open the front door. Police said at least $30 in change was taken from a cigarette machine that was pried open.

Some $307 in cash and an undetermined amount of liquor were stolen from Cesar's Pizza Restaurant, according to reports. Police said the burglars pried open the rear door and took the money from two registers and a cash box. More than five cases of liquor were also stolen, police said.

Tools valued at $975 were stolen from the construction trailer, including a pipefitter's vise valued at $350 and a hydraulic cutter valued at $120.

According to reports the trailer belongs to the Bruno Cecchin Plumbing and Heating Co., 4N275 Calvary Dr., near Bloomingdale.

Detective Lt. Lee Alfano said police have not yet determined if any or all of the four burglaries were connected.

Bible School Nears

Department Head: 'Let Them Stand'

'Honest Mistakes' In Raid Report

CHICAGO (UPI) — A police crime lab technician testified yesterday that several "honest mistakes" were allowed to stand in a report his office made at the scene of the 1969 police raid in which two Black Panther leaders were killed.

Earl Holt, on the stand for the second full day in the trial of Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 co-defendants, said the head of his department allowed the mistakes to remain in the report even after they were pointed out to him.

Holt, under cross examination, said Sgt. Charles Koludrovic, a defendant in the case, had made the mistakes but had reported them the next day to David Purtell, the head of the department.

Holt said Koludrovic later told him that Purtell had said the mistakes need not be corrected.

HOLT, WHO assisted Koludrovic in making a crime report at the scene of the Dec. 4, 1969, raid, said that Koludrovic "made honest mistakes" in the field report which drew up at the scene.

The errors included saying that there were several bullet holes in the living room door of the apartment when in fact there was only one, Holt said. The report also said that a bedroom door, which was full of bullet holes, had been closed at the time the shots were fired through it when in fact it had been open.

The defendants are charged with conspiring to obstruct justice following the raid by allegedly altering evidence.

The errors subsequently proved important because police contended that the Panthers in the apartment had fired 15 to 20 shots through the living room door as police were entering the apartment. But a federal grand jury later found that the Panthers had fired only one shot at police.

THE ANGLE OF the bedroom door was important because, had it been closed, it would have meant that the Panthers had fired from inside the room through the door at police.

If the door had been open, and swung back completely against the wall, the bullet holes could have meant police fired through the wall and the open door at Panthers inside the room.

Holt said that he and Koludrovic discovered the errors as they were going over photographs taken at the apartment but when Koludrovic told Purtell about the mistakes and asked if he should write another report, "the director told him no, as long as he (Koludrovic) was aware of the mistakes to leave the report as it is."

Holt gave the testimony under cross examination by defense attorney William Martin. Holt, who was named as a co-conspirator in the Panther indictment, denied that he had ever conspired with Koludrovic to hide evidence or obstruct justice.

City Buys Sound-Measuring Devices

The Des Plaines City Council Monday authorized an expenditure of $1,000 for the purchase of sound measuring instruments to aid officials in preventing violations of city noise ordinances.

The purchase, proposed by the council's environmental controls committee, will be used by environmental protection officer Philip Lindahl, who was hired May 13 by the city's civil service commission.

Alderman indicated that the instruments could be used to help fight excessive noise from Chicago and North Western Rwy. commuter trains and from O'Hare airplane jet noise.

The city's new noise ordinance, approved by the council last winter, sets maximum noise limits for both jets and trains. According to Ald. Robert Michaels (8th), the instruments could provide information which would be judged as acceptable evidence in court cases against noise ordinance violators.

COG Supports Fund Application

by ROGER CAPETTINI

The Cook County Council of Governments (COG) yesterday voted to support a county application for federal funds for a study on solid waste disposal in suburban Cook County.

The endorsement of the grant application was made at the COG monthly meeting yesterday in Chicago following a presentation by Ted Brzyski of the Cook County Planning Department.

Brzyski explained the application was approved by county President George W. Dunne in May and since has gained the endorsement of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) which also has been working on a solid waste study. NIPC reportedly gave its support to the county study with the condition the county coordinate its activities with the regional planning agency and not duplicate studies done by NIPC or other agencies.

A spokesman for the county planning department, James Ebstrom, said the purpose of the study will be to examine all the alternative methods of disposing solid waste. He said it differs from the NIPC report in that it will deal specifically with the suburban areas of Cook County. Ebstrom also said the county intends to include an implementation plan whereby the implementation of its ultimate proposal can begin even while some of the planning is still being completed.

A summary of the proposal states the basic goal of the project is to match the future of solid waste storage, collection and disposal capabilities with the future volumes of solid waste which will be generated. The major emphasis of the study will be on disposal rather than collection, however, Brzyski said.

THE PLAN IS TO achieve the goal through development of a solid waste management plan for the suburbs, integrated with the regional planning process of NIPC and capable of implementing the regional objectives of that planning agency.

Brzyski said the study is expected to take about three years. He said the application requests funding of $150,000 for the first year. During that period, Brzyski said, the planners will attempt to organize private scavenger firms and municipalities "into a viable mechanism for communications."

He said the second year will be devoted to consideration of the alternatives and the third year to developing a final proposal to the county board, villages and cities.

After hearing the presentation and the request for support, John Crawford, representing Glenview, offered a motion to support the application and the members in attendance approved unanimously.

NEC Board Approves New Salary Rates

Salaries for Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) personnel have been set for the 1972-73 school year.

The NEC governing board approved the new salary rates at a meeting Saturday. The cooperative employs approximately 160 people.

NEC is a cooperative of nine school districts organized in 1969 to develop area-wide programs and solve mutual problems. Current members include districts 15, 21, 23, 25, 26, 57, 59, 211 and 214.

Salary increases were recommended by an appointed salary committee, and were based mainly on merit. The rates are divided into three groups: directors of NEC, teachers or teacher aides and computer or clerical workers.

DR. GLORIA KINNEY, executive director of NEC, had her salary increased from $23,200 to $24,700. John Wightman, director of the Northwest suburban special education organization, is up to $26,700 from $25,500. Director of instructional and informational systems John Bernard is getting a $1,400 hike over last year's $19,500.

John Whipple, clinical director at the center for child and family studies, was given an increase from $18,250 to $19,000. Principal of the Samuel A. Kirk Center Ronald Sterrett now earns $17,750, $750 more than last year. Mrs. Lois King, the executive director's administrative assistant, received a raise of $600, earning $9,600.

The salary for a teacher at the Samuel A. Kirk developmental training center can range from $7,730 to $12,470. Teacher aides receive from $3,500 to $4,900.

At the Dwyer School Treatment Center, salaries range between $8,216 and $14,580 for teachers, and $3,720.50 and $4,150 for teacher aides.

Computer analysts, programmers, operators, keypunch operators, and clerical workers received an average pay increase of 5.7 per cent. Their salaries range between $7,100 and $15,200.

BAR CABINET, designed by H. Paul Browning for American Furniture Co. (Romweber), has three compartments, one for bar equipment. Top comes either in hammered copper or walnut.

HORSESHOE-SHAPED Hunt server bar by Baker Furniture is copied from an English Regency wine table and provides space for person serving and room for plenty of bottles and glasses.

Today's Bar Units

Styled For Male Tastes

by FRAN HECKART

Designers of cabinetry to hold liquid refreshments are evidently paying little heed to the lady drinkers inasmuch as they are still styling the units to appeal mostly to masculine tastes.

The new bar units run the gamut from small medium priced chairside cabinets and bar-servers to "refreshment centers" that almost take the place of walk-in bars. Some of the larger units can be used in either home or office and are designed for very generous budgets.

Jamestown Lounge Co. has outfitted a handsome armoire in traditional design as a liquor cabinet. Considering its dimensions, 40 x 20 x 82 inches high, it is easy to visualize the quantity of bottles and the number of glasses it can store. There are also a black plastic shelf and a pull-out mixing area plus a utensil tray. An automatic light contributes to the self-sufficiency of the unit. The armoire is crafted in pecan and elm and is designed for the man who has almost everything. The massive self-contained bar retails for about $1,000.

ALSO DESIGNED for those in the larger income brackets are the Hunt server bar by Baker Furniture, Inc., and the bar cabinet from the Dorchester House collection by American Furniture Co.

Baker's bar is horse-shoe shaped and looks like an adaptation of the Hunt desk. In reality it's a copy of an English Regency wine table. Worked in French walnut and cherry, it has a slot in the center for the host who mixes and serves the drinks . . . and lots of space for storage of bottles and glasses.

H. Paul Browning designed Romweber's unique bar cabinet that can double as a buffet server in the dining room. It is 80 inches long, 20 inches deep, and 42 inches high, and is crafted in Circassian walnut and narrow hard cherry. There are three compartments, one of which is for bar equipment. It is available with either a walnut top or a hammered copper surface.

THE ETHAN ALLEN Collection by Baumritter Corp. now includes a complete refreshment center. There are two base cabinets and a deck. One base houses a refrigerator and the other stores bottles, while the deck is for glasses and equipment.

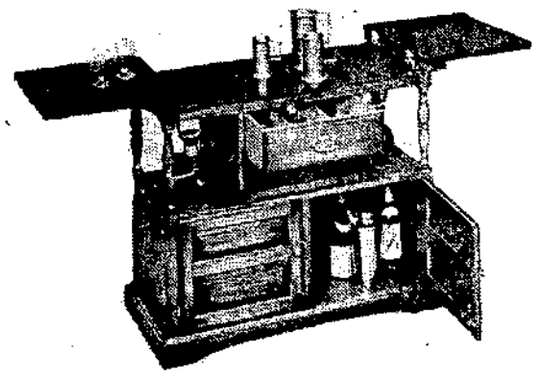
Extensole Corp.'s bar cabinets look like beautifully designed consoles, as do those by Jasper Cabinet Co. Extensole has one unit in cherry, available in either wood or paint finishes; another is crafted in solid elm and pecan veneers in medium brown finish. Both units are in Mediterranean design and have black plastic tops for mixing areas. Each contain space for a small refrigerator which is available for an extra charge of $150 — as is a set of glassware for an additional $20. The basic unit retails for about $458.

One of Jasper Cabinet's bars has an extra amount of masculine appeal in that it is in oak veneers and solids with quatrefoil decorations on the center front panel and is available with Spanish galleons burned in on leather on front end panels. The flip-top opening provides a generous work surface and accessibility to the bottles and glasses stored below.

CONANT BALL CO'S bar cart is equipped with casters so it can be easily moved from room to room. From the Roger Conant collection, it offers generous space for storing bottles, glasses and mixing equipment. The top opens to form a 67-inch work surface. The top and subtop have black laminated surfaces in leather pattern for durability and easy care. It retails for $310.

A desk chest by Basic-Witz, a division of Mohasco Industries, Inc., is interchangeable as a liquor cabinet-chest. Inside the drop lid is a plastic surface which can be used either as a writing surface or drink-mixing area. The interior can be arranged to store bottles and glasses. The unit is from the Campeon collection and is crafted in oak solids and veneers in fruitwood finish. It pairs with a book and TV chest for use in the den, living room or family room. Both are in the low-medium price brackets at $160.

A small unit from the Boutique series by Brandt Cabinet Works, Inc. is reminiscent of cellarettes, available in early post-Prohibition days, in design. For chairside use in den or living room, it is crafted in pecan veneers, stands 27 inches high and retails for about $122.



BAR CART ON CASTERS can "roam the range" to supply guests with liquid refreshments. From the Roger Conant collection by Conant Ball Co., it is in solid maple and features sufficient storage space for everything needed for mixing drinks.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

FOR THE MAN with a touch of the "old salt" in his nature, this bar unit in oak veneers and solids has quatrefoil decoration in the front panel and also comes — for a slightly higher — with Spanish galleons burned in on leather on front end panels. The wood front retails for $369, with galleons about $450.

ARMOIRE, HANDSOMELY RIGGED as a liquor cabinet, is by Jamestown Lounge Co. In pecan and elm, it has pull-out mixing shelf, an automatic light and utensil tray. Back panel is finished in gold leaf.

Lawyers Are Partners In Marriage

When Nancy J. Wichman registered for law school at the University of Michigan in 1965, she was seated next to Thomas R. Trowbridge III. That resulted in a romance which eventually led to their becoming man and wife in a 4 p.m. ceremony June 3 at Christ Episcopal Church, Sharon, Conn.

Nancy, a resident of New York City, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wichman, Des Plaines. Her bridegroom, also from New York, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Trowbridge Jr., New Britain and Sharon, Conn.

The new Mrs. Trowbridge is a graduate of Arlington High School, attended Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and received her master's degree from the University of Michigan. Upon graduation from the University of Michigan Law School she joined the law firm of Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam and Roberts, New York City.

Her husband graduated from Yale University and the University of Michigan Law School, went on as a Fulbright Scholar in France, and is currently an associate with the New York law firm of Donovan, Leisure, Newton and Irvine.

NANCY CHOSE A Pricilla of Boston gown of ivory English net with white lace applique. The dress featured a V-neck and chapel-length train. Her waist-length veil of ivory English net was crowned by a band of white daisies and baby's breath. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, daisies, baby's breath and ivy.

Mrs. F. William Gilmore, sister of the bride from Denver, was matron of honor. Attendants included Mrs. J. N. Noyes of Boston, sister of the groom; Mrs. David O'Connor, Chicago; Miss Beth Chaffee, Ann Arbor, Mich.; and Mrs. James Magee and Mrs. John Galloway, law school classmates of the bride and groom from New York.

The attendants wore tiaras of white daisies, red carnations and purple statice. These flowers, with the addition of purple iris and ivy, were repeated in the bouquets. Their floor-length Grecian styled gowns were white with crisscross bodices.

David Wier of Rochester, N. Y., was the best man. The groom's two brothers, David and William Trowbridge, were ushers as were H. Clark Harvey, Cleveland; Patrick Fallon, Wimbleton, England; and Thomas B. Campion, Boulder, Colo.

The bride and groom chose to memorize their vows and so repeated them to each other unassisted by a clergyman.

After the ceremony the 250 guests walked across the street to a reception held under a green and white striped tent on the lawn of the summer home of the groom's family.

Following the reception the couple left for a two-week wedding trip to Paris and the south of France on the groom's BMW motorcycle. They will be making their home in New York City.

Pattern Sizing Talk At Penney's

Hours of fitting frustration can be eliminated when you know how to make simple alterations, according to Simplicity Pattern Co., which is sending a representative to Penney's at Woodfield Friday and Saturday.

Nancy Hunt, Simplicity stylist, will talk on "Know Your Correct Pattern Size" with emphasis on choosing the correct pattern size for your particular figure type and body measurements. The pattern expert will also have a complete set of fitting dresses which home seamstresses may try on to determine size and figure type. According to Miss Hunt the correct pattern size will cut alterations to a minimum and save hours of dressmaking time.

The informal lecture will be presented at 10:30 a.m. Friday and at 11 a.m. Saturday in the sewing room of Penney's fabric department.

The program is free and open to all women who sew.

The Family Here To Stay

CHICAGO (UPI) —The future of the family? Here's the way Dr. Martin Marty answers that question: "Despite much apocalyptic talk about the 'death of the family' and despite devastating assault on its serenity, the family or its equivalent will no doubt remain on the scene."

The associate dean and professor of modern church history at the University of Chicago made that point at an American Medical Association conference attended by authorities concerned about children and young adults.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

It's the berries—

STRAWBERRIES, this week anyway.

Perhaps, dear readers, you think I've gone loopy, talking about fruit-picking last week and then again this week! Well, maybe I have.

But right now I've got startling discoveries to tell you.

I've been involved in a serious consumer research project. In the interests of my readers, I have spent all week eating strawberries in an effort to discover just when a strawberry is at its peak taste. And believe me, it took a lot of sampling. How I work for you readers!

MY INTENSIVE study was started after I visited the Roberts Berry Farm in Heafford Junction, Wis., where the pick-your-own strawberries were selling for a quarter a quart. I couldn't believe it when I saw the golf-ball sized berries.

I asked the farmer what kind of fertilizer, fungicide and pesticide he uses. As an organic gardener, I was delighted when he told me, ' The most important thing in growing strawberries is good tilth (loose, friable soil). So I disc in manures, straw, compost, all organic materials to keep the soil light," he said.

After picking 24 quarts of strawberries, I found that the biggest ones aren't necessarily the best. Aided by my panel of teenage researchers who helped me test the berries, the Good Consumer Report found out the sweetest fruit has a tinge of white on the bottom. Picked perfectly ripe, a berry has poor holding quality, especially if the berry-putter-upper isn't going to freeze, can, make pie or jam for a few days.

WE STRAWBERRY "connoisseurs" discovered the berries whose seeds were recessed on the skin were better than those whose seeds were raised. The darker the berry, the more sugar loss.

We used the younger, lighter, but larger berries for eating and shortcake; the smaller, seedy ones for pies; and the mushy, overripe ones for jam and sauce. We made a quickie pie with a vanilla wafer and butter crust, filled the crust with homemade strawberry ice cream and dribbled strawberry sauce atop it. Yum!

The strawberry season continues for possibly another week in the northern regions, but here are a few tips for next season in Illinois:

Peak berries snap when you pluck them (like string beans). When you pick a berry that is overripe, even if it looks good, the stem will fall away from the berry. You don't want that one.

And last, but not least, if in doubt, conduct your own survey.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Buying your own home is quite a thrill but even with all the pleasure, you find various problems. With not much money to play with, we thought we'd try wallpapering two rooms ourselves. We bought a pamphlet which explains just about every step — how to take off paper, how to prepare the walls, how to measure for the number of rolls necessary and so on, but the one question to which we need an answer is not in any of the literature. When you have to cover over a grease spot, is it better to use shellac or cover the area with foil? — Margot H.

If you really want trouble for the future, use foil. Josef Seibert, who has supervised many a job of this kind, says the best idea is the old-time remedy of clear shellac, thinned down with 20 per cent denatured alcohol. Foil will work, he says, but if you ever want to change the wallpaper, you will discover it is almost impossible to get off.

Dear Dorothy: One of the best home remedies for insect bites is to apply liberally a paste made of baking soda and water, then let dry. — C.A.D.

Dear Dorothy: Here is another recipe for salsify or, as we always call it, oyster plant. Scrape and wash the roots. Boil in salted water — using as little water as possible so as not to waste the flavor. When tender, mash, add one egg and a few cracker crumbs. Drop by spoonfuls in hot fat. The patties are delicious and can be served with anything. Wish this vegetable was easier to find in the market. — Helen Auth.

Tip to brides: If you will store your nail polish in the refrigerator, it will last almost indefinitely.

Des Plaines Led By 'Rookie' Fink

by PAUL LOGAN

A CAR TRAVELING down Belmont Street had to slow up Tuesday evening — a ball from a pepper game bounced in its path.

A little later, another car had to creep along in front of 1034 South Belmont because a game of catch was in progress in the Arlington Heights street.

If these were just passing neighbors, the baseball wasn't something unexpected. Baseballs have probably been flying, bouncing and rolling around the Fink family's house for years, only the first names of the ones batting or throwing them change.

On this warm day, Greg Fink and his Des Plaines Legion teammate, Bob Chen, were the traffic stoppers. Several years before, older brothers Jerry and Doug were the ballplayers.

The man who gave these young men their love for the game is their father Merv. At the age of 52, this former Palatine stickout prep has devoted nearly half of his life to coaching.

"I always was interested in helping boys, that's all," admits Merv, who "retired" from coaching several years ago when he left the Arlington Heights Boys Baseball program. His absence from the game was short lived, however.

Shortly before the Ninth District Legion season was to begin, the Mount Prospect team's sponsor pulled out. This left some Elk Grove and Forest View High School players without a team.

Merv's interest in these young men led him to helping organize a team within a week. Playing under the name of the Des Plaines Legion Post 36 and sponsored by the Wayeinden Boys Baseball Association, the team just got together in time for the league opener.

Thirteen games later, Fink's first legion team has drawn the respect and admiration of quite a few people in and outside the league. They're impressed with this "rookie" head coach and his boys.

This comes as no surprise to those who know Merv Fink. He learned the ways of baseball along with football and basketball in Palatine. Then he went to Northern Illinois University where he played freshman ball before going into the service.

World War II interrupted his athletic and academic careers. His goal prior to the war was to become a high school coach. Although he didn't realize this dream, he made it as a coach nevertheless.

"I was a charter member," recalls Merv of his first coaching job in the then newly formed Arlington Little League program in 1954. "At that time there were probably about 10 teams altogether." Now there are 150!

Jerry, now 25, Doug, 23, and Greg, 17, came up through this outstanding program and then graduated to legion ball. Greg is an outfielder for the team this season under the watchful eyes of his father and assistant coach Jerry.

Despite the many personal thrills both as a player and coach, the topper for Merv came as a fan in 1965 — that season when Arlington's legion team finished just short of the national title.

"That's actually the highlight of my association with sports," says Merv of Arlington's fifth-place finish, "due to all the excitement and everything else that was involved."

Jerry played first base that season for Coach Lloyd Meyer as Post 208 rolled to a 42-6 record.

"That summer was quite a vacation," recalls Merv of those 48 games played all over the state and culminated in the North Dakota championships. "I didn't miss one."

He helped out some coaching-wise for Meyer a couple of games that season. Now he's going head-to-head with the dean of the league. But then they were always rivals — friendly dairy rivals. Merv is office manager of Arlington Milk Inc. and Lloyd is with Meyer Brothers Dairy.

As to how this first campaign has gone so far, Merv says he hasn't "found anything hard, except I've found the conditions changing with the boys.

"The boys used to come out and rake the diamond . . . and the parents, too."

This was just one example of how things used to be in legion ball. Times have changed — any coach will admit that. One thing remains the same, however, as Merv points out:

"Two-thirds of coaching is communication with the boys. You've got to actually be a public relations man dealing with 17 or 18 different ballplayers. I think less coaching is involved at this level. When you do tell a boy something up here however, you'd better make sure it's correct."

Merv lists as his biggest coaching achievement the second-place finish at the eight-state Little League tournament at Thillens in 1955. However, capturing the District Tournament title at the end of the month could move that former highlight over a bit.

He's not doing any Muhammad Ali predicting, but everyone in the Ninth District knows that he has the talent to do it.

"If we can get some things going, we'll scare a few people," says Des Plaines' confident coach.

That's just what the other teams are afraid of.

Highlights From Maine-Northfield

by BILL McCARTY

Maine-Northfield Little League's minor division ended its season last weekend with five teams tied for the American league second half championship. The Flying Frenchman Restaurant won the National Minor league second half crown and will meet Walt Boyle, winner of the first half, July 22 in the championship game.

To determine the American minor champ the week was slated to be filled with elimination games among Main State Insurance, Glenview Foremost, Michal-Kagan, Central-Greenwood Standards and first half champion House of Schiller.

In last week's play Flying Frenchman Restaurant edged Main State 6-5. Jimmy O'Brien was the winning pitcher and he hit two singles. Bill Schlictman tripled and singled and Brian Heraty had two singles. For Main State Dave Langer and Mike Hernandez doubled. Hernandez also singled. Danny Sanders had two singles and Danny DeCarlo and Scott DiGillio singled.

Walt Boyle beat Glenview Foremost 7-2 with pitcher Binkey Schawel getting a no hitter. Pete Taaffe homered and drove in three runs. He also doubled. Tom Schauwecker's double drove in two and Jay Orlowski brought in two runs on a single.

Mike Singer tripled, singled and was the winning pitcher as the House of Schiller defeated Glenbrook Insurance 7-5. Joel Lent, Hugh Hindes and Steve Wells all doubled for the winners. Loochtan Insurance beat Highland Automotive 2-1 after losing to Central-Greenwood Standards.

Central-Greenwood Standard beat Michal-Kagan 9-6 despite a triple by Steve Brody, a double and single by Chuck Olszewski and singles by John Savio, Mark Malik, Scott Renninger and Dave Brody. Hackneys shut out Tasty Pup 6-0. Bob Matthies and Bob Grolik shared the win. Rich Rotman doubled and hit two singles; Bob Dietz doubled; Todd Borst had two singles and Bob Arnold and Danny Newman each singled.

Golf Mill Chrysler Plymouth edged Michaels Pharmacy 11-10. Winning pitchers were Mike Bell and Kevin McCarty. Scott Leibold tripled. McCarty doubled and singled as did Jeff Nankervis, Mike Hochberg doubled and Gary Cooper and Steve Kick singled.

In the senior games reported for the week, R. Ruske Storm Windows had two wins, an 8-3 victory over Polcyn Construction with John Volpe, who pitched a three hit win, also getting a double. Three prep players, Brett Schor, Kerry Erlich and John Nankervis did an admirable job for the winners.

In their second win a 2-1 defeat of Semmerling Fence, it was Gary Ruske's night pitching a one-hitter, doubling to drive in both runs, and belting two singles. John Volpe and Mark Taub also singled. Mike Karlins got the Fencers lone single.

In the major National league VIP Studios beat Edmar Heating and Cooling 7-1, with Kerry Field getting the win and Striking out 14. Field also homered. Paul Bartalotta tripled and singled and John Olszewski had two singles. Howard Matulef had two singles and Nick Tremont singled for Edmar.

VIP also topped Chernin's Shoes 4-3. Jeff Jacobson was the winning pitcher. John Olszewski tripled; Bartalotta doubled and singled and Marty Sanders doubled. For Chernin's Mike Miller got two singles while Evan Hirsh, Bruce Martin and Rich Dietz each had one.

Chernin's defeated VIP 4-3. Sam Halpin threw a no hitter for Some Other Place to blank Edmar Heating and Cooling 10-0. To help the cause Halpin also tripled and drove in two runs. Tom Larimore had two doubles and a single. George Sutphen's two singles drove in four runs and Craig Stufler's two singles drove in three. Robbie Schindler and Tim Kelley each singled.

Talisman Village beat Some Other Place 5 to 4. Rory Pink was the winning pitcher. Jeff Deutsch doubled and singled. Jeff Horwitz singled in three runs and Steve Lubelfeld singled. Jeff Horwitz singled in three runs and Steve Lubelfeld singled. For Some Other Place Halpin blasted a three run homer while Larimore and Sutphen collected three singles.

Deutsch was the winning pitcher as Talisman dropped Lee Kay 10-7. Deutsch and Rory Pink each doubled. Steve Lubelfeld's two doubles drove in four runs. Singles were collected by Horwitz, Gary Adelman, Tim O'Keefe and Pink. Gordie Shore doubled and Alan Goldstein doubled and singled.

Games reported in the American major league: George's Fix All 66 defeated Walton Carpets 6-2. Winning pitcher Dave Pink gave up three hits and struck out nine. Steve Levy belted a two run homer while Eric Schor tripled and Skip Lombardo doubled. Mike Paulson doubled and Tom Paulson doubled and singled for Walton.

Steve Kaplan was credited with a win as Domestic Utilities beat Leo Malantis 8-1. Mike Logan tripled and doubled, driving in five runs. A double by Dave Swislow brought in two more and a single by Bill Factor scored the other. Guy Steinbrink doubled.

Mike Appleby had a terrific day as Bill Buckman beat Toriumi Insurance 23-0. Striking out 14 while yielding only two hits Appleby was the winning pitcher and tripled, doubled and knocked out three singles. Mike Johnson had two triples and a single; Steve Rehaut had two doubles and two singles as did Jim Nankervis. Keith Palmgren doubled and had three singles; Dave Buckman had three singles, Dale Sylvan two, Chuck Levin one, and Mickey Rothblatt doubled. Mark Gray doubled and Scott Torumi singled for the losers. Leo Malantis also edged out Toriumi 5-4.

In the Senior Prep elimination round Biggy's Restaurant eliminated Zweig's Restaurant and Deli 6-1.

Athletic Trainers Seminar

Richard J. Martwick, Cook County Superintendent of Schools, will sponsor a day-long seminar for athletic trainers who deal primarily with elementary and high school athletes on Saturday, Aug. 19, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Executive House in Chicago.

Orthopedic specialists, surgeons, trainers such as Skip Thayer of the Chicago Blackhawks, and educators will conduct the sessions. Exhibits will also be on display to focus on how best to prepare the budding athlete and to protect him from injury as well as how to properly treat those injuries. Sessions will also be devoted to the care and physical well being of all students.

Program coordinator will be Tom Monforti, head trainer of Loyola Academy, and formerly trainer at DePaul University and other Chicago area college and professional teams.

Program Chairman is Donald Nie, Assistant Superintendent for Health and Youth Activities of the Educational Service Region of Cook County.

County Schools Superintendent Martwick himself was formerly head football coach and athletic director at Ridgewood High School in Norridge. A former two-way football regular at the University of Detroit, he maintains an active interest in the role of athletics in the elementary and high school curriculum. At a time when athletic programs are frequently curtailed due to a lack of adequate funds, Martwick has asserted his commitment to athletic programs in the schools.

He said: "In many districts athletics is not a priority program. It is considered extracurricular, a matter of fringe benefits and that is unfortunate because it very well may be the last frontier for conditioning and discipline in the schools.

"But irrespective of how peopel feel about the programs, as long as there is a single athletic program being maintained, that school must commit itself to the proper care of those who participate in sports. That means not just competitive sports but intramural sports as well, covering all students.

"The years have seen far too many injuries and even deaths occurring among our young competitors. We have to do everything possible to safeguard the young athlete.

"Our program is aimed at providing as much technical assistance as possible for those persons who are directly responsible for working with these young athletes in the schools."

Sessions and participants include a slide presentation of diagnosis and the surgical repair of knee injuries by Dr. Howard Sweeney, Orthopedic Specialist, Evanston Hospital; head injuries and the lower extremity circulatory problems, Mr. Dennis McKenna, Head Trainer, Loyola Academy; heat illness in athletics and physical education, Dr. Robert C. Hamilton, Orthopedic Surgeon, De Paul University.

Open discussion, questions and answers will be headed by Mr. Skip Thayer, Head Trainer, Chicago Blackhawks. Mr. Tom Monforti, Program Coordinator and Head Trainer at Loyola Academy will talk about athletic first aid. The program will close with demonstrations of taping by trainers.

Only two games were played the past week, both games Sunday, July 16. In the first game, the vastly improved Des Plaines Chrysler Plymouth team defeated Dor-o-matic, 7-1. Joe Lee again was in fine form as he allowed just four hits and fanned five. Carroll Dickman drove in two runs for Chrysler Plymouth and Dick Wilson contributed two hits.

In the second game of the evening Roselle Building Materials defeated Central Telephone, 7-2, to maintain their two game bulge over Des Plaines Chrysler Plymouth.

Marlin Zobel, who has been filling in admirably for Woody Croom who is on vacation, scattered six Central hits and went three-for-three at the plate. The long blow of the evening was provided by Jim Kern of Central who blasted a long home run in the first inning.

Roselle Building Materials meets Des Plaines Chrysler Plymouth in what could be a very important game tonight at 7 p.m.

Maine-Northfield Senior Stars Advance

Maine-Northfield Little League's senior division won the fourteenth district championship Sunday when they shut out Schiller Park 5-0. The Maine-Northfield Little League squad will travel to Elgin July 22 to meet the district twelve winner in the first round of an elimination contest for the sectional championship.

Gary Ruske was the winning pitcher in the championship game. Mike Karlins collected two of the victor's seven hits as did Ruske. Rob Marcus, Mark Taub and Rick Pellegrini collected the others. Schiller Park's three hits came from Joe Kolodziej, Chris Serpe and John Penderski.

The MNLL squad, managed by Art Sepke of Mount Prospect and coached by Jack Kolier of Des Plaines, earned their crack at the championship by defeating Palatine North 8-4 behind the pitching of Robbie Marcus. In this contest Tom Knauber blasted two home runs.

Wally Pinas had two hits, Pellegrini had one, George Kaufman doubled. Schiller Park earlier defeated Prospect Heights in another tournament game at the Maine-Northfield fields.

MNLL Senior All Stars include Mike Orlando, Jeff Armgardt, Bob Feezor, Ed Radowsky, Mickey McCarty, Mike Karlins, Mark Taub, Garry Ruske, Mitch Glickman, Robbie Marcus, George Kaufman, Tom Kanauber, Rick Pellegrini and Wally Pinas.

Winner of the sectional tournament at Elgin will go on to vie for state and regional titles and eventual crack at the senior league championship in Gary, Indiana in mid-August. All Maine-Northfield Little League boosters are encouraged to attend the game at the Elgin-American field on Route 58 in Elgin at 1:00 next Saturday, July 22.

Major league All Star games were scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday of this week and next Tuesday, July 25 at 6 p.m. at Maine-Northfield. The public is invited.

Summer Activities Keep Kids Busy

It was a busy week July 10 for the supervisors and leaders at West Park organizing and preparing special events for the children to participate in, ranging from a bike hike to Northwestern Woods to a Halloween party and dinosaur egg hunt.

The bike hike started off the week, with Scott McClean, Bridget Keegan, Kim Dunham, Doug Born, Bob McClean, John Teuful, Tom Smith, Paul Kirdly and the three leaders supervising the hike: Terry Graham, Jill Fedder and Sue Weise, participating in the ride and the games to follow, such as a water balloon fight, relay races and dramatic skits.

Tuesday, July 11 was the infamous dinosaur egg hunt, which consisted of two watermelons hidden in the confines of West Park. It was boys vs. girls in finding the watermelons, and the winning team was Bridget Keegan, Renee LaVoie, Kim Dunham, Kathy Bowerson, Margie Carlton, Michelle LaVoie. After the watermelons were found, contests followed.

In the seed-spitting contest, first place went to Tammy Scott. 2nd — Steve LaVoie and Kim Dunham; third — John Teuful; fourth — Michelle LaVoie; fifth — Suzie Lum and Alana Vondrak; sixth — Kathy Bowersox. Most seeds contest was won by Tammy Scott with 102 seeds, 2nd — Kathy Bowersox with 97; third — Steve LaVoie with 94; fourth — John Teuful with 90; fifth — Mary Androff with 80; sixth — Kim Dunham with 70; seventh — Bridget Keegan with 54 and Michelle LaVoie with 54; eighth — Suzie Lum with 38. Not forgetting the relay: Seed Spit in Cup relay, the team to take first place was: Kim Dunham, Bridget Keegan, Susie Lum, and Michelle. Second place went to: Alana Vondrak, Kathy Bowersox, Tammy Scott and Mary Androff. And last but not least was the Speed-eating contest: first place: Scott McClean; second — Kim Dunham; third — Steve LaVoie; fourth — Michelle LaVoie; fifth — Renee LaVoie.

Halloween fell on July 12 this year at West Park with the children dressing up in costumes and later to dramatize what they were dressed as. Participating in the costume dress-up were: Kathy Bowersox and Mary Androff, Steve LaVoie, Bridget Keegan, Tricia Kiraly, Michelle LaVoie, and Renee LaVoie. Thursday, July 13 was ecology day, with a drive to "clean up" West Park of the unsightly trash. A contest was proposed to see who could collect the most garbage (without getting it from the local trash barrel).

Paul Kiraly proved to be the best trash finder, with Michelle LaVoie, Mary Androff, Peter Kiraly, John Teuful, and Bridget Keegan finishing right behind him. Thursday night, Terry Graham, supervisor at West Park, taught simple embroidery stitches for blue jeans and the girls coming in first place for their craftsmanship were: Kim Dunham, Michelle LaVoie, Bridget Keegan, Tammy Scott, Linda Schmidt, and Kathy Keegan. The Treasure Hunt ended the Friday Special Events and the events of the week. Clues were placed anywhere in the park, giving further instructions to where the treasure was to be found.

The first place team was: Scott McClean, Mike Carlton, John Jaeschke, Jim Jaeschke, Jeff Hadden, Kurt Swanson, Doug Zegler, Alfred Vitteritti, Peter Kiraly, Steve LaVoie, Julie Androff, and Marcia Berry. 2nd place team was: Michelle LaVoie, Bridget Keegan, Kim Dunham, Kathy Bowersox, Luiji Vitterittie, Susie Lum, Mary Androff, Alana Vondrak, Kathy Schick, Tammy Scott, Steve Burek, Julie Schick, Bridget Keegan, John Teuful, Paul Scott, Dawn Fridley, Linda Fridley, Paul Kiraly, Susan Androff, Therese Fabiseak, and Dawn Fabiseak

July 12 was the date for the apple bobbing contest held at Orchard School. The children signed up in advance, then were called one by one and timed to see how long it would take them to grab an apple in their mouth. Ties were run again for eliminations, and remarkabe times were set by all the finalists. First place — Andy Wild (2 sec.); second — Tom Krauser (3 sec.); third — Ron Daul (3.5 sec.); fourth — Dave Bergman (4 sec.); fifth — Jeff Wilhelm (5 sec.).

On Thursday, Orchard Place sponsored a car wash which turned out to be the biggest success of the year. With the help of everyone from the area, the children raised triple the amount to pay for the running of the special events. They would like to extend a hearty "thanks" to everyone for making their special event a truly special and successful day. On Friday, all the workers in the car wash were treated to lunch by the staff. McDonald's hamburgers were served and then extra hamburgers were won by making a free-throw with the basketball. Afterwards, a whiffle ball game was held in which Bethurems Bombers beat the Uhl Haulers 10-4. Bucky drove in two runs for the winners, while Tom Schmidt and Tom Krauser drove in three runs each. Jim Sullivan drove in three runs for the Haulers in the game.

South Park's fun day was filled with crazy contests and, in most cases, very little skill was combined with tremendous amounts of luck and courage to achieve victory. The following contests produced these winners: Lemon Eating, first place, Bernie Corr; second, Pam Colditz; third, Steve Hoephner; fourth, Mike Ladendorf; fifth, Mark Garesche; and sixth, Bobby Schiddell. In the bubble gum blowing contest, where the gum just happened to be frozen, Guy Falzone was first place winner, followed by Pam Colditz, Kevin Cooper, Donna Ladendorf, Terri Brooks and Jim Bond.

The eat your cracker, then whistle saw the following people take home award cards: first place, Mike Ladendorf; second, Guy Falzone; third, Pam Colditz; fourth, Elaine Colditz; fifth, Kevin Cooper; and sixth, Bobby Schiddell. In Milk Drinking, the winners were: Kevin Cooper, first place, and Mike Ladendorf, Bernie Corr, Guy Falzone, Bobby Schiddell and Elaine Colditz finished right behind him. The water balloon toss was won by the team of Jeanne Huelskamp and Brenda Smith and the egg throw was successfully completed by Steve Hoephner and Kevin Cooper. Last, but not least, the award for best clean-up committee goes to Sue Black and Shirlee Smith, two of the leaders at South Park!

Terrace School brought a little bit of foreign flavor to their area by sponsoring an International Week. The children were given the different countries for each day of the week and asked to dress in the costume of that country. Different activities were planned each afternoon dealing with the foreign countries.

In the African safari hunt, first place was captured by Jim Marando; second place by Renee Tribolet; third place by Cathy Pennavaria and Jan Barry; fourth place by Bonnie Scheuerman; and fifth place by Jimmy Plumeri and Diane Plumeri. Best Oriental costume was worn by Jan Barry, and Best African costume was worn by Jim Plumeri and Jan Barry. For International costume, Jan Barry again took first place; Jim Karabas took second place; Vivien Eschenbach took third; Cathy Pennavaria took fourth; and Bonnie Scheierman took fifth. Activities included a Ski Puzzle and the mind-boggling Find The Countries games.

The Ski Puzzle was solved quickly by Jim Karabas, and following him in the solution were Jan Barry, Ricky Pennavaria, and Bonnie Scheuerman. In the Find The Countries game, Jan Barry took first place along with Cathy Pennavaria, and Jim Karabas came in second place.

Early Monday, July 17, fans were anxiously awaiting the beginning of the first annual Rob Bethurem Invitational Ping Pong Tournament. With the drop of the ping pong ball by the referee, the tournament got under way. Soon the fourteen original contestants were eliminated to eight. Tension grew as the number of players went down to four and finally to two. After a hard and strenuous battle, Mark Lundvick overcame Tim Laurie 7-0, and 15-10, to emerge as the champ.

Breakdown of the tournament went as follows:

PRELIMINARIES: Beth, Dave Bergman, Corr, Daul, Mark Lundvick, Robert Kidd, Bucky McCannon, Tim Laurie, Brad Bergman, Ed Todd, Tom Schmidt, Mourovkas, and Tom Krauser.

QUARTER FINALS: Dave Bergman, Corr, Mark Lundvick, Bucky McCannon, Bye, Tim Laurie, Tom Schmidt, Tom Krauser.

FINALS: Mark Lundvick, Tim Laurie.
